The Bonehead's Apology

How one does love the bonehead guy
Who, with a tear in either eye,
When he has stupidly done dirt,
Cries: "O I didn't mean to hurt!"

It makes one feel to hunt the axe
And take some well-directed whacks
At him who, when without intent to,
Hurts you and weeps "I never meant to!"

I know of nothing worse—do you?
For making one cut loose a few
Than having some one hurt you badly
Then plead for your forgiveness, sadly.

Some day when some dolt has beaned me,
And I with patience have demeaned me,
And he comes 'round to weep about it,
I'll—well, I will, and don't you doubt it!

We Are Astounded

The other day we found a man who really came pretty near amounting to something, despite the fact that he wrote a beautiful Spencerian hand that looked just like the testimonials one used to read as advertisements of Gaskell's Compendium. But we seriously doubt if anybody ever lived down one of those penmanship birds with a shaded loop for a tail.

Sunrise

Sunrise is what people are always sentenced to be shot at.

In some cases this is the first time the victim has ever either seen the sunrise or been shot at.

If he has been half shot the night before, he doesn't see the sunrise.

Being shot at sunrise isn't such an awful fate for some folks.

Many people would just as lief be shot as to get up in time to see the sunrise.

Those who have seen the sunrise speak very highly of it.

But we do not let them fool us.

A boy who has just eaten some April fool chocolates containing cayenne pepper recommends them to everybody else.

You know what misery loves.

Associating with the sunrise is poetically presumed to make men better.

But look at the milkman!

Getting up with the sun is a much-overestimated stunt.

To begin with, the sun is neither benefited nor impressed by our efforts.

It doesn't help him get up to have us rise at the same time; and he goes right off and leaves us, anyway.

For our own part, we think it is excruciatingly bad taste to stand and rubber while anybody gets up. Sun or daughter.

The orb of day has little enough chance for privacy, as it is, with everybody gawping while he goes to bed.

What about that golden rule business?

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

What Is Migraine?

WHAT is migraine or "megrim," or sick headache, as it is variously called? It is a periodic attack of pain in the head, usually one-sided, first appearing about the age of puberty and continuing more or less until the age of forty-five, much more common in women than in men, and, by good authorities, considered to be the sensory equivalent of the motor disease, epilepsy.

Migraine has hereditary factors precisely like epilepsy. In some families one child suffers from epilepsy while another has migraine.

The attack is ushered in with some form of "aura" or warning symptoms, much as is the case in an epileptic seizure, either queer, flickering lights before the eyes, or some peculiar local or general sensation which tells the victim an attack is impending. Sometimes the nausea and headache develop without any warning.

There is usually vomiting before the seizure is past. But the vomiting does not necessarily mark the passing of the pain in the head, although it often appears to bring some relief.

Certain it is that the great bugbear autotoxemia, or autointoxication, is at play in most cases of migraine. It is a notable fact that indicanuria, which is pretty good evidence of protein putrefaction in the intestine, is a symptom of many cases of migraine. In our own personal experience—that is, in private practice, we think we have obtained the best results by (1) diet selected to obviate protein putrefaction in the bowel (using the indicanuria test as a guide—indican in the urine, that means; a dye-compound produced by putrefaction of nitrogenous materials (protein) in the bowel), and (2) treatment directed toward correcting the function of the internal secretory system.

Of course no one knows the cause of epilepsy or the cause of migraine. Possibly different causes are accountable in different cases. And obviously there can be no remedy applicable in all cases.

The average woman with sick headaches is a rebellious, unfaithful, altogether unsatisfactory patient, because between whiles she may feel quite well and then she is very apt to forget the doctor's instructions until the next attack reminds her that she must obey orders.

Migraine is not a nervous disease. Strong, healthy women, with no trace of nervous temperament, often have it.

The poor unfortunate stomach comes in for most of the blame, but in fact it is almost always not guilty.

The victim should beware of two evils: The use of heart-damaging "migraine tablets," and the abuse of cathartics in the futile effort to keep the stomach at ease. The eyestrain theory has been tried over and over and found wanting.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Bathing For Fever

At what temperature should one give a sponge bath (tepid) to a fever case?

Answer.—The temperature is not the guide. Bathing is done, not to lower temperature, but to stimulate circulation through the nervous system.

SKYSCRAPERS

SKYSCRAPERS are indigenous to the American zenith and are found nowhere else. They are regarded with great contempt in Europe, because they are inartistic, like presidents and captains of industry. But there is a suspicion that Europe scorns all these useful articles principally because America thought of them first.

The skyscraper was invented in Chicago about twenty-nine years ago. It was discovered that by constructing a twenty-story steel skeleton, sticking two or three stories into the ground, and draping the rest with an overskirt of brick, stone or terra-cotta, a very useful building could be produced. The first great skyscraper was the Masonic Temple in Chicago. It is twenty-one stories high and was once the wonder of the world. Nowadays, New Yorkers frequently stumble over it while looking for really tall buildings.

Skyscrapers are now built in one, two, three, four and five dozen story sizes. In New York, the first three sizes are out of style, and are being torn down to make room for really high buildings. The tallest skyscraper in the world is the Woolworth building in New York, with fifty stories, while the city is also threatened with a 100 story building from the top of which the Goddess of Liberty will look like a shop girl on a dry goods box.

Skyscrapers are made possible by the rapid elevator, which is another American invention. The elevator hoists the occupant at the rate of 600 feet a minute, leaving his liver and other internals to follow slightly later. Europeans are more afraid of our fast elevators than they are of our 14-inch breech loaders, but they are quite safe, except just before Christmas. In the highest buildings there are limited accommodation and suburban elevators, with lunch counters and newsboys.

Skyscrapers are also earth stabbers. Some of them reach 100 feet

Skyscrapers are not always beautiful to look at below the surface, and are useful most of the way down. There is no telling how much higher they will grow, but we may expect some day to see a doctor on the 19th floor recommending a patient to an office on the 137th floor, where the climate is cooler and more salubrious.

Skyscrapers are not always beautiful to look at, but they are magnificent to look out of. Europeans who spend their days gazing from the second story of a beautiful building into the rear brick wall of another beautiful building will learn something to their advantage by taking a 45th floor office and soaking their souls in scenery as they open their morning's mail. It is like doing business on a steam-heated mountain top.

Proposed Revision Of The Creed

A BAPTIST convention assembled in Boston had read before it, and ordered spread upon its minutes, a proposed revision of the Apostles' Creed. The revised version of the creed was made by the Rev. Woodman Bradbury of Cambridge, who criticised the old and universally accepted version as containing phrases which the modern mind cannot accept at their face value.

That criticism is doubtless well-founded. There are phrases in the Apostles' Creed not accepted at their face value by most of those who recite them in worship, and many of whom do not at all understand their significance. The revised creed is much simpler, much more in accord with modern thought and couched in perfect present-day English. These are advantages, but it is seriously to be suspected that they offset other and greater advantages of the older version. Here is the creed as proposed by the Rev. Mr. Bradbury:

I believe in God, the Father of all races; in Jesus Christ, our Lord, and in the Holy Spirit, the purifier of the hearts of men.

I believe in the gospel as the power of God; and the wisdom of God, and in Christian good will as the force to transform the world.

I believe in the church universal, the communion of the good, the coming of the kingdom and the life everlasting.

Compare that with the almost universally recited Apostles' Creed, as it comes to the writer out of memory and may, therefore, contain errors:

I believe in God the Father Almighty,
Maker of Heaven and Earth;
And in Jesus Christ, His only Son, our Lord,
Who was conceived by the Holy Ghost,
Born of the Virgin Mary,
Suffered under Pontius Pilate,
Was crucified, dead and buried.
The third day he arose from the dead:
He ascended into Heaven;
He sitteth at the right hand of God the Father Almighty,
From thence He shall come to judge the quick and the dead.
I believe in the Holy Ghost:
The communion of saints;
The forgiveness of sin;
The resurrection of the body;
And the life everlasting.

The old version of the Apostles' Creed awakes a sense of veneration that comes from few things else. Like the King James version of the Bible, it caught and crystallized beautiful English idioms at a time when the language was at the high tide of its poetic glory. There can never be another version of the creed that will so appeal to the hearts of the people—those who have grown old in the faith and are ripe for their passing, children just beginning to feel the power of the great mystery and men and women in the maturity of their life work.—Nashville Tennessean.

When The Agent Took A Chance

Q. I engaged a man to sell some goods for me, and in effecting sales he extended credit to different parties. I had no idea he would do this, although I may not have told him not to do it. Did he have any right to give credit?

A. This will depend somewhat upon other circumstances. As a general proposition an agent cannot sell on credit unless his employer has authorized such course of conduct, but it frequently happens that there is a custom or usage, with respect to certain kinds of business, that will justify this course on the part of the agent unless he has been specially forbidden to adopt it.

Nine Points Of The Law

Q. My wife and I own a dwelling-house, with ground adjoining, and have occupied this place as a home, continuously, for more than forty years. We had always supposed that our title to the premises was unquestioned and have never felt at all insecure about it. Lately, however, we have been threatened with a suit by other claimants, who say they have a better title to the property. Do you think there could be any doubt as to our rightful ownership?

A. Under the facts as you have stated them, your title cannot be disturbed, as it has vested in you by adverse possession.

The Arithmetic Lesson

Q. There are four persons, A, B, C and D. A gives to B a chattel mortgage for $50. B and C go to D, and ask him (D) for a loan of $50 and give D their personal note for $50, B and C signing it. They then give A the $50 for the mortgage note and C retains the note. Does the mortgage stand, or has C or D a claim on the mortgage until the $50 is paid, or is the mortgage paid?

A. The debt still stands as between A and B, and, in view of the facts as you state them, neither C nor D will have a legal interest in the mortgage. If, however, the mortgage note was indorsed to C, and the mortgage was assigned to C, then the latter will step into B's shoes and may enforce against A whatever claims B could have enforced.

A Note To Pay A Debt

Q. Does a debtor have a right to give a note in payment of his debt? If he does so, will this wipe out the debt?

A. He has a right to give a note if the creditor agrees to accept it, and he thereby substitutes one obligation for another, but the creditor has the right to decline to accept the note and may demand payment.

A Requested Signature

Q. If one signs a deed for another, in the latter's presence and upon being requested by him to do so, isn't this a sufficient signing so as to make it the grantor's deed?

A. Yes.

Mr. Branson will be glad to answer all questions. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not, it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all letters to E. R. Branson, care of this newspaper.

The Life Line

BY LAURA KIRKMAN

The Man With The "Don't You Know?" Habit

His account of an incident at the Metropolitan Museum would be somewhat like this: "I stood before that sea picture by that Spanish artist, don't you know, and I declare, I could almost feel the warmth of the sun on that beach—don't you know? It, well—it, don't you know, sort of reached right out of the canvas and I actually felt as if I were standing in its glow—don't you know?" This man is purely and simply too lazy to express himself exactly. His incessant "Don't you know?" appealing to his listener's intuition, enables him to escape specification. He is a mental sloven. His shoestrings are flying.

The Woman With The "Listen!" Habit

This is the woman who wants to do all the talking herself. Her habit of saying "Listen!" with every breath has been born of constant interruption. Her sole idea is to keep the floor. She reminds one of the railroad-crossing signs: "Stop! Look! Listen!" except that the signs extort obedience through strength of word, while she achieves that end through strength of voice. For her "Listen!" is as harsh as it is rude. Her friends walk beside her in silent reflection, as she holds the floor. They are seeing her in a new light, since her adoption of the habit. Indeed, they are beginning to be a little bit ashamed of her. She's getting frowsy.

A New Phone, But The Old Stall!

He fiercely shook the wireless phone,
As one whose heart was tried full sore,
And shouted in a savage tone:
"Hey! Madagascar 9—6—4!
You've kept me waiting here a week;
Wake up there! Get a move, I say!
Hi! What's the matter? Can't you speak?
I want that number right away."
The weary central maiden sighed:
Men always picked, it seemed, on her,
But without rancor she replied:
"The atmosphere is busy, sir!"

Snap Shots

Another way for a man to achieve a reputation for cleverness and ability is to drink too much. It is said of every drunkard that he would make a great success if he could let liquor alone.

If you proceed upon the theory that it pays to be square you will have nothing to regret if you fail to collect.

But, as a matter of fact, no drunkard is as smart as the man who doesn't drink at all.

A college professor has arisen to explain the mystery of the curve ball. Which is all right. But if you need curves in your business you will have to learn to throw them yourself.

In a country neighborhood a man is considered able if he can pass the examination required for a teacher's certificate.

Do not attach too much importance to distinction. A man can achieve a certain degree of it by becoming the father of an eighteen-pound baby.

The fact that a dog sticks to its master is, in many cases, no credit to its intelligence.

The rage for exposure on the stage should not, however, be construed by Father as an endorsement of his habit of sitting around in his sock feet.

The average man's idea of a good job is one that permits him to retire for the night without first attending to the formality of winding the alarm clock.

GLASS OF WATER BEFORE YOU EAT ANY BREAKFAST

Wash poison from system each morning and feel fresh as a daisy.

Every day you clean the house you live in to get rid of the dust and dirt which collected through the rpevious day. Your body, the house your souls live in, also becomes filled up each twenty-four hours with all manner of filth and poison. If only every man and woman could realize the wonders of drinking phosphated hot water, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

Everyone, whether sick or well, should drink each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism colds and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter ound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do —Adv.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How Mother Wolf Adopted The Twin Boys.

Found the Twins in Mother Wolf's Den.

"I KNOW a delightful Italian story," said daddy, smiling.

The children cuddled down in his lap, and daddy began: "Once upon a time hundreds and even thousands of years ago there was a beautiful sunny kingdom named Latium, which for centuries had been ruled by kings who were the great-great-grandchildren of a Trojan prince, Aeneas. One of these kings died and left his realm to two sons, Numitor and Amulius, who, instead of happily sharing it, fought until Amulius took the kingdom from Numitor, killed his son and put his daughter, Sylvia, in a convent. With his niece and nephew put aside, this selfish uncle hoped to own things.

"But it happened that the great god of war, Mars, loved Sylvia, who had twin boys. When Amulius heard this he feared that his kingdom was in danger again. So he hired a servant to throw the twin babies and their cradle into the brook near his palace."

"Were they drowned?" cried Evelyn.

"The brook carried the cradle on its waves like a little boat," daddy went on, "and finally swept it on into the Tiber. Father Tiber carried it safely on his waves till some little bushes on the bank stopped it at the foot of a beautiful hill where a mother wolf had her den."

"Oh, the wolf will eat the twins!" Jack shouted.

"Now it happened that this mother wolf was very fond of babies, having three of her own. So she lifted the twin boys out of their cradle boat, took them into her den, and every time she fed her own babies she gave some of her milk to the twins."

"Is wolf milk good to drink?" asked Evelyn.

"As good as goat's. And when I visited Italy I saw a great many beautiful babies thriving on goat's milk. You see, Italians haven't got as many cows as Americans have, and Italian babies must have some kind of milk. As the twins grew strong and hungrier what other food they needed some very kind woodpeckers brought them. So they thrived and played with the baby wolves, which are not dangerous when small, and grew to be beautiful strong boys. Then one day the king's shepherd, who was out with a big flock of Amulius' sheep, found the twins in the mother wolf's den and took them home to his wife, who named them Romulus and Remus, and brought them up just as if they had been her children."

"The king's twin nephews lived in a hut with his shepherd instead of in the palace with their king uncle," Jack understood.

"Exactly," said daddy, who always liked to have his children understand.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS EVA LEONARD

John Sutner's Troubles Do Not Seem to Grow Any Less.

"'It is hard for an empty bag to stand up straight.' I tell you, Franklin knew what he was talking about when he said that." John Sutner swung into the room and savagely banged the door behind him.

"What's happened?" asked Julia Osgood, looking up from her work.

"I can hardly say that anything has happened, but I know that I am plunged in a bath of suspicion every time I have anything to do with Tyler." John walked excitedly up and down the room. "I wish I never need to see him again."

"I can't see why he affects you so. What do you care what he thinks; he's nothing to you," replied the girl.

"I know it. I am furious with myself when I see how he affects me. I hate such a thin-skinned attitude, so sensitive to every atmosphere, but I feel like a whipped cur before him and he knows it. I do manage to hang onto a doorknob and keep slinking from the room. He knows just how I feel, though; that's the worst of it." John's tone was bitter.

"Well, I'd get the better of it if I were you. Just keep the thought in your mind, 'he can't hurt me,' and keep the 'cold bath of suspicion' out," advised the girl.

"I am not so sure he can't hurt me, though." John had seated himself by this time and was moodily leaning his head on his hand. "He is hand in glove with the boss and I know I'm none too popular in that quarter."

There was silence for some time; then Julia said:

"Well, you are getting out of debt. You will feel like a different man when you are free from that grind."

"Free, indeed. It will be some time before that happy day comes. I can't possibly pay more than twenty dollars a month; that's a fourth of my salary. Have you figured out how long it will take for me to be free at that rate? Three hundred dollars is a mighty big pile for a man with my resources to raise all right."

"You're right there," replied Julia, "but hang to it; everything has to come to an end some time."

"That's what we intend to do. Molly's helping all she can now."

"You'll make it then. It is twice as easy with two working together," was Julia's cheerful response as she pinned on her hat preparatory to leaving.

When John stepped into the sloppy, uncomfortable street the early winter dark had fallen and the few lamps that the street boasted cast a sickly yellow patch of light into the murk. He thrust his hands into his pockets and turned his face homeward.

"Now, see here," he said, giving himself a mental shake. "You stiffen up and be a man. You can't go home and worry Molly with your depression." And he straightened his shoulders and quickened his lagging step.

Molly looked pale and depressed at supper, though she tried to seem cheerful.

"What is it?" he asked anxiously. "Are you sick?"

"I have a bad headache. I shall be all right in the morning. It has been a hard day," she answered, forcing a smile. John was not satisfied and watched her anxiously.

"It would be about our luck to have her get sick now when our hands are tied with these debts and we have not a cent to bless ourselves with," he thought moodily.

COMPOSER OF OLD NASSAU CRITICALLY ILL AT 82

Trenton, Nov. 22.—Professor Karl A. Longlotz, who is revered by every Princeton student and graduates as the composer of "Old Nassau," is critically ill at his home in this city. He is 82 years old. Professor Langlotz composed "Old Nassau" while a member of the faculty of the university as teacher of German and also of a class in music. It has been sung by fifty-four Princeton classes and is the musical feature of every important athletic event at the university.

BUSY WEEK AT THE PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH

The ordinance of baptism was administered to three candidates at the close of the sermon at the Park Avenue Baptist church last evening. The church activities this week include the following. The Volunteer Bible Class will meet for prayer on Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock in the church parlors. On Wednesday evening, following the church prayer meeting, the pastor, Rev. Dr. Birney S. Hudson, will give the second in the series of six lectures on "The King's Highway." These lectures are interesting and instructive.

Rev. Edwin Shaw will deliver the sermon at the Park Avenue Baptist church Thanksgiving morning at eleven o'clock. The Congregational, Seventh Day Baptist and Temple Baptist churches will participate in this service. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend. The choral rehearsal, under the leadership of Wendell Glover, will take place Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

NURSES CARED FOR MANY

met by them. This work has greatly increased in efficiency. 111 babies were cared for last year. The babies were examined and weighed weekly, watched by doctor and nurse and the mothers were encouraged to ask about their children and in return received careful directions in regard to care and diet. The good accomplished is shown by the fact that only five out of 111 babies cared for died during the three summer months.

The object of the association is to bring trained nursing within the reach of all who need it and to help insure the health of the city. It handles all kinds of cases, including operations, dressings, treatments, baths rubs maternity, tuberculosis, school children, and everything where a nurse can help or can show someone in the family how to help the patient. The aim for the new year, as announced in the annual report, will be to give better and more efficient care to every case that comes to its attention.

"In order to accomplish this we urge the doctors and all others engaged in social work," says the statement, "to ask our help wherever they find a patient who cannot go to the hospital and who has not the means to call upon a private nurse. We want to closely watch our milk station babies until they are old enough to enter school and come under the school's care. We want to interest the older sisters of these babies so that they will teach the foreign mothers, whom we cannot reach except through the children, to care for their babies properly. With this end in view we plan to start a Little Mothers' League in Plainfield. We hope also to do something for the health of the factory girls."

Expenses of the association for the coming year will be about $4,800, of which $4,000 has already been pledged. About $700 must be raised outside of the money contributed by the Charity Organization Society, the Anti-Tuberculosis League, the City Union of King's Daughters, the Boards of Education of Plainfield and North Plainfield, the city and borough, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and the patients themselves.

Avoid Old And Haggard Appearance

A woman whose fine physical condition and clear complexion are the envy of her many friends talked recently upon the subject of her remarkable appearance. The gist of her conversation was as follows:

"I know I'm rather good looking, and it is a triumph of care over nature, for I believe I was not born with a clear complexion, and I know that exercise is what has given me my good figure. My appearance is the result of years of careful attention to detail, which, followed by any woman, will make her good looking.

"For this treatment, persistence is the keynote. I believe more harm may be done by a week's carelessness than six months can repair, and that is the basis on which I work.

"I never slight my toilet. No matter how tired, I devote an hour every night to preparing for retiring, and more often I use an hour and a half for the purpose. This process includes treating my face, hair, teeth, nails, body and feet. Ten minutes for each is none too much.

"To begin, first I remove all garments, put on a loose dressing gown and take down my hair. This is brushed and combed for five minutes, if not longer, and every other night I rub a tonic on my scalp. That is why my hair is not turning gray, although I am almost forty years of age, and why it is not thin and scraggy.

"That done, I braid it loosely and pin it to my head, so the strands will not get wet when I get in my tub.

Care of Complexion.

"Then after carefully washing and drying my hands, I treat my face. Almost without exception I use a cleansing agent other than water, but what it shall be depends upon the condition of my skin. With a fine hand mirror I examine my face closely, and if there is the least roughness I apply a coating of either cold cream or glycerine and two thirds rose water, with ten drops of carbolic acid to half a pint. This is put on with a soft cloth, turning it frequently, so I will not rub in the same dirt. Then I rinse my face in tepid water. If my skin has no roughness I use, instead of cold cream, a camphor water lotion, prepared from half an ounce of glycerine, a quarter of an ounce of powdered borax, and a pint of camphor water. My face is thoroughly bathed in this, patting it until dry.

"Next I examine my nails, and if I find stains I dip an orange wood stick the end of which has been covered with a piece of absorbent cotton, into peroxide and apply it to the discoloration. Also I rub it around the base of the nails and under each edge. Then wipe over a little cold cream and polish vigorously, after which I wash and scrub them, again polishing, this time with a dry buffer.

Care of Feet.

"To my feet I give the closest attention, and the least tendency to a callosity is checked by rubbing with pumice stone; all old skin is kept from the nails and the latter are never allowed to become long.

"Having finished with my feet I am ready for the tub, in which I scrub thoroughly with a bath brush to promote circulation. Then I dry with Turkish towels.

"Before retiring, each of my finger nails is covered with cold cream, the hair pins are removed from my braid and I am ready to get into bed, the pores in healthy condition and my skin fresh and clear.

"If one could persuade women to follow this kind of a regime they would be good looking instead of appearing old and haggard."

When Troubled With Excessive Nosebleed

Nosebleed may be caused by not having enough blood or having too much. It is as frequent in anemic persons as in those who are full-blooded. An occasional attack can be disregarded, but when they are frequent or excessive a physician should be consulted.

One who is subject to nosebleed should avoid excitement, and should live a quiet and regular life as possible. When the attack occurs there is no necessity for fright unless it should continue a long time.

Simple remedies will give relief usually. Unless there is faintness the patient should sit quietly, with the head thrown well back. Do not blow the nose and try to avoid coughing.

One woman who is subject to violent attacks gets most relief by putting an ice cap at the back of her neck, holding a lump of ice against her bleeding nostril and keeping cracked ice in the mouth.

Keeping the arms raised above the head will often cure, with no other remedy. Bathing the hands and feet in very hot water is also good, or a little salt put up the nostril, and a wad of white paper pushed under the upper lip will generally give relief.

If the bleeding continues beyond a short time loosen clothing and remove tight collars.

CORRECT FACIAL PROPORTIONS.

In a perfect face every feature should bear a certain proportion to every other feature. The width of the face should be equal to five eyes. The distance between the eyes should be exactly equal to one eye.

Another important relation is that between the eyes and the mouth. The width of the eyes should be equal to two-thirds in length to the height of the forehead, of a regular shape and precisely defined outline.

Various Uses for The Lemon

There is nothing like the lemon for cooling purposes. It is also a good remedy for certain ills and is an excellent cleansing agent.

It may be used in various ways, as has been mentioned; it saves time and trouble in medicine and makes the table products more reasonable.

For cleaning brass, dip the lemon rind in some table salt, rubbing them both well together, and then use this mixture with cheese cloth and it will prove an excellent stain-remover.

If a teaspoonful of lemon juice is added to boiling rice it will not only whiten the grains but it will also impart a pleasant flavor to the pudding.

If you add a tablespoonful of lemon juice to a cup of black coffee you have a cure for a bilious headache.

To a skin that has been inflicted by the bite of a mosquito apply a lemon freshly cut, rubbing well, and relief is almost immediate.

A bottle of lemon juice kept in the bathroom will prove a good deodorizer.

Lemon juice dropped in water will remove tartar from the teeth.

To relieve hoarseness saturate a piece of loaf sugar with lemon juice and suck it slowly.

In summer the skin may be kept whiter by mixing equal parts of rose-water and lemon juice and using it as a lotion.

White fabrics may be ridden of rust stains by using a paste of table salt and lemon juice.

To err is human; to fail to profit by your mistakes is still more so.

BRAN BATHS FOR NERVOUSNESS.

One of the latest things for the nervous woman, who is trying to reduce her fractious nerves, is the bran bath just before retiring at night. This not only has a soothing effect, but incidentally softens and whitens the skin.

To make the bath buy ordinary bran at a feed store and keep it in a tin box away from mice. Make a bag of cheesecloth, from 12 to 18 inches square, and stuff it with bran until about as full as a pine pillow.

This bag is put in a bathtub half filled with warm water, and squeezed until the water is brown and bubbly. It is not well to remain in the water longer than five or six minutes, and, if possible, the bather should rest ten minutes and then be massaged

If there is no one to do the massaging one can rub the body thoroughly with a rough towel or knead it with the hands.

TO RENOVATE BRUSHES.

The sweeper brush bristles become soft from long use and do not sweep up pieces as well as when stiff.

Put a little common baking soda in some hot water, take the brush out of the sweeper, dip it up and down in this. Let it dry in the sun and it will be like new. Hair bristles or any brush can be treated in the same way with the best of results.

USE FOR PARAFFINE.

When packing bottles containing liquids for traveling, dip the corked tops in melted paraffine to avoid accidents.

Y. M. C. A. FIVE WINS FIRST GAME

North Plainfield High Boys Worsted in a Keen Struggle.

VICTORS USE TEN MEN

Inject Entirely New Team Into Game in Second Half—Many Fouls Called — Both Quintets Show Much Promise.

Fighting for every point, the North Plainfield High School and the Y. M. C. A. basketball forces battled through forty minutes of bitter strife Saturday night at the Y. M. C. A., the home team triumphing by the score of 36 to 26. The playing was fast and interesting, the tendency of both sides to foul being the only disagreeable feature.

Both quintets performed creditably, the winners having a decided advantage by frequent changes in the line-up, fresh men being continually introduced, while the schoolboys fought with the same lineup, and the pace bore evidence on their playing, especially toward the end of the second period.

Brilliant shots were not lacking, many coming at opportune moments. Love made a trio of pretty baskets during his regime in the first half, while Dunning jumped the ball into the basket on one occasion.

The boroughites, although without the services of Captain Conroy, whose place was filled by Dawe, fought gamely. The High School players gave evidence of basketball abilities, individually, which after more practice should be developed into a more concentrated attack.

Burner scored the most points for the winners, with two field goals and four fouls, while Dunning, Manley and Taylor each dropped the ball through the net twice. Dawe and Kirch each made two baskets, besides playing good defensive games for N. P. H. S.

NEW AUTO LAW.

Attention of autoists is directed to Chapter 37, Laws of 1915, which provides that:

"Every registration shall expire and the certificate thereof become void on the thirty-first day of December of each year; and the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles shall issue licenses for the following year on and after December first of each year, such licenses so issued not to be used until the first day of January of the succeeding year."

Pursuant to the above statute the thirty-one days of grace, heretofore allowed in which to re-register automobiles, is abolished and the use of 1915 number plates after December 31, 1915, is absolutely prohibited.

IDEAL WEATHER FOR HUNT CLUB'S CHASE

Members Follow the Hounds Fifteen Miles in An Exciting Run.

Weather conditions were ideal for the week-end run of the Watchung Hunt Club on Saturday and the members enjoyed a fifteen-mile ride that was full of thrills. The hounds were met at the New Market pond, and were cast in nearby. The line then led to New Brunswick and Metuchen, the final check being made at South Plainfield.

The hounds were very fast and they led the huntsmen over many fences and across several streams. There were a few spills, but the unfortunate riders remounted and continued.

These riders finished: R. C. Finch, M. F. H., S. D. French, H. W. Evans, A. E. Beling, Lawrence Smith, W. P. Smith, Jr., Col. C. E. S. Bellows, Huntsman Harrison and the whip.

WESTFIELD HIGH ELEVEN NO MATCH FOR DICKINSON

TELLIER OUT AT CANOE BROOK.

At a meeting of the board of managers of the Canoe Brook Country Club of Summit, Saturday night, the contract with Louis Tellier, the professional instructor who has done such good work, was not renewed. It will expire on December 1, and it is expected that a new man will be engaged after the first of the year. Carroll P. Bassett presided at the meeting. Although there is no lack of appreciation on the part of the members for the good work done by Tellier, there was a strong sentiment in favor of engaging someone else.

GEORGE LOW ILL.

George Low, the professional at the Baltusrol Golf Club, who has been seriously ill at his home in Mountain avenue, Springfield, from pneumonia, is said to be somewhat improved. Low, who is known to golfers all over the world, is under the care of Dr. Henry P. Dengler, of Springfield. He contracted pneumonia from a cold caught while at play on the links.

THOUGH SHORT OF MEN, HOLY X WINS

With Three "Supers" Performing, Team Does Well to Trounce Olympics.

FORWARD PASSES HELP

One Results In Touchdown, and Another Paves Way For Second Trip Across Line—Brown and Manning Scintillate.

Although compelled to use a patched line-up, which included two men, Tommy Mullin and Otto Moor, who had not played before this year, and another player, Dunc Patterson, who had not been seen in action for several seasons, the Holy Cross eleven put up an excellent brand of football on Cricket Field, Saturday, defeating the Olympics, of Brooklyn, 16 to 0.

All the home representatives played well, Lou Brown again starring. Jerry Manning made two long runs, and scored both touchdowns. Ability to complete forward passes for big gains aided the victors considerably. Holy Cross led 2 to 0 at the end of the first half, the only score coming when a Brooklyn back was downed behind his own goal.

Jerry Manning kicked off to Cayard, who was downed by Patterson on the 35-yard line. The Olympics, with Blake and Waldner doing most of the work, ripped the Holy Cross line for long gains, and in the first five minutes of play the ball was on the homesters' 12-yard line. At this point Holy Cross took a brace, and recovered the ball on downs in the shadow of their goal line.

Manning made 12 yards through tackle on the first play, and Ricketts, Caulfield and Wilson worked the ball to midfield. A long forward was captured by Brown, who ran to the Olympics' 12-yard line before he was brought to earth. On the first play Wilson made a costly fumble, and P. Murphy fell on the ball on his own 8-yard line.

Cayard, standing behind his own goal, attempted a forward, but Bremble and Hohenstein broke through and nailed the Olympic captain before he got the ball away and it counted two points for Holy Cross. Hohenstein was injured on this play and Mullin replaced him.

The ball was put in play on the 20-yard line. The Olympics fumbled on the 35-yard line as the quarter ended. Holy Cross worked the ball to the 10-yard line, but was held for downs. Waldner pulled off an end run which was good for 20 yards. Holy Cross stopped the Olympics on the 40-yard line, and after two attempts at the line, Ricketts tried for a field goal, but the ball bounded along the ground and was put in play on the 20-yard line. The Olympics worked a long forward, and it was their ball at midfield when the half ended.

Holy Cross received the kick to start the second half. On a shift play, Manning broke loose and ran 50 yards before he was finally downed on the 8-yard line. In 4 downs Holy Cross could only make 7 yards, and the ball went to the Olympics on their 1-yard line. Cayard punted to the locals' 30-yard line, and Ricketts made another try for a field goal, the ball missing the mark by inches.

Cayard was thrown for an 8-yard loss on a kick formation, and on the next play he punted to the 40-yard line. Ricketts again dropped back as if to try for another field goal, but instead made a beautiful forward to Manning, who ran over the line for the first touchdown. Manning missed the goal, but the point was awarded because of off-side play.

In the last quarter the Olympics fumbled on their own 40-yard line, and a long forward to Caulfield took the ball to the 14-yard line. On the second down, Manning tore through for his second touchdown. Ricketts kicked the goal.

The teams lined up as follows:

M'GRAW TO START REBUILDING THE GIANTS NEXT MONTH

New York, Nov. 22.—At the annual gathering of the National League magnates and managers in this city early next month Manager McGraw, of the Giants, will endeavor to put through several important deals which are now hanging fire. The "Little Napoleon," who experienced the worst season of his managerial career this year, realizes that his present outfit is nothing more than a tail-end aggregation and to win the pennant next year, or finish near the top, the deadwood of his team must be set adrift and new and young blood installed.

Manager McGraw will find the rebuilding of his once championship team a problem that will take more than one day to decide. In the first place he will have to completely remodel his pitching staff, and after he finishes this difficult job he will have to get a capable third baseman to take Lobert's place. Then he will have to find a man to fill the shoes of Fred Snodgrass.

One of the biggest disappointments of the Giants last season was the complete collapse of the pitching staff. The Giants started out with Matty, Tesreau, Marquard, Fromme, Stroud, Schupp and Schauer. This staff looked as good as any other in the National League before the season began. But it did not take McGraw long to find out that his pitching staff was about the worst in the league.

Marquard after niching his name in the Hall of Fame in the second game of the season by shutting out the Brooklyn club without a hit or run, faded away and his work went from bad to worse. Matty's arm gave him plenty of trouble and the once great pitcher had the worst season since joining the Giants.

Tesreau one day would shut out his opponents with a few hits and the next time show no control of the ball. Stroud started out in a formidable manner, but his hurling near the end of the season was not nearly as good as in the early part of the campaign. The other pitchers failed to make good.

At the meeting next month McGraw hopes to land at least one pitcher of note for the Giants. He has a couple of young pitchers who may come through with flying colors. They are Emilo Palmero, the young Cuban southpaw, and Fred Herbert, who joined the Giants at the fag end of last season. Both of these youngsters are said to have all the earmarks of big league pitchers.

To land a first-class pitcher from one of the other clubs in the National League McGraw will have to sacrifice one or two of his players. What players will be cut loose from the string is still a dark secret.

Hans Lobert may start next season at third for the Giants, but if his work does not show a vast improvement over his pastiming around the difficult sack last season, McGraw will relegate him to the side-line.

Lobert started the 1915 campaign in great shape and was going along like a house on fire until one day Alexander the Great cracked him in the ribs with the ball. A long layoff followed this accident and when he returned to the game he failed to show his best form.

HEAVY TRACK PREVENTS HORSEMEN'S MATINEE

A heavy track, the result of Friday's rain, caused a postponement of the Plainfield Road Drivers' Association matinee, scheduled to be held Saturday. Weather permitting, the meeting will be held next Saturday.

ELIZABETH A. A. TO PLAY HOLY CROSS ON THURSDAY

The Elizabeth A. A. will play Holy Cross on Cricket Field Thursday afternoon. The Elizabeth eleven, which is the strongest that has represented the county seat in years, lost a 12-0 decision to the Valley A. A. of Newark yesterday.

TIME FOR LIGHTING.

The New Jersey law provides that lights shall be displayed on all vehicles from one-half hour after sunset until one-half hour before sunrise. The times by days at which lights must be lighted this week are as follows: Today, 5:01 p. m.; tomorrow, 5:00 p. m.; Wednesday, 5:00 p. m.; Thursday, 4:59 p. m.; Friday, 4:59 p. m.; Saturday, 4:59 p. m.

N. P. H. S. LOSES A STAR ATHLETE

Ronny Conroy, Basketball Captain, in Hospital—Wren Townley New Leader.

North Plainfield High School's athletic teams received a severe blow Saturday, when Ronald Conroy, captain of the basketball five and star second baseman of the baseball nine, was stricken with appendicitis. Conroy was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital and was operated upon last night. Reports from that institution today stated that Conroy was resting as easily as could be expected.

Conroy has been a member of the N. P. H. S. basketball team the past two years, and his services will be greatly missed. Manager John Dawe will fill the vacancy at forward, while Warren Townley will assume the captaincy.

The N. P. H. S. boys will play their first home game tomorrow afternoon against New Brunswick High School.

THREE MATCHES DECIDED IN ELKS' ONE-MAN TOURNAMENT

Three matches in the individual tournament at the Elks' Club were rolled Saturday night, Ed Laing dropping the odd to both Leonard and Vail, and Jake Waldorf taking the rubber from Harry Blimm.

Laing's two victories came on big scores of 224 and 196. Vail had 203.

The scores:

Blimm	153	124	180
Waldorf	156	160	171
Laing	146	224	137
Leonard	169	166	150
Laing	196	176	155
Vail	179	180	203

SOMERVILLE HIGH ELEVEN LOSES TO BERNARDSVILLE

Somerville High School met defeat last Saturday afternoon at the hands of the Bernardsville High School eleven, 7 to 0. Conover, the visitors' left end, sustained a painful injury to one of his legs during the second quarter, and was relieved by Sirilo.

TWO GAMES ON TABS' COURT THANKSGIVING

The T. A. B. S. basketball team will play the N. P. H. S. Juniors on the T. A. B. S. court Thanksgiving night. In the preliminary the T. A. B. S. second team will lineup against the Plainfield Juniors.

PASSAIC PLAYS WELL.

Rutherford High School, which is the leading choice for the State High School football title, defeated Passaic High School 26 to 12 Saturday. The Plainfield High School team gave Passaic a worse beating than that, the score being 19 to 6. Saxer, who starred for Passaic in the game here, was the biggest thorn in Rutherford's side.

LOSERS HAPPY; WINNERS GLUM

The unusual case of the winning eleven's rooters being sad, and the loser's cohorts jubilant, was seen at Hoboken Saturday, when Stevens held Rutgers to a 39 to 3 score. The reason was that most of the Rutgers backers bet that Stevens would not score, and that Rutgers would make more than 50 points.

P'BURG Y. W. C. A. COMING.

Miss Clara Smith, manager of the P. E. G. Society basketball team, today closed a deal with the Phillipsburg Y. W. C. A for that team to play the local girls on the Plainfield High School court New Year's afternoon. The game will be followed by a tea dansant.

HOLY CROSS PRACTICE.

Holy Cross will practice tomorrow night and Coach Stalling declared Saturday that any man who is not on hand tomorrow night will positively not get in the game Thursday.

CAN BUY TICKETS IN ADVANCE.

The management of the Y. M. C. A. basketball team announced today that tickets for home games can be purchased one week in advance at the office of the association.

HERB STINE AT END.

Herbert Stine, of this city, was shifted to end on the Springfield Y. M. C. A. College eleven in the game against the Army at West Point Saturday.

GOLF CLUB MEETS TONIGHT.

The annual meeting of the Park Golf Club will be held at the Park Club, in Washington avenue, this evening, at 8 o'clock.

TIES RULE AT CLIMAX TRAPS

Close Shooting in Thanksgiving Events Held on Saturday.

HAZE KELLAR HIGH GUN

Wins 15-Bird Sweepstakes With a Perfect Score, and Breaks 44 Out of 50 In Two Other Competitions.

Competition so close that ties were frequent featured the Thanksgiving shoot of the Climax Gun Club, Saturday, Hazelwood Kellar won the sweepstake, with a perfect score of 15. Two poultry events at 25 targets were also held, turkeys going to the winners and ducks to the runners-up. Monroe Terry and Perce Terry won the turks, Fred Allen and Charles Foster bagging the ducks.

Monroe Terry won second money in the sweepstakes handicap. In one poultry event, Fred Allen and Henry Bishop tied for second prize, the former winning the shoot-off by one bird. Charles Foster and Harold Kellar also tied at 24 for the ducks, Foster winning.

Owing to a late start, the gunners were able to run off only three of the five scheduled events. A holiday sweepstakes event will be held Thursday.

The number of targets each man broke, his handicap and total score in each event follow:

P. H. S. GIRLS TAKE ON GRADS WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The annual basketball game between the Plainfield High School girls' basketball team and the alumnae of the school will be played in the Ninth Street School's gymnasium, Thanksgiving eve, beginning promptly at 8:15 o'clock. The game will be the official opening of the 1915 schedule for the school girls, who have been putting in much practice for the last few weeks, in preparation for the contest. Last year the grads were defeated by a comfortable score, and the school girls expect to repeat this achievement Wednesday night.

HUNTERS HOLD FIELD MEET.

Columbia, Tenn., Nov. 22.—The annual field meet of the National Fox Hunters' Association is being held here today. A good week's sport is looked for, and a number of prominent hunters are here for the runs.

THREE SCORES RETURNED.

There were only three scores returned in the weekly sweepstakes at the Plainfield Country Club Saturday. They were: H. A. Robinson, 112, 27-85; H. E. Moore, 110, 25-85; W. M. Alling, 100, 13-87.

INTERESTING DISCOURSE ON "CHURCH IN THE HOME"

"The Church in the Home" was the subject of a strong sermon preached by the Rev. Charles S. Gillespie, pastor of the Grace M. E. church last night. He maintained that if the spirit of the church could be moulded more completely into the home lives of its members it would make a transforming influence of great power in the community. He spoke of the many references in Scripture of the church being in the home and bemoaned the fact that in so many homes of the present day all semblance of worship has been crowded out.

In preparation for a series of special services to begin with the New Year the cottage prayer meetings have been held for the last few weeks in the homes of members of the church. Tomorrow night the meeting will be held at 179 Duer street, 33 Manning avenue and 240 Watchung avenue.

PRINCE OF WALES RELIEF TO MAKE COMFORT BAGS

The New Jersey branch of the Prince of Wales Relief for wounded soldiers and sailors, will meet in the parish house of Grace church, Thursday morning, December 2, at which time the Christmas comfort bags will be prepared for shipment to the allies. The committee wishes to appeal to the public and the business men of Plainfield for donations for these bags. Contributions may either be sent to Mrs. Rufus Delafield, 801 Sherman avenue, who is the chairman of the committee, or to the treasurer, Mrs. Edgar Hyatt, 243 East Ninth street. Contributions may also be sent to the parish house on Thursday morning of December 2, if it is inconvenient to send them otherwise. Articles which are solicited and which bring Christmas cheer to the hundreds of wounded in the hospitals consist of: Leather shoe strings, bandanna handkerchiefs, playing cards, pencils, writing pads, envelopes, tobacco, cigarettes, pipes, pipe cleaners, tooth brushes, safety pins, needles, hair brushes, razors, shaving brushes, soap, flannel shirts, Christmas cards, cakes of chocolate, gray woolen socks, knives, pencil sharpeners, spools of shoe thread, etc.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The cause of the "Judson Memorial Fund" was presented at the First Baptist church yesterday morning by Rev. Dr. Humpstone, of Brooklyn.

The Judson Juniors of the First Baptist church will give a playlet entitled "Princess Merryheart and Light Fairies," in the lecture room of the church tomorrow evening.

The women of the First Baptist church are packing a barrel of clothing to be sent to one of the southern mission stations.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will conduct the Thanksgiving service at the Evona chapel Thursday morning.

TO INVESTIGATE HOSPITAL.

Inquiry into the manner in which the Newark City Hospital is conducted will probably be started at a meeting of the hospital committee of the Board of Health this week. The inquiry, it is said, will be for the purpose of effecting economies in the management of that institution and to operate it more efficiently in the future.

SHOP OFFICIALS ANNUAL BANQUET

Executive Department Heads of Saurer Plant Enjoy Gathering.

MANY FINE SPEECHES

Suggestion Made for a Social Organization Among Motor Employes With Perhaps a Clubhouse—Affair at Hotel Nelson.

Members of the executive department of the International Motor Company's plant in this city, numbering forty in all, enjoyed their second annual "get-together-dinner" in the Hotel Nelson, at New Market, last night. The affair was one of the most enjoyable that any of those present ever attended, and incidentally a boom was started which will probably end in making the Saurer shop Mutual Aid Society among the strongest of Plainfield's social organizations. Numerous addresses were made by various officers, and excellent music was a feature throughout the evening.

The dinner was arranged by a committee composed of Thomas Longley, who is in charge of the Saurer employment bureau, and John Casson. They had charge throughout the evening, and beside these two speeches were made by Lewis Bertschinger, John McCarthy, David B Martin, John Young and Clarence Webber. Piano selections were contributed by Mr. Sparks, J. J. Brone Gottfried Wirler and Mr. Sweazy, all of whom are finished performers Proprietor Rudolph Kampf, of the Hotel Nelson, did himself proud in decorating the dining room and providing the following excellent menu:

Bronx cocktail, bluepoint oysters on the shell, olives, celery, cream of chicken croutons, filet de sole, Parisian potatoes, broiled chicken Southern style, romaine salad, boiled beef tongue, spinach, egg sauce, mashed potatoes, steamed cauliflower, cream sauce, lemon sherbet, saltines, Roquefort cheese, demi-tasse and cafe.

In the course of an excellent address which Mr. Longley gave he announced that the Saurer Shop Mutual Aid would hold its annual meeting on December 4, at which time more than one hundred new members would be enrolled. This will make a membership of nearly 400, and he expressed the belief that such a large body of men working mutually could do much for the social welfare of the city. He stated that scores of young men are coming to the city every week, and, being strangers, find a lack of healthy diversion. For this reason he wants to see the Aid Society branch out into an organization fostering football, baseball, bowling and basketball, and also having a suitable clubhouse for indoor sports.

"With the membership that the society has," said Mr. Longley, "there is no reason why we could not get a suitable home, either in the vicinity of the shop or downtown. It is something that I hope to see realized in the near future, and the International Motor Company stands ready to do its share. The company will be the big gainer, as young men who are skilled workers will remain in a town where they are made to feel at home, thus assuring the concern good mechanics at all times."

Mr. Longley is himself an ardent chess player, and he stated in the course of his speech that he hoped to have a chess league organized in in Plainfield before the winter season is far advanced. He invited all the Saurer employes to be present at the Mutual Aid meeting next month at which time there will be a fine entertainment, following the election of officers and the transaction of other yearly business.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE.

Thanksgiving services will be held Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in Temple Sholem. The president of the organization, William Newcorn will deliver the address of thanksgiving, while music for the occasion will be furnished by the children's choir. The program has been arranged especially for this occasion, and will be very interesting.

Thanksgiving Turkeys.

The very finest that the market affords, will be found as usual at Smalley Brothers' market in the city building. We have made a special effort this year to procure exceptionally fine birds, and our prices will be consistent with the usual high standard of goods that we carry. For those who prefer chickens and Long Island ducks we will have a splendid assortment of these fowl. As usual we are making a large amount of our famous sausage, and making shipments to all parts of the country. All this sausage is made from Jersey pork which we kill ourselves. We are also supplying our own rendering of lard at reasonable prices. There is none better. Smalley Brothers, North avenue.—Adv. ***

Y. M. C. A. MEMBERS TO GET TOGETHER

Social Event at Association Building at 8 O'clock Tonight.

A big "get together" meeting will be held in the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association tonight, when new and old members of the association will become acquainted.

The event was made necessary because of the large number of new men and boys brought into the association during the membership contest held last week. It is also in the nature of a celebration of the success of that event, in which the new members will participate. A program of athletic events will be given in the gymnasium, supplemented by an attractive entertainment in the auditorium, after which light refreshments will be served. The crowd will gather at 8 o'clock.

HORTON CLEARED OF CHARGE OF LARCENY

Theodore A. Martin Asks That Complaint He Brought Be Dropped.

The charge against Edward Horton, charged with larceny, was dismissed by Judge DeMeza in police court this morning, when Councilman Theodore A. Martin, who caused the arrest of Horton, appeared and asked that the case be dropped. Martin accused Horton of having taken some tools that belonged to him, but the defendant produced a receipted bil for some of the tools in court, and offered to prove where the others had been purchased if given time.

Martin told Judge DeMeza this morning that he was convinced that many of the tools he thought belonged to him had really been purchased by Horton, and he did not want to ruin the good name of the other man by pressing the larceny case.

FRANK KELLER ERECTS SEVEN ROOM DWELLING

A dwelling house is being erected on Harrison avenue, the borough, for Frank Keller, letter carrier. This house will contain seven rooms, two stories, with improvements, and be constructed of hollow tile and stucco. The grounds will be graded and ornamented with shrubbery and flower beds. It will be one of the most attractive homes in that part of North Plainfield.

WALTER SCOTT & COMPANY INSTALL OFFSET PRESSES

The first offset presses ever constructed for newspaper use are about to be installed in the office of the New York Times by Walter Scott & Co. The two presses, which are called roll-feed, offset, web-perfecting and folding printing presses, will cost $30,000 each. They will be used to print the Sunday supplement of the New York Times. The process of printing by roll will double the speed of delivery over that of flat-bed offset presses.

SILVER CROSS CIRCLE TO GIVE HOLIDAY DANCE

The Silver Cross Circle, of The King's Daughters, will give a holiday dance for young people at the Park Club on Saturday evening. Arrangements are being made to make it a unique affair. There will be lucky number dancing contests with most attractive prizes. The little tots will dance until 9 o'clock, when they will make way for the older people.

The music will be furnished by Brooks and Denton, the same which made the Comedy Club dances so successful. Ice cream, cake and lemonade will be served without extra charge. Tickets may be obtained at J. W. Gavett's store and Miller's pharmacy and from the following members of the committee: Mrs. Wilbur H. Rogers, chairman; Mrs. F. E. DuBois, Mrs. Everett Murray, Mrs. Donald McGee, Mrs. William Roome, Miss Millar and Mrs. H. A. Robinson.

P. E. G. S. REHEARSAL.

The first rehearsal of the P. E. G. S. play, "Commencement Days," will be held in the Plainfield High School, Wednesday, November 24, at which time Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, will read over the first act with the members. All members are urged to be present at 8 o'clock sharp.

N. P. H. S. TO ENTER DEBATING LEAGUE

Will Compete With Schools of Other Counties for Literary Honors.

The North Plainfield High School will again enter the Inter-County Debating League formed by Rutgers College. Sixteen schools have been invited to join the league, doubling last year's membership. The schools have been selected from Somerset, Hunterdon, Middlesex and Union counties and include the following:

Flemington, High Bridge, Clinton, Lambertville, Somerville, Bernardsville, North Plainfield, Bound Brook, Metuchen, New Brunswick, Perth Amboy, Woodbridge, Summit, Westfield and Cranford. Each school will be represented at a meeting to be held at New Brunswick, December 4, at which time rules governing the contest will be formulated and the topic to be debated will be decided. A similar topic will be used by all the schools until the finals when a new topic will be chosen for the last debate to be held in New Brunswick.

The Flemington High School won first honors last year, defeating Asbury Park High School. North Plainfield High School was eliminated in the initial round by Bernardsville High School, which besides winning the county title, continued in the contest until the semi-finals.

The purpose of the league is to promote friendly rivalry and to bring the High Schools in this vicinity into closer competition in the art of debating, which has its educational value, and to give college authorities opportunity to become acquainted with prospective candidates for admission to Rutgers College.

HORSE OWNER CHARGED WITH EXTREME CRUELTY

Nickolas Fatouras, of 32 Elm place, was arraigned in police court this morning on two complaints of cruelty to animals brought against him by Mrs. E. H. Van Hoesen. She charges that the man has been working a horse that is badly crippled and that the animal has not been properly fed. The case was continued until December 1.

ED VANDERHOEF HELD FOR LARCENY OF APPLES

Edward Vanderhoef, of Plainfield, was turned over to the marshal of North Plainfield township by Judge De Meza this morning, where he will be tried on a charge of larceny. Vanderhoef was arrested on complaint of Gerard Underhill, who charges that the man arrested stole eight barrels of apples from him. He was arrested by local police.

PLAINFIELDERS ARE GUESTS AT COMPLIMENTARY DINNER

Friends of Republican Leader Robert B. Cornish, of Passaic, gave him a dinner at the Mansion House, in Morristown, Saturday night, in appreciation of his services during the recent campaign. Senator Charles A. Rathbun, for the guests, presented Mr Cornish with a gold knife.

Among those present were Congressman John H. Capstick, former Mayor Newton B. Smalley and George J. Tobin and George Andrews, of this city.

OWNER MUST PAY FOR COAT TORN BY DOG

Because his collie dog got loose and tore the coat of a girl passing by, Richard Harvey, colored, was this morning ordered by Judge De Meza to pay $5 to the young woman for the repair of her coat and get rid of the dog. It was stated in court by Lieutenant Higgins that the dog had recently bitten a child in the neighborhood of the man's home, but that its parents would not appear. Jennie Popolla testified that while she was passing the home of Harvey yesterday the dog ran out and grabbed her coat, tearing it. The negro seemed willing to pay for the coat, also to dispose of the dog and Judge De Meza gave him the privilege of doing this or paying a fine.

RUNYON VICTIM OF BOSS COMBINE

Plainfield Assemblyman Defeated for Speaker at Trenton Caucus.

FOURTEEN ARE LOYAL

Number Who Pledged Vote to Last Year's Leader Turn on Him at Last Minute and Vote for Dalrymple-Baird Candidate.

Trenton, Nov. 23.—The combination of David Baird, of Camden, representng the South Jersey regular Republican leaders, and Alfred N. Dalrymple, of Essex, lieutenant of former Governor Franklin Murphy and other North Jersey "Old Guard" Republicans, won a victory in the Republican Assembly caucus today, and nominated Assemblyman Charles C. Pilgrim, of Essex, for Speaker. Mr. Pilgrim received 26 votes to fourteen for Assemblyman W. N. Runyon, of union, who was the party leader in the House during the last session Pilgrim received eleven Essex votes and the votes of Mr. Runyon, together with the following: Camden 3; Atlantic, 2; Passaic, 3; Morris, 2; and a single vote from each of the following counties: Cape May, Cumberland, Gloucester and Salem. Judge Runyon received 2 votes from Union and the vote of Pilgrim, Bergen, 3; Mercer, 3; Ocean, 1; Passaic 2; Burlington, 1, and Somerset, 1.

Judge Runyon expected and had been promised the support of several of those who voted for Pilgrim. The pressure brought to bear on these men this morning was too great for them to withstand, and at least six who had pledged the Union county man their support flopped to the opposition when it came to a show down.

Pilgrim was nominated by H. Cline Crosby, chairman of the Essex delegation, and Runyon was named by Charles Morgan, of Union, the latter nomination being seconded by Assemblyman O. H. Hammond, of Somerset, and James Hammond, of Mercer.

Assemblyman John B. Kates, of Camden, was unanimously chosen chairman of the caucus and leader of the House for the session. There was no oposition to Upton S. Jefferys for his old position of clerk of the House.

The caucus voted down the proposition of Hunter, of Passaic, to make the office of supervisor of bills a caucus matter, instead of leaving it to the steering committee. Hunter made this proposal to insure that former Clerk James Parker might be selected for the supervisorship, a position he held last session. Parker has been a candidate for clerk, but it is understood that by withdrawing from the contest for this position he will be assured of the supervisorship or some minor position.

The following steering committee was named to assign the other positions to various counties: West, of Gloucester; Pancoast, of Camden; Runyon, of Union; Dalrymple, of Passaic; Downs, of Morris; Crosby, of Essex, and Conrad, of Ocean.

"VILLAGE SKEWL" WILL BE GIVEN AT COLUMBUS CLUB

The advance sale of seats for the comedy to be presented tonight by members of the dramatic club of the Knights of Columbus has warranted the statement that a crowded house will witness the performance. Tickets have been on sale downtown for several days and are going fast. A final rehearsal for the play will be held this afternoon.

All of the performers have their parts well in hand, and it is promised that some real comedy will be offered all who attend the performance of the "Old Village Skewl of Long Ago." The performance will begin at 8:15 It will be held in the Knights of Columbus Auditorium. There will be dancing after the show.

TO GIVE THE "MESSIAH."

The Choral Society's rendition of the "Messiah" will be given in the Plainfield High School Auditorium, Tuesday, December 14, at 8 o'clock. Rehearsals, except the last, will be held every Tuesday night in the Franklin School. S. Frederick Smith, the director of the work, informs all choral members desiring to sing in the "Messiah" to attend all remaining rehearsals. The final rehearsal will be held in the Plainfield High School Auditorium on Monday night, December 13.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

The borough street department has about completed the improvements to Wilson and Harrison avenues. Both streets have been graded from curb to curb. It is planned to have the sidewalks on both streets completed by the property owners in the spring.

CLASSEN IN AUTO SMASH--TO LOSE EYE

Plainfield Fireman and Daughter Badly Hurt in Newark Accident.

Jens Claassen, a well-known local firemen, and his three-year-old daughter, Dorothy, were injured early last night, when an automobile in which they were riding collided with a truck in Newark.

Mr. Claassen will lose the sight of his right eye as a result of the accident, and it may be necessary to remove the eye. He was otherwise bruised and cut. His daughter sustained severe cuts about the face One gash in her upper lip was so large that four stitches were necessary to close it.

The accident occurred about 5:30 yesterday afternoon on Frelinghuysen avenue, in Newark. Chris Mobus, driver of a taxicab for Harry Huff, in Plainfield, was at the wheel of the car that Claassen had rented for the day. He had been to New York to visit his father, and came through Newark on the way home. A truck that had been left standing on the street early in the afternoon was without light, and in some manner the driver crashed into the rear end. The front wheel of the taxicab was torn off, the hood was smashed and front lights bent. Falling glass from a smashed window struck Mr. Claassen and his daughter in the face. Mobus was not injured.

Claassen and his daughter were taken to the City Hospital and later brought to Plainfield in another machine. They were attended by Dr. H. B. Hubbard, and both are at home at 133 Liberty street. A piece of glass one-half by one-quarter inch was taken from Claassen's eye.

Claassen has been a member of the local fire department for the past ten years. He is connected with the headquarters company on Second street.

"BIRTH OF A NATION" THRILLED TWO BIG HOUSES AT PROCTORS

Two crowded houses witnessed and approved "The Birth of a Nation" at Proctor's Theatre yesterday. So much has been said about this wonderful production that it would be hard to find new adjectives to describe it. That it met with the full approval of those present yesterday was attested by the hearty applause which greeted the stirring scenes thrown on the screen. Not a small part of the success of the picture can be attributed to the large and excellent orchestra, which played through the entire production, and the effects which were produced by a very efficient corp of helpers behind the scenes. Plainfielders have never before had an opportunity to witness such a wonderful photoplay in this city, and it will probably be a long time before so pretentious an offering is made here again.

While the story told is not a pleasant one, it is in the main so true to history, and so thrillingly describes conditions in the South during and immediately after the Civil War that it holds the attention of every spectator for nearly three hours. The Proctor management is to be congratulated upon bringing such a famous production to this city. It is probable that a full week's business could have been successfully done here instead of three days.

TO AID NEEDY FAMILIES.

The Tuckabatchee class of the Congregational church, under the direction of Fred Disborough, Lewis Zeek and Henry Brandt are making preparations to provide their annual Thanksgiving dinner for worthy needy families in the city. A year ago the class carried cheer into the homes of over forty families through the co-operation and assistance of their friends. Contributions may be made to any member of the class.

STOLE COFFEE CAKE, IS CHARGE

Carl Strope, arranged in police court this morning on a charge of stealing coffee cake from Sylvester Sharkey's grocery store, explained that he had been accustomed to taking cake from in front of the store each morning when he arrived before the proprietor, and asked for a dismissal. Judge De Meza continued the case until tomorrow morning in order that the groceryman might be present and give testimony.

F. H. ANDREWS LEADER.

F. H. Andrews will lead the men's noonday gospel meeting at the Rescue Mission tomorrow. There will be good music, helpful talks and hearty testimonies. All men are cordially invited. The service will be held from 12:30 to 1 o'clock.

STREET CAR HITS COAL WAGON.

A coal wagon belonging to George Stevens was struck by a street car on West Front street about 6 o'clock last night. The driver, Charles Westmore, escaped without injury.

FINE PUNISHES BOY AND PARENTS TOO

Judge DeMeza Uses Drastic Method to Reform Wayward Youth.

Joseph Friedman, a fourteen-year-old boy, was fined $10 by Judge De Meza in police court this morning, on a charge of larceny and his parents were notified that if the fine was not paid the boy would be sent to the reform school. In assessing the fine Judge De Meza sought to punish both boy and father.

The boy was charged with stealing newspapers and magazines and selling them and it was his second appearance in court for this offence within a short time. The court held that if proper care was taken of him by his parents there was still a chance for reformation, and he assessed a fine of $10 for the father to pay.

LEUKEMIA FATAL TO LOUISE CAMPBELL

Child Who Underwent Blood Transfusion at Muhlenberg Hospital Died Today.

Louise Campbell, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan G. Campbell, of Newark, who has been at Muhlenberg Hospital for the past three weeks, during which medical science battled to save her life, died at the institution at noon today. The end was not unexpected as she had been sinking since Sunday. The child was eight years old and had been suffering with leukemia, a disease which is almost always fatal. The parents believed, however, that the new process of blood transfusion might save her life and she underwent numerous operations of this kind under the direction of Dr. Edward Lindeman, of New York. For a time it seemed as if they might prove successful but for the past two weeks it was realized by the specialists that the struggle was hopeless. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell reside at 5 White terrace, Newark, to which place the body will be taken for the funeral. The service will be held there Sunday and burial will be made in Hillside cemetery, this city. The parents have one other child, Sara, four years old. Mrs. Campbell was formerly Miss Kate Anthony, sister of Dr. William H. Anthony, of Park avenue. Little Louise was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital for treatment in order that her uncle might exercise personal supervision of the case.

Mr. Campbell is general agent of the New Jersey Central at Newark and when volunteers for the blood transfusion were asked for, practically every man in his district offered their services. Several of them were accepted, among them District Passenger Agent C. K. Armstrong. The funeral has been set for Sunday to permit all the railroad men who offered blood may attend the funeral, it being impossible for so many to leave their work on a week day.

CAMPAIGN EXPENSE LIST FILED WITH COUNTY CLERK

Elizabeth, Nov. 23.—Close to $5,000 was contributed to the Republican County Committee in the recent campaign, according to the expense list filed yesterday in the office of County Clerk James C. Calvert. The Democratic County Committee received $2,536.90. Hamilton F. Kean was the largest Republican contributor, giving $1,000. Representative John H. Capstick gave $300. Mayor Leighton Calkins, of Plainfield, was also a contributor. United States Senator James E. Martine gave $100 to the Democratic fund.

ITALIAN WANTED HERE TO BE BROUGHT BACK

Alfred Langiaese, an Italian, was arrested in Atlantic City this morning on request of Chief of Police Kiely, of Plainfield. The man is wanted here for assault with a pistol. He fired two shots at a man named Bernie Marnunio on East Third street on the night of June 25. Policemen reached the scene of the fight too late to arrest Langinese and he left the city, but Chief Kiely located him in Atlantic City and caused his arrest there. He will be brought back to Plainfield for trial.

GREECE DECIDES TO AID ALLIES

Will Guarantee Safety and Freedom of Troops in Her Territory.

BRITISH LION AROUSED

England Will Have 4,000,000 Men in Field by March and Will Arm and Supply 6,000,000 Russians, Says Kitchener.

Athens, Nov. 23.—The government is disposed to give effective guarantee of the safety and freedom of movement of the Allied troops, says a semi-official statement published by the Athens newspapers today. It is the first definite word that has come from government quarters that the Entente Powers were gaining ground in their representations.

Serbs Make Great Rally.

Rallying when its destruction was thought to be only a matter of days, the southern Serbian army has defeated the Bulgars, regained its former positions on the Veles-Prilep front and is advancing toward Babuna Pass, according to an official statement issued by the Serbian Legation here today.

Kitchener's Promise.

Paris, Nov. 23.—England will have 4,000,000 troops in the field by next March. It will also be able to arm and supply 6,000,000 Russians. Lord Kitchener, the British secretary of war, gave this information to the Greek government on his recent visit to Athens, according to a despatch received from the Greek capital today. The despatch quoted Lord Kitchener, after he had made known the resources of England, as saying:

"Therefore, the war can end only in the complete defeat of Germany."

French Are Silent.

French war statement:

"There is nothing to add to the preceding communique."

No Blockade In Greece.

London, Nov. 23.—An official statement issued by the Foreign Office today says that no Greek ships are being seized or held up in British ports and there is no blockade of Greek ports.

Capture 9,500 Serbs.

Berlin, Nov. 23 (wireless).—German war statement:

"Balkan theatre—North of Mitrovitza and northeast of Pristina, the Serbian rear guards were thrown back in sharp conflicts. We took 1,500 Serbian prisoners and captured six cannon. The Bulgarian troops advanced victoriously. Southeast of Pristina they took 8,000 Serbians and captured 22 machine guns and 44 cannon.

"Western theatre—Artillery duels occurred yesterday at several points on the front.

"Eastern theatre—There is nothing of importance to report."

Austrians to Fight to Last.

Berne, Nov. 23.—It is learned here that the Austrian commander at Gorizia has been ordered to defend the position to the last against the Italians. Reinforcements have been sent but the fall of the fortress is considered inevitable.

Turks Check Allied Attacks.

Constantinople, Nov. 23.—Turkish war statement:

"Efforts by the Allies to land reinforcements on Gallipoli Peninsula have been checked by guns of heavy calibre sent to the Dardanelles front."

Kitchener at Sulva.

Amsterdam, Nov. 23.—The Frankfurter Zeitung publishes a despatch from Constantinople stating that Lord Kitchener, after leaving Mudros spent two days at Sulva Bay, examining the Allied positions on the Gallipoli Peninsula. On Friday last he went to Saloniki, where he presided at a war council, including seven British and five French generals. Subsequently he proceeded to Athens.

Austrians to Aid Bulgars.

Zurich, Nov. 23.—According to reliable information received here Austria is concentrating an army of 150,000 men at Pola on the Adriatic Sea with the object of assisting Bulgaria in the event of intervention by Roumania on behalf of Serbia and the Entente Allies. The Austrians are also entrenching strong positions on the Serbian side of Danube, opposite Roumania, between the iron gate at Orsova and Negotin.

Big Guns to Turks.

A telegram from Bucharest states that the Germans are sending two 42 centimetre guns to Turkey for use at the Dardanelles.

Italians Make Advance.

Rome, Nov. 23.—Italian war statement:

DUNELLEN

All the Happenings of the Day in Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

FOUR CASES OF DIPHTHERIA REPORTED AT NEW ERA

Four cases of diphtheria have developed among the children of the Italian village of New Era. All of these children attend the district school in this village and another epidemic is feared. John Nelson, the inspector of the township Board of Health, has suggested that blood cultures be taken of all the school pupils.

The school was closed a month ago for fumigation on account of a threatened epidemic of diphtheria. Since the school reopened there has only been one new case, viz., that of Mildred Tomlinson, daughter of Harry Tomlinson. Mildred was taken ill about two weeks ago and as no new cases had developed up to yesterday the residents of the village were commencing to breathe easier.

When interviewed yesterday afternoon several men expressed grave concern over the situation. Postmaster Joseph Kelly was indignant and expressed himself in forceful terms over what he called the lax methods of the Boards of Health and Education.

Mrs. Fred Perrine, of North avenue, is entertaining her sister from New York city.

Miss Helen Griggs, of North avenue, has resigned her position at the Pathe motion picture works and taken a position in the factory of the Harrington Leather Company.

Mrs. Paul Ratti, of North avenue, who his been ill since Monday of last week, is improved.

Miss Bertha Vroom, of North avenue, has taken a position in the factory of the Harrington Leather Company.

Robert Braun and Fred Oakley are sojourning at Lake Hopatcong for a week.

Miss Ella Boice has recovered from a slight illness.

Adam Dealaman, of Washington avenue, is detained at home by illness.

Albert Ritterbusch, who is spending the winter in New York, was a week-end visitor at his home on Dunellen avenue.

TO ATTEND A DANCE.

A number of the prominent young people of the borough have engaged an auto truck to take them to Stony Hill tomorrow evening to attend a dance and entertainment in St. Mary's Hall. The truck will leave from in front of Voorhees' market at 7:45.

PAUL RATTI DEFEATED.

In a checker match between Paul Ratti, the local champion, and E. R. Heilig, the German-American player, Mr. Heilig defeated Mr. Ratti by the score of 8-6. There were three draws.

FUNERAL OF INFANT.

The funeral of the infant son born Friday to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilson, of Dunellen avenue, was held Sunday afternoon. Interment was at Samptown.

E. R. SMALLEY ILL.

E. R. Smalley, senior member of the local hardware firm of Smalley Brothers, was taken ill in his store yesterday morning and obliged to go home.

UNION SERVICE.

The Union Thanksgiving service of the Dunellen and New Market churches will be held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church at 8 o'clock, Thanksgiving evening. Rev. D. W. C. Ramsey, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, will preach the sermon.

TAKES ANOTHER POSITION.

Samuel Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Harris, of Center street, who has been working for the Ingersoll-Rand Company at Phillipsburg, has returned home to take charge of the electric department of one of the new factories in New Market.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Putnam, of Plainfield, have been visiting friends here.

INVITATION DANCE.

Invitations are out for a dance to be given in St. Mary's Hall, Stony Hill, on Saturday evening, December 4, by the Klever Klover Klub, of which a number of the prominent young people of this borough are members.

The Misses Nora Bird and Helen Bunnell have taken positions for the holidays in the dry goods store of Woodhull & Martin at Plainfield.

DWELLING IS LEASED.

The C. Lester Rule house on Center street, which will be vacated the first of the month by Amos Rumsey and family, who move to New York, has been rented to L. Rowe, shop foreman for the Harris, Silver & Baker Company, which is erecting a structural iron plant at South Plainfield. This plant will probably be in operation by the middle of next month.

Mrs. Mary F. Richardson, of Washington, who has been making Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Todd, of Front street, a lengthy visit, returned home yesterday.

VISITING HER SON.

Mrs. S. L. Hayes, of Jamaica, L. I., has been visiting her son, Wilbur Hayes, of New Market road, who has been confined to his home since Wednesday of last week, when a timber fell on his right foot while he was working at the new Grove street bridge in Plainfield. An operation will be performed on the foot today by Doctors Platt and Longbotham.

The condition of Mrs. L. D. Walker, who has been ill for some time, is reported as being about the same.

Walter Penrose, who took a position as brakeman on the Lehigh Valley, several days ago, has resigned his job.

ARRESTED FOR ASSAULT.

Leo D'Angelo, employed at the chemical works in this place, was arraigned before Judge Rene P. F. Von Minden in the Dunellen police court last evening, on a charge of having assaulted William Wicks at the plant Sunday afternoon, with a monkey wrench. D'Angelo is alleged to have struck Wicks in the head with the tool, causing a wound which bled profusely. The defendant was arrested by Constable Robert Le Roy Pierce. After taking the plea of the prisoner Judge Von Minden adjourned court for a hearing today.

The Farmers' Institute is holding an all-day session in Friendship Hall, today.

Emerson Platt, son of Dr. Platt, who has been critically ill with pneumonia, has passed the crisis of his illness and is now improving.

High Bridge-Califon.

Hunterdon County Forest, Tall Cedars of Lebanon, will hold a fall planting tonight in Rialto Hall, High Bridge. There will be a large class of saplings from Three Bridges, Neshanic, Flemington, Whitehouse, Lebanon, Annandale, Clinton, Hampton, German Valley, Hackettstown, Asbury and High Bridge. A banquet will be served by the members of the local Ladies of the Eastern Star.

Mrs. Anna Fisher moved Friday from Middle Valley to Washington Warren county.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kizer, of Morristown, were recently entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Hoffman at Middle Valley.

'Plains & Fanwood.

Something novel and foreign to former Christmas entertainments of the Bible school of the Baptist church will mark the one to be held this year on Tuesday, December 28. Instead of receiving a gift as heretofore each one will bring some offering for the Lord. The question was put to a vote at the meeting of the Bible school on Sunday and resulted in a nearly unanimous affirmative.

A pleasing musical program contributed to by local talent will be rendered tonight in the Baptist church for the benefit of the Scotch Plains Public Library. The affair has been in charge of William Ward.

The annual Thanksgiving services of the Baptist church will be held tomorrow night at which the Rev. Raymond E. Marshal, pastor of the Methodist church, will make an address. A silver offering will be taken, the proceeds to be devoted to the Red Cross. For the benefit of Fanwood people, the stage will leave the borough postoffice at 7:45.

The Thanksgiving services at School No. 1 will be held tomorrow afternoon and will include a sketch, "Miles Standish," besides a number of recitations. The different characters in the sketch will be taken by students of the sixth, seventh and eighth grades.

William Stanbery, who has been a resident here nearly all his life, removed yesterday to Plainfield and has taken up his residence on Somerset street. He lived in the borough, where he was born, until seven years ago, when he removed to Scotch Plains at the death of his parents, to live with his grandfather. At his death he came in possession of the Stanbery homestead, one of the historic landmarks of this section, and recently sold it to Frank Keel, of Plainfield.

Frank Keel, of Plainfield, who recently purchased the old Stanbery homestead and surrounding land of ten acres, took possession of the place this week. The property is in one large plot and bordered by four streets, Mountain avenue, Park avenue, Cook avenue and Forest road. He will cut the land up into building lots and probably cut through several streets.

Joseph Maloney, aged 26 years, a patient at the Bonnie Burn Sanitorium for some time, died at that institution Saturday, after a long illness. His body was removed to Elizabeth, where he had lived all his life. The funeral will be held from his late home on Oak street.

Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler, of Cascitor N. Y., have been spending several days in the borough, where they spent the summer.

Rutgers Neilson, who is a student at the Journalistic School of New York University, has been elected president of the Scoop Club, an organization of students of the school. He is a senior and will be graduated in June after completing the course in three years.

All Saints' Protestant Episcopal church will hold the usual Thanksgiving services and donations of groceries and eatables of all kinds are asked for the poor. Kindly send such donations to the church on Wednesday afternoon or on Thursday morning before the service.

Somerville

The various committees from the fire companies have formed a permanent athletic association, with these officers: J. Edgar Griggs, of the Central H. and L. Co., president; Frederick Von Wagoner, of No. 1 Engine Co., vice president; H. E. Durham, secretary, and John W. Hardgrove, treasurer. Bowling teams have been formed and several matches have been rolled. It is the desire of the companies to establish a baseball league for the coming season, and also to further other lines of sport throughout the department.

Harry Leonard, of the office force in the local Public Service Corporation branch, has been promoted and placed in charge of getting new business in the central branch of the business in the Somerville district.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Burch, of East Cliff street, entertained over the week-end Miss Florence Durham, Miss Mary Steinmacher, George Andres, of Milltown, and Elwood Gunther, of New Brunswick.

The Somerset County Holstein-Friesian Association will hold a sale of registered stock tomorrow at the Vanderne Farm. Several breeders will have about sixty-five head of stock on the market, all consigned.

A class of eight were initiated in the third and fourth degrees at the regular meeting of Raritan Valley Grange, No. 153, held last evening at Grange Hall, South Branch. Among them were William P. Bowman, Dr. and Mrs. Whiting, Mrs. Merril, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hamilton and Mon. Joseph S. Frelinghuysen and Mrs. Frelinghuysen. A delegation from Riverside Grange, of Three Bridges, was present and assisted in the degree work. John T. Cox, secretary of the State Grange, presided. Remarks were made by the new members.

Frederick L. Purcell is in Allentown, Pa., for a week.

Thomas P. Hornby and family moved to Easton, Pa., yesterday. Mr. Hornby is now in business there.

Mrs. John Parker and son, Alvin, spent last week with Brooklyn relatives.

Miss Anna Hayles spent last week in Newark.

Miss Margaret McGowan, of Jersey City, is visiting her aunt, Miss Margaret Killiger, of Somerset street.

Miss Margaret McWilliams is spending a month with her sister, Mrs. Benjamin McNally, of Trenton.

John Kolb spent the week-end in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Newell, of Green Knoll, moved to the Stillwell apartments last week, where they expect to spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Cron spent last week in Frederick, Md., and Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sutphen, who has been visiting her son, George R. Sutphen, has returned to her home in Chicago.

The Somerset County Past Councilors' Association of the Jr. O. U. A. M. met Saturday evening in the chambers of Martinsville Council, No. 290, at Martinsville. The subject for the evening was "Our Nation's Thanksgiving."

Mrs. Henry Rupert, of Belham, N. Y., is visiting her sister, Mrs. John C. Thatcher, of East Millstone.

Rev. and Mrs. Edwin E. Calverley of Arabia, spent the week-end with Rev. and Mrs. Roy E. Vale.

Miss Nellie Ternune, of Harlingen is visiting Mrs. Harry Campbell, of New York.

Mrs. Mary Wyckoff, of Harlingen is visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wyckoff, near Skillman.

Mrs. Sarah E. Sheldon, who has been in California for a month, has returned to her home on West Cliff street.

PATROLMAN M'CARTHY GIVES UP POLICE JOB

Cornelius McCarthy resigned Saturday night as a member of the police department, and it was announced yesterday that his resignation had been accepted by the police board. McCarthy had been a member of the local force for the past six years. He was said to have been facing charges before the police board, and that when given the privilege of resigning he stepped out.

"Trade-marked" articles—things sold by NAME or DISTINGUISHING and IDENTIFYING BRAND—must be kept at the highest standard of quality. The VALUE must never vary. For a maker to "cheapen" such an article would be to throw away the prestige he had fought so hard, and advertised so effectinvely, to gain.

Postmaster George A. Schmidt, while driving along Sterling boulevard, near the old stone schoolhouse, Monday, spied two handsome does which gazed at him from the roadside. As he started to approach the deer they were off like a flash and quickly disappeared from view. It is believed that they escaped from private preserve.

A barn dance will be given in the Improvement Hall tomorrow night, under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

A Thanksgiving Day service will be held at the chapel Thursday morning.

HE TALKED A LITTLE GEORGE ADE ENGLISH

When Joseph Matallo, an Italian was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of being drunk it looked like he was up against a serious proposition, because he could not speak English well, and was therefore unable to understand the charge against him or testify in his own behalf. Judge DeMeza asked the defendant several questions which he answered as best he could but he could not give an account of himself. The helplessness of the man appealed to the court, and the judge finally asked: "If I'll turn you loose will you go home" little expecting that the defendant would understand. "O, sure," was the prompt reply in perfectly good George Ade English. This was about the extent of the Italian's vocabularly, but it was sufficient. A policeman was told to turn the man's nose toward South Plainfield, where he lives and works, and give him a shove.

POOR MAN NOT ABLE TO PAY WIFE, JUDGE RULES

When is a person poor, was a question that Judge William De Meza was called upon to decide in official capacity as judge of the Plainfield police court, this morning, in the case of Overseer of the Poor, represented by S. S. Swackhamer, against John Snyder. The complaint was that Snyder had failed to pay his wife alimony to the extent of $3 a week for the past few weeks, and the overseer wanted him ordered to resume payments. Judge De Meza held that the man was the poorer of the two, as he is out of employment at the present time and his wife has an income of $20 a week from her position and that of her children. He put Snyder under a bond of $300 to appear when wanted and notified the overseer that the man would be made to pay the $3 a week when he went back to work.

Anti-Air Craft Shells.

Special shells have to be used in anti-air craft guns, for the ordinary shell fired into the air cannot be seen in its flight, and the gunner would have no idea whether he went near his target or not. So "tracer" shells are used in anti-air craft guns.

This shell leaves a trail of smoke by day and fire by night, so that its flight can clearly be seen, and the gunner is able to observe how far off his target he is.

The "tracer" has in its base an inflammable composition which is fired as the shell leaves the gun. The actual base of the shell has in it a number of holes, through which the smoke streams as the shell makes its way through the air. At night a firework attachment to the base of the shell takes the place of the smoke composition.

The shell itself is a high explosive shrapnel—that is to say, it is a shell with a thick steel high explosive head and a thin steel body filled with bullets. When it bursts the flying fragments of thick steel from the head smash up the aeroplane or Zeppelin, while the flying bullets kill or wound the aviators.—Pearson's.

The Greek Language.

In ancient times, before the conquest of Alexander the Great, there were many differences in the dialects spoken in different parts of Greece. About 330 B. C. a common dialect, sometimes called Hellenistic Greek, arose. This is the Greek of the New Testament. By 800 A. D. the differences between the spoken and written language had become so great that the literary language was supplanted by the spoken. From this time the language has been further changed in grammar, inflection and by the introduction of loan words from other languages, notably from the Italian and Turkish. Since the Greek kingdom was established in 1830 there has been a movement toward the ancient idiom. This has resulted again in a gap between spoken and written Greek. The new movement has made such progress, however, that it is not too much to say that a modern newspaper would be now intelligible to Plato.

Glaciers of Nebraska.

Many of the physical features of eastern Nebraska were produced by sheets of ice that invaded the region during and after the earlier stages of the great ice age. At the opening of the glacial epoch the great Keewatin glacier spread southward and covered large parts of the Dakotas, Minnesota and Iowa and extended thence into eastern Nebraska, where it was probably several hundred feet thick. This first stage of glaciation was brought to a close by the melting of the ice in a warmer interglacial time or stage—the Aftonian. A remarkable assemblage of animals invaded the region after the ice had disapepared, and the bones and teeth of many of these animals have been found in the Aftonian deposits of western Iowa. The late Professor Samuel Calvin identified the remains of horses, camels, stags, elephants, mastodons, mammoths and sloths.

Naming a Vest Size.

A curious item in the trade slang of hosiers is the term "pope's size," applied to vests. They classify the scale of chest measurements for these as: Small men's, 32 inches; slender men's, 34 inches; men's, 36 inches; pope's, 39 inches; out size, 42 inches.

The origin of this term, which has been current for nearly a century, was discussed some years ago in Notes and Queries, when it was stated on good authority that it had no connection with the successors of St. Peter.

It appears that the head of an old firm of west end hosiers, Messrs Pope & Plante, ordered this size to be made specially for his own personal use, and the manufacturer called it after him for want of a better name.—London Tatler.

Brummel's Friends' Wardrobe.

In George IV.'s wardrobe were found many things that could not be offered for sale—countless bundles of women's love letters, women's gloves and locks of women's hair. These were destroyed. And 500 pocketbooks came to light, all containing sums of money—£10,000 in all was thus collected. For the king was a great hoarder and yet systematic in his hoarding. He carried the catalogue of his wardrobe in his head and could, it is said, call for anything at any moment. He would have made an ideal curator of a museum.—London Chronicle.

A Geographical Superstition.

Durazzo owes its name to superstition, for it was originally called Epidamnus up to the time of its capture by the Romans, from whom it received its present name on the ground that the old title sounded like an evil omen to those in whose language "damnum" meant "loss."—London Standard.

APGAR CONSTRUCTION CO. LOWEST BIDDER

Will Probably Get Contract to Erect New School in Middlesex Boro.

At a meeting of the Middlesex Boro Board of Education last night in the Pierce School of Bound Brook, bids for the new Middlesex School were received and the contracts will be awarded Friday night. The lowest bidder was the Apgar Construction Company of Dunellen, who submitted an estimate of $21,485, while the highest bidder was E. T. Hand, of Plainfield, with $28,974. William Dennick, of this city was another bidder with $23,288. The lowest bidder for the wiring of the school was received from George Ord, of Plainfield, who sent in a bid of $665. Estimates for the plumbing of the structure were received from Frank Broshart, of Dunellen George Stillwell, of Perth Amboy; D. J. Galbraith, of Plainfield.

The contract calls for a two story brick and tile building, the first floor containing two class rooms, an auditorium, a room for the principle and one for the teachers. The second floor will be devoted entirely to three class rooms. The entire building will be 105.08 feet long and 33.08 feet deep and the estimated price will be about $26,000. The contract calls for the completion of the building on May 15, 191. The site chosen for the school will be on the Close far mnear Nelson Giles' residence.

The Board also recevied bids from the sale of $31,000 worth of bonds and the successful bidder was the Bound Brook National Bank who offered $102.625. The next highest was J. S. Ruppert, of Newark, who offered $102.04.

When the World Was New.

The world is biggest when we are young enough to conceive of the pasture as an empire and the city block as a republic. Time is longest when we are young enough to see a day as an epoch, a week as an era, a summer vacation by seaside or lake shore as eternity itself. As we grow older the world grows smaller, and so does time. Space and time are nothing for boy or man save as he holds measures for them in hand or in memory. The boy understands ten feet because that is three long strides, and ten years because he has just lived them. Now we have lived another ten and yet another, but the first ten were the longest and are the truest measure, for the more years we are granted the more scornful of the gift we grow, though the more insistent, too, in our demand for more.—Collier's Weekly.

Why the Genius Is Born.

It is a strange and perhaps sad fact that most men and women endowed with the finest sense and apprehension for good literature have no gift or talent for effective expression in letters, and it is as strangely and equally true that many of those who love music most cannot play any instrument or sing even the simplest song. The world is crowded with people who have the acutest eye for form, color, motion and linear grace who cannot either draw or paint.

And it is that he may serve all of these superior—and yet unfavored—people that the writer, the musician or the painter is born and equipped. At his best even a genius is only the involuntary mouthpiece, interpreter, illustrator of his time.—Minneapolis Journal.

Gargoyles of Notre Dame.

The gargoyles of Notre Dame are commonly associated with the mediaeval spirit and queer obsessions of old Paris. As a matter of fact, most of them were executed under the direction of Viollet le Duc when the cathedral was restored, no earlier than the middle of last century. Mr. Henry Hems, who is an authority on architectural subjects, declares that most of the gargoyles carved for Notre Dame at the time of the restoration were done by an Englishman named Frampton, "though I believe this fact is now remembered by very few."—Pall Mall Gazette.

The Frankness of Youth.

Callers were at the door and Bobbie was told to show them to the parlor. He did so, and while his mother was fixing herself up he sat there rather embarrassed. Presently glancing around the room, he said:

"Well, what do you think of our stuff, anyway?"—Kansas City Star.

WILSON WILL URGE PREPAREDNESS FIRST

Draft of Message to Congress is Approved by Members of Cabinet.

Washington, Nov. 23.—Convinced that the question of national preparedness is of such paramount importance to the country that it should not be overshadowed by any other problem of government, President Wilson is to devote his message to Congress on December 7 solely to it. The President laid the draft of the document before the Cabinet today. It met with complete approval and the final touches will be made. It was said at the White House that a second message is to follow dealing with general subjects. This probably will be delivered to Congress after the Christmas holidays.

President Wilson's supplemental message to Congress is expected to cover a "multiplicity" of subjects, chief among which will be a strong recommendation for the creation of merchant marine. Other subjects that will be discussed in the second message, it was indicated, are rural credits, legislation, amendment of the anti-trust laws to permit pooling agreements by American exporters, protective legislation against the dumping of European goods here after the war, and an amendment of the laws to give the government greater control over those who interfere with American commerce or attack American industries such as war supply factories or munition carrying ships.

MANY ATTEND SUPPER IN ST. JOSEPH'S HALL

The turkey supper given in St. Joseph's Hall last night for the benefit of the church was a success, a large sum being realized as profit. One hundred and fifty suppers were served from 5 until 9 o'clock, under the direction of Miss Katherine Conshay, who was the chairman of the committee. She was assisted by the following women of the church: Mrs. Hillaire Blatz, Mrs. A. E. Kenney, Mrs. John A. Bailey, Mrs. J. Harper, Mrs. George Aller, Mrs. Harry Mills, Mrs. George Giddis, Mrs. E. Conway, and the Misses Anna Cooper, Ella Mullin, Stella Frasier, Helen and Nora McDonough, Katherine, Anna and Dorothy Howe.

It Pays to Secure a Tenant Who Pays.

The uncertain sort of tenant is easy to find. He is always answering the call of the window sign of "To Let." He is easy to please. Even a rather high rental does not frighten him away.

But the Stay-and-Pay tenant is not so easy to secure. He is surer of what he wants. He does not take the first house, or apartment, or store that he finds. He watches and answers "To Let" Ads.

MONDAY AFTERNOON CLUB STUDIES RUSSIAN ART

The art department of the Monday Afternoon Club held an interesting meting in the parish house of the Congregational church yesterday afternoon, a paper prepared by Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, and read by Mrs. H. D. Hibbard, on "The Kremlin: Its History, Architecture and Interior Decoration," proving of unusual merit. During the talk, stereopticons, showing views of Russia, as taken by Mr. Honeyman, were shown. Later several members of the club who had visited Moscow and other parts of the country brought curios and photographs of that great empire.

Next Monday an informal meeting will be held during which Professor Stuart Tyson, of Princeton University will address the club and their friends on "The Value of Modern Critical Study of the Bible." Mr Tyson is a speaker of usuaual merit many local people recalling his talks at Grace church parish house in this city during the Lenten season of last year.

HENRY A. WISE WOOD TO ADDRESS CHURCHMEN

H. A. Wise Wood, chairman of Conference Committee on National Preparedness, who is to speak on that subject at the Men's Club, of Grace church, at their beefsteak dinner to be held at the parish house tomorrow night, addressed the Empire State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution on the same subject last Saturday evening at the Waldorf Astoria. Mr. Wise Wood has delivered many strong addresses before the New York public recently and the members of the Men's Club and their friends are looking forward with great anticipation to his coming visit. All men who are interested in this most important subject are urged to take advantage of this opportunity.

Rev. J. R. Atkinson, former dean of the Cathedral, Atlanta, Ga., who the committee have been fortunate enough to secure for that evening, needs no introduction as his unusual ability as a speaker is well known.

Seats for the dinner can be secured by communicating at once with W. L. Tallamy, 118 East Sixth street. Those unable to attend the dinner will be welcome to hear the address which will begin at 8 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Gwyer, of Chicago, are visiting Mrs. Gwyer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Thompson, of Belvidere avenue. Mr. Gwyer is associated with Hodgson Brothers, contractors, of Chicago.

WINDING THE CLOCK.

Follow This System and You May Get More Accurate Time.

You cannot secure the best services from a good watch or clock unless you know how to wind them so as to cause the least wear and irregularity in their delicate machinery.

A watch should be wound at the same time every day. If allowed to run down or even almost do so and then wound up until it will not wind any further it cannot do as perfect work as a watch that is not allowed to run to its full capacity or wound up until it is as tight as it can be made.

If a watch is wound both morning and evening at about the same hour and the key is given only enough turns to wind it a little less than half what it could be wound the watch will run more evenly, wear much longer and keep more accurate time than if it is wound up tight once a day.

A watch spring will last longer if it is wound when there is the least extreme of temperature, and morning and evening are, of course, the best in that respect.

It is more or less dangerous to wind a watch during a heavy electric storm, and it is best to avoid winding while on an electric car.

An eight day clock should be wound twice a week at as regular periods as possible to secure the best results. Never allow the clock to run down, and if possible do not wind it until it is tight.

Learn by experience just how many turns of the key it takes to wind the clock to run eight days and then when half of the week is gone wind the clock by giving the key just half as many turns as it would require to wind it all the way. More accurate time will be had and it will avoid placing any of the parts in a strain, which is frequently the cause of good clocks giving out in some particular before they have served half as long as they should.

A little attention to this advice will lengthen the life of any watch or clock and make it a better timepiece.—New York American.

A FAMOUS MISER.

Cooke Died Wealthy After a Life of Petty Saving and Trickery.

Thomas Cooke, known as the "Islington miser," left at his death more than $300,000. His whole life was one of penury, petty saving and petty trickery. He made it a habit in order to get meals for nothing to fall in a pretended fit in front of a house at dinner time and on recovering he would naturally be invited to share the meal, which he always did after the proper amount of protestation. Often he would pretend to these kind people that they had saved his life, would make a great fuss over them and tell them he intended to remember them or their children in his will.

One man, a poor relation, occasionally sent him small presents of butter. This angered Cooke, who said to him: "Why send me such driblets, you who are to get thousands and thousands at my death? Send me a firkin." The firkin and several more were sent, but neither this legacy nor any of the others came to reality.

Like many men shrewd in petty ways, he was easily deceived in matters out of his own line. Thus once when his horse was sick he was too mean to pay a horse doctor and asked advice of a quack, who told him he must take thirty onions, drill a hole through each, put them on a string, put the necklace around the horse's neck and let it stay there. The expense of thirty onions was too much; he bought fifteen, and when, after many days, they had served their purpose, he took them to the servant and ordered her to make an onion porridge for the day's dinner.—Exchange.

Homemade Toothpowder.

An effective tooth powder which can be always recommended is made as follows: One ounce of precipitated chalk, half an ounce of carbonate of soda, half an ounce of powdered orris root. Mix well together and pass three times through a sieve. Place in a bottle or in tins until required for use. The carbonate of soda removes the grease from the teeth and prevents decay, and the powdered orris root keeps the gums healthy.

Resigned to It.

Taking oneself too seriously is supposed to be an American trait. At any rate, it is found in America. The late Edward Everett Hale in "We, the People," cites a remark of Thomas Carlyle apropos of this habit.

Margaret Fuller had perhaps taken herself the least bit too seriously. She had said that she had determined "to accept the universe."

"She had better," said Carlyle.

BOROUGH G. O. P. PLAN FOR PERMANENT QUARTERS

A well-equipped permanent headquarters for the North Plainfield Republican Club now seems assured. At a largely attended meeting of club members last night, the financial arrangements were satisfactorily made and a meeting was called for next week, when it will be decided what equipment is needed, and the furniture will be ordered. The club rooms will be located in the building at 80 Somerset street, now occupied as temporary quarters, and an effort will be made to secure as many new members as possible. There are now forty names on the roll. When the headquarters are arranged all voters will be invited to visit the rooms and avail themselves of all privileges.

BOROUGH SENIORS PLAN TRIP TO WASHINGTON

At a meeting of the senior class of North Plainfield High School yesterday afternoon Principal Albert Earley presented a novel scheme, which if it materializes, will be of great educational value to the pupils. The speaker reported that different schools in this vicinity had raised money annually, the entire class then taking a three or four-day trip to Washington to become acquainted with places of interest at the government Capitol.

The proposition was favorably received by the borough pupils. To conduct such a trip would mean hard work on the part of each pupil, as the trip would cost approximately $300. Several schemes have been devised one of which is to charge a small admission to the Christmas entertainment, which is always presented by the graduating class. A class meeting was held this noon to consider the question carefully.

PLAINFIELDER BEST MAN.

Walter H. Sharkey, of this city was best man at the marriage of his cousin, William McGloin, to Miss Sadie Brown, in New York this afternoon. Mr. McGloin was formerly a resident of Plainfield, and he is well known in this city.

THANKSGIVING TOGS FOR MEN

We all want to be well-dressed, especially at holiday seasons.

Every man, no matter what his position in life, wants to be well dressed on Thanksgiving Day. It's natural—just old human nature asserting herself. "If you want to be happy—be well dressed."

You cannot be wholehearted in the joyous Thanksgiving spirit if you are clothes conscious.

We are better prepared to supply your clothing needs this year than ever before.

Every garment you buy here assures you the best quality, the newest styles and the lowest prices.

Reading Character is always interesting, but a study of a tradesman's business character as indicated by his advertising is even more interesting and always profitable.

Just glance over the advertisements in the Plainfield Daily Press of the merchants whose places you know.

Does not the merchant write his store character into his advertising? Is it not possible to form a pretty good idea of the store from the manner in which it makes its announcements in the newspapers?

Merchants are coming to realize more and more that when they write an advertisement they are painting a business portrait of themselves—indicating their business character.

They are more careful in their statements, more modest in their language and pay more attention to typography and illustration.

Advertising is prepared now-a-days more carefully than ever before and there is more of it every day.

And by the same token it is going to be more interesting and profitable to the readers.

You Touch a Magic Button When You Become a "Want Advertiser."

Our day is the day of "touching buttons."

A President presses a button in Washington, and a titanic explosion, thousands of miles away, weds the two great seas.

We are fond, nowadays, of accomplishing big effects with simple processes.

And so the "button-pressing" magic applies to the "little things" of life, as well as to the big episodes.

When you become a "want advertiser" you press a MAGIC BUTTON—and the influence is felt in the homes and business places of the city.

Your quest becomes of interest to the people who are able to help you accomplish it.

If you seek work, and "press the button" of Plainfield Daily Press want advertising publicity, your quest becomes one of personal interest to the people who need you. The same law operates in the working out of every "want ad task."

For classified advertising makes the whole city your market; makes the right people your audience; delivers your message to all people to whom it could have any interest or importance.

NEW PRESIDENT FOR GOLF CLUB

Walter Whitehead Elected to Presidency of the Park Links in Borough.

CLUB IS PROSPERING

Now Has Largest Membership, and Is in Best Financial Condition in Its History—J. A. Wilson, Vice-President—Six Trustees Chosen.

Walter Whitehead was elected president of the Park Golf Club at the annual meeting, last night. J. Alexander Wilson was re-elected vice president, Ferdinand L. Titsworth was chosen secretary, and Harry H. Woodland was re-elected treasurer. President-elect Whitehead succeeds Herbert L. Moodey, and Mr. Titsworth succeeds W. E. Lough.

A new board of trustees was elected, composed of John A. Steiner, Ray M. Smith, William P. Taylor, Ralph G. Morse, R. V. Carpenter and Frank W. Thompson.

Reports read showed the club to have the largest membership, and to be in the best financial condition in its history. There was a large increase in the number of active members this year, and the introduction of a waiting list to curtail the growth in this direction promises to become a necessity in the not very distant future.

Many improvements that were made to the clubhouse and grounds during the 1915 season were reported, and more will be made next year.

Reports from the various committees contained many valuable suggestions which will be introduced next year.

KNIGHTS BOWL FOR POULTRY.

An endurance bowling contest will be held at the Columbus Club tomorrow night, starting at 8 o'clock, and lasting until 2 a. m. Prize bowling for turkeys and chickens will be an additional feature.

VIKINGS SUBSTITUTED FOR ELIZABETH TEAM

Strong Bayonne Eleven is Engaged to Play on Cricket Field.

The Elizabeth A. A. yesterday cancelled the game that its manager had scheduled for Thanksgiving Day with the Holy Cross Club, of this city. The Vikings, of Bayonne, have been booked to appear on Cricket Field in place of the team from Betsytown.

The Vikings are old rivals of Holy Cross. The Bayonne footballers have played here four times, and every game was spicy. The Vikings played here twice in 1912, once in 1913, and once last year. Holy Cross has won three of the four games played, but all were close and stubbornly contested, especially the one last year.

The Vikings, who in 1912 bitterly renounced the Plainfield eleven's claim to the State championship, has lost but one game this fall, and that was last Sunday, to the Union A. A., of Jersey City, the score being 13 to 7. The Unions are rated as one of the best teams in or around Hudson county. The Vikings a week ago last Saturday scored a 9 to 7 triumph over the Franklin A. A., of Newark, a team that defeated Holy Cross here earlier in the season.

LOCAL FOOTBALL ELEVEN AT PRINCETON THURSDAY

The Apollo football team will go to Princeton Thursday to play the Colored Y. M. C. A. eleven of that place. They will use the big transfer bus, leaving Plainfield avenue and West Fourth street at 11 a. m., and returning from Princeton at 6:30 p. m. The Plainfield players who will make the trip are: Tune Cline, A. Madin, S. Somerville, G. Robinson, R. Green, Simpson, L. Gibbs, A. Grease, H. Pollard, P. Colman, P. Moore, N. Clay, E. Ford, C. Barnes, B. Daniels, and Manager Hobson.

Tonight—Jersey City at Rutherford, Hoboken at Elizabeth.

Astonishing scores were made last night by the Plainfield team of the Elks' Senior League. The local five made the towering totals of 1015, 927 and 977 on the Newark Elk alleys, and won all three games.

Newark rolled ten-pins good enough to win nine matches out of ten. The home pinners scored 970, 913 and 966, averaging 949.2. Plainfield averaged an even 973. The triple victory lifted Plainfield up two places in the league standing, the 885 representatives now being seventh.

What little consolation Newark took out of the series was the continued fine work of Jack Speary, who is going great guns this year. Speary, averaging 206.2, is now only 7 pins behind the individual average leader of the league. His mark for 12 games is 203.3.

Bill Causbrook and Quake Vail blazed the way for their fellow Plainfielders. Quake rolled 236, 199 and 189 for an average of 208, while Causbrook averaged 206 with marks of 204, 170 and 244.

Both the team total set up in the first game, and Causbrook's 244 in the third tilts are records for the Plainfield quintet this season.

Plainfield had a margin of 45 pins in the first game, 14 in the second, and 11 in the third. The last two fights were heart-breakers, and caused intense excitement to the very end.

Weingarth averaged 202. Among the high scores recorded were Frank Blatz's 205, Kiely's 201, Van Ness' 202, Wagner's 209, Speary's 214 and 213, Weingarth's 214 and 201, Causbrook's 204 and 244, and Vail's 236. Both Vail and Waldorf had 199 games.

The scores:

HOPPE AND COCHRAN LEFT.

Hoppe and Cochran were the winners yesterday at the continuation of the professional 18.2 billiard tournament, which winds up tonight in the music hall of the New York Theatre. Cochran defeated Yamada by a single point in the afternoon game and Hoppe had twenty-five points the better of it in the evening session, when he met George Sutton. Hoppe and Cochran meet tonight in the final.

SPORTS REVIVAL AT HOPE CHAPEL

Y. M. A. to Be Reinforced by Addition of New Members From Boys' Club.

WILL PRACTICE TONIGHT

Jack Martin Will Coach Squad—Dave Wardrop Chosen Manager—First Game to Be Played Thursday Night.

Hope Chapel's athletic forces, which have been on the wane since some of the older boys dropped from the ranks, will be rejuvenated tonight, when more than a dozen of the leading Boys' Club athletes will be taken into the Young Men's Association, from which the teams that represent the Chapel are chosen.

Supporters of the Hope teams have been looking forward for some time to tonight's meeting of the Y. M. A., which, it is expected, will mark increased interest in the teams and a return of the athletic successes that formerly were Hope Chapel's.

The first practice of the basketball squad will be held after the meeting tonight. Jack Martin, the big league ball player, will coach the players again this year, and hopes to build a winning combination to take the place of the big team which a couple of years ago held the court championship of Plainfield.

Dave Wardrop has been made manager of the team, and will start booking games immediately. The Green has in former winters played through a schedule on which the leading church teams of this part of the State appeared.

Among the leading athletes of the Boys' Club who will join the Y. M. A. this evening are Albert Porter, Henry Anderson, George Hunter, Theodore Snyder, Jack Carmichael, William Marsh, George King and James Heron.

The team's first game will be Thursday night against the Plainfield A. A.

IMPERIALS DROP PAIR OF GAMES TO ST. MICHAEL'S

BRUGGY HIT .301 IN STATE LEAGUE; O'ROURKE HIT .274

Frank Bruggy was the leading hitter on the Troy Club, according to the official averages of the New York State League, published yesterday. Bruggy's mark for fifty-four games was .301. He was at bat 186 times scored thirty-one runs and corraled fifty-six hits.

The best average on the Troy Club was .272 by Genest. Frank O'Rourke, another Union county boy held an average of .274 with the Wilkes-Barre Club. O'Rourke played in 116 games. He is credited with 413 at bats, 60 runs and 113 hits. Kay, of Binghamton, was the leading hitter with .378.

VALLEYS PLAY ELIZABETH.

Inasmuch as the expected football game between the Triangles and the Valleys, tentatively arranged for Thanksgiving Day, afternoon at the Newark Peps' grounds, was called off because the Triangles finally decided that it would be impossible for them to cancel a previous engagement, the Valleys have booked the Elizabeth A. A. for the date. The Union county team has given the Valleys two interesting games and another is looked for on Thursday. It is believed that the game between the Valleys and the Triangles will be staged Sunday, December 5.

Bettering the tournament record twice in one night was the accomplishment of the Gray team of the Columbus Club head-pin tournament last night. The team rolled 460 in the first game and 456 in the third, winning two games from the Greens. The previous record was 451, also held by the Gray team, which is leading the tournament.

The Grays had an excellent opportunity to touch the 50 mark in the last game. The team, by a display of exceptional head-pin bowling, was ahead of that figure until the final inning, when every member of the team fell down.

The Grays had a lead of 53 pins over the Greens in the first game, but fell to 351 in the second, the Greens winning by 48 points. A difference of 74 sticks separated the teams in the final.

Joe Sullivan rolled 105; Connie Regan, 101, and Jim Strappe, 100.

P. H. S. BASKETEERS HOLD STIFF WORKOUT

With the football season at the Plainfield High School over, with the exception of the Alumni game Thanksgiving Day, Coach Patch is turning his attention to basketball, and yesterday afternoon he and Captain "Bill" Wheelan put a large squad through a hard drill. The first game comes on December 10, and by that time practically an entirely new team with Wheelan the only last year's regular, will have to be moulded together, but a fast combination should be formed from the fellows that reported yesterday.

A majority of those who were on the court have had previous experience, and showed good work during a drill of passing, shooting, and following up. Among those out were the following: William Wheelan, Bernard Miller, Carlton Dunham, Sheldon Coudray, Albert Dealaman, Samuel Butler, William Daniels, James Noonan, Robert McDowell, Arthur Venable, William Simns and Louis Starkweather.

WHO P. H. S. WILL PUT AGAINST HOLY CROSS

Star End From Big Pt. Deposit, Md., School, to Play on the Team.

That game between Holy Cross and a team composed practically entirely of P. H. S. players has raised considerable discussion among certain circles as to whether or not the High School players will imperil their amateur standing by playing against the club team. Ralph Patch, the High School coach, and other members of the school faculty, do not approve of the game being played, but arrangements are going ahead for the game.

The date will probably be moved ahead a week and the game played on Cricket Field, Saturday afternoon of this week. Donald Updike, last year's High School football manager, will have charge of the school players, and among those who will probably compose the squad are Marenght and Davies, two crack Westfield High School players; Hooper, Miller, Daniels, Alpaugh, Noonan, Pennock, Snyder, Mutnick and Van Hoesen, of P. H. S., and a crack player from the Tome School, who will hold down one of the ends. Several of the other High School players have been approached and may join the others. "Doc" Doyle, guardian of the Holy Cross interests, will have his strongest lineup ready for the schoolboys, as the club team expects no easy game.

SLOMAN IS COMING CHAMPION

Pacific Coast Lad Sets New Interscholastic 440 Yard Mark.

Apparently the Pacific Coast is developing another cinder path star in Frank Sloman, the youth who recently broke the American interscholastic record for the quarter mile by running that distance in 48 1-5 seconds. An idea of this schoolboy's speed can be gathered from the fact that, although thousands of 440 yard dashes have been run in the last fifteen years, the record has been broken but three times.

In 1901 C. Long set the time at 50 1-5 seconds, where it remained until Ted Meredith cut it down to 48 4-5 seconds in 1912 while attending the Mercersberg academy. Three years later Sloman cut three-fifths of a second off Meredith's time, and if he continues to improve as Ted did after graduation from scholastic ranks the California lad will eventually rank with the great quarter milers of athletic history, including Wendell Baker, Maxey Long, Reidpath, Lon Myers, Burke, Moulton, Taylor, Downs and Meredith.

NEW BILLIARD GAME POPULAR

Restricted Straight Rail Competition Pleases Fans.

The new restricted straight rail game has made a hit in at least two cities. First, Chicago staged a match between those young stars of the balk line firmament, Jack Schaefer and Welker Cochran. Both players were handicapped in that they were forced to make a three cushion carom at the fiftieth count of every long run. Schaefer won, scoring 1,188 points in four nights to Cochran's 987.

The game proved a revelation to the fans and way voted a success. The veteran roomkeeper, William Mussey, was so pleased with the experiment that he proposes to stage a tournament in the near future. George Sutton and Percy Collins also played a restricted straight rail match for the benefit of Indianapolis fans, who turned out en masse and were delighted with the revivification of the good old game plus the handicap.

TRAP SHOOTERS ARE "FUSSY"

As Careful In Selecting Guns as Players Are In Picking Bats.

Trap shooters are getting as fussy about their guns as ball players about their bats. A gun that fits is fully as important to a trap shooter as a bat that suits to a ball player. It is said by a man that has made a careful study of the subject that less than one in ten of the guns sold to trap shooters fits its owner. The result is failure to shoot up to natural ability.

In England there are many shooting schools, for the most part conducted by manufacturers. The pupils are not only taught to shoot, but are also fitted with guns suited to their physical characteristics. A man having short arms and a short neck cannot expect to shoot well with a gun built for a man of giraffe proportions.

Tonight—Holy Trinity vs. Episcopal.

High-class pinning was seen in the Westfield Sunday-School League match between the Congregational and Methodist teams last night, the former quintet grabbing the first two games with totals of 891 and 939, and the Mets cornering the final with an aggregate of 944.

Many corpulent scores were returned. Perry, of the Methodists, hung up 218 and 222, for an average of 201.2. Fred Hegeman, anchor on the Congregationals, shot 235 in the second tile, and averaged 206.2. Cowperthwaite and Randall, of the same team, bowled 213 and 206, respectively, while Baker, of the other side, had one 204 game.

NOT LIKELY TO BE A GAME WITH RAHWAY THIS SEASON

Chances of Plainfield High School hooking up with Rahway High School this year in the annual football fray seem rather slim, following a talk yesterday between Coach Ralph Patch, who has charge of the Red and Blue squad, and Coach W. E. Short of the Rahway aggregation.

The encounter was originally scheduled for last Saturday at Rahway, but was cancelled on account of the weather, and now Coach Short wants to play the game Thanksgiving Day, while Patch offers December 1 as the only date. The annual game with the Alumni is always held on Thanksgiving, and Mr. Patch does not feel that the established custom should be changed.

While many people will be disappointed not to see the two teams play this year, especially as it seems that the locals stand the best chance of carrying off the honors than they have had in a number of years, Mr. Patch's stand seems to be the only one for him to make.

PLAIN-COLOR CARPETS

Their Importance to Modern Schemes of Furnishing and Decoration

The increasing popularity of Carpets in plain colors is readily appreciated when the advantages afforded by this style of Floor Coverings are considered.

For decorative schemes which include fine tapestries, and figured upholsteries and draperies, the Plain-Color Carpet provides a wonderfully effective foundation—one of perfect balance, quiet dignity and elegance. Moreover, the unbroken surface of solid color seemingly increases the size of the room.

Conspicuous seams are avoided by the use of our Carpets in very wide widths, and the usual difficulty of obtaining the exact shade of color wanted is practically eliminated when choice is made from our complete stock of Plain-Color Carpets, which we are showing in more than

COACH DALY of the West Point eleven is out with the statement that he considers Captain Weyand of the Army the greatest tackle of the year. Weyand has played a consistently brilliant game since the start of the season. He is of the rangy type and exceptionally aggressive, and he protected his position strongly against the attack. Weyand is also one of the best offensive tacklers in the game this year. He is almost assured of a tackle position on the All American.

PRAISES CHANGES IN BASKETBALL

Authority Charles A. Dean Summarizes Changes In Code.

MORE FREEDOM FOR MEN.

Revised Laws Not as Strict as the Old A. A. U. Regulations, but More Severe Than Intercollegiate—Eliminate Trouble—Players Get More Leeway.

More leeway for the players, necessitating closer observation by the officials, more individual playing, less teamwork and fewer complications through various sets of rules, is the way Charles A. Dean, ex-president, member of the championship committee and chairman of the basketball committee of the Central Amateur Athletic union, summarizes the new rules and changes in basketball this year.

The new set of regulations, which have just been published, do away with the old intercollegiate rules, combining the latter with those of the A. A. U., making a volume of basketball laws that can be used by any A. A. U., Y. M. C. A., high school, college or university team in the country.

New Rules Eliminate Trouble.

In former years there were distinctive sets of rules—intercollegiate, A. A. U. and A. A. F.—each different from the other, to govern basketball. As a result many complications arose, the majority of players never knowing under what regulations they were playing. A play that was recognized in one set was known as a foul in another, thereby causing the game officials as well as the players plenty of trouble. Consequently the combining of the various sets of rules eliminates all such trouble.

"I am glad to see that some of the big athletic officials of the country have finally compiled a book that can be used by every basketball team," said Dean. "I took that proposition up with the various athletic authorities several years ago, but somehow or other they could not agree. Now I see they have finally accomplished that end, and I am sure it will be a great benefit to the game. Basketball is in reality the best indoor sport on the map, and if the public only realized that fact it would take just as much interest in the game as it does in baseball.

Players Get More Leeway.

"In analyzing the new set of rules I find that they are not as strict as the old A. A. U. regulations, but more severe than the old intercollegiate. However, they give a player more leeway than he has had at any time, and this is going to give the referee and umpire a lot more work than they have had formerly.

"Take, for instance, the personal foul rule. According to the new regulations, a player is allowed four personal fouls before he is disqualified and put out of the game. Under the old A. A. U. rules a referee or an umpire for the first offense could disqualify a player, and for the second offense the official had to remove the man. Consequently the new personal foul rule will prevent many a star player from being put out of the game just when he is needed most, because he has two more chances than he had formerly.

"Another rule that will necessitate more work on the part of officials is the one on the situation commonly known as 'three men in.' The rule reads that the fact that three players having their hands on the ball does not itself constitute a foul and that a foul is committed only when the third man 'charges in' and makes bodily contact with an opponent. As a result it will be up to the referee or umpire to judge whether the third player 'charged in' willfully or whether his coming into contact with the opponent was accidental. Often a player in going after the ball can hardly keep from bumping into an opponent, and such an instance would be accidental. However, that will be up to the referee to decide.

"A greater amount of individual playing and less team work will be the result of the new regulations. One of the rules that will bring this about is that regarding the dribble. Formerly a player after making a dribble could not shoot for the basket, but had to play the ball to another of his team mates, who could then shoot for the basket. Now the player who successfully makes a long dribble down the floor without being interfered with by any of his opponents can shoot for the basket without passing the ball to another player. Therefore many players no doubt will run the ball down the floor themselves and then shoot, instead of passing it back and forth among their teammates. This will break up much of the teamwork.

May Eliminate Roughness.

"Just how popular the new combined set of rules will prove remains to be seen in the coming season. I believe, however, they will eliminate a great deal of the unnecessary roughness in the game that comes when the players play their man instead of the ball. In fact, the new rules will teach them to play the ball more since they will have more leeway than formerly."

The new set of regulations for basketball were compiled by W. H. Ball, representing the Y. M. C. A.; G. T. Hepbron of the A. A. U. and O. Tower of the National Collegiate Athletic association.

FAMOUS FOOTBALL FUMBLES.

Mishandling of the Pigskin Has Cost Big Teams Many Games.

Fumbles have often played a leading part in football battles between Princeton and Yale. In 1889 Warren and Cowan of Princeton defeated the blue by making touchdowns from fumbles. In 1894 Louis Hinkey of Yale snatched up a loose ball and scored. Bass did the same thing for the blue in 1895, and Gould duplicated the feat in 1900. Then there was that run of Sam White's for Princeton in 1911.

One peculiar feature of this is that all but one of these men were playing at end for their eleven. Cowan was a tackle, as is Way, who made Yale's touchdown in this year's game with Princeton.

SYRACUSE TEAM RATED HIGH.

Portland Man Who Saw Game Says Princeton Should Have Lost.

Syracuse university should have defeated Princeton in their memorable 3—0 game this fall, according to C. L. Burton, a Portland (Ore.) man who is an authority on the gridiron game. He saw this and other football games.

"But for poor generalship on the part of Quarterback Meehan Syracuse would have beaten Princeton," said he. "Syracuse has a line averaging 185 pounds, and its offense is built around a 240 pound guard. If the Oregon Aggies plan to smother this big fellow I believe they can beat Syracuse when this eleven plays in Portland Dec. 1."

GIBSON, THE DWARF.

This Seventeenth Century Midget Won Fame as an Artist.

Purveyors of side show amusements are agreed, it is said, that dwarfs no longer may be counted upon to draw audiences, no matter how gifted these Liliputians may be. In Charles Stratton, known the world over by his pseudonim of Tom Thumb, this country furnished the most attractive dwarf that ever exploited his accomplishments and who, as stated by his sponsor in what was considered the most "stunning" advertising of the day, was "the delight of all the crowned heads of Europe" as well as of the uncrowned sovereigns of America.

Great as Tom Thumb was in his time, there were dwarfs perceding him that made most enviable reputations. Among these were Richard Gibson, age seventy-five at his death, July 23, 1690, and his widow, who died nineteen years later at the advanced age of eighty-nine. Gibson was a miniature painter—miniature in every sense of the phrase—as well as court dwarf to Charles I. of England, and his wife, Ann Shepherd, was court dwarf to Queen Henrietta Maria. Her majesty prompted a marriage between these two clever but diminutive persons, and the marriage proved a happy one. The little couple had nine children, five of whom lived to years of maturity and were of ordinary stature.

Gibson's works were valued, and one of them was the innocent cause of a tragical event. This painting represented the parable of the lost sheep and was highly prized by the king, who gave it in charge of Vandervoort, the keeper of the royal pictures. One day the king asked for this picture. Afraid or ashamed to say that he mislaid it, Vandervoort committed suicide by hanging. A few days after his death the picture was found in the spot where he had placed it. Gibson and his wife have, however, been excelled in brevity of stature, as the united height of the two was about seven feet.—Indianapolis News.

MEANING AND SAYING.

Lines of Good Writers That Mangle the Laws of Grammar.

The late and delightful Professor Tom Lounsbury of Yale always maintained that usage made language and his contempt for critics who were strict constructionists was far from concealed; he rather rejoiced in it. Presumably, therefore, he would say that a couple of sentences, which we are about to quote, were all right. They are justified by his standard—they convey to the reader the idea the writer had in mind. For what else is an article written?

Here are the cases, accidentally happened upon in casual reading. Arthur Christopher Benson in his series of essays on "Fear," writing of Sam Johnson, says, "No biographer likes, and seldom dares to," etc. Now you know what he means, but what he says is that "no biographer seldom dares," and, untying the negative, this means that a biographer usually dares, and that is exactly what Mr. Benson didn't mean.

The other quotation is from George A. Birmingham's clever travel sketch, "From Dublin to Chicago." In this, telling of the slovenness with which so many American hotels and restaurants fill the order for meals, he says the guest could smoke a cigarette "between each course." There, too, the reader knows what is meant, but in fact you can't get "between each." It must be between each and something else. Can you get between a stone wall or between noon, or between us in the shade, or, indeed, between the soup? What he should have said to complete his English was "between each course and the next."

In both instances every reader knew what the writer intended to convey. Would the professor have pronounced these breaks justifiable? They are far from being exceptional. You can find them in the standard authors.—Hartford Courant.

She Knew Better.

Ostensible Head of the Family—Maria, there was a canvasser at the office today who wanted to sell me a work on etiquette and good behavior. Teaches it in six lessons. I told him I'd ask you if you thought we wanted it.

Real Head—It's all humbug, John. It can't be taught in six lessons. I've been trying to teach it to you for sixteen years and haven't succeeded yet. —Exchange.

Photography.

Photography was discovered in this way: Daguerre was lying on a couch in his attic abode and saw a sunbeam fall upon a spot in the darkened room. He was startled to see the objects on the street vividly portrayed in all their colors—in fact, a panorama of the incidents outside. He studied the subject, and his search in the mystery was the beginning of all that is beautiful in photography today.

A Hint.

"Is that an eight day clock?" said the young man as the timepiece struck the midnight hour.

"Well," replied the sweet young thing with an unconcealed yawn, "why don't you stay a little longer and find out?" —Yonkers Statesman.

Very Serious.

She—Are your intentions toward the widow really serious? He—They are. I intend, if possible, to get out of her clutches.—Boston Transcript.

The quest for the Competent Worker is important enough to justify a real campaign of classified advertising in the Plainfield Daily Press—although it does not often require a very long campaign.

HOW THANKSGIVING DAY CAME TO US

Thought Came From William Bradford, First Governor of Plymouth, Mass.

In every home in America preparations are under way for the observance of Thanksgiving Day on Thursday. It is the day set for general recognition of our blessings and for expression of joy in our happy condition as a people. There is much this year to be thankful for as a nation. The wheels of industry are humming at their height, we have garnered a record harvest, and peace, the blessing that has forsaken so many nations, is still with us.

Thanksgiving Day is peculiarly an American institution. It is not borrowed, as are so many of our holidays, from ancient traditions of the older world or from ecclesiastical calendars. While it has a basis of religious belief in the protective grace of an over-ruling Providence, it has gained its place of supremacy because it stands for the ideal of the community out of which our great republic has grown. At every step in the evolution this is apparent as the controlling impulse.

The beginning of the real Thanksgiving Day came from the heart and mind of William Bradford, the first Governor of Plymouth. Grateful for the rich harvest of 1216, after a long period of privations and semi-starvation, this good man proclaimed a day of thanksgiving for December 13, old style calendar, of that year. Then did the royal bird of our Thanksgiving dinner tables make his legitimate entrance into the theatre of action.

The good Governor, having fixed upon the day of thanksgiving for the Pilgrims, sent four stout warriors with guns in search of game. These early hunters returned at night staggering under the weight of wild turkeys, sufficient to meet the wants of Plymouth for a week. To them were added the goodies concocted by the thrifty housewives of the colony, and when the 13th of December dawned, all was in readiness for the first real American Thanksgiving ever known.

And that was not all. After Elder Brewster's sermon in the church—a matter of two or three hours—dinner followed, and the scent of its goodness seems to have been wafted into the depths of the forest, for in the midst of the feast the Indian yell was heard, and a party of a hundred friendly redskins, under King Massasoit, appeared, bringing with them great haunches of venison. With all this supply of food on hand, it is not strange to learn that the day of Thanksgiving lengthened into three, the feast being varied with psalm singing and exhortations; with war dances by the Indians; with military drill by stout Myles Standish's soldiery, and with various sports and pastimes of the more sober English kind.

This was the first Thanksgiving, and others followed more or less regularly down through the years. From Massachusetts the observance spread throughout New England, and later obtained national recognition. Washington proclaimed a day of thanksgiving following the successful ending of the War for Independence, and Lincoln did the same after the battle of Gettysburg. Thereafter the last Thursday in November has been designated from Washington, and a national holiday has become established.

It is recorded that on Thanksgiving Day, 1713, the Governor of Connecticut and the Kings commissioners were just preparing to fall upon the viands when it was announced in horror-stricken tones that the bear prepared for the occasion had been "shot on ye Lord's Day." At that dismal news the entire gathering declined to touch a morsel of the roast bear, and it was decided that the Indian who shot the animal should be whipped to the extent of 39 stripes and restore the price paid for the meat. Then, having inflicted a "just and righteous sentence on ye sinful heathen," the company fell upon the meal with clear consciences and quickly put it out of sight.

Mrs. Ann Wise is ill.

Elias Buchanan, who has been ill for a week from paralysis, is much improved.

The pupils of the High School have contributed $6 by free will offering toward the purchase of a new flag.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

The new bill at the Plainfield Theatre, opening yesterday for the first is full of good things. The head line act, "The Campfire Girls," numbering a company of eleven, made an instantaneous hit and had to respond to several encores. They present a distinctly new and novel singing and dancing act, chock full of ginger from start to finish. Eight of the company are girls and every one of them is a peach. A second big number is Connors and Foley, a clever pair of nimble-footed boys, who impersonate well-known dancers, past and present, including Pat Rooney, George Primrose, Barnard Granville, etc. The other four vaudeville numbers included Helen Pingree, billed as "That Comedienne," and who proved to be a clever character singer; Fenimore Cooper and company presenting the rip-roaring farce playlet, "When Uncle Comes Home," Harry Coleman, monologist, with a lot of good stuff, and Rae and Rubina, the singing gymnasts. Tomorrow night has been designated as Turkey Night at the Theatre as Manager Shannon has imported from local barnyards a fine flock of fowls and lucky patrons will be rewarded with either a turkey, a goose, a duck or a fine roasting chicken in honor of Thanksgiving. There will be no extra charge of admission, and the purchase of one ticket will probably bring the holder the foundation for a fine holiday dinner. Keep in mind that every bill at the Plainfield Theatre always includes the latest and best productions from the moving picture world including the Pathe semi-weekly and George Ade's screen versions in slang.

A QUESTION OF JUSTICE.

(From Newark Evening News.)

A great principle is at stake in the litigation now before the Court of Errors in which the Public Service and the city of Plainfield are the principals. Should the decision of the Supreme Court be sustained in holding that under the utility act the Public Service need no longer provide free lighting for the municipal offices, then every municipality that exacted special concessions from utility corporations as part of the bargain in granting consent to use the public streets would lose the benefits thus secured. Contracts supposed to be binding, under which utilities promised to provide certain services to cities and their inhabitants would be wiped out, and these services could not be ordered re-established by the Public Utility Commission.

The contention of the Public Service is that the public utility act of 1911, prohibiting undue and unreasonable discrimination, vitiated the contract with Plainfield for free lighting service for the city hall. The contract was a part of an agreement under which the city granted permission to the electric lighting concern to maintain poles, conduits and wires in the streets, and in return the company "covenanted and agreed" to light the city offices without charge "at any time or times hereafter."

Many such contract agreements and contract ordinances exist between public utility companies and municipalities in all parts of the State, and if the decision of the Supreme Court should be finally sustained then every special advantage received by the municipalities in return for granting privileges to the utilities would be voided. In Newark the trolley company would no longer be compelled to give transfers, to keep the fare within the city limits at fire cents, to carry policemen and firemen free, to give a three-cent fare to school children, to run a direct line from South Orange, and to do many other things for which the company contracts provide.

Municipalities would in certain cases lose these rights: To impose a tax on utility property because of tax exemption by charter; to compel trolley companies to pave between their tracks and keep the pavement in repair; to regulate the headway of cars; to require an annual license fee for cars, and to insist on the extension of service on terms that had been promised by the company.

Such an upset of contracts won in behalf of the public after long struggles would be a serious blow to all patrons of the utilities and to the taxpayers generally. The rights they have so long enjoyed could not be restored to them and they would be compelled to bear the burdens that the utilities had agreed to sustain.

Wherever contract agreements are an unjust discrimination against the public—that is, where they give an undue advantage to one individual or set of individuals over another—or where they unduly burdened the company, the utility law intended to make them inoperative. It may be that the court will take the view in this important case, as expressed by a recognized authority, that "discriminations in favor of the public at large are not opposed to public policy inasmuch as they benefit the people generally by relieving them of part of their burdens."

ANOTHER LUSITANIA CASE.

For the benefit of those who are holding up the Lusitania incident as proof of President Wilson's lack of patriotism the New York World calls attention to our controversy with England over the acts of the Alabama in the following:

"A great many persons are sorely dissatisfied because the State Department, in six months, has not effected a final settlement of the Lusitania case.

"It took the United States Government nearly eight years to effect a final adjustment of the controversy with Great Britain over the depredations of the Alabama. During four years of that time the President of the United States was Ulysses S. Grant.

"It would have been very easy for President Grant to break off negotiations with Great Britain and rush the two countries into war. Seldom has one nation had a clearer justification for war than the United States had against Great Britain over the Alabama case.

"There was much criticism of Grant's diplomacy on the part of people who thought they were purer and nobler patriots than the hero of Appomattox, but history has never vindicated them at the expense either of Grant's patriotism or judgment."

DR. SAUNDERS' REFUSAL.

The announcement of Dr. William L. Saunders that he will not become a candidate for United States Senator from New Jersey is not only a dissappointment to his friends and admirers but a real blow to good government. The laconic comment of Dr. Saunders is one that is often heard when good men are urged to become candidates for public office. They are all "too busy" to mix in the petty intrigues of politics, although many could find time to give to the affairs of the office for which they are fitted if it could be placed on a business plane. Dr. Saunders would be a credit to the State of New Jersey as a member of the United States Senate and more men of his type are needed in that body.

It is with pleasure that we announce the selection of Harold S. Sharkey as the successor to James J. McNamee as sporting editor of the Daily Press. Mr. Sharkey is a former High School student, knows the local sport field better than any other newspaper man in the city today, and comes to the Press with the good wishes of a large following of the fans of the city. With Mr. McNamee's departure to the position of city editor of the Greenwich, Conn., Press, there is but one man in Plainfield thoroughly fitted for the position in question, and Mr. Sharkey is that man.

Eugene Debs has declined fifth nomination for the presidency. Can't he send a letter explaining his action to Mr. Bryan?

MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION MEETS.

At a meeting of the Mother's Association of the city, held at the home of Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, a most interesting report of the financing and management of the High School lunches during the past year was submitted. Discussions followed as to the use of funds contributed and as to best ways and means of conducting lunches in other schools. Some interesting reports were brought from the Congress of Mothers recently held in Trenton by members of the association who attended.

NEW HOME COMPLETED.

The new home of Peter Wilson is completed and is occupied by Mr Wilson and family. The house is a six-room frame structure of neat design and attractively built. The surrounding grounds will be appropriately arranged.

The Sincerest Flatterer

Some fawn upon me when I go among
My fellow-men; and talk with salve-spread tongue.
Some smile like Cheshire cats, and glibly prate
About my doings—that's the kind I hate.
Yet one, God bless him! never has annoyed me,
But takes the utmost trouble to avoid me.
He is the one who is sincere, for he Does me the honor great to envy me!

There are some friends who smile and mean it, too,
And glory in the things achieved by you.
There are unselfish souls to whom your joy
Is purest gold without the least alloy.
But he whose admiration means the most
Of all among the world's observing host,
Is that one soul (than all souls else more true)
Who thinks you are so great he envies you!

Pins

Pins are what some poet asked where do the lost ones go?

Keeping house without pins would be an awful job.

While as for getting ready to go to a party—hush!

Pins are divided into a good many classes, commonest of which are safety and common.

Maybe we should have mentioned common pins first, but we believe in safety first and are anxious to show off that way.

Safety pins are not invisible pins, commercially speaking, but they are when you want them.

Often we have gone to the notion department of a shop and bought a quart of nice, fresh safety pins and carried them proudly home, thinking at last we had laid in a supply for the winter.

It was enough for a mess, anyway.

Within two days the household supply had dwindled again to one safety-pin that was doubling in the brass for a pajama-fastener for father at night, and to take up the slack in the neck of small son's dickey in the daytime.

Other kinds of pins are linch, coupling and chinqua.

The last-named is the only pin really meant to eat.

Though common and safety-pins are part of the regular diet of small babies.

Every baby should have a little puncture-proof liquid mixed daily with its bottle-milk.

One time we ran a common pin through an inch-and-a-half tire-casing, and we wondered for twelve miles who was keeping up with us, whistling the "Star-Spangled Banner" beside our right hind wheel.

When a drum-beat began to punctuate the fife solo, we stopped and changed tires.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

The Pyorrhoea Question

If one theory is extinct it is that pyorrhoea alveolaris or "Rigg's disease" is in any way dependent upon uric acid. We must get that idea, not the acid, out of our system before we can accomplish anything definite for this very common trouble of the gums.

Notwithstanding the doubts of those who have not tested it, the emetine treatment does prove remarkably helpful in most cases. Emetine is the active principle of ipecac. It is administered by hypodermic injections, a dose each day for a week or ten days. At the same time the patient adopts a mouthwash or tooth-paste containing ipecac in very minute quantity—not over one per cent.—for permanent use. The reason for using the specific ipecac is that the endamoeba buccalis, the probable cause of pyorrhoea, is such a popular little animal that re-infection is almost certain to occur if not guarded against. About ninety per cent. of the people harbor the endamoebas, and certainly ten per cent. of adults show more or less pyorrhoea alveolaris.

It is generally believed that the endamoebas serve as pioneers, preparing the way for the entrance of various common pus-cocci—streptococci particularly. At any rate, the use of vaccines prepared from the pus obtained from the little pus-pockets about the teeth is recommended and practiced by the best dentists and physicians in conjunction with the emetine treatment or sometimes separately. A dose of the autogenous (self-supplied) vaccine is injected under the skin every four or five days for a period of many weeks or months, and the improvement noted in the mouth is no less gratifying than the secondary gain in general health that often follows such a course of treatment. Incidentally it is well to remember that any form of vaccine treatment must necessarily be continued for a long period, and that the beneficial results may be looked for many weeks after the treatment is instituted.

The ipecac mouth-wash or tooth-paste usually improves the condition of the gums and makes them less sensitive; they bleed very little or none after its use has been continued a few weeks. But good authorities urge a sort of auto-vaccination: that is, the patient should brush the gums just as vigorously as possible, and for this purpose the ordinary tooth-brush is inferior to the fingers; massage with the finger is advisable for every case of pyorrhoea. Perhaps a brush smaller than usual, with very short bristles, is better. Sweeping the spaces between the teeth with floss silk is likewise advisable.

Arthritis ("rheumatism), obstinate stomach trouble and severe anaemia are three conditions very often dependent upon the systemic poisoning from pyorrhoea, and hopeless of cure until the mouth is put in hygienic condition.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Still Working A Popular Policy

Have been doctoring for over a year without relief, complains an easy-going man. Family physician says I have sciatic rheumatism of the nerves. I have sore, painful places all over.

Answer.—There is but one sciatic nerve. But there are lots of good doctors in your town.

BATTLESHIPS

Battleships are the doubled fists of the nations. Unfortunately, as soon as a nation doubles its fist, another nation redoubles and it then becomes necessary to double back.

Battleships are built by nations in order to awe other nations into peace. A 28,000-ton battleship with guns that throw steel shells as large as hogsheads ought to awe any nation and would if it were not for the fact that the other nations are busy building larger ton battleships with guns that could load up a steam boiler and shoot it forty miles with a favorable wind. The nations are so busy raising each other's bets that by the time a brand new Dreadnaught of record-breaking size has been completed, it has become a Scarenaught and must be completely overhauled. It is necessary nowadays to work twenty-four hours a day on new battleships to get them into the water before they are entirely obsolete.

Battleships are built of steel and have sixteen-inch impenetrable sides like U. S. Senators who have bought in. They have multitudes of twelve-inch guns and could blow off the top of a tolerable sized mountain with one mighty broadside. They travel thirty miles an hour and a battleship ten years old could blaze away at them all day without disturbing the Captain's dinner. In fact, they would be entirely invulnerable if it were not for sandbars, matches, mud-scows, sparks, crossed wires, careless mechanics and spontaneous combustion. Because of these things, battleships are more fragile than sick babies and a naval officer has to study forty years before he is considered competent to take one of them ten miles out to sea and shoot a few rounds at a floating whale.

Battleships are extremely fatal in the same directions in which cheap shotguns are fatal. The mortality caused by a battleship is about equal on both sides. Living on one of them is like riding over a corduroy road on a load of nitro-glycerine. It may or may not explode. We have little knowledge of what a fleet of Dreadnaughts would do to each other, but we know distressingly well what they can do to themselves; and in the present war, for instance, the best plan would be for the quarreling nations to retain crews, but exchange battleships. The two fleets could then be kept separated and yet the carnage inflicted on the enemy would in time be sufficiently terrible to satisfy the most bloodthirsty people.

Views Of The Press

The Fair Island of Cyprus

"Cyprus is one of the most important islands in the Mediterranean," says a note given out by the National Geographic Society, which describes England's reported offering to the Greeks. "There are just two islands in the broad inland sea larger than Cyprus, and these are Sicily and Sardinia. There are few islands in the world more rich in historical associations, and none, probably, more coveted by powerful neighbors.

"The island lies in the mouth of a pocket formed by Asia Minor and Syria at the north end of the Mediterranean, being about equally distant from the mainland to the north and to the east. It has an area of 3,584 square miles, or is as large as the States of Delaware and Rhode Island combined. Its greatest length is 141 miles and its greatest width is sixty miles, while its average width is more than thirty-five miles. A great part of the island is taken up by two mountain ranges, one of which fills much of the southern and central part, and the other of which stretches along the northern coast.

"The coast of Asia Minor lies forty-six miles to the north, and that of Syria between fifty and fifty-five miles to the east. Although nominally a possession of the Ottoman Empire up until the outbreak of hostilities between the Turks and the Allies, Cyprus has been administered by Great Britain since 1878, and now forms an integral part of the British Empire. English occupation has done much to improve the conditions of health on the island, as it has been a stimulus to commercial development.

"The mountains of the island are wild and beautiful, and upon their sides the forests are still growing that were famed and prized in early Egyptian times. They also contain the mines of copper, celebrated among the ancients and still richly productive. The highest altitude is attained by Mount Troodes, with a summit 6,406 feet above sea level.

"The wonderful forests, in the more than two thousand years of exploitation that have passed over them, have been almost entirely cut away. These forests built the ships of Egypt, of Greek-Syrian rulers, of Asia Minor cities, and of Turks and all that remains of their once much-heralded glory are the pine growths. To-day the whole central plain is bare and treeless, and with the extinction of the forests many disadvantages of climate have come upon the island, so that Cyprus of the present is not the bright home for men so bravely praised by the Greeks of classic times.

"The population of the island is estimated at 240,000 Greeks and Turks. The chief towns are Nicosia, the capital, with 15,000 inhabitants, the largest city, and Limasol and Larnaca. Most of the people gain their livelihoods by agriculture. The methods employed are almost as ancient as are traditions of the island, and the inhabitants are sturdily opposed to innovation. The olive, mulberry, grains, grapes and other fruits, oil seeds, cotton and all sorts of vegetables are grown. Irrigation works have been undertaken for the reclamation of the soil, so fruitful of old, and many acres have been brought back under cultivation. Great Britain administers Cyprus through a high commissioner, with the powers of a colonial governor."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

People's Legal Friend

An Insurance Agreement

Q. If one has a policy of fire insurance, and the risk is subsequently increased by the construction of other buildings close by, is he required to notify the company or is there anything he is obliged to do in order to keep the policy in effect?

A. Fire insurance policies sometimes contain clauses providing that the policy is to become void if the insurance hazard is increased in consequence of the erection of other buildings in the immediate vicinity. If there is no such clause, the policy cannot, as a rule, be avoided on this ground. If you agreed to give notice of an enhanced risk occasioned in the manner mentioned or in any other way, then you are under a legal duty to notify the company promptly of such change in the situation.

Lending Money To A Minor

Q. Some time ago I loaned a sum of money to a boy about seventeen years old. I have repeatedly asked him to repay me, but without success. Could I sue him for this money?

A. If the boy does not elect to repay you, you cannot recover the amount, unless you gave him the money, upon his request, for necessaries of life which have been furnished him. In equity, however, if the money has been spent for necessaries, you can be subrogated to the rights of the person furnishing such necessaries and be reimbursed for the reasonable value thereof.

"A Rose By Any Other Name—"

Q. I have in mind a case upon which I would like your opinion, and for illustration will use the names Jones and Brown. Mrs. Jones, after having had two children, is separated and divorced from Jones and is afterward married to a man named Brown. The children, instead of keeping their own name, take the name of Brown without ever having been legally adopted. When they were grown, they were married under the name of Brown. Is the marriage legal?

A. Yes. This is simply a question of identification.

Running For Congress

Q. What age does a man have to be before he can be elected to the lower house of Congress? Are there any other requirements, and, if so, what are they?

A. The Constitution of the United States provides: "No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state in which he shall be chosen."

When A Promise Is A Contract

Q. If one has a claim for money due him from another person, and promises not to sue if this other person will comply with certain conditions, will this promise be regarded as a contract and can it be enforced as such?

A. A promise of this character, for a definite length of time, will be valid and binding, provided the claim is itself valid and provided it is supported by a sufficient consideration in the eyes of the law.

Partners' Debts

Q. If one should contemplate entering a partnership, couldn't he contract with the other partners that every member shall keep his individual debts paid up?

A. Yes. Such provisions are often embodied in the articles of agreement.

Mr. Branson will be glad to answer all questions. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not, it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all letters to E. R. Branson, care of this newspaper.

Current Poetry

The Country Editor

He might have been a millionaire,
And won financial fame,
Or sat in a director's chair,
Had money been his aim;
He chose instead to spend his years
In service poorly paid,
And with the paste pot and the shears
A humble living made.

He chronicled the town's events—
The local goings-on;
His fellow-townsmen's hopes and bents
Inspired his lexicon.
He felt the public pulse that beat
Around him, and he tried
To make his little country sheet
A thing of local pride.

Unselfishly, with all his heart,
He strove but to upbuild
His town, of which he was a part,
With great ambition filled.
He spoke well of his fellow-men;
He praised when praise was due;
He wielded but a kindly pen,
And—no reward he drew.

Pepper Talks

Habit

Habit is a fixed series of acts. Do a thing once and Tracks are marked. Do a thing twice and a Route is mapped. Do a thing thrice and a Path is blazed.

Do the Right thing over again.

From the unconscious wink of the eye to the smooth, unnoticed movements of a million worlds, the law of Habit relentlessly rules its course. All life is but a series of Habits.

Do the Right thing over again.

The Pennies saved to-day make the Nickels in the bank to-morrow. The Nickels in the bank to-morrow spell the Dollars in the bank next year. The Dollars saved crystallize into the Fortune after the years! Habit either makes or breaks—either leads you up or drags you down.

Do the Right thing over again.

If you are Prompt to-day you will want to be Prompt to-morrow. If you are Square once you will surely seek to be Square again. The fight for a thing Worth While right now cannot help but ease the fight for the thing Worth While later on. It is the law of Habit. And Habit creeps on from the minutest Action repeated over and over again.

Do the Right thing over again.

Grow Great from Habit! There is no other way. Start what you do start—Right, or else begin all over again. You can fondle the eggs of a Python but you can't play with the Python. You can break the bad habit to-day, but if you wait until to-morrow the bad Habit will break you.

Do the Right thing over again.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Old Witch Who Made Her Own Brew.

"GOODY!" cried Evelyn, clapping her hands. "This is fairy story night!"

"It's a long time since we heard of a witch," Jack suggested.

"Once upon a time quite a long, long while ago," daddy started, with a smile, "there was a little boy and his sister who were named Max and Dora. They lived with their parents near a big woods where they used often to go for mosses and ferns and autumn leaves. 'Don't go beyond the stone wall, my dears,' their mother always warned them."

"Why not?" asked Evelyn.

"Because beyond the stone wall lived an old witch who loved to catch children. She was a very horrid old thing, particularly dirty in all her habits. She lived in a messy cave that she never cleaned from one year to another. Her tattered gown was so filthy that even animals fled from her. Her tangled hair was the nest of bugs that she raised for her ugly brew."

"What did she brew?" Jack wanted to know.

"Horrid black messes that she sold to silly, ignorant lovers to keep them in love, as if any love worth while had to be doctored!" said daddy. "And into her smelly old kettle she put two dead frogs, a few black beetles, a sickly bat and, whenever she could find any, a child or two. Then she would start a slow fire beneath, and, sitting alongside smoking her smelly old pipe, she would chant a love song and stir and stir."

"What did she eat herself?" asked the children.

"Snails and nails and black cats' tails," said daddy. "One day she went out to find a few rusty nails for her luncheon, and sitting there on top of the stone wall were little Max and Dora. They were only half obedient, you see! They did not quite dare entirely disobey their mother and were just naughty enough to want part of their own way. So they climbed up on top of the stone wall, planning to jump back into their own lot if harm came, enjoying a glimpse into forbidden fields, when along limped the sly, dirty old witch and whisked them right into her mussy old basket, which already held two horned toads. 'He, he!' she giggled horribly, pulling Dora's ear till it ached. 'I've got ye at last! A fine new brew for me broth! He, he!' So off she danced to her cave, where her kettle hung over a smudgy fire. She stripped off the children's clothes, stirred the brew to make it nice and hot and was just going to pitch the children in head first when her horny old toe caught in Max's shoe lace, and into the kettle she plunged, her heels sticking up in the air.

"'Come this way quickly!' whispered a gentle voice, and the yellow fairy took both children by the hands and put them over the stone wall."

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS. DA. LEONARD

Discouraged and Overworked, Molly Sutner Breaks Under the Strain.

"Nell, that poor little Molly Sutner is quite sick." Olive sat down, looking very sober and thoughtful. "Gaylord says he is afraid it will be a run of fever."

"Poor little thing. She had all she could stand up under before." She paused with her dusting cloth in her hand to discuss the situation. "What will they do?"

"It is beyond me," said Olive gloomily. "Her husband is with her now. He came over this morning to telephone the office that she was too sick to leave."

"When was she taken sick?" asked Nell absently, dusting a chair near where she stood.

"They called the doctor about nine o'clock last night. She had a high temperature then. If only they were not in such financial straits they could get a trained nurse from Kansas City, but it is out of the question as things are." Olive leaned her chin on her hand. "Mr. Sutner asked if we knew of anyone he could get to take care of her, and we could think of no one."

"There was a woman who came and took care of me till Mother Morton could get here when I was so sick over a year ago. They might get her. I'll put on my hat and coat and go over there with you if you want me to," volunteered Nell.

"Good! Come on." Olive rose as she spoke. "Where is Hal?"

"He is in the yard. I'll take him as he is. It is only a little way.

"The boy will disturb her if she is very sick. We must manage to take care of him between us." Nell glanced down at the chubby two-year-old she was leading. "Hal will enjoy a playmate."

"Yes; I was thinking we could relieve the nurse of the care of the boy," replied Olive. "I imagine it will make it easier to get help, too."

After the two women had about exhausted all their powers of persuasion, Mrs. Moore reluctantly consented to go to Mrs. Sutner's aid.

"We will take care of little Jack between us and relieve you every day so you can get a little outing," said Olive gratefully.

"Yes, and we can help by bringing in little delicacies for her to eat, and so save your time and strength," added Nell.

The three women sent John off to the office, and proceeded to get affairs in running order. Olive packed a suitcase with Jack's clothes and made Molly comfortable, while Nell helped Mrs. Moore establish herself and start the dinner.

"Now, good-bye, dear," said Olive as she left the bedroom. "You are not to worry about Jack. I'll take the best of care of him." Molly smiled faintly and reached out a feverish hand to her friend, her eyes dim with tears.

"I'll tell the doctor to bring this suitcase when he comes over, but you had better leave it right by the door so he will see it, or he will forget it." Mrs. Moore closed the door behind the ladies with a sigh.

"I did not want to come," she thought, "but that coaxing, wheedling Mrs. Ellson. No one can refuse her anything, and the poor, dear woman here is in a tight place. There is no discounting that."

She looked in at the bedroom door. Molly was in a doze and was murmuring in her sleep.

"She's in for a run of fever or I miss my guess," she thought as she entered the kitchen.

(To be continued.)

AND THE WORST IS YET TO GO ME--

"I've been sorry ever since I bought it" is not the plaint of the student of the "ads"—but you've heard women say it, probably a great many times.

STANLEY GUNNISON'S EXCELLENT WORK

Former Plainfielder Refills Advertising Space in New York Trolleys.

In New York and Brooklyn advertising circles a great deal of favorable comment has been occasioned recently by the success accomplished by a Brooklyn man in building up in the short space of six months a complete publicity system.

Brooklynites awoke one morning a few months ago to discover that the familiar display of posters on cars and station platforms of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system had entirely disappeared. The explanation came a few days later, when it was announced that the railroad company would henceforth handle all its advertising direct instead of through a firm of lessees, as in the past.

Stanley E. Gunnison, formerly of this city, was appointed the general sales and advertising manager of the new concern, known as the Broadway, Subway and Home Boroughs Car Advertising Company, Inc. Joseph P. Day, a prominent real estate man of Manhattan, was made the president.

Shortly after the organization of the new company cards began to appear in one lone car, then little by little the familiar names and faces returned.

Mr. Gunnison is a nephew of Herbert F. Gunnison, business manager of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

THE WOMAN'S COLUMN

Winona, Minn.—Mrs. Charlotte B Chorpenning, who has won the Craig prize in dramatic composition at Harvard for her play, "Between the Lines," to be produced at a theatre in Boston, is now engaged in staging the Shakespeare centennary pageant in Winona, her home city. All of the school children of this city will take part in the pageant next spring. Mrs. Chorpenning is a widow, and her prize-winning play was her first big attempt. The scenes are laid in New York and Mexico. She lived at Vera Cruz until the death of her husband, and it is there she secured the atmosphere for her play.

New York—The American fashion followers have their eyes on New York today, for the Paris originators are staging eighty of their models at the Ritz-Carlton, and there has been a flutter of excitement as to how far the new models will affect the American styles. Eight prominent Paris houses have formed a syndicate to prevent what they term the "pirating" of models. Forgetting their previous rivalries, the great houses of Callot, Doucet, Lanvin, Jenny Worth, Bianchini-Ferier, Bremet and Poiret have formed an offensive and defensive alliance, and the grand opening today of their combined forces puts in the shade any other fashion event of recent years.

San Francisco—One of the most interesting women at the Exposition last week was Mrs. Ann Maria Miles Sprague, sister of General Nelson A. Miles, the famous American soldier. She is 79 years old, and is touring the country with the greatest relish. Her home is at the old Miles homestead in Westminster, Mass.

Tokio, Japan—Japanese records of the recent years show a surprisingly great number of women engaging in new occupations, and, in many cases surpassing in them. Mrs. Inosuke Senno is the first woman of Japan to become the president of a bank. She was more than seventy years old when she personally established the Senno Bank of Commerce. She is active, mentally alert and keen.

Boston—Mrs. James J. Storrow, a sister of Thomas Mott Osborn, the famous prison reformer, believes that many women mistake fashion for beauty. "For three thousand years," she says, "we have known the ideal shape of human beings, yet have persistently disfigured ourselves and spent infinite time and money mistaking fashion for beauty. The efficient woman will know the natural use of the body and will insist on freedom of exercise, and to have health, grace and beauty. Perhaps the woman who wears shoes so small she cannot walk in is as bad as the one who stumps along on flat heels, jarring her system. Find out where you are weak and strengthen yourself. One is never too old to improve. Break through that shell of middle age. As for moral health, let's rid ourselves of prejudice."

TRU-TRED SHOES

Naturally enough, there are makers and sellers of Shoes who seek to profit by the wide reputation that Tru-Tred Shoes have attained, because of the fact that they do such wonderful things for the feet.

But there is only one "Tru-Tred Shoe"—keep that fact in mind, and, when you buy it, you are assured of all the comfort that shoes can give, of all the wearing qualities that good leathers and right making can give, and as much shoe value for your money as it is possible to give.

Tru-Tred Shoes are sold only by us, and they are made for Men, Women and Children.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is Sign You Have Been Eating Too Much Meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

A Galley o' Fun!

"HOLDING HIS OWN."

UNDER THE NEW REGIME

Entered one of the gold plated, cut glass caravansaries known as a modern hair cutting emporium. It was pleasantly located on a good sunken farm-land, occupying an acre or so underneath one of our first class hotels. A boy in the costume of a Swiss Imperial Guard came forward and took my hat. The proprietor asked me what I wanted done.

"I should like to get my hair cut."

I was ushered into an antiseptic chair, while an antiseptic individual with a sinister aspect threw over me a Woodlawn cemetery shroud. Then he took from a glass instrument case a pair of shears, a clipping machine, and a tortoise shell comb.

Being in a communicative mood, I said pleasantly:

"It's a nice day for this time of year."

"....."

"It looked like rain yesterday, and I thought perhaps it would."

"....."

"The reservoirs need it, anyway. Can't have too much rain for them."

"....."

"If there wasn't so much graft about we would have our reservoirs made long before they were needed."

"....."

At this point I was rudely—as I thought—interrupted by a tap on the shoulder. The barber suspended operations. A tall grave man stood over me. I recognized him as the proprietor of the emporium.

"Pardon me, sir!" he said sternly, "but you are disturbing the artist at his work. No talking please!"

WITHOUT APOLOGIES.

To the average woman a bird in the hat is worth two in the bush.

Teeth are stronger than fiction.

Why expect excellence in your wife when even the cook is far from perfect?

Gall is greater than godliness.

The surest passport for admittance into the Smart Set is a dull mind.

Say little, but do everybody.

A thing of beauty is an expense to somebody.

A good coat may hide a creased shirt, but a clove betrays its secret every time.

The pen may be mightier than the sword, but the typewriter is awarded the damages.

Nothing is so sacred to a woman as the obligation to find out something about someone else's business.

HIS POSITION

"Like him?" snorted the Old Codger, referring to a neighbor whom he did not in any wise appreciate. "I have no more use for him than a man with dyed whiskers has for another man with dyed whiskers! That's how I feel toward Henry J. Swank—confound him!"

A CRYING EVIL

Mrs. Sparenotrod.—Marjorie, it was for your own good that I punished you. There are some things that a mother knows best.

Marjorie (between sobs).—I don't see—I don't see why mothers couldn't all be grandmothers!

AN INTERESTING POINT

First Chinaman.—I don't understand the difference between the Christian sects.

Second Chinaman.—Neither do I. I wonder which one controls the most guns.

FORETHOUGHT.

Sportsman—I notice that you keep hornless cattle entirely, instead of the horned variety.

Native—Yes; hunters from the city hain't quite so likely to think a hornless cow is a stately buck with beautiful eight-pronged antlers.

DIFFERENT METHODS.

"Whatever became of Lamb?"

"Oh! He played the markets and went broke."

"And Wolff—what became of him?"

"Oh! He worked the markets and got rich."

And sometimes a little learning saves a man from jury duty.

Thanksgiving.

Long enough have I lived and sought to know the value of things,
To know the gold from the tinsel, to judge the clowns from the kings,
Love have I known and been glad of,
joys of the earth have been mine,
But today do I give my thanks for a rarer gift and fine.

For the friendship of true women,
Lord, that hath been since the world had breath,
Since a woman stood at a woman's side to comfort through birth and death.
You have made us a bond of mirth and tears to last forever and aye—
For the friendship of true women,
Lord, take you my thanks today.

Now much have I found to be glad of,
much have I sorrowed for,
But naught is better to hear than foot of a friend at the door;
And naught is better to feel than the touch of a sister hand
That says, "What are words between us? I know and may understand."

For the friendship of true women,
Lord, that hath lasted since time began,
That is deeper far and finer far than the friendship of man to man;
For the tie of kinship wonderful that holds us as blood-bonds may—
For the friendship of true women,
Lord, take you my thanks today.

Many the joys I have welcomed, many the joys that have passed,
But this is the good unfailing and this is the peace that shall last:
From love that dies and love that lies and love that must cling and sting Back to the arms of our sisters we turn to our comforting.

For the friendship of true women,
Lord, that hath been and ever shall be
Since a woman stood at a woman's side at the cross of Calvary;
For the tears we weep and the trusts
we keep and the selfsame prayers
we pray—
For the friendship of true women,
Lord, take you my thanks today.

PERSONAL.

David R. Conover and daughter, Gertrude, of Jackson avenue, the borough, spent the week-end at Avon-by-the-Sea.

Clarence E. VanSickle, of East Third street, who has been employed at Ivamy's market for several years, left yesterday for Bridgeport, Conn., where he secured an excellent position with the Swift Beef Company.

William F. Stanbery, who recently sold the Stanbery homestead property at Scotch Plains, has leased an apartment in the Thorn block on Somerset street, and will make his home there in the future. Possession was taken yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lampner, of West Fourth street, are entertaining relatives from Elyria, Ohio.

Miss Frances Newman, of Duer street, returned home last night after spending a week visiting relatives at Cedarhurst, L. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Barton K. Davis, of West Fourth street, have leased an apartment in the new Watson building at Third street and Grant avenue, and will take possession next month.

H. W. Scott, of the West End, who recently left for the South, is now located at Wilmington, Del., where he has secured a position.

Miss Charlotte Holliwell, of Park avenue, who has been seriously ill at Muhlenberg Hospital for the past week, was reported today as improving slowly.

Miss Helen Cox, of West Third street, hase gone to Oneonta, New York, where she is visiting relatives until after Thanksgiving.

FUNERAL OF WM. E. PAULISON.

Somerville, Nov. 23.—William E. Paulison, aged seventy-nine, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James L. Stillwill, at Burnt Mills, was buried yesterday afternoon in the Bedminster cemetery, Rev. Charles J. Mallery officiating. Surviving the deceased are his daughters, Mrs. James L. Stillwill, of Burnt Mills; Mrs. Charles Barker, of Mine Brook, and a son, William Paulison of New York city.

PLAN LOCAL OPTION LEAGUE.

A committee, composed of members of Warren chapel and others, met last night in the chapel and made preliminary arrangements for the formation of a Local Option League to be composed of members of the chapel and other citizens of the borough. Another meeting will be held next Monday night in the chapel when a permanent organization will be formed.

WHY WE RECOMMEND BEER

Beer is our national Beverage and is without a doubt a mainstay of true TEMPERANCE.

It is a most popular beverage, inexpensive, wholesome and readily accessible.

It is agreeable to the taste, stimulating to the appetite, and having very decided nutritive and digestive qualities, is nourishing to the body.

It is a type of food which is very rapidly absorbed into the circulation and requires no preliminary digestion, thus affording a valuable source of energy.

When bottled at the brewery beer is absolutely free from the disease-bearing germs frequently found in milk and water.

The absolute wholesomeness and purity of the ingredients used, combined with the advanced scientific methods of brewing, makes

RUPPERT'S Knickerbocker

The Beer That Satisfies

the natural beverage to select. It is designed to meet a legitimate demand for a food beverage of definite nutritive value. It is produced from the finest materials by experts, under constant scientific supervision. Every possible precaution is taken, and as a result Knickerbocker Beer stands unsurpassed as a safe, nourishing and healthful beverage.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old, famous Sage Tea Recipe are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful—all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.—Adv.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Jessica R. Rae and Marvin D. Rae, her husband.

By virtue of an Order of the Court of Chancery made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein The Plainfield Trust Company, a corporation, is Complainant, and you are Defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the Bill of said Complaint on or before the Second Day of January next, or said bill will be taken as confessed against you. The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by Jessica R. Rae and Marvin D. Rae, her husband, to The Plainfield Trust Company, a corporation, dated June 2d, 1911, for Three Thousand Dollars, covering lands in the City of Plainfield, County of Union and State of New Jersey; and you, JESSICA R. RAE, are made defendant because you are the owner of said property, and you, MARVIN D. RAE, are made defendant because you are the husband of the said Jessica R. Rae, and by virtue thereof claim to have some lien upon or interest in the said mortgage premises.

Every day, through campaigns of classified advertising, "slow-selling" property is sold.

"I NEVER entered into a business or into a partnership where my estate was involved that I did not at once cover that with insurance to protect my venture; protect what I had earned by hard work, and try to lay aside something for a rainy day. I almost reached the point where I took money needed for personal expenses to pay life insurance premiums."

Extraordinary Low Prices

Owing to the fact that we bought our entire fur stock direct from the fur markets early in the summer months, when prices were lower than they have been in years, we bought more heavily than ever before, and owing to the unseasonable weather we offer you these furs at correspondingly low prices, regardless of the big advance in prices in the fur market today.

This is the seventh season we are selling furs in Plainfield and thousands of our customers will testify to the good quality of our furs, and best treatment.

ROUNDEY CASES ARE DISMISSED

Thrown Out of Court by Order of Vice Chancellor Stevens.

WIFE IS NOT FREED

She Still Faces Indictment for Perjury as Result of Suit Against Mrs. Poinier—History of New Jersey's Most Famous Litigation.

Trenton, Nov. 24.—Finis was written on the State's record of the legal troubles of John K. Roundey and his wife of Plainfield, this morning when orders of dismissal in the pending suits were signed by Vice Chancellor Stevens of the supreme court of the State.

The suits dismissed were those of Mrs. Florence Roundey against her husband, asking for maintenance, in which an order had been entered granting her a temporary weekly income of $15 a week; that in which Roundey was adjudged in contempt of court for failure to pay this sum regularly, the divorce proceedings brought by Roundey against his wife, and the counter divorce suit against him.

There remains in court the four indictments of perjury against Mrs. Roundey because of alleged manufacturing of evidence in her suit for $25,000 against Mrs. E. W. Poinier. The plea for damages against Mrs. Poinier was dismissed at the June term of court.

For more than a year the Roundey case has attracted the attention of New Jersey citizens and it has become one of the most badly mixed bits of litigation known in the State courts, because of counter suits that followed the original litigation.

Attorney Robert Newton Crane, of Plainfield, appeared in the case at the hearing of the November term of court as attorney for Roundey and he represented the Plainfield man in negotiations of the action today.

Roundey was president of the Endress Company, butchers, in this city. Original action in the case came when Mrs. Roundey filed a suit for maintenance in the summer of 1914. Vice Chancellor Stevens allowed her $15 a week pending a final hearing. A short time later Mrs. Roundey sought to collect through the courts $25,000 from Mrs. Poinier, charging alienation of her husband's affections. This suit was dismissed in June.

Following his wife's suit against Mrs. Poinier, Roundey filed a suit for divorce, which was met with a counter suit for divorce by Mrs. Roundey.

In August, 1914, Roundey was adjudged in contempt of court for refusal to pay the $15 a week allowed by the court for the maintenance of his wife.

Mrs. Roundey was indicted in June for perjury in connection with her testimony against Mrs. Poinier and was tried in June. The jury was unable to agree. It was reported that eleven held out for conviction, but one member voted for acquittal and this charge is still pending. All others are out of court.

MISS AGNES SULLIVAN BRIDE OF A. A. TEETER

Elizabeth, Nov. 24.—Miss Agnes Sullivan, daughter of Mrs. Anna Sullivan, of 124 West Grand street, and Albert A. Teeter, of Plainfield, were married yesterday at St. Mary's church by the rector, Rt. Rev. Dean Francis O'Neill. Miss Anna Sullivan, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Matthew J. Dennin, of Roselle, best man. Mr. and Mrs. Teeter gave a wedding breakfast to the guests after the ceremony, and then departed for a wedding tour in the South. They will reside in Westfield avenue, Elizabeth.

EDWARD NOLAN ACQUITTED.

Recorder Fred Hand, of the borough, this morning heard the case of the Overseer of the Poor against Edward Nolan, of Westfield, charged with a serious offense. After a number of witnesses had testified on both sides, Recorder Hand acquitted Nolan and dismissed the case. Nolan was arrested last week and in default of $500 bail had been confined in the borough lockup.

SEWER COMMISSION MEETING.

The Joint Sewer Commission of Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen will meet in regular session this evening in the Plainfield Council Chambers. It is not expected that any definite action will be taken on any matters of importance at this session, but that the business in hand will be largely of a routine nature.

FUNERAL SERVICE OF H. C. COMPTON HELD

Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong Officiates at Obsequies at Late Home.

The funeral of Halsted C. Compton, who died at the Hotel Windle, Jacksonville, Florida, last Saturday night, and whose body was brought to this city, Monday night, was held at his late home on Compton avenue, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The service was very simple, but was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends, many of the latter having known him for the greater part of his life. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, of the First Baptist church, was the officiating clergyman.

Many handsome floral tributes were received from relatives and friends, a number of them being large set pieces. Burial was made in Hillside cemetery.

Mr. Compton, who would have been eighty-three years old next February, was taken ill on a Clyde Line steamer while on his way to his winter home at Cromanton, Florida, west coast. He was taken from the boat at Jacksonville, when it landed at noon Saturday and hurried to the hotel, where death occurred Saturday night. Mr. Compton's daughter, Miss Mary Compton, was with him at the time, and made the arrangements for bringing the body home.

MANY THANKSGIVING DAY ATTRACTIONS

Services in the Churches Will Be Followed by Varied Program of Events.

Thanksgiving Day, inaugurating the holiday season, will be ushered in tomorrow morning with services in many of the local churches in the city and borough. Union services will be held at 10:30 in the First Presbyterian church and the Park Avenue Baptist, while the annual service will be held in the Crescent Avenue church as usual. Thanksgiving masses will be celebrated in the Catholic churches and appropriate sermons will be preached.

The postoffice will close at 10 o'clock, after one delivery of mail, and the banks and places of business will all observe the holiday. The Public Library announces that the distributing room as well as the reading room will be closed all day.

Although many Plainfielders have made plans to visit their old homes outside of town, there will be plenty of opportunity to enjoy oneself tomorrow, locally. The theatres in the city will have a complete change of program, offering a number of pleasing vaudeville and photo-play attractions. For those interested in athletics, football games will be played at both the Parker Field and the Cricket Field, both attractions being of a superior calibre. Tomorrow night the Y. M. C. A. basketball team will lineup against the Deaf Mutes, of Newark, at the association building.

Y. M. H. A. TO CONDUCT MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN

Members of the Young Men's Hebrew Association have inaugurated a campaign for new members which is expected to double the membership of the association in this city. Four teams will compete in this campaign and for thirty days energetic efforts will be put forth to enroll every Hebrew young man over eighteen years of age in the city and in this vicinity.

S. H. Schwartz will be the general chairman while the four teams will be captained by the following well known young men: Louis Rothberg, Arthur Richards, Abraham Schwartz and Gustave Lang. Considerable interest is already shown in the campaign and the progress of the competition will be made known at a number of social gatherings during its progress.

THREE THANKSGIVING SERVICES WILL BE HELD

There will be three Thanksgiving services in Plainfield tomorrow morning. A union service will be held at the First Presbyterian church at which Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson will preach the sermon. Another union service will be held at the Park Avenue Baptist church, when Rev. Edwin Shaw will preach. The third service will be at the Crescent Avenue church, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, the pastor, preaching. All of the services will be held at 10:30 o'clock.

"VILLAGE SKEWL" WELL PRESENTED

Columbian Dramatic Club Appears in Two-act Comedy Playlet.

400 SEE PERFORMANCE

Talent Shown by Amateur Actors, or Directors Evidenced Wonderful Knowledge in Assigning Characters.

Members of the Columbia Dramatic Club presented "Ye Village Skewl of Long Ago," a comedy playlet in two acts, at the club auditorium last evening, to an audience that numbered more than four hundred people and comfortably filled the building.

Those who took part in the performance evidenced either a latent talent awakened by the heroic efforts of directors or a familiarity with the characters with which they were working that had been hidden to their friends and acquaintances, for they gave a realistic view of a country schoolroom, filled with mischievous children, typical of the New England backwoods, on 'visiting day."

Miss Anna M. Doyle and F. Otto Linke claim credit for this, but there were many who believed that the success of the play was due as much to cleverness in selecting individuals peculiarly fitted to the characters they were to portray as it was to the dramatic knowledge and experience of the producers.

Original jests, poked at Plainfield people, were interspersed throughout the lines and added to the merriment of the evening. The most cruel one was aimed at Jack Caulfield. Joe Sullivan asked why Jack always got

PETER A DUHAMEL WEDS MISS STODD

Popular Local Couple United This Morning at Nuptial Mass at St. Mary's.

In the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends, Miss Esther Marie Stodd, of West Fourth street, and daughter of Samuel Stodd, of Minersville, Pa., was made the wife of Peter A. Duhamel, of Somerset street, at a nuptial mass in St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock this morning. The ceremony was performed by Father B. M. Bogan, and the couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Duhamel, brother and sister of the bridegroom and bride respectively.

Both Miss Stodd and her sister wore traveling suits of brown material with corsage bouquets of lilies of-the-valley. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at Mrs. Daniel Duhamel's home at 934 West Fourth street, at which there were a dozen guests, relatives of the two families and a few intimate friends. Among those in the gathering were the bridegroom's brother and sister, Charles A. Duhamel, of New London, Conn., and Miss Yvonne Duhamel, of Providence, R. I., also the bride's father, who is making his first visit to Plainfield in twenty years. The latter was formerly a resident of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Duhamel will leave this afternoon for Providence, R. I., the native place of the bridegroom, and where he resided until coming to this city four years ago. They will be given a reception there tomorrow night, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Duhamel. After spending a week in Providence the couple will return to this city where they will make their home.

Although living here but a short time, Mr. Duhamel has become widely acquainted. He is night superintendent of the Spicer plant at South Plainfield and is held in high esteem both by his employers and the employes. As an evidence of this, Mr. Duhamel was called into the office of the works last Friday night and presented with a bag of money, the gift of the night shift. The money was in gold, silver and bills and totaled a large amount. Numerous other presents were made to the couple, many of them coming from numerous friends of the bride, who is also well acquainted throughout Plainfield and who has been very popular with her immediate friends.

Miss Stodd has been employed in the office of the International Motor Company's local plant and last night she was presented with a handsome silver tea set, the gift of the executive staff. The presentation was made by Thomas Longley, who has charge of one of the Saurer departments.

LITTLE SCOTCH IN HIM--HITS GERMAN

George Luhr Assaulted by Stranger Who Favored the Allies.

A mixture of Danish blood and Scotch whisky ran into a German citizen on Front street in front of Proctor's last night and as a result a scene was enacted there that threatened to draw all the people away from D. W. Griffith's war scenes inside.

Sofsus Hansen, who was a citizen of Copenhagen, Denmark, until he answered the call to liberty and came to get a job at Scott's Printing Press Works, had a cold yesterday morning, he explained to Judge DeMeza in police court this morning, and he took on a little Scotch. After four or five injections he began to feel a sympathy for the Highlanders at the front who are fighting overwhelming numbers, and he decided to become an ally of the Allies. In front of Proctor's he spied George Luhr, superintendent of the local division of the Public Service. He did not know Luhr, but he walked up and struck him full in the face. Mr. Luhr recovered himself sufficiently to strike back two or three times before Patrolman Kelly ran up and stepped in between the combatants. Hansen was arrested. His only explanation of this act was that Luhr "looked like a Dutchman."

When arraigned in court this morning the Dane swore that he did not remember any act of violence. He begged for mercy, and when Judge DeMeza asked him to sentence himself for the next offense and the man agreed to make it two months in jail if he was ever found drunk in Plainfield again, also to quit drinking whisky, especially Scotch, until the war is over, the judge suspended sentence. Hansen has been here almost two years and has not been arrested before.

Although Mr. Luhr has been ill for some time he was none the worse for his experience of last night. He did not appear in court this morning.

Y. M. C. A. MEMBERS IN GET-TOGETHER SESSION

More than 200 members of the Y. M. C. A. attended the "get-together" meeting held in the association rooms last night. Those who enjoyed the evening's entertainment included both old and new members who responded to the invitation to "come and get acquainted." An athletic program was given in the gymnasium, after which entertaining numbers were offered in the downstairs hall. Game rooms were opened during the evening and refreshments were served.

ST. STEPHEN'S PARISH HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Vestrymen and wardens were chosen at the annual meeting of St. Stephen's church held at the service in the church last night. Sherman B. Joost was elected warden and William R. Townsend, H. E. Butler and C. L. Petz were elected vestrymen for the next three years. The vestry now comprises the following: Wardens, Archibald Cox, Sherman B. Joost; vestrymen, H. V. Borden, H. E. Butler, W. W. Coriell, A. G. Higerdorn, W. L. Lockwood, E. K. Morse, C. L. Petz and William R. Townsend.

The report of the guilds and the Sunday-school were read, showing a gratifying condition and an increased membership. The report of the "every member canvas" was read, showing many new subscribers and a total of over $2,100 pledged to date, the largest subscription in the history of the parish.

An offer was made at the meeting of a conditional pledge of $100, provided that enough is raised to bring the total to $2,500. The parish is proud of the steady progress made and its every evidence of increasing growth and usefulness for the coming year.

SPECIAL MUSICAL SERVICE.

The choir of Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will give a musical service, Sunday afternoon at 4:45, to which the public is cordially invited. The service this month will consist of the more familiar portions of one of Handel's oratorios, "Joshua," the chorus work being done by an augmented choir. The name of Handel to lovers of oratorio music is quite all that need be said, and it is hoped that many will avail themselves of this opportunity to hear portions of a work of one of the foremost composers of this class of music.

Tomorrow being a legal holiday there will be no issue of the Press.

Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson Speaks at Plainfield High School on Significance of the Day—Programs in Detail.

Exercises appropriate for the occasion were held in all the city and borough schools this morning, in honor of Thanksgiving Day tomorrow. The Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First Methodist church, addressed the study body in the city High School at 1 o'clock today, dwelling on the significance of the day as well as the origin of the holiday in America. The entire program, which consisted of many original selections, was as follows:

"Come, Ye Thankful People, Come," song by the entire school, reading of the Thanksgiving proclamation; "We Plough the Fields," song by school; a Thanksgiving alphabet in rhyme, written by five freshmen and recited by James Brownlee; "Origin of Thanksgiving Turkey" (with apologies to Charles Lamb) written and read by Caryl Dunavan; story by a group of sophomores and read by Russell Tomlinson; song, "O Worship, the Lord," by school; solo by Evan Stevens, "Real Thanksgiving," written and recited by Miss Elizabeth Mumford, "Thanksgiving Fears," poem written and recited by Miss Genevive Sweeny; "Thanksgiving in 1915," original declamation written and recited by

ELABORATE PROGRAM FOR CHARITY BALL

Annual Affair of United Hebrew Charities Organization to Be Held Tonight.

The committee of arrangements for the entertainment and ball of the United Hebrew Charities Organization, to be held at the Knights of Columbus Hall tonight, held its final meeting at the office of Hyman Adelberg, chairman, last evening. Reports were made by the various subcommittees and as a result the indications are that the affair will be one of the best ever held here and will prove a success both from an entertaining and financial point of view.

The committee has made arrangements for the Elks' quartet, consisting of Edward Harding, Joseph Martin, William Smith and John Todd, who have kindly volunteered their services. Master "Buddy" Pagliuca will appear in his dancing and singing sketch. Through the courtesy of Manager Shannon, of the Plainfield Theatre, the committee secured a company of ten professionals from New York, who will entertain the audience with the latest songs, dances and comic work. Albert E. Willard will operate the machines for the exhibition dances. Charles Suhr and orchestra of six pieces will furnish music both for the entertainment and the dancing. Refreshments will be served between the dances. It being a holiday eve and many of the stores being kept open the entertainment will not begin until 10 o'clock, dancing preceding and following the entertainment.

The floor will be in charge of Samuel Rothberg, assisted by Abe Schwartz. The different committees have been assigned to look after the details of the affair at the hall to insure a pleasant time for the guests. Visitors will be present from New York, Brooklyn, Somerville, Westfield and Perth Amboy. The committee is pleased with the support which they have received from the citizens of the community towards making the affair a success and as a result permitting the organization to extend its relief work among the needy and the poor.

The officers of the organization are: President, William Newcorn; first vice president, Herman Schwed; second vice president, Jacob Sachar; third vice president, Morris Abrams, secretary, Elizabeth Rosenson; treasurer, Hyman Adelberg.

SESAME CLUB MEETING.

The Sesame Club will meet at 10:30 tomorrow morning at the home of Mrs. Walter H. P. Veysey, 812 Park avenue.

YOUTH AGREES THAT HONESTY WILL PAY

Stole Fifteen Cents Worth of Coffee Cake, But Repents and is Forgiven.

That honesty pays was proven to Carl Stroke, aged 22, by Judge De Meza in police court this morning, and although Carl left the police station without a fine, he was humbled, saddened and probably reformed by his visit there.

The young man was arraigned for the theft of coffee cake from Sharkey's grocery store. His defense was that he had been accustomed to taking cake and bread in the mornings when he called before the store was opened, but the proprietor denied that any agreement authorizing this existed between him and the defendant. Judge De Meza gave Stroke a lecture on the commercial value of honesty and the responsibility of a father, and within a few minutes the young man was crying. He admitted that he had taken three loaves of coffee cake, and agreed with the judge that he had paid an awful price for fifteen cents' worth of food. Upon this evidence of penitance and the promise that Stroke would earn food for his wife and child in the future and not steal it, Judge De Meza dismissed him.

HOUSE ON ESTATE OF DR. EATON BURNS

Valuable Antique Furniture Stored in "Old Holmes Place" Destroyed.

Valuable antique furniture was destroyed last night when a house on the estate of Rev. Dr. C. A. Eaton, near Watchung, was burned to the ground. The building was an old residence across the road from Dr. Eaton's home and had been used as a store-room for years. In some unknown manner it caught fire early in the evening and before firemen could arrive the entire building and contents had been completely destroyed.

A call was sent in for the Watchung fire department, but the auto apparatus broke down on the way to the fire. The antique furniture was owned by Mrs. Eaton's father, Captain William Parlin, and her sister, Mrs. Coutts. Its value is not known. The home that burned was known as the "Old Holmes Place."

MISS HELEN H. IRONS TO BE FORMALLY INTRODUCED

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Irons, of West Eighth street, will formally introduce their daughter, Miss Helen Harcourt Irons, to society at a reception to be given at the Hartridge Auditorium this evening. More than 500 invitations have been issued to the affair, which promises to be a brilliant social function. There will be a large receiving party.

There will be guests from New York, Princeton, Summit and Plainfield, among whom will be Miss Marion Cleveland, daughter of the late Grover Cleveland.

GREEK ARMY MAY BE DEMOBILIZED

Germany Has Abandoned All Hope of Aid From That Source.

NATION IS NEUTRAL

"Will Never Raise a Hand Against the Allies," Says Premier—Kaiser Offers Financial Aid—Serbians Continue to Fall Back.

Athens, Nov. 24.—Demobilization is being carefully considered by King Constantine and the Greek cabinet. It is reported that Germany now is attempting financial intervention in Greek affairs and that on financial grounds she has abandoned demobilization, indicating that the Germans have now abandoned any hope of Greece taking the Teutonic side in the conflict.

Further Allied Demands.

(Via London).—Further demands by the Entente Powers regarding the attitude of the Greek government toward the Allied troops in Macedonia were presented.

Greece to Remain Neutral.

"Greece will never raise a hand against the Allies," declared Premier Skouloudos in an interview today. "Firstly, Greece is neutral and will remain neutral despite all pressure no matter what the source of it. Secondly, this neutrality will be maintained in the most friendly way."

Serbs Invade Albania.

Zurich, Nov. 24.—A despatch from Saloniki received here says that there has been fighting at Didrain, southwestern Serbia, close to the Albanian border, between the Serbs and the Mohammedan Albanians. After a conflict lasting six hours the Albanians were repulsed and retired later into their own territory.

German Forces Rest.

Large forces of German troops taken from the eastern front have been resting for a few weeks at Mulheim, Frieburg and at Dastadt in Baden. The fact that German-Swiss frontier was closed yesterday at Basle indicates that these troops are moving westward for a new German offensive in northern France.

Wheat For Turkey.

Vienna, Nov. 24.—The Neue Freie Presse says that the Turkish government is considering the purchase of Hungarian wheat to revictual Constantinople.

Serb Government Moves.

Paris, Nov. 24.—The Serbian government was moved to Scutaria, Albania, today. Official announcement to this effect was made by the Serb Legation here this afternoon.

Mine Fighting In France.

French war statement:

"Nothing was reported in the course of the night outside the customary cannonade except in the Argonne, where a conflict with mines was carried on to our advantage. In the sector of Bolante we blew up a small German post."

Bulgars Are Defeated.

The Serbian Legation announced today that a severe defeat had been inflicted upon the Bulgarians in southern Serbia. A statement issued by the Legation told of renewed fighting in northwestern Serbian territory between the Morava and Mlava Rivers. It had been previously reported that all Serb troops in this district had been driven out.

Germans Occupy Pristina.

Berlin, Nov. 24.—Wireless German war statement:

"Balkan theatre—Mitrovitza has been captured by the Austro-Hungarian army. Pristina has been occupied by the Germans. West of Pristina the Serbians have been driven across the Stinitza River."

Italy Wins Victory.

Rome, Nov. 24.—Italian war statement:

"Italy's victorious troops are now strengthening the positions they have taken from the Austrians on the Isonzon front."

Germans Leave Techeran.

Amsterdam, Nov. 24.—A despatch from Berlin admits that because of the Russian march on Techeran the Germans, Austrian and Turkish ministers have left the capital for southern Persia and the U. S. minister has been entrusted with the interests of Germany.

HOME FROM PACIFIC COAST.

Miss Margaret C. Nash, of Prospect avenue, returned home last night, after a nine weeks' trip to the Pacific coast. While away she visited both California Fairs and also made a short journey into Mexico. The trip home was made by the southern route and stopped at all the principal cities.

PRESENT "VILLAGE SKEWL"

hurt in a football game and when no one was able to answer said that the frequent gridiron injuries were due to the fact that it was the only time Jack got water on his neck.

The dance after the play was enjoyed.

Daniel McCormack, P. J. Powers, L. R. Harding, Thomas Bebout, J. M. Doyle, Ed Fitzgerald and Al H. Desnoyers acted as ushers. It was admitted that more ushers were needed in order to properly care for the crowd but these were the only members of the club who possessed dress suits. The program carried the information that no tips must be given the ushers, as they were well paid by being allowed to parade up and down the aisle before the ladies.

William V. Sullivan played Ye Master. He played it for two hours.

William Brown, who played the part of the Deacon, showed the effects of early training. Mr. Brown was fortunate in that he did not have to make up to any great extent or act much in portraying the kindly old country character, and he was true to life.

A feature of the play was the wonderful costumes worn by the performers. Some were arrayed in gowns and outfits that looked like they had been designed by Goldberg on a drunk, while others wore clothes that fitted the parts about as well as they fitted the wearer, which is not complimenting the costumer. Joe Sullivan appeared in a pair of trousers that would have been too small for "Doc" Doyle, a sort of a Harry Lauder blouse, peppermint candy stockings, and button shoes that wouldn't button. Sullivan played his part well, especially when he stole some school chum's candy, or apple or something, and ate it. He put real feeling into this. Neal Regan, who played the part of Patrick Von Pelt, the school fool, was especially good in his part.

George Linke was an unbleached American student, a negro. Part of his makeup wore off during the intermission between the first and second acts, and some of the audience thought he was a Swede in the second part, but this was a mistaken impression. He was still working in blackface.

John Casey, in the part of Peter Paul Perkins, surprised his friends After seeing him act they made many complimentary remarks about his work as a health inspector.

Casey received a handsome bouquet off flowers but they were sent from a party in another city who did not witness the performance.

As Obidiah Bangs, Joe Green drew much applause. He wore a tight-fitting costume but picture-taking was not permitted within the theatre, and he escaped the mob.

All of the young women in the cast handled their parts well, especially Miss Mary Murray, Miss Gertrude Blimm and Miss Helen McCauley, and they attracted attention particularly because they were called upon to hold the stage more than their companions.

The performance was really cleverly produced and acted, without a single weak spot in the entire cast, and the amateurs surpassed many professionals in similar lines. It was singularly free from waits caused by stage fright or forgotten lines, and Miss Doyle, Mr. Linke and all who took part were warmly congratulated when they later appeared on the dancing floor.

The cast of characters follows:

Ye Master, William V. Sullivan; Ye Skewl Committee, William Brown, Harry Forristel, Garret Keating; Ye Deacon's Wife, Annabelle McAfee; Ye Visitors, Kathryne McCauley, Emma Sullivan, Alice McAfee, Tessie Murray; Ye Pupils, Temperance Whitestone, Elizabeth Brown; Judith Doolittle, Molly Traynor; Deliverance Doolittle, Nora Callahan; Salvation Doolittle, Catherine Powers; Belinda Basset, Marion Harrington; Prudence Patience Peterkins, Gertrude Blimm, Dorcas' Skinner, Helen McCauley, Deborah Tubbs, Margaret Powers; Penelope Hornwell, Mary Murray; Abram Whitestone, Frank Donnelly Jonah Partridge, Joseph Sullivan, Josiah Barebones, Frank Hart; Ebenezer Doolittle, John McCarthy; Peter Paul Peterkins, John Casey, Bud Hornwell, Dan McAfee; Obidian Bangs, Joe Greene; Melchizadek Littlejohn, Joe Murray; Patrick Von Pelt, Neal Regan; Rastus Washington, an unbleached American, George Linke.

Costumes designed by Mademoiselles Mc[illegible] costumes furnished by Bill Schaler, electrical effects by Tom Harding Elec. Co., hats furnished by Doc Greenwood, bonnets by "Rae" Arnold, shoes by Dave Doyle; stage manager, "Wildman" Caulfield; stage hand, "Sidewheel" Duffy; stage carpenter, "Buck" Taylor; stage electrician, Elias Howe; press agent, "Jinx" Greene; wardrobe mistress, Mike Griffin; matron, "Bock" Coffey; stage doorman, "Orre Orre" Strappe.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Missionary and Aid Society of Warren chapel will give a sale of home-made bread, cake, pies, candy, baked beans and potato salad, Saturday afternoon in the parlors of the chapel from 1:30 to 5 o'clock.

The young men's choir of Warren chapel will meet for practice in the chapel, Sunday afternoon, at 4 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

A Galley o' Fun

THE SLEEPLESS CAR.

Oh! The tedious, mahogany sleeple car,
Now would the wood were bass,
Or pep'ridge or peach or hemlock beech,
Slippery ellum or sassafras.

Oh! The green, green plush of th sleepless car!
Now would that the plush were jea
Or denim or duck or ticking or huc
Or mercerized nearsilkine.

Oh! The green, green plush of th sleepless car!
Now would that the green were pin
Or brindle-gray or cafe-au-lait
Or the hue of the violet ink.

Oh! The inlaid and filagreed sleeple car!
And now that the snores break loos
For pleasure and glee give a ticket me
On the end-of-the-freight caboose!

THE EXPLANATION.

WHAT PLAINFIELD WANTS TO KNOW

The Answer Is Found In the Statement of a Plainfield Resident.

From week to week, from year to year, there have been appearing in these columns statements made by neighbors, which we have all read with great interest, and many of us with great profit. But what we want to know is, do they stand the greatest test of all—the test of time? Here is conclusive evidence on his point from a Plainfield woman:

Mrs. E. Dorflinger, 400 Clinton avenue, Plainfield, says: "The first symptom of kidney trouble was a dull, heavy pain in my back and head. This was followed by a tired, languid feeling and I knew that my kidneys were gradually giving out. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and getting a box at Randolph's drug store, I began using them. Before long I improved and I continued until cured."

OVER FIVE YEARS LATER Mrs. Dorflinger said: "I hold just as high an opinion of them now as when I gave my former endorsement recommending them. The cure they made has been permanent."

Price 50 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Dorflinger had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

PLAN CONFERENCE OF CHARITY WORKERS

"Public Money and Public Care" Subject of Meeting to Be Held Dec. 2.

There will be a conference in the Union County Court House on December 2 which every public spirited citizen of Plainfield is urged to attend. The subject of this conference will be "Public Money and Public Care," and the meetings will be at 4 and 8 p. m.

At the afternoon meeting Henry C. Wright, first deputy commissioner of the Department of Public Charities, New York city, will be the speaker and the chairman of the meeting will be Assemblyman A. N. Pierson, of Westfield. Those announced to take part in the discussion are: Dr. William H. Murray, president of the board of directors at Bonnie Burn Sanatorium; Freeholder George G. Teller, Cranford, chairman of the Freeholders' Committee on Widows' Pensions, and Assemblyman William H. Runyon.

At the evening meeting the subject will be "Put the Offender to Work," and E. R. Cass, associate secretary, Prison Association, New York, will be the speaker. Mr. Cass has made a study of the conditions in Union county and will be ready to make concrete recommendations to the freeholders which it is believed will be seconded by Sheriff Otto and Warden Hughson. Besides the officials Judge B. J. David, of Elizabeth; William Bedlington, secretary of the Building Trades Council, A. F. of L., and Dr. Frank Moore, of Rahway, will take part in the discussion.

A large and interested audience ought to hear these experts in the Circuit Court room at the Court House, in Elizabeth, on December 2.

CONGRESSMAN CAPSTICK GOES TO WASHINGTON

In order to expedite the handling of mail, Congressman John H. Capstick wishes the people in his district to know that he will be located at his office in Washington after Friday of this week. Owing to the fact that many correspondents have been in the past sending letters to him at either Plainfield or Montville, a day would be lost in forwarding them under the changed conditions.

Congressman and Mrs. Capstick will live at the New Willard Hotel. Just now Mr. Capstick as well as his secretary, John E. Nicol, are busily engaged in getting acquainted with the 134 new Congressmen, and the 300 old members, and otherwise equipped for participation in the coming sessions.

CRAIG-MILLER.

Miss Ruth S. Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Miller, of New Germantown, was married at noon today to Marshal Y. Craig, of that place. The ceremony, which took place at the home of the bride's parents, was performed by Rev. C. C. Emple. Miss Helen Miller, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, while R. R. Craig, a brother of the groom, was best man. The bridesmaids were Miss Inez Studderford, of South Branch, and Miss Elizabeth Fisher, of New Germantown. The ushers were John Van Doren, George Sutton, Roy Miller and Howard Fisher.

LOCAL TABS AT ELIZABETH.

The Plainfield and Elizabeth Tabs will roll a five-man series on the Elizabeth Tabs' alleys on Thursday night, December 2. This will be the opening session for the Elizabethans and many members and their women friends intend to be present. Plainfield will be accompanied by a carload of men and women, who will root for the Queen City boys. The Plainfielders never have defeated the Elizabethans, but they believe they have a team this year that can turn the trick. The Betsytowners will be represented by John Sellers, William Fitzpatrick, Martin Connolly, William Sullivan and Fred Kern. Kern and Fitzpatrick are new members of the Tabs' team, they have made the quintet in the recent rolling for average.

WANTS DOUBLE BOOKINGS.

The Dayspring A. C. and the Stamford A. A. basketball teams would like to arrange for a game with a good club having a first and second team. Games to be played on opponents' court. Average weight: Dayspring, 135 lbs.; Stamfords, 120 lbs. Full expenses required for 16 men. Both teams from vicinity of New York city. Address, W. E. Kershner, 185 Madison avenue, New York.

Y. M. H. A. BOWLING.

The bowling teams of the Y. M. H. A. will roll several matches tomorrow afternoon on Klein's private alleys in West Front street.

MATT WELLS TO MEET JOHNNY GRIFFITHS

Matt Wells (left) and Johnny Griffiths.

Matt Wells, former lightweight champion of England, will be Johnny Griffiths' next opponent, the bout being set for Akron on November 29. Wells recently surprised the fistic world by handing Charlie White a beating in Milwaukee. Some of the critics called the bout a draw, but most of them favored the Briton. Wells is another boxer of the Jack Britton type. He has a dangerous and clever left hand and can sting a rival with his right.

HARRY ROTHBERG RETURNS HOME SUDDENLY WITH WIFE

Harry Rothberg surprised his family and friends in this city yesterday by returning home suddenly from Oklahoma, and what was a bigger surprise, Mr. Rothberg was accompanied by a charming young woman whom he married last May, unknown to his folks in Plainfield.

Mrs. Rothberg was formerly Miss Louise Morris, of McAlester, Oklahoma. Mr. Rothberg is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Kalmen Rothberg, of Madison avenue. He is a former student of the Plainfield High School, and for the last five years has been working for a wholesale grocery firm in Texas and Oklahoma.

WOMEN OF ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH TO GIVE PLAY

Plans for the presentation of a play on December 27 by the young women of St. Joseph's church, were discussed at a meeting of a number of young people in St. Joseph's Villa last night. Miss Anna Daly is chairman of the committee of arrangements and she has already chosen the following cast: Miss Florence Daly, Miss Anna Regan, Miss Helen Meany, Miss Nora Bergen, Miss Anelch Bernard, Miss Anna Daly, Miss Frances Newman, Miss Edna Ryan and Miss Mary McCullough. The first rehearsal will be called for Friday night at the Villa at seven o'clock.

BARON VAN ORGLER AT THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Baron Van Orgler, until recently of Austria, will appear at the Plainfield Theatre for a three-day engagement beginning tomorrow in a picture lecture of the war. He will show moving scenes of actual war pictures taken on the field of conflict, at the same time he will tell the complete story of the greatest war of all times, now raging in Europe. These war pictures depict charges, bursting shells, crumbling walls, battleships in action and firing guns. More than thirty camera men risked their lives to secure these wonderful scenes.

Baron Von Orgler served as first lieutenant in the Roumanian cavalry in the Balkan War, and for four years was in the service of the Fourth Hussars of the Austrian landwehr.

MET. Y. M. H. A. ELECTS.

Felix M. Warburg, of the East Ninety-second Street (New York) branch, for the second time has been re-elected president of the Metropolitan League of Young Men's Hebrew Associations, at the annual meeting which was attended by delegates from fourteen associations.

Washington, Nov. 24.—The Navy Department today ordered Admiral Winslow, commander of the Pacific fleet, to proceed on his flagship, the San Diego, to Los Mochis on the western coast of Mexico, where continued uprisings of Yaqui Indians are reported.

PONY WANDERS FROM HOME.

A pony belonging to Mrs. Charles MacGeachey, of Watchung, was found wandering around in Plainfield last night and was picked up and placed in the Central Livery Company's stables. It broke out of the barn sometime yesterday.

PUBLIC SERVICE CYCLE STOLEN.

A bicycle belonging to the Public Service corporation was stolen from in front of the residence of Charles Schupper, 710 Webster place, sometime last night. The theft was reported to the police and the case is being investigated.

PURCHASES BORO PROPERTY.

Julius J. Stahl has purchased the Alonzo Brokaw property, 32 Grandview avenue, through Frederick A. Martin, and will hold the same as an investment.

It Pays to Secure a Tenant Who Pays.

The uncertain sort of tenant is easy to find. He is always answering the call of the window sign of "To Let." He is easy to please. Even a rather high rental does not frighten him away.

But the Stay-and-Pay tenant is not so easy to secure. He is surer of what he wants. He does not take the first house, or apartment, or store that he finds. He watches and answers "To Let" Ads.

And to secure him for your tenant is a good day's work—a good week's work.

Property that is advertised adequately in the Plainfield Daily Press is rarely rented injudiciously.

—Those accustomed to getting SERVICE from the classified column would consider it a very foolish thing to do to pay too much rent, either for a store, a house, an apartment or a furnished room.

ILLNESS CHEAP IN PRAGUE.

Comparatively Few Doctors There, Yet the Fees Are Small.

According to a consular report, one may at least be ill in Austria and not dread the exorbitant doctor's bill that follows.

The city of Prague, with a population of about 600,000, has only about 800 physicians, or one for every 7,500 persons. A doctor charges for a daytime call in a middle class family only 60 cents, or 10 cents more than if the patient calls on him in his office. For a night call the doctor receives from $1.20 to $2, according to the distance. Only professors at the clinics of the two local universities charge more, receiving $2 to $4 for a house call and $2 for an office visit. As in this country, the physicians give only prescriptions.

About 100 dentists practice in Prague. The average charges are: Drawing one tooth, 40 cents; cement filling, 60 cents to $1; amalgam filling, 80 cents to $2.

The annual income of these professional men is estimated as follows: Head professor in charge of clinics, salary paid by the government, $1,440 to $1,600, and $5,000 to $11,000 from private practice; other professors at clinics, salary paid by the government, $1,000, and from private practice, $4,000 to $10,000; general medical practitioner not attached to any clinic, $3,000 to $3,500, the average income of a dentist being $5,000.

MAKING OTHERS HAPPY.

Why Put It Off Till Tomorrow When It May Be Done Today?

Why should we postpone our loving and the being happy that goes with it? The wife we are going to show more affection for as soon as we have made a little more of a pile. The husband we are going to be more companionable and sunshiny with as soon as we get a little more service in the house, the children whose lives we will enter into more fully as soon as we feel the pressure of circumstances a little less, the people we are going to show how genial we really are as soon as we have time—none of these ways of loving depends on the things we are waiting for.

Indeed, our opportunity comes more now than it will come when we have these things. The very pressure of our days bring us in contact with many people who most need a show of kindness and who will most warmly respond to it. The wife most needs and will most value love in her days when she is most being a helpmeet. The husband most needs and most prizes love in his years of struggle.

What are we waiting for? The kingdom of heaven is within and will not come of circumstances.—Nautilus.

Bjornson's Advice.

There is a story told of Bjornstjerne Bjornson that, arriving at a late hour at the town of Bergen, which was en fete to receive him, he vouchsafed to the expectant people no finer words of wisdom than a general recommendation to go to bed.

In vain they appealed to him for "song or sentiment." The great Bismarck, said he, gave the same advice under conditions all similar, and what was good enough for Berlin must suffice for Bergen.

Three years later, on visiting the town for the second time, the master novelist found a deserted city. Not a light burned in the dismal railway station, no banners waved, no addresses were read by portly burgomasters. In vain Bjornson asked for a cab.

"They have all gone to bed," was the reply. And so Bergen remembered.

First European Railway.

The first carriages that ran on rails in Europe were those of a horse railway between Linz and Budweis, in Austria. This was in working order in 1827. Locomotive railways were much longer coming. The first line in a modern sense was opened from Paris to St. Germain in 1835, but railway development was greatly hindered by a terrible accident on the Paris-Versailles line in 1842. The next was the Brussels-Malines line in Belgium. Belgium was also the first country to begin, in 1830, systematic plans for a national network of railways. Prussia followed in 1835 and Austria-Hungary in 1838. The first great trunk line in Europe was from Paris to Rouen, opened in May, 1843.

Family Pride.

Mrs. Blunt—Well, Louisa, I don't suppose you will attempt to deny that your original ancestors were stone age ruffians who lived in a damp cave. Mrs. Tree—If my earliest ancestors were a part of the geologic period of which you speak they must have had a red sandstone chateau of their own on Flinthead avenue, with stalactite decorations and running water on the first floor.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Poi in Hawaii.

Poi, the Hawaiian national dish, is made by pounding up the cooked root of the taro plant (the Arum esculentum of the botanists) with water into a thick paste. When slightly fermented it has a pleasant, fruity, acid taste.

The Solution.

"I wish I knew how Bilduk lives without working?"

"Open a grocery store in his neighborhood and you'll soon find out."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Parts of Speech.

Teacher—Thomas, what are the parts of speech? Tommy Tucker (after an exhaustive mental effort)—It's the way a man talks when he stutters.

A great man is he who affects the mind of his generation.—Disraeli.

Tomorrow being a legal holiday, there will be no issue of the Press.

FORD OFF TO EUROPE ON PEACE MISSION

Charters Special Steamer for Trip to Start on Saturday, December 4.

New York, Nov. 24.—Henry Ford, the Detroit automobile manufacturer, announced this morning that he would finance a peace expedition to Europe to attempt to end the war. He said that he had chartered the Scandinavian liner Oscar II, which will sail on December 4 with Mr. Ford and his party.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The freshman boys' class basketball team has been assigned the use of the gymnasium on Fridays and Mondays from 2 until 3. The three upper classes have not yet started practice.

The executive board of the Alumni Association has announced that the "frivol" for the members of the senior class will be held in the High School auditorium on Saturday night, December 4.

Professor Schubert, teacher of wood-turning at the High School, has started a class in second year wood-turning. The first eight to apply will be taken.

PERSONAL.

Dr. and Mrs. O. A. Gesswein, of Central avenue, will spend Thanksgiving Day and the week end in Philadelphia, the guests of relatives.

Jeremiah N. Boylan, of Regent street, and granddaughter, Miss Florence Waldron, of Whitewood avenue, left today for North Adams, Mass., where they will spend Thanksgiving with Mr. Boylan's daughter.

Charles Yawger, formerly of Somerville, but who for the past two years has been making his home with his daughter, Mrs. Alvah A. Porter, of Codington avenue, is critically ill at the latter's residence.

Mrs. E. H. Guest, of Terrill road, is spending a few weeks with her brother, George C. Terry, of Syracuse, New York.

Chief Marshal George Weiss, of the borough, is enjoying two days' vacation.

Somerville

State Senator Walter Edge delivered an interesting address on "Organization" to the members and their friends of the Somerville Athletic Association last night. Former Judge Clarence E. Case introduced Senator Edge.

The Boys' Club of St. John's church will dine at the Ten Eyck Hotel this evening.

The agricultural class of the Somerville High School attended the sale of registered Holstein-Friesian stock held on the Finderne farm this morning. Instructor William H. Hamilton was in charge of the class.

Charles Wilcox and his sister, Miss Esther Wilcox, of West Main street, will leave this evening to spend Thanksgiving and the week-end with relatives in New York.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

There will be a home evening with games and refreshments at the association on Thanksgiving Day. The secretaries will be very glad to welcome all members, their friends and young women who are away from home and will otherwise miss the Thanksgiving cheer and good times.

There will be no swimming class on Friday of this week but the lessons will be resumed on December 3. The High School pool is reserved for association members on Friday evenings from eight to nine o'clock. It is hoped that many girls will take advantage of these pleasant conditions and reasonable prices to learn this healthful and enjoyable sport.

APPARATUS COMING SOON.

Chief T. O. Doane and members of the councilmanic fire board have received word from the Mack shop at Allentown, Pa., that the new auto combination chemical apparatus for the west end fire house would be delivered either the latter part of this week or the first of next week. The apparatus was scheduled to have reached here about November 15, but a delay was occasion by a number of changes in construction following a visit to the Allentown shop by Chief Doane and Councilmen Cose and Martin, of the fire board.

SETTLES FIRE LOSS.

Settlement has been made by Frederick A. Martin Co. for the damage to property of Thomas Callahan on Richmond street caused by fire last Monday.

PAUL SWAN TO APPEAR HERE IN INTERPRETIVE DANCES

Paul Swan, artistic interpreter of classic dances, will make his bow to a Plainfield audience at the High School Auditorium on Tuesday evening, November 30, giving the first of a series of entertainments under the direction of Charles Prescott Poore of New York city. He has previously appeared only in the theatres and at private entertainments.

The exhibition will be something quite different from anything given here in the way of entertainment. Mr. Swan is an artist who began as a painter and has taken up dancing as the highest expression of classic ideals. Greek, Egyptian and Persian dances are included in his program.

MANY ATTEND FUNERAL OF VINCENT L. FRAZEE

The funeral services of Vincent L. Frazee, who died after a short illness with pneumonia, on Friday, was held at his late home, 112 Madison avenue, yesterday afternoon, there being a large gathering of relatives and friends. The service was in charge of Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, of the First Methodist church. The floral offerings were beautiful and included in the number was a handsome wreath from the Schloss store, where Mr. Frazee was employed.

The interment took place in Hillside cemetery, the following acting as pallbearers: Elias Bird, William Schloss, Samuel Rothberg, Henry Phillips, Frank Coriell and George Clark.

JOHN E. FLAMMER, AGED 65, DIES AT SPRINGDALE

John E. Flammer, aged sixty-five years, a resident of Springdale, died last night at his home in that place, following a stroke of paralysis, sustained several days ago. Mr. Flammer was born in New York city, September 22, 1850. He was the clerk of the Board of Education of Springdale and vice-president of the Home School Association. For forty-two years he conducted a blacksmith shop in the town and was probably one of the best known residents of the township.

Besides his wife, he leaves five sons and two daughters. They are: David Flammer and Mrs. B. Voorhees, of North Plainfield; Alfred and Lewis Flammer, of Somerville; John Flammer, of Westfield; Chauncey Flammer, of Springdale, and Mrs. A. Grenillot, of Bound Brook. Fourteen grandchildren also survive him.

The funeral service will be held from his late home Sunday afternoon at two o'clock and from the Springdale church at 2:30. The interment will take place in the cemetery at that place.

KAISER GETS INTO TROUBLE.

Jacob Kaiser, of Plainfield, a laborer, engaged in an altercation with Peter Schneiderwind, of Dunellen, at the latter place last night, which led to his arrest by Marshal Smalley on a disorderly charge. When arraigned before Justice David Campbell he was given a suspended fine of $5 upon his promise to behave.

I REMEMBER

I remember Thanksgiving as a gladsome time of vacation from school and books, of family reunions, of great eating, and of much hurrying thru with dinner, to proudly escort that best Girl to the football game or theatre.

Now, however, I think I look at Thanksgiving in its proper light. A time of giving thanks to Almighty God for blessings received. Thanks for a great and free country—thanks for prosperity and flourishing business—and thanks for those thousands of blessings and good things we daily receive, and think so little about.

We of the Rothberg store, have indeed much to be thankful for. WE are thankful for peace and plenty—and we are indeed thankful for all our good friends and patrons whose trade and co-operation makes possible this successful business.

We take this occasion to publicly thank you all for your kind support, and beg leave to tender our wishes for a most happy Thanksgiving season.

Buying for the home cannot be done wisely and economically unless the "buyer" is a student of the advertisements—no more than a store may be made prosperous without advertising.

Sometimes a store will decide to perform a real "stunt" in value-giving on some special line. You may be sure that in all such instances the ad-readers will have earliest knowledge of the details.

Paris and Honolulu Hear Wireless Speech From Arlington

WHERE THE BELL WIRELESS TELEPHONE REACHES.

The main circle shows the territory within a radius from Washington of 4,900 miles, the distance from Washington to Honolulu, which was reached by a Bell wireless telephone message, September 29, 1915. The same message could have been heard at a properly equipped radio tower at any point within the circle. The dotted circle of equal radius shows that a telephone message from a wireless station at Seattle could be heard at Yokohama. Paris was reached October 21, and the message was heard simultaneously at Honolulu.

WIRELESS telephone connected Paris with the United States on October 21, when the world was still catching its breath after the news, announced on September 29, that words spoken in Virginia had been heard at Honolulu. Although wireless speech transmission to Hawaii is the greater achievement scientifically, the significance of being able to speak from America to Europe makes the latest victory of science the most spectacular.

The Telephone Review, New York, publishes an account of the wireless experimenting and final victory, which is especially interesting as being an authoritative account of the actual happenings, including the preliminaries, which led up to this crowning achievement of talking to Paris. We quote the essentials of this story from The Telephone Review, the publication which is perhaps better qualified than any other to present first hand the information regarding the incidents of the wireless telephone story.

The question of radio communication had long been in the mind of Mr. Carty, Chief Engineer of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, but it was considered subordinate to the immediate work in hand, of perfecting and extending the wire system.

Early in the present year an experimental sending station was constructed at Montauk Point, Long Island, by Bell engineers. A wireless tower on the roof of the DuPont Building in Wilmington, Del., was borrowed by courtesy of the owners, and to this tower the Bell engineers constructed experimental receiving apparatus. This gave a talking distance of about 250 miles.

The next step was a talking distance of about 1,000 miles between the experimental tower at Montauk Point and the experimental tower erected for the purpose at St. Simon's Island, on the southern coast of Georgia. The antenna at St. Simon's Island was about 1,000 feet long on wooden poles about 120 feet high. During the course of these tests, in addition to sending wireless telephone talks from Montauk Point to St. Simon's Island, talks partly by wire and partly by wireless were carried on successfully. The most noteworthy achievement of these early experiments was that of talking from an ordinary desk stand in New York by wire to Montauk Point, thence by wireless to St. Simon's Island, and thence back to New York by wire to another desk stand in another room of the same building from which the messages were sent.

Such results proved conclusively the correctness of the theories upon which the Bell engineers were working and gave assurances of possibilities embracing transatlantic and transpacific wireless telephony. The practical value of wireless telephony was also revealed in the ability which had been demonstrated to make it supplementary or auxiliary to the wire system. The ability to interconnect wire and wireless telephone systems is of the greatest importance in the proper working out of the application of wireless telephony.

These early talks furnished not only the experience and information needed for larger experiments in wireless telephony, but also established a record for distance far in excess of anything previously reported or claimed.

The next step was to extend the talking distance. So much had been accomplished in the creation and construction of the apparatus evolved out of the studies and experiments of the Bell engineers that the Navy Department was approached, and through the courtesy of the officers in charge of radio service a number of Navy Department antennæ were placed at our disposal for limited use in further development and demonstration.

The French Government was also approached for permission to use the Eiffel Tower in Paris, and notwithstanding the present war conditions in Europe and the consequent incessant use for war purposes of this important wireless receiving station, consent was given at once, demonstrating the great interest and courtesy on the part of the French Government which have been of such inestimable value to the Bell System in its experiments.

By early summer of the present year men had been dispatched with receiving equipment to be installed at the naval radio stations where experiments were to be conducted, and to Paris.

From Washington the distances are—to Honolulu, 4,900 miles; to San Francisco, 2,500 miles; to San Diego, 2,300 miles; to Darien, in the Panama Canal Zone, 2,100 miles; to Paris, 3,800 miles.

The naval tower at Arlington which was to be used for sending purposes is known to be one of only moderate capacity, having been constructed many years ago. It consists of three steel towers at the corners of an equilateral triangle about 350 feet on a side; two of these towers are 450 feet high, and the third is 600 feet high. The antenna is of triangular form and the wires connecting the three towers have in each span a spread of about 80 feet.

Sending apparatus was installed only at Arlington, and as the naval radio station there could be used only at such times as would not conflict with government business, no continuous experimentation was possible. This was equally true of the naval radio stations at Mare Island, San Diego, and Darien, but it was true in a much greater degree of the Eiffel Tower. Whenever possible, the receiving stations were notified of the time the sending experiments would be made, but there was no way of knowing whether any of them were listening, except Honolulu, where Mr. Espenschied was always on the qui vive at his improvised station.

Again, the condition of the atmosphere through which the messages had to pass might be favorable or unfavorable.

Gradually difficulties were overcome, and more or less regular tests were made with the different stations. Early in September Darien was being reached regularly, followed shortly by San Diego and Mare Island. Owing to the much greater distance and the very small receiving antenna, results at Honolulu were not so satisfactory. Paris had not been heard from.

Two thousand five hundred miles was a certainty, however, and as sending across land is far more difficult than across water, Mr. Carty and his engineers decided to make a formal trial and demonstration of transcontinental wireless telephony at a fixed date and hour. For this purpose September 29 was decided upon as the date, and high noon, Eastern time, 9 a. m. Pacific time, as the hour. Mr. T. N. Vail, President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, spoke from New York; his words vibrated along the wires to Arlington and from there traveled on the ether and were heard in Mare Island, in San Diego and Darien, and 4000 miles away in Honolulu.

The method by which this was accomplished is the secret of the Bell engineers, which they have imparted to the Government, but what was accomplished may be described as follows:

The voice spoken into an ordinary telephone transmitter sets up vibrations in the electric current flowing over the line, which "vary in intensity precisely as the air varies in density during the production of a sound," and these vibrations traveling through the Bell wireless telephone apparatus at the sending station, set up the same vibrations in the tremendous electric currents sent out from the antenna; these vibrations traveling upon the ether which envelops the earth, are transformed at the bell wireless receiving stations into the identical sounds which created them.

Still no word came that any of the wireless telephone messages from Arlington had reached Paris, where Mr. H. E. Shreeve and Mr. A. M. Curtis were "listening in" whenever the French Government found an opportunity to give them the use of the Eiffel Tower. This was not considered strange, however, for since the messages reached Honolulu, they would have been heard also at every receiving station within a radius of 4,900 miles from Washington if atmospheric conditions had been favorable.

But on October 21 official announcement was made that the tests to Paris were successful and Mr. Shreeve and representatives of the French Government not only heard Mr. C. B. Webb talking, but Mr. Shreeve recognized Mr. Webb's voice.

The farthest distance the voice has been heard is 4,900 miles, which is the space between Arlington and Honolulu, but how much farther the voice has traveled through space there is as yet no way of knowing. Already speech may have girdled the globe.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Next to the customary Thanksgiving dinners, the biggest and best thing in town tomorrow will be the vaudeville offering at the Plainfield Theatre. Manager Shannon has secured an exceptionally strong holiday bill, headed by the Nasso Girls, a company of ten, presenting what is termed "America's premier and most artistic musical offering." Advance notices from other cities say it is simply great. The other numbers on the program are to be Jack Lewis, late of Fields and Lewis, in his own original funny act; Gloria Foi and Co., presenting vaudeville's daintiest skit; Layman and Chelsea, direct from the Palace Theatre, in a high class singing offering; Gordon and Poste, late of the Winter Garden, presenting the comedy playlet, "College Boy and Chorus Girl," and Walter Ward, in a daring and sensational bicycle act.

A special performance has been arranged for the benefit of children to begin at the theatre at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, when the five-reel feature photo-play, "Little Lord Fauntleroy," will be presented. The film has been made from Mrs. Frances Hodgeson Burnett's famous and delightful story and is something that no child should miss. The continuation of "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" and the Pathe semi-weekly will be added attractions tomorrow, while other photo features will be on the bill each day for the remainder of the week.

There will be something doing at the theatre tonight certain to bring pleasure to every patron and a present for a good many. Manager Shannon will award a turkey, geese, ducks and chickens to lucky seat holders. Everybody has a chance. The presentations tonight will not take the place of the customary "Country Store," as this will be held next Friday night as usual.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

One of the best entertainments of the season is promised to lovers of good vaudeville and high-class photo plays to be presented the balance of this week at Proctor's Theatre. There will be a number of fine acts which will excel in quality any vaudeville show seen this season, and the feature photo-play will be a complete surprise to the patrons. The patrons may be assured of witnessing an exclusive film in conjunction with this elaborate vaudeville program. There will be six big features, and Saturday matinee, as usual, has been set aside for the children. It is known as "Toy Matinee" and all the kiddies attending will receive presents. The "Big Bazaar" will be held again next Wednesday evening and owing to the fact that it was eliminated this week because of the "Birth of a Nation," a big double bazaar will be given next week. Beginning Monday, December 6, the Triangle Plays will be presented. The first weeks' booking includes Raymond Hitchcock in "My Valet," Douglas Fairbanks in "The Lamb," and Dustin Farnum in "The Iron Strain." These are conceded by press and pubic alike to be among the best photo-plays made, and come to the local playhouse direct from the Knickerbocker Theatre, New York city.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

The annual Thanksgiving offering to the Children's Home is now being received.

Mr. Earley is considering postponement of the date when the essays on "International Conciliation" will have to be presented. He originally planned to give the prize before the Christmas holidays, but owing to different events which have taken up the pupils' time, it will probably be put off to the early part of January.

With the Thanksgiving holidays a day off, former pupils of this school who are now attending higher institutions of learning, will arrive home for a short visit. Hyman Abrams has already returned from Dickinson, Halbert Hutchinson is expected from Swarthmore today, while Ralph Smalley and Franklin Lowe will return from Cornell tomorrow morning.

The silver loving cup which was given by the Athletic Association to the pupil turning in the most money for selling tickets for the recent play, has been won by Arthur Townley, of the freshmen class. He turned in $24. The cup was presented to the winner this morning at the Thanksgiving exercises.

THANKSGIVING DAY SERVICE.

The Thanksgiving service at St. Stephen's church will be held at 10 o'clock, one hour earlier than the usual Sunday services, with special music and sermon, but the service with regard to the home and holiday associations of the day, will be but an hour long.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 39 degrees; 11 a. m., 46 degrees; 1 p. m., 46 degrees.

THANKSGIVING.

In the yesteryears our Pilgrim fathers once each year gathered their loved ones around them and offered up thanks to their God for a bountiful harvest. The beautiful custom has been handed down to us, but it has lost much of its meaning in the journey through ages.

They were tillers of the soil, receiving all that they had or cared for directly from nature, and were in touch with God and its works, while we, through Time's many changes, have come to live in crowded cities and to receive Heavenly favors in strange ways, so that we have fallen into the weakness of crediting our blessings to our own good efforts and not to Divine kindness. Thanksgiving cannot mean the same to us that it did to them, but it is still the most inspiring holiday in the year, excepting that on which we celebrate the birthday of our Savior.

No American citizen can fail to find cause for Thanksgiving tomorrow. If he has not wealth nor health he should feel grateful that his case is an isolated one in this wonderful country of freedom, and give thanks that he is not living in other lands where his sufferings would pass unnoticed by a nation of men and women bowed in grief.

America has been blessed with the pleasures of peace. Instead of being graveyards for noble sons our fields are golden with grain, while other countries are pouring out their money for death-dealing machinery, we are reaping a harvest that will help to make our men stronger and better and prolong their lives. Our people are awake to the horrors of war and in all this land there is not a single voice that dares to cry out against peace, so that while statesmen may differ as to the means to the end, they are united in that the peace of our country should be preserved. Our men walk free and straight and unafraid, and our women are happy that their only share in the sorrow of the world is that of the kindly giver of aid to the unfortunate. Let us give thanks.

VICTORY IN DEFEAT.

A coalition between Boss Baird, of Camden county, and Boss Dalrymple, of Essex county, has resulted in the defeat of Assemblyman William N. Runyon, of Plainfield, for the speakership of the House of Assembly at the forthcoming session. Mr. Runyon was beaten by a vote of 26 to 14 in the Republican caucus at Trenton yesterday, but there is nothing of which he need be ashamed in the defeat. Had the members-elect of the House been a little more independent and not the puppets of the political bosses, the result would have been different. The people have the satisfaction of knowing that in the majority party there are fourteen men who are not afraid of their shadows.

Judge Runyon was too independent to suit the powers that be. It is said that they are planning some pretty raw legislation for the next session, and they want a man in the speaker's chair upon whom they can depend to help them in completing the program. They want one who will appoint "safe" committees, and Runyon showed a little too much independence last year for them to take a chance with him in a position of responsibility.

But the Plainfielder has nothing to regret in his defeat. As a free lance on the floor, realizing fully the boss ridden condition of affairs, he will be in a position to upset a lot of the neat plans which have been made for the forthcoming session. With fourteen independent men in the Republican party, and a healthy minority of twenty, Judge Runyon can effectively upset any efforts to repeal the good laws which have been passed in the last nine years—good laws for the people, but poor ones for the bosses and the interests which they represent.

With the opportunities which will now be presented to Judge Runyon for service for the people who elected him, as opposed to serving the bosses, he will find that the disappointment which this temporary set back has brought to him will be more than offset by the splendid service he will be able to give. In fact it is rather an encouraging defeat.

Speaking of cause for giving thanks, Assemblyman Runyon must be thankful to learn that he is entirely too clean and independent a man for the bosses who control the incoming Legislature. As it is, he now has an opportunity to do much more effective work and to assert his independence in a way that he could not have done had he been made speaker.

There is a real treat in store for readers of the Press in this week's Saturday editorial. It has been written by a man who has made good at the job for which the people have chosen him.

Following the invariable custom there will be no edition of the Daily Press tomorrow, Thanksgiving Day. The office will be closed all day.

Among the things to add to your list to give thanks for tomorrow is the fact that it is not to late to do your Christmas shopping early.

It's getting harder and harder every day to climb out of bed in the early morning.

LADIES' AUXILIARY GIVE SUCCESSFUL EUCHRE PARTY

The first of the series of euchre parties held by the Ladies' Auxiliary, No. 5, of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, Monday night, was a success. Seventy-five persons were present at the affair, which was held at the home of Mrs. C. McCarthy, on Manson place, Monday evening. Eight tables were in play. First prize in euchre was won by Mrs. Edward McCue, who was awarded a mirror, while the men's prize was won by Charles H. Hanna, who received a shaving set. Second prize for the women went to Mrs. R. Hillis, and second men's prize went to William Hines, the recipient getting a smoking set. Third prizes were given to Mrs. C. Kelly and Robert Howell. Prize winners in the game of heart were Miss Kathryn Regan, Mrs. Lappin and John Hines. The next euchre of the series will be held at the home of Miss Mayme Bergen, at 1107 West Front street, on Tuesday evening, December 7.

Autumn Sunshine

Late fall sunshine, you're a fraud.
All my brown-green lawn you gaud
With the nuggets of your gold,
Looking everything but cold.
Yet when I go out to feel
All your comfort I congeal!

Late fall sunshine, there you lie
Swearing you are warm, till I
Venture forth without my sweater,
Thinking I am much your debtor.
But as I go out my door,
I am frozen to the core.

Late fall sunshine, never again
Will you lure me from my den
With your right-hand-lifted pledge
That you have no cutting edge.
I'll wear furs when breasting you!
Nothing that you say is true!

Dirt

Dirt is something out of place.

Stable litter and leaf-mold in a garden are all right.

But in the living-room, in the middle of a rug, they are dirt.

Sand in a sand-box is perfectly legitimate.

On the bath-room floor when the children undress at night it is dirt.

Potato-peelings, superfluous cabbage leaves, beet-tops and bacon rinds are expected in a garbage chalice.

But in your top bureau drawer they'd be a mess.

A bartender behind a horizontal slab of near-mahogany with beer suds rampant and bungstarters couchant looks in perfect keeping with the rest of the scenery.

But put him in charge of a Sunday-school class and he would be dirt.

A prancing horse hitched to a high-seated, two-wheeled cart, with a dainty lady driving, looks just dandy.

But seat that same horse at the dining-room table with that same young lady, and there would be a heap of talk.

When you are where you don't belong, you are dirt.

Were you ever dirt?

Recipe

Dear Offagin—I have been struggling along for forty years, in my community, making about as much noise as dropping a feather down a well. I have always secretly yearned to be a prominent business man and so to be published in the town papers, as well as elsewhere. How can it be did?—E. J., Sullivan, Ind.

It can be did, old Eejie! Just use a certain amount of Stuffy's Salt Whisky or something like that, and send in a testimonial.

The Editorial Apology

Yesterday we published in our paper a request that any reader noticing any mistakes in facts, or grammatical or typographical errors, in that issue, report the same to us and we would print the corrections. To-day we are forced, in order to fulfil this pledge, to give up the printing of news and fill all our columns with corrections. To-morrow we will publish a newspaper again, but we won't never again be such darn suckers as to print that kind of an invitation so long as this town is wet and we have two tourist printers on cases.—Jaysville Bladder.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Intussusception In Babies

IN children under five years of age an occasional accident which mothers should be able to recognize is a slipping of one portion of bowel into a portion farther along, invagination or intussusception, as it is called, like turning a glove finger inside out. When this occurs it causes obstruction of the bowel. Sometimes it corrects itself spontaneously, but as a rule immediate operation is the only life-saving remedy.

It might happen in a perfectly healthy child, but it seems to occur more often among babies that have some chronic digestive disturbance and general poor health.

The baby suddenly begins to cry hard. The legs are drawn up. Food is refused. If the child is old enough he will point to a place in the abdomen which pains. One boy aged three said a flea was biting him on the right side of his abdomen, where the intussusception was found. The abdomen is very sensitive over the affected place. Vomiting comes on and continues obstinately. If the bowels act a little at first they soon become completely obstructed, not even gas escaping. The vomited material is first food, then bile-stained liquid, finally very dark and offensive fluid.

Blood-stained mucus or "slime" is generally passed from the bowel at the beginning, and this is a very suggestive sign of intussusception, especially when considered in connection with the other symptoms mentioned.

Now the doctor makes a diagnosis of intussusception by feeling a sausage-shaped, slightly curved mass in the region affected. Mothers familiar with the signs of intussusception have recognized the condition more than once by discovering such a peculiar lump in the abdomen.

Of course the attack is acute and sharp, the child shows much physical weakness and depression, and prompt medical or surgical treatment is imperative. In many cases it takes a week for the attack to reach its height.

Remember that sudden pain in the abdomen, vomiting, stoppage of the bowels after the passing of one or two blood-stained, slimy stools, and a sausage-shaped lump or mass in the abdomen pretty positively indicates intestinal obstruction from intussusception. Although comparatively a rare accident, if a mother knows such a thing is possible she is in a position to suspect it when it does occur and to summon medical attention promptly.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Man With Phlebitis

My husband had an operation for hernia a month ago. He was getting along nicely until two weeks after the operation. Then his left leg became much swollen and the doctor said it was "milk leg," or the same thing. He also called it Phlebitis. My husband is on crutches. The doctor advises an elastic stocking. Will you please give me what information you can?

Answer—Phlebitis, meaning inflammation of a vein, is not a rare accident after operation, in the most skilful hands. It is the same thing as "milk leg," so-called, after child-birth. The doctor's advice is 100 per cent. right. It will probably be a year or more before the trouble is fully relieved.

Dr. Brady will answer all questions pertaining to Health. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. BY GEORGE FITCH

THE TURKEY

THE turkey is the national bird of thankfulness. He reigns not upon our coins or in our poetry, but upon our bills of fare and in our dreams.

The turkey is a large bird with pompous ways like a new-laid millionaire. He does not fly, but struts about the chicken yard and converses in a loud hobble-gobble which might easily be mistaken for a political speech by a contended conservative candidate. The turkey is hatched in the spring and arrives at his juiciest perfection about the middle of November, about which time he becomes almost entirely extinct each year. He is made valuable and useful by the simple process of laying him on a log and removing his gobble with an axe. Why this method has never been tried on aldermen and ward politicians is an exasperating mystery. We are indeed a careless nation.

The turkey originally inhabited America in a wild state and was discovered by the Pilgrim fathers in the fall of 1630. The Pilgrim fathers already knew how to make mashed potatoes and pumpkin pies and when they discovered the turkey, they knew that the time was now ripe for a Thanksgiving celebration. The turkey has been the central figure of Thanksgiving ever since. Thanksgivings vary in fervency and good cheer with the varying price of turkey and its continual ascent during the past few years has sent a wave of pessimism over the land. Of late it has almost seemed as if no one but millionaires and inmates of prisons could afford to be truly thankful with oyster dressing on Thanksgiving Day.

The turkey himself is partly to blame for this. He is a most capriciously unhealthy bird. Knowing that the appetite of the nation will be whetted for him in November, he takes a positive pleasure in dying in June. A young turkey is the most versatile and expert dyer on record. He will die of heat, chill, thirst, damp feet, thunder, dust and indigestion, and will sometimes die of all of them at once. Ten young turkeys can drown under a burdock leaf in a heavy dew and the man who counts his turkeys before he has ungobbled them is indeed foolish.

The patriotic turkey dies for his country on Thanksgiving Day, but unlike other patriots he comes back and insists on repeating the performance. There might properly be two Thanksgiving Days—the one on which the turkey first appears and the one on which he finally disappears from the bill of fare.

Views Of The Press

Thanksgiving Day

THE first Thanksgiving Day in America was celebrated by the little band of Plymouth Colonists in 1621, though they had little to be thankful for except that they were alive. One of the reasons why they were alive was that among the food resources of the new land, "besides water foule, there was a great store of wild Turkies."

This earnest festival of the Colonists was a mere holiday after the toil of the harvest, a "frolic" such as may still be seen in many parts of England, with little or no religious associations or observances. It was a time of dancing and feasting, sports and trials of strength and skill, of rest and relaxation after the labors of the year. Merry-makings at harvest-home were prevalent in England; and the Pilgrims did but reproduce, in this as in most other things, the institutions with which they had been familiar at home.

The first national official recognition of Thanksgiving Day occurred in 1789, when President Washington issued the first Thanksgiving Proclamation, appointing Thursday, November 26, as a day to be set aside for "acknowledging with grateful hearts the many and signal favors of Almighty God, especially by affording them (the people) an opportunity peaceably to establish a form of government for their safety and happiness," and, in particular, for "the favorable interpositions of His providence in the course and conclusion of the late war." Subsequently fast days and days of thanksgiving were appointed at times of national crises; and in 1863 President Lincoln set apart the "last Thursday in November" for "thanksgiving and praise," not only in gratitude for successes in the war, but especially for "the blessings of fruitful fields and healthful skies, . . . bounties which are so constantly enjoyed that we are prone to forget the source from which they come." It was, like all Lincoln's public utterances, a noble message, simply and strongly phrased; and it is commonly and rightly regarded as the true starting point of the modern annual celebration. Lincoln, it will be noticed, returned to the date—the last Thursday in November—which had been selected by Washington in his first Thanksgiving Proclamation nearly a century before. That date has since been adhered to, with the exception of the single year, 1865, when Andrew Johnson preferred to take the first Thursday in December; nor has any President since 1863 failed to issue his annual proclamation.—Manitoba Free Press.

BY E. R. BRANSON

She Resigned Her Claim

Q. A woman was injured in a street car accident. Later, while suffering great pain, she signed a release of damages, and it seems to be doubtful whether she knew what she was doing. Would the fact that she signed the release prevent her from recovering substantial damages from the company?

A. A release may be avoided if it can be shown that it was procured by means of fraud or duress or if the person executing the release was in such a condition of mind as to be unable to have a reasonable understanding of its contents and meaning.

Partnership Names

Q. In forming a partnership, could the name of one man alone be used? For instance, could the firm be styled "The Jones Company," or should it be "Jones & Brown," if Mr. Brown is the other member? Or could it be known as "Jones & Company"?

A. Any of the names mentioned could be used. There is no reason why the name of one partner alone should not be employed, if so desired.

His Conscience Is Getting Busy

Q. If one should make a mis-statement in insuring his property against loss by fire, could he recover from the company if the property burns?

A. If the mis-statement is innocently made or is immaterial, it will not affect the validity of the policy. If it is a willful misrepresentation, and of a material character, the company could make proof thereof in defense of a suit.

An Unutterable Longing

Q. A man has promised to make a promissory note in my favor, as he owes me some money. I have been wondering whether it would be well to have him add the word "Seal" after signing his name. Would this fact give the note any increased legal effect?

A. The seal should be omitted. It does not help in any way and, in some states, will destroy the negotiability of the note.

Respectable Advertising

Q. A lease is drawn up which provides that certain rooms are to be used for professional or business offices and for no other purposes. The tenant agrees not to exhibit or display any business signs except his name and occupation upon the doors and at the entrance on the ground floor of the building. He further agrees to abide by the decision of the owner of the building as to the style of the lettering to be used in putting his name and occupation on the door. Would this be legal?

A. Yes, perfectly so.

Installment Contract Is Legal

Q. Is a contract legal which provides for the purchase of goods or articles by means of installments of rent?

A. A contract of this sort is legal. It is, in effect, a conditional sale, notwithstanding that the term "rent" is frequently used to denote the installment payments.

Do Vice-Presidents Vote?

Q. (1) Isn't the vice-president of the United States the presiding officer of the senate? (2) If so, does he have a vote?

A. (1) Yes. (2) He has no vote unless the members of the senate are equally divided.

Mr. Branson will be glad to answer all questions. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not, it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all letters to E. R. Branson, care of this newspaper.

The Life Line

BY LAURA KIRKMAN

The "Hard Luck" Person

What a misnomer! He ought to be called the "good luck" person. Every one that's ever got anywhere in life will tell you that he owes his success to some sort of hardship—disappointment—ill health—penury—remorse. Adversity takes us and shakes us and makes us know ourselves; pleasures woo us from our meditations on life's meaning. Yet this lucky "hard luck" person envies the gayer, shallower man—the man doomed to mediocrity! He's getting his initiation into the big, worth-while fraternity of Sympathy and Understanding, yet he envies the hopeless outsider! He's as crazy as an electric fan.

The Selfish Wife

No doubt, in little things she's the most unselfish woman in the world. She wants George to occupy the easiest chair. She insists upon his going out now and then with "the boys." As long as no big changes come along, their union is perfect. But let him lose money. Let him say to her: "It's a choice between a smaller apartment or a smaller office," and who comes first, then, with her? Does she say, "By all means, keep the office; a good front means so much in business"? No, sir. She covers her face with her hands. "Oh, I couldn't let my friends find me in a dingy little flat after this!" she wails. And it's the office that goes. This is the wife that can't be a partner. She's the woman who can never know the depths in the word "together." Her jewels are paste.

Current Poetry

A Song of Thanksgiving

I'm thankful that the years are long—
However long they be,
They still are laborers glad and strong,
They ever work for me.
This rose I cut with careless shears,
And wear and cast away,
The cosmos wrought a million years
To make it mine a day;
This lily of the pasture bars
Beneath the walnut tree,
Long ere the fire-mist formed in stars,
Was on its way to me.

The laws of property are lax—
My neighbor's farm is fine;
I'm thankful, though he pays the tax,
The best of it is mine.
No sheriff's clutch can loose my grip
On fields I have not sown,
Or shake my sense of ownership
In things I do not own.
I'm thankful for my neighbor's wood,
His orchard, lake and lea;
For, while my eyes continue good,
I own all I can see.

I'm thankful for this mighty age,
These days beyond compare,
When hope is such a heritage
And life a large affair.
We thank the gods for low and high,
Right, wrong (as well we may),
For all the wrong of days gone by Works goodness for to-day.
Here on Time's table-land we pause
To thank on bended knee,
To thank the gods for all that was,
And is, and is to be.

I'm thankful for the glow and grace
And winsome beauty of the Near,
The greatness of the Commonplace,
The glory of the Here.
I'm thankful for man's high emprise,
His stalwart sturdiness of soul,
The long look of his skyward eyes
That sights a far-off goal.
And so I feel to thank and bless
Both things unknown and understood—
And thank the stubborn thankfulness
That maketh all things good.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney troubles, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.—Adv.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of mussing.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur no one can tell, because it does so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Adv.

OUCH! LUMBAGO! RUB PAINS FROM SORE, LAME BACK

Rub Backache away with small trial bottle of old, penetrating St. Jacob's Oil.

Back hurt you? Can't straighten up without feeling sudden pains sharp aches and twinges? Now listen! That's lumbago, sciatica or maybe from a strain, and you'll get relief the moment you rub your back with soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil." Nothing else takes out soreness, lameness and stiffness so quickly. You simply rub it on your back and out comes the pain. It is harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Limber up! Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" from any drug store, and after using it just once, you'll forget that you ever had a backache, lumbago or sciatica, because your back will never hurt or cause any more misery. It never disappoints and has been recommended for 60 years.—Adv.

HEAD STUFFED FROM CATARRH OR A COLD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Opens Air Passages Right Up.

Instant relief—no waiting. Your clogged nostrils open right up; the air passages of your head clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffing, blowing, headache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh disappears.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed-up with a cold or nasty catarrh.—Adv.

Clear, Peachy Skin Awaits Anyone Who Drinks Hot Water

Says an inside bath, before breakfast helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Sparkling and vivacious—merry, bright, alert—a good, clear skin and natural, rosy, healthy complexion are assured only by pure blood. If only every man and woman could be induced to adopt the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men women and girls, with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "run downs," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds, and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance, awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.—Adv.

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Bibbley Wah Gets A Jack-o'-lantern Big as Anything.

"PROBABLY Hank Fritz knew how to make more kinds of jack-o'-lanterns than any man in the world," daddy told two eager children just after supper. "He never waited till Halloween, but all through the fall practiced on gourds, squashes, turnips and pumpkins. So Bibbley Wah always had a shelf full to make her choice from, and almost all snow fell the boys had some kind of fun scaring somebody."

"It seems just as if the children never had to go to school! They always have so much fun on Uncle Ben's farm!" cried Jack.

"All but Bibbley Wah went to school, but every Friday they left town and went to spend their holidays with Uncle Ben. So they had lots of time to have fun, you see. Well, Hank made one kind of lantern that pleased Bibbley Wah very much he made she could carry it around by its handle.

"This favorite lantern was made out of a long necked yellow squash, and Hank had a clever way of scooping out the seeds without cutting off the neck, so that Bibbley Wah could grasp it by its green stem and trudge off with her little blinking light all day. She had to go to bed rather early after dark.

"One cool fall Friday night Uncle Ben heard Bobbie and Jim planning to share Bibbley Wah, who slept on the ground floor in a little white room next to Anne's. So Uncle Ben decided to help Bibbley Wah play a trick on the boys. He ordered Hank Fritz to get the biggest, roundest, best pumpkin on the farm, and he helped him and Bibbley Wah scoop out the seeds, dig a hole for one of Anne's candles and make, oh, just the funniest face with a snub nose, a huge crooked mouth and pop eyes! Then to make it even funnier they stuck some corn husks on it for stick-up hair, and when Bobbie and Jim carelessly said they guessed they would sleep in the dollhouse just for a change Uncle Ben and Bibbley Wah were all ready for them."

"Why did they want to sleep in the dollhouse?" asked Evelyn.

"So they could sneak up to Bibbley Wah's window without Anne seeing them. Anne always took Bibbley Wah's part. When the light in the playhouse went out Uncle Ben took Bibbley Wah's hand and Hank took the big jack-o'-lantern under an old coat, and together they sneaked up under the boys' window. Hank's long legs made him just like a human stepladder, you see, and he pulled off the covering and set the great, funny, grinning face right in the boys' window sill.

"How they yelled! They had no idea Hank could make such a queer creature and were truly surprised and a good deal frightened. So Uncle Ben treated to pop-corn and everybody went to bed happy," daddy finished.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

John Sutner Learns the Part He Has Played in His Wife's Illness.

"Your wife is a very sick woman, Sutner, and—I hate to say it, but your presence in the sick room seems to excite her and make her worse." Dr. Ellson looked sharply at the young husband. "She talks a great deal in her delirium and seems always to be trying to explain something to you, trying to excuse herself. She seems to feel that you are angry with her. I think you had better keep away from her room all you can. She must not be excited if she is to have a chance for her life."

John Sutner sank into a chair. He was pale to his lips.

"You must save her, doctor. I shall feel that I have killed her. She has worked too hard; I have known it in a dazed sort of way, but I have been so harrassed with financial troubles that I have not been man enough to take proper care of her." He looked the picture of despair.

"Excuse me. A doctor must ask very impertinent questions some times. That hardly accounts for the condition your presence produces. Have you blamed her largely for your financial condition? Have you visited your irritation on her?" John dropped his eyes before the stern gaze of the doctor.

"I have been a brute. I deserve to lose her." The voice was unsteady.

"It is as I feared," the doctor replied after a pause. "I wish you were not needed in there." The doctor looked troubled, and turned and went into the sick room.

When the doctor came into the sitting room and was preparing to leave for the night he found John with his head buried in his hands. He touched him on the shoulder and said kindly:

"Pull yourself together, Sutner. You cannot scatter your forces this way. You will have need of them all. I have been thinking that when you are watching tonight if she seems excited and talks in her delirium try soothing her with all the affection you can pour out in words. That may quiet her. It is worth trying. There will be no change before morning, I think. Good night." He was gone and John dropped his head in his hands again.

"Mr. Sutner, I believe everything is ready for the night and I will go to bed now. Call me at half past one; I will have your breakfast ready at a quarter of eight."

"Are all the directions for the medicine written out?" asked John, rising.

"Yes, everything. Mrs. Sutner is asleep now. Good night."

John rose and stole to the sick room. On the little stand near the bed the medicine and glasses were neatly arranged. A screen shielded the patient's eyes from the night lamp. Molly was in a stupor or uneasy slumber, John could not tell which. He sank on his knees and buried his face in the bedclothes. For an hour he knelt there and passed in review his conduct to Molly; his speeches that were sent out to rankle and bite and he knew they had bit and rankled.

"Oh, God," he cried, "give me another chance."

AMERICAN SCHOOLS ARE THROWN OPEN

Wide Scope of Plan of U. S. Bureau to Educate Aliens.

Washington, Nov. 24.—Throughout the country the plan of the Bureau of Naturalization of the U. S. Department of Labor to enlist the co operation of public schools in the education and Americanization of candidates for citizenship is receiving the most gratifying support. Approximately 400 cities and towns have already joined in this nation-wide educational movement for the elimination of the hyphen and this number is increasing daily.

The magnitude of this work and its development since its inception are shown, in part, by the territory covered, the number of candidates for citizenship reached, and the night and day schools which have been established for their instruction. It is the intention of the Bureau of Naturalization to communicate with all applicants for citizenship in the United States, wherever they are to be found and to secure the opening of classes for them. During the current scholastic year all superintendents of schools where classes may be formed will receive monthly from the Bureau the name, address, age, nationality, and other necessary information concerning each alien residing within their jurisdictions who files a declaration of intention or petition for naturalization. In this manner the school authorities are enabled to get in touch with such applicants and afford them valuable assistance in preparing for citizenship. In addition to this the Bureau informs each applicant for citizenship that his name has been forwarded to the educational authorities, advises him to go to school, and points out the benefits to be derived from such attendance. The Bureau is also working lin close co-operation with various patriotic and civic bodies of the country to secure the opening of public night schools where there are none.

The wives of all petitioners for naturalization are also advised to attend school, for the reason that they derive citizenship when their husbands obtain their final papers, and because too, such instruction will materially aid the family to live as American live. It has been found that approximately two out of every three petitioners for naturalization are married, and it is toward the improvement of the home life and condition that this phase of the movement is especially directed.

The records of the Bureau of Naturalization show that since the commencement of the school year on October 1 notifications have been sent to approximately 40,000 declarants, 20,000 petitioners, and 15,000 wives of petitioners, and each day hundreds are added to the list.

POULTRYMEN OF STATE ASSOCIATION CO-OPERATE

The New Jersey State Poultry Association, adopting the plan recommended by its co-operative committee, has recenetly organized a system whereby its members can purchase their feed directly from the large Western elevators at a very much reduced price.

The feed is pt up in 100-pound bags of the New Jersey Poultry Association. The contents of each bag the analysis, the name of the feed the agent for the association and the official label are printed on every bag. With each bag there is a guarantee which, if the feed is not absolutely satisfactory, entities any member receiving it to another shipment or his money back without expense or discount.

All of the different poultry rations recommended by the State Experiment Station, and the agents' ready mixed rations will be sold, as well as the individual grains, such as oats wheat and corn, and milled grains such as bran, gluten and corn meal. These feeds can be had in any quantity of 100 pounds and above.

For further particulars address inquiries to the Poultry Department New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station, New Brunswick.

Household Hints

CANNING AND PRESERVING.

In Making Tomato Catsup—Boil tomatoes and strain, let stand several hours, then drain off juice that has formed on the top; it requires only half the time until done.

Canned Peppers—Select sweet red or green peppers of uniform size. Cut a circle around stem end of each one and remove veins and seeds; cover with boiling water, let stand five minutes, rub off the thin outer skin; throw into another dish and cover with cold water until chilled. Pack in fruit jars and cover with a boiling syrup made from two cups sugar and one quart vinegar which have boiled fifteen minutes. Fine for salads, sauces, with vegetables or meats when a piquant flavor is desired.

Carrot Marmalade — Grind 2½ pounds carrots, add enough water to moisten pulp, cook in double boiler until tender. Cook two chopped lemons in double boiler. When tender mix with carrots, measure and add equal amount of sugar. Boil until thick.

When Canning Any Kind of Fruit—Do not wipe the juice off the can till after the rubber and lid are put on, then turn can upside down and let stand over night; the juice will seep all around the lid and will seal the can tight. If this is done very little of the fruit will spoil.

THE TABLE.

Peach Shortcake—Mix together one quart sifted flour, three teaspoons baking powder, half cup butter and half teaspoon salt; then add beaten yolks two eggs and milk to just make a soft dough. Bake in a high pan. When done split with a hot knife, spread with butter and lay on pared quartered peaches. Dust with pulverized sugar, place the other crust on top, spread with whipped cream sweetened and flavored with lemon and vanilla, then lay halved pared fruit on top. Dust with sugar and serve.

Peach Pudding—Peel ripe peaches and place in dish. Over these pour two cups of water. Cover and bake until tender. Drain juice and set same to cool. Now add to juice one pint milk, four eggs (well beaten), one tablespoon baking powder, small cup whole wheat flour, tablespoon melted butter, cup of granulated sugar and small quantity salt. Mix all and beat about three minutes. Pour same over peaches in dish, and bake until pudding has become a rich brown. Serve with cream.

Peach Balls—Cream two-thirds cup sugar, one tablespoon butter, yolks of two eggs, one cup milk, 1½ cups flour in which is sifted one teaspoon baking powder. The last thing add whites of the eggs beaten stiff. Have ready six peaches pared and stoned. Butter well as many cups in the bottom, put in a little of the mixture, add a peach and cover with more of the batter. Bake or steam until done. Serve with whipped cream.

Creamed Grapes—Make a syrup of a pound of sugar and a quarter of a pint of water. Boil without stirring until a drop put into iced water becomes brittle. Remove from the fire. Set in an outer pan of boiling water and add to the syrup a dessertspoon of lemon juice. Run a stiff wire or the prong of a pickle fork through each grape, dig grapes one by one in the hot syrup. Then lay on waxed paper to dry.

Egg Biscuit—Sift together a quart of dry flour and three heaping teaspoons baking powder. Rub into this thoroughly a piece of butter the size of an egg; add two well beaten eggs, a tablespoon of sugar, a teaspoon of salt. Mix all together quickly into a soft dough with one cup of milk (more if needed). Roll out nearly half an inch thick. Cut into biscuits and bake in quick oven from fifteen to twenty minutes.

Cauliflower Salad—Cook cauliflower as usual in salted water; drain and cool; serve the flowerets on lettuce with mayonaise. Decorate with slices of pickled beets.

Icing—Melt a lump of butter size of an egg, add a cup of confectionery sugar and half cup nut meats. Rich and delicious. Nuts may be omitted.

French Fried Cucumbers—Peel cucumbers and cut into "inch" slices; sprinkle with salt and pepper; dip in beaten eggs and fine bread crumbs; sprinkle with salt and fry in hot lard until brown. Serve with tomato sauce and veal chops.

SPORT PROGRAM FOR TOMORROW

Football, Basketball, Trap Shooting, Bowling and Golf on the List.

MANY GOING HUNTING

Two Football Games, One on Parker Field in Morning, and the Other on Cricket Field in the Afternoon, Will Attract Many.

Three football games, three basketball matches, two gun club shoots, three bowling tournaments, a hunt club run, hunting and one golf competition make up tomorrow's local Thanksgiving menu for holiday sportsmen. The list provides attractions in the morning, afternoon and evening.

The football games will interest the greatest number. In the morning the annual game between the city High School eleven and a team of former P. H. S. players will be decided on Parker Field. The fray will be started at 10:30 o'clock.

Holy Cross will play the Bayonne Vikings on Cricket Field in the afternoon. The combat will begin at 3 o'clock. The third gridiron tussle will be the Apollo team's game at Princeton.

All the basketball set-tos will take place at night. A team of deaf mutes from Newark will appear at the Y. M. C. A. The Plainfield A. A. quintet will show at Hope Chapel. Two games will be played on the T. A. B. S. court, the Tabs meeting the junior class team of North Plainfield High School, and the second team taking on the Plainfield Juniors.

Two endurance bowling contests are carded. One will take place at the Columbus Club, and the other at Westfield. On the Knights' alleys there will also be prize bowling for turkeys and chickens. Eight matches in the individual tournament at the Elks' Club are scheduled to be rolled. About the only league match slated is the New York-New Brunswick tilt in the Elks' League.

The lone golf event will be the annual Thanksgiving country competition at the Plainfield Country Club. It will be a handicap affair, and a large field of players is expected to be out if the weather is favorable.

The Independent Gun Club will hold its usual holiday shoot at the club traps in Maple avenue. This shoot will take place in the morning, and in the afternoon the marksmen will face the traps at the Climax Gun Club grounds out Plainfield avenue.

Hunting will draw many gunners, especially those who are unable to get away from work on week days. The fact that game near this city is not as plentiful as in former season does not seem to deter the gunners from indulging in their favorite sport, even though there are fewer chances to bag game.

The Watchung Hunt Club will hold a run.

AMBOY WEEPING OVER FOOTBALL SITUATION

Town Sees Slim Possibility of Dexters Playing Holy Cross.

Unless the manager of the Holy Cross eleven opens up his heart and offers a reasonable guarantee, says the Perth Amboy Evening News of Saturday, it is not likely that the local Dexters and the Plainfield team will clash on the gridiron this year. Negotiations for the big game on Thanksgiving Day are off, of Harry Koons, who is looking after the interests of the local football warriors, would not entertain the proposition of the Holy Cross management for the holiday contest. He feels that his team, having taken the championship away from Holy Cross two years ago, is entitled to some consideration at the hands of the conquered eleven in the way of a guarantee, for $15 was all the Plainfield boys were willing to pay to stage the Dexter game.

The Amboyans naturally feel that Plainfield should come here to reclaim their lost title, but they are even willing to go to Plainfield under certain conditions. Big crowds have been drawn at the Holy Cross games this season, and when that team is making money the champion Dexter team is surely entitled to more than a microscopic guarantee such as has been offered. Last Saturday, in playing the sailors from the battleship Wyoming, $100 is said to have been cleared on the attraction.

Koons is willing to take his team to Plainfield with a winner-take-all proviso; he is willing to arrange a series of three games, two of which are to be played in this city, and he is willing to play at Plainfield, assume control of the business arrangements, and give the Holy Cross team the $15 that had been offeed the local knights of the gridiron for the game.

Having been idle all season, the Dexters will require two or three weeks in which to prepare for any games that may be arranged with the Holy Cross team.

REFEREE HAS NOT POWER TO AWARD TEAM A POINT

There was much discussion and difference of opinion at the Holy Cross-Olympic game Saturday as to whether the Plainfield team scored 15 or 16 points. Royle T. Phillips one of the officials, in a letter to the Daily Press, states that the correct score was 15. The impression became general among the players and spectators that one point was awarded Holy Cross, but the officials are not vested with such power, according to Umpire Phillips, who writes: "I do not think the referee did so on Saturday, although after the game I was told by one of the players that he had; but if he did it was wrong."

P. H. S. TRACK BOYS START TO GET BUSY

Nominations Made for Captain and Manager—Tyree Succeeds Fritts as Coach.

The initial call for candidates for the Plainfield High School track team was issued yesterday afternoon to take steps towards organization. Twelve men responded, but that number will be doubled by the next meeting. Nominations for captain and manager were made, and after being posted for a week, will be voted on at the next meeting on Tuesday afternoon. Candidates for captain are Trowbridge, Daniels, Clawson and Alpaugh, while Miller, Clawson and Van Hoesen were named for manager.

John Fritts, who coached the squad last year, will not have charge this season because of business duties, but in Harold Tyree, a new member of the High School faculty this year and a graduate of Ohio State, where he was an all-around athlete, will take charge. Although Ralph Runyon and Peyton Schenck, two of last year's mainstays, have left school, there is some excellent material in the squad, and Coach Tyree can be depended upon to bring out all that is in the timber at hand.

SPORTING NOTES

Freddie Welsh has been offered $12,000 to meet Johnny Dundee in a 20-round bout to a decision in New Haven next Memorial Day.

The Chicago six-day cycle race will wind up tomorrow night, and the riders will get ready for the third long contest at New York.

The American Boxing Association, recently formed, is laying down the law to the boxers. The only thing that can back up this movement is public endorsement, and the moguls have got to go straight to get this.

The golf season in the South this winter promises to break all records. The flow of visitors from the North will set in after Christmas, and the links will be the mecca of pleasure-seekers.

The International Horse Show opens at Chicago on Saturday, and many new steeds will be added to the groups that will go to the Windy City from the New York Show.

Charlie White vindicated himself after his defeat by Matt Wells by going over to Boston last week and putting the K. O. on Millburn Saylor. White was ill when he tackled Wells, but says he hated to disappoint his Chicago friends.

Alex Aberg, the big Finlander, who is putting them all on their backs, weighs 230 pounds, and is 32 years old. He has been at the game for thirteen years, and now holds the world's Graeco-Roman title. He has not lost a fell in ten years, although he has tackled 1,000 tough ones.

Prizes totaling $10,000 are being distributed at the breed show of the Eastern Dog Club, at Boston. All of the leading kennels have their best dogs on the benches, and some new importations are rivaling the former champions.

A. A. C. GAMES.

The Irish-American Athletic Club will open the indoor track and field athletic season on Saturday night when they conduct their annual indoor games at Madison Square Garden, New York. As usual, the officials of the club have arranged a very attractive program, consisting of seven track events, seven field events and four relay races. The McAlennan 1,000-yard race and the special scratch club relay race will be the feature events of the games.

P. H. S.—HOLY CROSS GO OFF

Schoolboys Fear They Will Imperil Amateur Status by Playing Game.

WILL WRITE TO A. A. U.

Students, After Listening to Coaches Patch and Tyree, Decide to Cancel Game Billed for Next Saturday.

Local fans will have to go without a Holy Cross-P. H. S. go, because the schoolboys are afraid of injuring their amateur standing and will not play in the game that was originally scheduled for Saturday. Ever since the encounter was first proposed there has been much opposition to it, and it is partly on the strength of advice from Ralph Patch and Harold Tyree, who have coached the Red and Blue team this year, that the decision was reached yesterday by the schoolboys.

The game was first definitely spoken of last Saturday, and instead of accepting the guarantee that Holy Cross always offers, Donald Updike, who was to manage the affairs for the High School boys, was to spend the amount on a "feed" and theatre party. Even aside from that point, the P. H. S. coaches argue that by even playing against the club team the fellows would be classed as professionals, and could not play on High School athletic teams. Three or four of those that would play will be graduated this coming June and would not play on the school team any more anyway, but for the sake of those who have a year or more left before being graduated, they have declined to play in such a game even when there is a doubt.

Ever since the game between the High School and Holy Cross four years ago, there has been opposition every fall that a game between the two elevens has been mentioned and each time the question of professionalism has arisen to prevent such a match. Each time the matter has not been definitely settled, but now the Amateur Athletic Union will be asked in a letter from the High School players to decide the question for once and all. Although a decision from the A. A. U. is received too late to play late this season if it is for the matter will be settled and an annual encounter can be expected to result.

LINE-UPS FOR ALUMNAE TILT AT P. H. S. TONIGHT

The Alumnae-P. H. S. girls' basketball game will begin tonight promptly at 8 o'clock. Miss Ruth Wynn, coach of the school girls, has selected a squad to be on hand, and anticipates giving the grads a run for the winning side of the score. Her line-up for this evening will be as follows. Forwards, Misses Irma Good, Elsa Palmer; substitutes, Misses Dorothy Butler, Frances Alpaugh; centres, Misses Clementine Bremble, Nettie Goelter; substitutes, Marion Lansdale, Esther Rosenson; guards, Misses Jennie Bremble, P. Pennock; substitutes, G. Head and A. Berrien.

The Alumnae girls will have the following young women on the floor. Forwards, Misses Alice Mehl, Jessie Stewart, Ruth Morris; centres, Misses Sadie Rothberg, Ruth Douglas; guards, Misses Ruth Voorhees, Bessie Morris, Lucy Johnson.

GRAD GRIDDERS TO PRACTICE.

Football practice for the game with P. H. S. tomorrow will be held by the Alumni players in front of the Plainfield High School tonight at 8 o'clock. All those intending to play are requested to be on hand promptly. Arthur Van Zandt, captain of the 1913 football team, will manage the Alumni team. The game will be played tomorrow morning on the Parker Field.

ART VAN ZANDT IS RECRUITING GRADS

P. H. S. Captain of 1913 Will Lead Alumni Eleven in Tomorrow's Game.

Plainfield High School's gridiron warriors will play their last game of the season tomorrow morning, when they line-up against the Alumni in their annual tilt. Arthur Van Zandt, who is rounding up the "has beens" for the occasion, has not announced his recruits, but anyone on deck when the whistle blows at Parker Field at 10:30 o'clock will get a chance to show what they can still do.

Van Zandt will probably play quarter, the position he held when captain of P. H. S. two years ago. Rosenson, Green, the Ricketts brothers and several others will form the rest of the backfield. "Jimmy" Dunwell, a former High School guard, has his moleskins oiled up, and with Carty will help form the line. Monroe, Good and Bill Peacock will not be on deck, as the Colgate squad is still in training.

Coach Patch will put his strongest team in for the last game in an effort to win. With the exception of Fitch at right end, there will be no changes. Miller, who played at left tackle until he was hurt in the Battin game, will go in at end. Mumford and Berrien will take care of the tackles, Hooper and Pennock of the guards. Whelan will play at centre, and Davidson will complete the line at right end. Alpaugh will start at quarter, Daniels and Apgar at the halves and Noonan at full.

Tomorrow night—New York at New Brunswick.

An extremely close Elks' League match was rolled at Rutherford last night, Jersey City losing all three games. The Skeeters dropped the first by two pins, the second by 25, and the third by 4 points.

The scores were all low. Rutherford's 874 was high. The home team had a pair of 200 scores on their side, each of the Walter brothers rolling that figure. The Jersey City bunch, for the first time in many, many moons, failed to record a single double century.

EASTERN-STATES CHAMPS AT Y. M. C. A. TOMORROW NIGHT

The attraction at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow evening will be the Deaf Mutes, of Newark, champions of the Eastern States for 1914-1915. The lineup of the Deaf Mutes will be as follows: V. Metzles, O. Coyne, A. Petois, forwards; O. Renike, centre; S. Eber, A. Baumlin, C. Reilly, guards. The Y. M. C. A. lineup will probably be the same as on last Saturday night.

On Saturday, November 27, the Recreation Five, of Plainfield, will be the opponent at the Y. M. C. A.

TRAP SHOOTING AT BALTUSROL.

Members of the Baltusrol Golf Club are to inaugurate the clay pigeon shooting season tomorrow afternoon, when a handicap shoot will be held at the club's traps, the sport to be started at 3 o'clock.

PUT OFF K. C. TILT.

A Knights of Columbus League bowling match, which was to have been rolled last night between the Star of Bethlehem and Olive Branch teams on the Newark alleys, was postponed.

HOPPE BREAKS WORLD'S 18.2 RECORD BY RUNNING OFF 308

Playing in his best form, Willie Hoppe established a world's high run record last night in the final match of the first national handicap 18.2 balkline billiard tournament at the New York Theatre Building Concert Hall. The national champion ran 308 points in his match with Welker Cochran, whom he defeated by the overwhelming score of 500 to 18. As Cochran was allowed 200 by handicap his official score was 218. The best previous high run record was 307 made by Hoppe against the late Jack Schaefer in the all-star tournament at Chicago in 1906.

STRICT ON AMATEURISM.

"The United States Golf Association is not going to let up in the least in its efforts to keep the game free from taint," said Frank L. Woodward, president of the association, who arrived in New York from Denver, Col., yesterday. [illegible] "In the future they will keep entirely within bounds."

BAPTIST JUNIORS GIVE FAIRY PLAY

"Princess Merryheart" Admirably Presented Before a Large Audience.

An audience which completely filled the Sunday-school rooms of the First Baptist church last night gathered to hear the juvenile production of "Princess Merryheart and the Eight Fairies." The play was given under the auspices of the Judson Juniors. The excellent manner in which all parts of the program was rendered showed that great efforts had been put forth by the children and the women under whose direction the play was staged had spared no effort to make the affair the success which it proved to be.

Miss Anna Sherwin, as "Princess Merryheart," was really a princess in every sense, Jean Macnab filling the dual role of mother and grandmother, while others in the caste of characters were as follows: Ruth Hoffman, Grace; Dorothy Moore, Rose; Mildred Ammerman, Dora; Mary Douglas, Agnes; Martha Drake, Lizzie; Dorothy Ross, Alice; Florence Wells, Hilda; Elizabeth Willis, Elsie; Emma Doughlas, Susie; Marjorie Emmons, Cora; Grace Bunker, Edna; Charlotte Beril, Ruth; Mabel Bodine, Beth; Marguerite Case, Ellen; Adelaide Emmons, May; Bessie Case, poor child; Florence Anderson, Japanese girl; Margaret Endress, mountain girl; Mildred Bradley, Indian girl; Alleyne Macnab, colored girl; Mattie Douglas, child widow; Evelyn Tennyson, Miss Hemenway.

RECREATION NOTES

The pianoforte classes will meet with Miss Lockwood this afternoon at the Franklin School.

The Bryant School dancing class will meet this afternoon. Folk dances, drills, fancy and social dances will be taught.

The P. R. G. S. will meet this evening in the Plainfield High School. There will be a rehearsal of the three act comedy, "Commencement Days," which the club expects to produce shortly after the new year. All members of the cast are urged to be present.

A dancing class will be started this afternoon at the Washington School. Folk dancing, social dancing and drills will be taught.

The swimming class, which meets at the High School on Friday morning at 10 o'clock, will be omitted this week.

THANKSGIVING DANCE.

The Italian residents of North Plainfield are arranging for a dance in Saengerbund Hall tomorrow night. While the event will be confined to persons of Italian nationality, the committee is anxious for a large attendance, and will provide excellent music for dancing and other attractions to insure a good time to all.

MISS HELEN IRONS A SOCIETY BUD

Formally Introduced by Her Mother at Brilliant Affair at Hartridge Auditorium.

LAVISH DECORATIONS

Hall is Transformed Into An English Garden—Debutante is Assisted by Large Receiving Party—Beautiful Floral Gifts.

Miss Helen Harcourt Irons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Irons, of West Eighth street, was formally introduced to society at a reception given by the parents at the Hartridge Auditorium on Wednesday evening. It was a brilliant social function, attended by more than five hundred guests from New York, Princeton, Summit and this city. The hours of the reception were from 9 to 10 o'clock, during which the older people were present, while from 10 o'clock on the young people enjoyed dancing, attractive music being furnished by Conrad's orchestra.

Mrs. Irons and her daughter were assisted in receiving by a large party of young women, comprising Miss Frances Todd, whose father is a business partner of Mr. Irons; Miss Dorothy Nicols, of New York; Miss Winifred Campbell, of Montclair; Miss Charlotte Fahnestock, of Philadelphia; Miss Susan Hartridge, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Miss Elizabeth Browne, Miss Dorcas Bomann, Miss Priscilla Fraker, Miss Helen Terry, Miss Janet Lane, Miss Mildred Miller and Miss Louise Patterson, of Plainfield.

The debutante wore a charming gown of the 1830 period, the material being of tulle and white satin, with a garland of roses to form the hoop skirt. She carried pink rosebuds and lilies of the valley, while her attendants carried smaller bouquets of the same flowers. Mrs. Irons wore cloth of steel and black satin gown and carried orchids and lilies of the valley.

The auditorium was transformed into a perfect English garden, with an English dining-room effect, where the refreshments were served. This attractive setting was obtained through an artistic arrangement of orchids, lilies of the valley, American Beauty roses and exquisite baskets of flowers. The whole stage was banked solid with beautiful floral gifts to the debutante, presenting a picture rarely seen on such an occasion. The decorative arrangement was the work of Miss Edith Van Boskerck, of this city.

All of the flowers were afterward taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, at the request of Miss Irons and her mother that they might brighten and cheer the patients at that institution.

Among the guests who enjoyed the function was William G. Irons, of Toms River, father of Henry C. Irons. He is in his eighty-eighth year, and he entered into the spirit of the affair with considerable pleasure. Miss Marion Cleveland, daughter of Mrs. Thomas J. Preston, Jr., of Princeton, and the late Grover Cleveland, was also present.

Miss Irons is a graduate of the Hartridge School and Miss Masters School at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y. In addition to the many flowers received by the debutant, she was also the recipient of many other beautiful gifts from relatives and friends.

PROGRESS ON SEWER WORK.

Rapid progress is being made with the installation of sewers in the borough. The contractors who are laying the collecting pipes expect to finish the work of laying the pipes within two weeks. It will then remain for the streets to be put in proper shape. Many months will elapse before the sewer system can be put in actual service, however, as the work of connecting the houses alone will require nearly six months after the trunk line is completed.

ROY PAFF KILLED WHILE HUNTING

Young Somerset County Farmer Dies From Excessive Loss of Blood.

WAS FAMILY'S SUPPORT

Wanted to Spend Thanksgiving Day With Parents, But Friend Persuaded Him to Go Into Fields—Died Early This Morning.

Somerville, November 26.—Roy Paff, the eighteen-year-old son of a well-to-do Somerset county farmer, died early this morning in the Somerset County Hospital as the result of a shotgun wound received while hunting yesterday.

Paff was accidentally shot in the leg late in the afternoon. He was more than a mile from his home and several miles from the hospital, and by the time he was brought here he had been so weakened from loss of blood that there was no chance of saving his life.

At the Paff home this morning there is a heart-broken father, a grief-stricken mother and a brother and four sisters who mourn the loss. Young Paff really managed the farm. The father is aged and the other son is not an agricultural expert like his brother. The condition of both father and mother is serious, and it is feared that one or both will fail to survive.

An added touch of pathos is given the death of Paff because of the fact that he did not want to go hunting yesterday, but preferred to spend Thanksgiving with other members of the family at home. He was persuaded to go into the fields by Jack Lifland, aged 22 years, son of a near by farmer, who lives at North Branch and New York.

Shortly after the two young men left the Paff home Lifland discovered that his gun would not work. The two were examining it and Paff had the weapon between his knees when a shell caught in the breech exploded and he received the full charge of shot in the upper leg. His companion realized that he was seriously injured, and hurried for assistance, but it was late last night before the wounded boy was finally brought to the Somerset County Hospital here and the loss of blood had been so great that he died within a few hours.

Lifland is a member of the family of a father and two sons who were recently arrested for interfering with Sergeant-at-Arms Ed Farlee, of the local court. They were paroled by the court.

Funeral services over the body of Paff will be held from the home, but definite arrangements have not been made.

GROTESQUE COSTUMES FEATURE MASQUERADE

Ancient Order of Hibernians Give Successful Affair in T. A. B. Hall.

Gay parties,—some grotesquely costumed, others attired in brilliant gowns of varied hues and styles,—made up the gathering at the annual masquerade given Wednesday night in T. A. B. Hall, under the auspices of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, No. 4. Fully two hundred members and their friends enjoyed the Irish dances as well as the modern dances, for which the music was furnished by a Bayonne orchestra. The success of the affair is due largely to the efforts of the two chairmen, Thomas Flatley and Martin Regan, who were capably assisted by a large committee.

Prizes for the handsomest costumes went to Miss Julia M. Kehoe, who was the source of many admiring glances in her regalia of a soldier of the British empire; Martin Regan came second, attired in an ancient Irish suit, while Miss Catharine Cooney and Miss May McNulty were given the third and fourth awards for their costumes as Irish queens.

PROF. TYSON TO LECTURE.

Professor Stewart Tyson, of Princeton, will deliver an interesting lecture in the Congregational church, Monday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock, before the Monday Afternoon Club. The subject of his talk will be the "Value of the Critical Study of the Bible." Professor Tyson is no stranger to Plainfield people, having lectured in Grace church during the Lenton season last year. The public is invited to attend the lecture Monday afternoon.

JAPAN—GERMANY POSSIBLE FOES

Henry A. Wise Wood Says They Are Greatest Menace to Future of U. S.

SHOWS OUR WEAKNESS

Head of Naval Advisory Executive Committee Makes Deep Impression on Audience at Grace Church Men's Club Dinner.

That Germany and Japan are the two nations which the United States should prepare to defend herself against, was declared by Henry A. Wise Wood, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Naval Advisory Board, when speaking at a dinner given on Wednesday night by the Men's Club of Grace church. Mr. Wood used figures to show that either nation could soon place a great army on our shores, unless our naval and land forces are increased, and he made a profound impression on the eighty or more men present at the gathering. His remarks, which lasted over an hour, were received with close attention, and were frequently interrupted by applause as the more telling points were brought out.

Mr. Wood, in his opening remarks referred humorously to some things which have happened since he took up the work. Among other questions which he said were asked was whether the manufacture of arms and ammunition did not bring on

HARRY BROWER WEDS MISS VAN ARSDALE

Rev. J. Y. Broek Performs Ceremony at Home of the Bride's Parents.

Miss Ida VanArsdale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. VanArsdale of West Third street, and Harry J. Brower, son of Mrs. Charles C. Brower, of Orange lace, were married Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of white satin trimmed with lace, and carried a bouquet of bride roses. She was attended by Miss Mildred Hand, of this city, who wore a pink gown and carried a bouquet of pink roses. George Brower, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. The wedding march was played by Mrs George Muir, of East Seventh street an intimate frind of the bride.

Following the ceremony there was a reception, during which congratulations were offered and supper was served. Later the couple left on a wedding trip to Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Upon their return they will reside with the bridegroom's mother on Orange place. Mrs. Brower received a large collection of gifts from relatives and friends. The home was attractively decorated with palms and flowers, the arrangement in the dining room being especially pleasing.

Mrs. Brower has a large circle of acquaintances in this city. She is an active member of Trinity Reformed church. Mr. Brower is employed in the local police department as a patrolman. He also has many friends here, where he has lived all his life.

FIRST BAPTIST CHOIR TO GIVE "HARVEST CANTATA"

A Thanksgiving musical service will be held at the First Baptist church, Sunday evening, at 7:45. The quartet and chorus choir of the church will render "Harvest Cantata," by George Garrett, and several other selections. The soloists will be: Mrs. Edith Hallett-Frank, soprano; Miss Leontine de Ahna, contralto; George H. Smith, tenor, and William Holmes, baritone.

The prelude to the service will be played by Mrs. Hollis Cubberly, violinist, who will also play an abligato to the contralto solo, "He Shall Feed His Flock," from Handel's "Messiah," to be sung by Miss de Ahna. The public is cordially invited to attend this service.

ITALIAN ONLY SHOT TO SCARE, HE SAYS

Man Brought Back From Atlantic City by Capt. Flynn to Plead Guilty.

Alfred Langinese, the Italian who was brought back from Atlantic City yesterday by Captain Flynn, of the Plainfield police force, to be tried for assault with a pistol, will enter a plea of guilty when he is arraigned before Judge William De Meza tomorrow morning.

Langinese is charged with having fired two shots at a brother Italian on West Third street last June. He escaped and was not arrested until Tuesday. He says that he fired the shots but that he did not intend to hit the man, merely having the intention of scaring him. Langinese defends his action by saying that he ought to break up a friendship between his wife and the other Italian.

NEW MACK TRUCK SMASHED BY CAR

Martin Flatley Has His Foot Crushed in Accident—Car Damaged.

Martin Flatley, an employe of the International Motor Company, was injured, a new Mack truck was practically destroyed and a Dunellen street car badly smashed when the street car crashed into a truck in front of the plant of the International Motor Company on West Front street about 12 o'clock last night.

For a Mack truck the big automobile was short lived. Instead of keeping up the record of long years of unbroken service, it went back to the shop for repairs before it had covered more than a few feet, but it was not through any constructive defect.

The truck was left standing on the car track for a few seconds, according to the report that reached police headquarters, and a car bound for the barn was going too fast to stop after the obstruction was sighted. Flatley was standing near the truck and it was pushed over his right foot. The member was badly crushed. He was taken to the office of Dr. Albert Utis, where his injuries were attended, after which he was taken to his home.

OLD PLAINFIELD HOME BROKEN UP

One of the oldest homes in Plainfield was broken up by action of Judge De Meza and Police Chief Kiely, when Mary McGrath was committed to the Good Shepherd Home at Newark on Thanksgiving Day. Mrs McGrath is the widow of one of Plainfield's best citizens, but since the death of her husband she has lived so that her residence has become a nuisance, according to the police department. Wednesday morning she was in police court with her two sons, William and Thomas McGrath, and two neighbors, all charged with being drunk and disorderly.

Judge De Meza suspended sentence on the boys and the neighbors, because he believed that their mother was responsible for their habits, but he determined to break up the home so as to remove them from her influence, and Thanksgiving Day she was sent to the Home of the Good Shepherd. The boys took a pledge to abstain from liquor for a year.

ELKS ENJOY SUPPER AND VAUDEVILLE SHOW

Two hundred members of Plainfield Lodge of Elks enjoyed the annual Thanksgiving Eve turkey supper and vaudeville entertainment in the Watchung avenue clubhouse Wednesday night. Professional numbers were given by Louis Noll, singing and stories; Eddie Burkhardt, tenor solos and impersonator; Harry Lewis, performer on the piano accordion, and Rocco Routina, singer and monologist.

After the serving of the supper by Chef Erwin Neighbour, who received many congratulations on the excellent menu, other entertainment was furnished by members of the lodge. These included solos by Edward Harding, Jr., and quartet numbers by Messrs. Harding, Todd, Runyon and Martin. The affair was arranged and in charge of the Elks' entertainment committee, composed of "Sammy" Taverner, William C. Mulvey, Harry G. DeMeza, Everett Mapleson and George Pope.

U. S. HAS CAUSE TO GIVE THANKS

Stirring Sermons by Local Pastors Heard at Thanksgiving Day Services.

PEACE IS EMPHASIZED

Large Congregations Gather at Crescent Avenue and First Presbyterian and Park Avenue Baptist Churches—Music is a Feature.

Union services, appropriate music and forceful sermons gave to Thanksgiving Day in Plainfield this year more than ordinary impressiveness. All the services were well attended and the congregations seemed to feel the abundant cause for giving thanks to the Almighty for the blessings of peace and prosperity in this land of plenty when half the nations of the world are torn by strife and impoverished by war.

A large congregation gathered in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, where they listened to an excellent sermon by the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie. Dr. Zelie prefaced his sermon by reading President Wilson's Thanksgiving proclamation, after which he took the topic for his sermon from the ten lepers who were cleansed by the Savior, one of whom gave thanks while nine were not again heard from. He drew his verbal picture of present day conditions, where the Almighty is continually bestowing blessings on a whole land and

JOHN F. CONNOLLY WEDS AT ST. MARY'S

Takes Miss Theresa E. McGinley, of This City, for His Bride.

Miss Theresa Elizabeth McGinley of Jackson avenue, this city, daughter of James McGinley, of High Bridge, was married at 6 o'clock last night to John Francis Connolly, of East Fifth street. The ceremony was performed in St Mary's church by Father B. M. Bogan.

Miss McGinley, who wore a traveling suit and carried chrysanthemums was attended by Miss Mal Ella Hand of Jackson avenue. The latter also wore a traveling suit and carried chrysanthemums. William Connolly, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man. The couple afterward left for a brief wedding trip the destination of which was not made known. They will make their home on East Fifth street.

Mrs. Connolly has been a resident of Plainfield for many years, and recently has acted as office secretary for Dr. F. C. Ard. She has a host of friends throughout Plainfield. Mr Connolly, who is employed as operator in a New York brokerage house also has a wide acquaintance in the city and borough.

FREED BY JUDGE TO EAT TURKEY DINNER

August Legodar, of Newark, had sufficient cause for Thanksgiving, when he left police court yesterday morning after having been arraigned on a charge of fast and reckless driving of an automobile. Legodar was driving a delivery truck at the rate of twenty miles an hour on East Front street, according to the arresting officer, and the defendant entered a plea of guilty. He said that he had a large family, was a poor man, and that if he were fined he would miss his Thanksgiving dinner because he would be unable to pay out. Judge De Meza gave him a lecture and a suspended fine.

DR. PROBASCO IN AUTO ACCIDENT, BUT UNHURT

While attempting to make a turn from East Third street into Richmond street, yesterday afternoon, Dr. Norman H. Probasco was forced to run his automobile into the curbing to prevent a collision with another car. His rear wheel was smashed, but he escaped without injury. Dr. Probasco met another machine on the curve, and ran his car onto the sidewalk to prevent a serious accident. He struck the curbing in front of Callahan's store and the auto was almost turned over.

SEWER BODY WILL NOT PAY TAX BILL

Assessment of $38,000 on the Plant is Excessive, Say Its Members.

WILL TAKE AN APPEAL

Also to Carry Sebring Case to Higher Court—Total Expenditure to Date is $202,000, and is Below Estimated Cost of Finished Work.

The tax bill presented by the Middlesex borough assessor and collector to the Joint Sewer Board for the plant near Bound Brook was declared excessive at a meeting of the Board held Wednesday night, and an appeal will be taken to the State Tax Board.

The bill is for $725, and is for the fiscal year, which began September 1, 1915. It is based on an assessment of approximately $38,000, which was made May 28, 1915, and at that time but little of the sewer plant had been finished, and members of the joint committee were outspoken in declaring that the assessment was far above the value of the property at that time. After a warm discussion it was officially announced that the tax bill would not be paid, and Attorney Ashmead will be instructed to appeal at once. An appeal must be taken to the New Jersey Tax Board, or Board of Equalization of Taxes, which will reassess the property if proof of an error is shown.

The sewer Board also considers a price of $1,200 for land wanted for an outlet pipe on the John Sebring property excessive, and will appeal from a recent decision of the New Brunswick Court, which allowed Sebring this amount. A condemnation board originally fixed his compensation at $578, or $1 a foot, but he appealed to the circuit court and was given a verdict of $1,200 after a trial by jury, during which almost a half-hundred witnesses were heard.

An appeal in this case will also be taken. It must go to the Supreme Court of the State of New Jersey.

It was reported that the total expenditure of the Sewer Board to date were $202,000. This figure was received with satisfaction by members of the Board because it is cosiderably less than estimates made of work that has been done, and indicates that unusual economy and efficiency is being used in the big project.

Fanwood wants to connect with the joint sewer and is willing to pay its part of the expense, according to James Fisher, a member of the Fanwood Town Council, who appeared at the meeting. He asked that a committee be appointed to determine the extra expense of connecting Fanwood with the trunk line. Councilmen Blatz, Hyland and Milne were named, and they will take up the matter at once so as to submit a proposition to the Fanwood officials as soon as possible.

GOOD SUM IS MADE BY CHARITY DANCE

Hebrew Association in Charge of Well Attended Holiday Event.

A goodly sum was realized Wednesday evening from the entertainment and ball of the United Hebrew Charities Organization given at the Columbus Club.

The dancing floor was comfortably filled by couples from Plainfield, New York, Brooklyn, Somerville, Westfield and Perth Amboy and to music from Charles Suhr's orchestra they danced until a late hour. Through the courtesy of Manager Shannon, of the Plainfield Theatre, an act of the bill for the first half of the week was secured and proved highly intertaining. The Elks' quartet, Master "Buddy" Pagliuca and others were also pleasing in volunteer selections. Refreshments were served between the dances.

Samuel Rothberg and Abe Schwartz were in charge of the dancing and the entire event was arranged by officers of the association. The money made from the charity ball will be used in extending relief work among the needy and poor of Plainfield.

The officers of the organization are: President, William Newcorn; first vice president, Herman Schwed; second vice president, Jacob Sachar; third vice president, Morris Abrams; secretary, Elizabeth Rosenson; treasurer, Hyman Adelberg.

MISS MAURER BRIDE OF JAMES LUGINBAHL

Attractive Ceremony is Performed by Rev. E. R. Brown at "Edgewood."

Miss Ruth B. Maurer, eldest daughter of Edward Maurer, was married at six o'clock Wednesday afternoon to James Luginbahl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Luginbahl, of Portland, Oregon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. R. Brown, pastor of the local Presbyterian church, at "Edgewood," the home of the Maurers on Madison avenue.

The home was attractively decorated, the color scheme being yellow and white and chrysanthemums of these shades were used in profusion. The ceremony took place in the living room, which was decorated with chrysanthemums, smilax, yellow roses and other green plants.

The bride, preceded by two flower girls, entered the room on the arm of her father. She wore a gown of princess lace over Georgette crepe with satin train and bridal veil, and carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Her ornament was a diamond pendant, the gift of the groom. Her traveling gown was of brown velvet trimmed with sable, with hat to match.

The bridesmaid was Miss Cornelia Robbins, a schoolmate of the bride at Laselle College. She wore a beautiful gown of pale yellow silk chiffon with chiffon and lace, and carried yellow roses.

The best man was Edard J. Maurer, a brother of the bride. Mrs. Edward Maurer wore a French brouillet gown of pale blue silk trimmed with silver lace and tulle.

The flower girls were the Misses Bertha and Marguerite Maurer, sisters of the bride. The former's dress was of white lace over satin, with pink sash, while Miss Marguerite Maurer's was of pale pink chiffon with lace. They carried baskets of pink carnations.

The bridal party proceeded down a ribbon aisle to strains of the "Lohengrin" wedding march, played by Mrs. Freeman D. Baerman at the piano. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

A reception was held during which the wedded pair received the congratulations of their friends and relatives. Following the reception a wedding supper was served.

The gift of the bride to the groom was a pearl stick-pin. The bride also presented her attendants with pearl and sapphire brooches. The groom's gift to the best man was a silver cigarette case.

The couple received many valuable and useful presents, among which were articles of cut glass and stirling silver, also clocks, a set of aluminum kitchen ware and dishes of all sorts.

Mr. and Mrs. Luginbahl sailed yesterday on their wedding tour for New Orleans. From New Orleans they will go to Los Angeles and thence to Portland, Oregon, where they will be at home after January 1. Mr. Luginbahl owns a large fruit and sheep ranch at Roosevelt, Washington.

UNION THANSGIVING SERVICE AT DUNELLEN

Rev. D. W. C. Ramsey, of Methodist Church, Preaches Eloquent Sermon

The Rev. D. W. C. Ramsey, pastor of the Methodist church, of Dunellen delivered the sermon at the union Thanksgiving service of the churches of Dunellen in the Seventh-Day Baptist church, last evening. He took Psalm 23:1 as his text: "I will bless the Lord at all times: His praise shall continually be in my mouth."

Mr. Ramsey said in part. "Take this verse home and repeat it once a day for two weeks and you will have a clearer vision of God's work than ever before.

"We should bless the Lord in days of adversity as well as sunshine. We have come to an age when we do too little talking about God's business. We have come to a time in the history of the Christian church when we should talk more about God in this world; more about His power.

"God still works and rules. No matter how we think, God still operates in the minds of men. Sometimes God seems to stand off a little when men are rebellious until such a time when men become quiet and think to listen to the voice of God.

"The first Thanksgiving was observed locally in Plymouth on December 11, 1621. In those days utterances from the pulpit were watched, studied and obeyed. I don't know of a time when there has been more utterances from the pulpit on great matters than during the past few months. There is need for care concerning the condition that exists on the other side of the water. We cannot tonight say that we are absolutely beyond the influences of the terrible struggle that is taking place there. We are surrounded in this great land by men and women from all parts of the world. They have come to us with crude conditions of life and habits well formed and it is natural for them to live in such manner and to express some of their views and we can't blame them for giving vent to their feelings of joy or resentment. Therefore we should be careful of criticism or hasty opinions not properly formed as hasty and foolish utterances will only do harm.

"I don't believe that God believes in this great war, but I do believe that when men become truly stubborn in these matters that God will allow them to go on. When this great battle has ended there will come up from the ruins an ideal manhood such as the world has never known because God is going to speak as He never has spoken before. He will not speak in any other way than through the men who have discovered the fact that God still lives. So let us put our hands in His hand and our hearts in His heart and go on living "Thy kingdom come.'"

Rev. H. L. Polan, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, and Rev. T. E. Vassar, pastor of the First Baptist church, assisted in the service. An offering was taken for the benefit of the Children's Home at Trenton. The choir sang two anthems.

Editorial

Early Christmas Shopping.

If folks would only realize how much better and more advantageous it is to "shop early" there would be greater satisfaction and pleasure in the buying and in the giving of holiday presents. At this time, there are fuller assortments, more leisure time for choosing and there is the certainty of getting the very thing you have in mind. And then there would be no hurrying, no crowding, no ill-temper and no disaapointments when you wisely "shop early."

And no better time to practice this preachment and profit therefrom than right now at Tepper's.

HAVE CAUSE FOR THANKS

millions of people which in proportion are of greater import and more far reaching than that of the lepers, and these blessings, like the one of old, are received in much the same commonplace way—where one is inspired to thanksgiving nine receive the blessings as a matter of course.

Since the children under David's reign no nation has received such bountiful blessings of power, wealth and wisdom as the United States of America. All around is the din of battle and the carnage of war, yet in this country we hear the hum of machinery in many industries; we see the smoke from thousands of stacks and we see abundant crops from the farm, mountainous wealth from the mines and unlimited products from our factories.

In the Old World the most colossal struggle of all history is raging; in the New World the greatest era of prosperity is at hand; in Europe misery and wants stalks while in America happiness and plenty is found on every hand. What more could be asked for? What more could we have to be thankful for? But only one in nine are really thankful, only one in nine stops to give thanks to the Giver of all good things. 'Twas always thus, but we all hope for a change—for that happy condition when "ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." It was a sermon which carried conviction and produced a visible effect on his hearers.

At the First Presbyterian church the pastor, Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, preached to a large congregation on "Why We Are Thankful." He told of the Puritan's thanksgiving and compared the conditions for which those people of piety were so thankful with present day surroundings, showing how much more we have to inspire us to praise of Him from whom all blessings flow, than did those hardy pioneers of Christian liberty landing on the stern and rockbound coast of New England.

They came to a land devoid of shelter and peopled with savages; we dwell in the midst of plenty of peacefulness. They must hew their homes in the forest, and wrest a scanty living from an inhospitable soil; we have our comfortable homes and great industrial development. They must lay the foundations, in sacrifice and blood for the nation in which we now live in luxury and peace. Yet, with unanimous voice they give thanks for Divine Love which always has met and always will meet every human need. If the Pilgrim was thankful for his meagre lot, we surely have sufficient cause for thanksgiving every day in the year.

In the Park Avenue Baptist church, Rev. Edwin Shaw, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, preached an impressive sermon to a union congregation composed of members of the Congregation, Seventh-Day Baptists and Temple Baptist churches, together with the Park Avenue church.

Rev. Mr. Shaw laid particular emphasis on the fortunate conditions existing in the United States, for which all should be thankful; our abundant crops, the satisfactory industrial situation, and best of all, that we were at peace in a world filled with conflict and devastation. He compared our great good fortune with the terrible struggle in Europe, with its bloodshed, its suffering and demolishment. All of these things should inspire every human being in the United States without regard to nationality, color or creed, with an irresistible desire to offer up continual thanksgiving to the ever living and true God for His blessings to this land and this people and to implore the Almighty to hasten the day when war and strife shall be no more and the day for thanksgiving shall be every day and the thankful ones shall be all men and all mankind.

SILVER CROSS CIRCLE TO GIVE HOLIDAY DANCE

Everything is in readiness for the holiday dance to be given at the Park Club tomorrow night, under the auspices of the Silver Cross Circle, of the King's Daughters, and indications point to a most enjoyable function. The committee have arranged a preliminary dance to be held until 9 o'clock for the younger people who will later give way to their elders. Music for the affair will be provided by Brooks and Denton, the orchestra well known to the Plainfield public. A feature of the evening will be lucky numbers dances, the winners of which will be awarded handsome prizes. Refreshments will be served throughout the entire affair, with no extra charge being attached to same.

Tickets, which include refreshments, may be purchased at a nominal sum at J. W. Gavett's store and Miller's pharmacy or from any of the following committee: Mrs. Wilbur H. Rogers, chairman; Mrs. F. E. Dubois, Mrs. Everett Murray, Mrs. Donald McGee, Mrs. William Roome, Miss Millar and Mrs. H. A. Robinson. Tickets may also be secured at the door tomorrow night.

An undenominational prayer meeting will be held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. C. E. Dayton, of 35 Harrison avenue, North Plainfield, to which all are invited. It is proposed to hold these meetings at regular intervals.

LARGEST CROWD DISAPPOINTED

With 2,000 People Waiting, Holy Cross Opponent Arrives Just at Dusk.

PLAY BUT 15 MINUTES

Local Team Makes Touchdown, Only Score of Game—Holy Cross Club Announces That Tickets Bought Will Be Good at Next Game.

A crowd of two thousand people by far the largest that ever turned out to see a football game on Cricket Field, was disappointed yesterday, because the Montana Field Club eleven, of Staten Island, did not reach this city for its game with Holy Cross until just before dusk. After about fifteen minutes had been played, the game had to be called on account of darkness, with Holy Cross in the lead, 6 to 0.

The tardiness of the visitors ended a week of unusually hard luck for the Holy Cross management. The Thanksgiving date was originally given to the Elizabeth A. A. boys who canceled Monday. The Bayonne Vikings were booked Tuesday and called off the game Wednesday Wednesday night Manager Doyle arranged a date with the Montanas, offering them $30, a high guarantee which more than covered their expenses by rail. The Staten Islanders saw fit to come here by auto bus and claimed their late arrival was due to breakdowns.

The game was started, Holy Cross kicking off, regaining the ball on a fumble, and scoring a touchdown on two rushes from the 12-yard line by Captain Wilson. Manning failed to kick the goal. There was no more scoring, although the visitors were within striking distance of the home team's goal when the first half ended.

Manager Doyle generously gave the Montanas half of their guarantee, although most of the Holy Cross supporters were of the opinion that the visitors owed the Plainfield team as their failure to appear in time not only caused the local club the largest gate in its history, but was responsible for a considerable loss of the locals' prestige. The management announced that all tickets bought at yesterday's game will be honored at the next game.

The cancellation of the High School boys left Holy Cross without a game for tomorrow.

Manager Doyle this afternoon scheduled the Vikings for a game on Cricket Field tomorrow afternoon.

SMALL FIELD FACES CLIMAX CLUB TRAPS

A few gunners shot in two events at the Climax traps yesterday, John Terry winning one 25-bird sweepstakes with a score of 23, and Arthur Van Cleefe winning the other by breaking 22.

The scores:

Arthur Van Cleefe	20	22
John Terry	23	18
Charles Foster	20	19
George Orb	19	18
William Clawson	15	13
Charles Hazeltine	.	19

Other members out, and their scores, were: Dr. C. W. Leonard, 12 out of 15; Milton Dilts, 13 out of 18, and Clarence Mundy, 8 out of 17.

WYOMING SAILOR HURT.

Lieutenant H. Z. Lange, fullback of the U. S. Wyoming football team, which played here last week, was seriously injured in a game against the U. S. S. South Carolina eleven at the Brooklyn Athletic Field, Brooklyn, yesterday. Lieutenant Lange, while making a tackle in the final quarter of the game, which ended in a 3 to 3 tie, was thrown heavily to the ground. Lange was unable to rise without assistance and upon examination it was found that he sustained a broken collarbone and wrenched shoulder. The only scoring of the contest resulted from field goals. In the second quarter McMahan booted the ball over the uprights, while Norris registered a field goal in the same chukker. An extra period was played, but the teams were unable to reach a decision.

PLAINFIELDERS WIN MOST OF THE MONEY

Four of Six Prize Winners in Westfield Endurance Play Are From Here.

Of the six bowlers finishing in the money in the 12-hour endurance contest on the alleys of the Westfield Theatre yesterday, four of them were from Plainfield, local bowlers getting the lion's share of the cash.

There were three prizes of $25, $10 and $5. Harry Radin, of the Plainfield Eagles' team, paired with Christopher Tobin, won first money, totaling 2,826 pins. Charley Montross was the Plainfielder copping second prize. He and Ehmling totaled 2,792. George Gates and Jimmy Montross, both of this city, were third.

Harry Radin and C. Tobin	2826
Ehmling and C. Montross	2792
Gates and J. Montross	2756
Worth and Lambert	2650
Hunt and Ortleb	2626
Meyer and Stegmeier	2160

LOCAL RIDERS FAIL TO PLACE IN NEWARK RACE

With William Rilling substituting for Holger Mortenson, who was unable to ride because of illness, the Queen City Cycle Club team, composed of Rilling and Simon, rode in the two-man two-hour race held by the Bay View Wheelmen in Weequahic Park, Newark, yesterday. The Plainfielders did not place, dropping out a few minutes before the finish.

NEW JOB FOR CALLAHAN.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—James J. Callahan, former manager of the Chicago White Sox, admitted today that he had accepted the job of manager of the Los Angeles Pacific Coast League Club. Callahan also will become part owner of the Coast League organization.

HOWE WINS ENDURANCE TEST.

George Howe won the endurance bowling contest at the Columbus Club Wednesday night. Miles Wilson captured second prize. Joe Sullivan led all the way, but was passed when he ran into impossible splits in the last game.

VALLEYS BEAT E. A. A. AGAIN.

A line-smashing attack which proved irresistible was the means of bringing about another Valley A. A. victory at football over the Elizabeth A. A. at the Peps' Park, in Harrison, yesterday afternoon. The score read: Valleys, 20; Elizabeth, 6.

TRIANGLES ROUTED.

The Triangles, of West Orange, were no match for the Remington Arms Company football team, of Bridgeport, Conn., in a game played yesterday afternoon in the Nutmeg city, losing by an overwhelming score of 27 to 0.

N. Y. Y. M. C. A. LOSES.

The New York Y. M. C. A. and Somerville Giants, both colored teams, clashed in a football game at Somerville yesterday, the home boys winning, 26 to 0.

TO PLAY TABS.

The Plainfield A. A. will play the Tabs on the latter's court next Thursday night.

ELKS' JUNIOR LEAGUE PINNERS TO MEET TONIGHT

Bowlers considered available material for the team to represent Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, in the Elks Junior League, have been asked to meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the Elks' Club.

Practice will be held, ideas exchanged, and in all probability a captain will be elected. Those who have been notified to be on hand are Charles Woolston, L. D. Townley H. L. Hetfield, W. T. McCullough W. J. Firstbrook, William Simpson Harry Blimm, Walter Long, Nelson Luthman, Charles Eoff, George F. Hall, Frank R. Emmons, Ed Pierson and August N. Laggren.

ELKS' MATCH NOT ROLLED.

The New York-New Brunswick Elks' Senior League match, scheduled to be rolled last night at New Brunswick, was postponed at the request of New York, because the date fell on a holiday.

APOLLOS WIN AT PRINCETON.

The Plainfield Apollos defeated the Princeton Y. M. C. A. at Princeton yesterday, 12 to 0. The playing o Paul Coleman, Andrew Maden and Grease featured.

APGAR SHOOTS WELL.

Neaf Apgar, of this city, returned scores of 49 and 48 in two 50-bird shoots at the Smith Gun Club, in Newark, yesterday.

THIRTY-FOUR PERSONS AT SMITH FAMILY REUNION

Captain and Mrs. William C. Smith, of Grandview avenue, held a Thanksgiving family reunion at their home yesterday, at which thirty-four persons sat down to dinner. The guest of honor was Mr. Smith's brother, Alexander Smith, of Freehold, who is eighty-nine years old. Despite his advanced age, Mr. Smith came from the Monmouth county seat to this city unaided, according to his annual custom. He declares he would rather miss any other event of the year than not to be at the North Plainfield Thanksgiving "get-together."

Beside Mr. and Mrs. William C. Smith and Alexander Smith, the diners included seven children of the host and hostess, six sons and daughters-in-law, and eighteen grandchildren. The only ones missing from the family were one son, Harry Smith, who is in the southern part of the State and could not get home, and a grandson, William Baglin, who is in the Naval Hospital corps at Norfolk, Va.

CREAM FOR CATARRH OPENS UP NOSTRILS

Tells How To Get Quick Relief from Head-Colds. It's Splendid.

In one minute your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffing, blowing, headache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh will be gone.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed-up with a cold or nasty catarrh—Relief comes so quickly.—Adv.

STEALS XMAS FUND FROM HOPE CHAPEL

Thief Gets Two Small Banks That Contained Small Amounts.

It was thought that the limit of meanness had been reached when some thief stole a baby's doll buggy from off a Plainfield porch a short time ago, but last night the janitor of Hope chapel reported to the police that someone had entered the church and stolen two small banks that contained savings for a Christmas fund.

The robbery was reported by Janitor William David. He was unable to tell how much the banks contained. There is little hope for the recovery of the banks, but if the thief is arrested, he may expect a sentence that will prevent him from getting any happiness out of the Christmas fund.

PAROLED PRISONER IS ARRESTED AS SUSPECT

August Hirsch, aged 20 years, a paroled prisoner at the Rahway Reformatory, was arrested last night about 9 o'clock in the rear of Leo Seisel's bicycle store, on West Front street. Patrolman Martin Flatley, who made the arrest, saw a man acting suspiciously in the rear of the store, and believed he was contemplating entering the building. Hirsch has a police record here. A short time ago he was committed to the Rahway Reformatory, but was paroled. He will be recommitted tomorrow morning.

OPERATE TO SAVE THE EYE OF JENS CLAASSEN

Jens Claassen, of Liberty street, who met with a serious injury to his eye in an automobile accident on the outskirts of Elizabeth Monday night, underwent an operation at the hands of Dr. H. V. Hubbard, Wednesday night. The step was made necessary because of infection in the eye, due to dust on the pieces of glass which penetrated it. The young man is now at his home under the care of a graduate nurse, but the probabilities of saving the sight of the injured eye are still in doubt.

SUFFRAGISTS CONDUCT A SUCCESSFUL SALE

A successful cake sale was conducted Wednesday afternoon at the Porcelain House adjoining the residence of Mrs. S. S. Carvalho, at 400 West Eighth street, under the auspices of the Plainfield Equal Suffrage League. Home made cakes and teas were purchased for the Thanksgiving table and as a result the league netted the sum of $60 to add to the fund which will be used to carry on the suffrage campaign which will again be begun with renewed vigor at the first of the year.

JUGENBUND CONCLUDE A TWO DAYS' BAZAAR

The annual two-day fair, conducted by the Jungenbund, of the German Reformed church, at Craig place and Duer street, was brought to a successful close Wednesday night. The affair was held in the lecture room of the church, the latter being tastefully decorated for the event, handsome palms and cut flowers being used in large numbers to make the place look as attractive as possible. The committee wishes to thank all who contributed in any way to make the fair such a success. Those who had charge of the fair were the Misses Clara Allen, W. Guttenberg, B. Schnipper, Julia Steudle, and the Messrs. Becker, C. Hauser, W. Schweickhardt and W. Vogel. They were ably assisted by the members of the society.

The following were the winners of the different articles on which shares were sold: Pillow, Mrs. Burghardt; turkey, Mrs. John Wirth; umbrella, Mrs. F. Finkbeiner; cakes, Mr. Dunham, Mr. Stevens, of New York, and Mrs. S. Johansen; ham, J. Rohland; doll, Miss E. Ruhl; pillow, E. Windham.

William Newcorn Makes Impressive Thanksgiving Address at Temple Sholem.

William Newcorn, president, delivered an eloquent address at the special Thanksgiving service held at Temple Sholem at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, calling attention to the many things for which the people of the United States have reason to be thankful. The service was opened with the singing of "America" by the choir, after which the regular festival services were held concluding with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner." The temple was attractively decorated with red, white and blue, together with flowers and plants.

Among other things Mr. Newcorn said:

"In accordance with the proclamation of the President and the Governor of the State, it is appropriate that the Jewish inhabitants of this city should meet and give thanks to the Creator for the many blessings showered upon them during the year. The setting aside of a day of thanksgiving is nothing new to the Jewish community, for the race has always manifested every particular event in their history with appropriate ceremonies and prayers, thanking the Almighty for the mercy shown them.

"The Jews of America have reason to be thankful for many blessings. The shores of the United States have always been open to welcome them and furnish them with free speech and the opportunity to preserve their religious and personal liberty.

"The American flag represents the emblem of liberty, equality and freedom. The redstripes typify the warm and invigorating blood of the human being permeating through the various channels in the entire human frame, invigorating the human heart and causing the love of man for his fellowmen.

"The blue field represents the firmament impressing upon the mind the greatness of the wonderful works of the Creator, who, with an all-seeing eye, watches over the destinies of nations, kindred and people. The white stripes represent purity and innocence, serving as a guide for the religious and moral life of the people while the stars represent the beacon lights guiding the people in their onward course, in behalf of progress and religion.

"We in America at this time should raise our voices in prayer and thanksgiving to the Almighty, who has saved us from war and spread peace and plenty over the United States. When we look abroad and witness the carnage, devastation and disaster caused by the horrors of war, thousands of fathers, brothers and sons slaughtered, property destroyed, hundreds of thousands of widows and orphans crying aloud in the affliction of those dear to them, we have special reason to be thankful that we live in a land where peace and freedom prevail.

"May the Almighty in His infinite wisdom bless and guide the President and the Congress about to assemble so that they may enact legislation that will redound to the credit of our country in the preservation of peace with honor, and to the glory of the people of our country, that the horrors of war may never darken our shores and that all mankind may enjoy the continued blessings of health, prosperity and religious freedom in the future as we have in the past."

Special music by Miss Rae Preger organist, the children's choir and Miss Ruth Livingston was rendered during the services. The weekly Friday night service will be held this evening at 8:15 o'clock.

FUNERAL SERVICE OF MRS. ELLEN SHAW HELD

The funeral service of Mrs. Ellen Shaw, who died Tuesday at Muhlenberg Hospital, was held last evening at the mortuary parlors of J. J. & T. A. Higgins, on West Front street. Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herriott, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, conducted the service. Mrs. Shaw is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Thomas Hughes, wife of the Rev. Thomas Hughes, of Arlington, Ill., and two brothers in London, Ontario. The body was taken to the latter place this morning and interment will take place in Woodland cemetery at London.

PLAINFIELD MAN WEDS BERWICK, PA., YOUNG WOMAN

Robert Pruett, of 625 East Second street, this city, and Miss Mari Graham, of Berwick, Pa., were married at Bloomsburg, Pa., Wednesday afternoon, at 5 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. Radcliffe, at the Baptist parsonage. Fred Young, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., an intimate friend of the groom, was the only attendant.

Following a reception at the bride's home, the couple came to this city and will make their home at the East Second street address. Mr. Pruett formerly resided at Berwick, but has been employed for some time past at the Scott Press Works. Local friends of Mr. and Mrs. Pruett are planning to give them a reception in the near future.

Hoyt Tomkinson, of Lehigh University, is spending the Thanksgiving holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Tomkinson, of Ravine road. He was accompanied home for the holidays by Edward Scotz, of Pittsburgh.

Lime Your Lawn

NOW IS THE TIME to apply lime to your lawn, garden or field.

In the Spring the soil will be in condition to produce the best crops.

Agricultural authorities are agreed that Hydrated Lime, as an acid re-agent for sweetening and purifying the soil is nearly twice as effective as ground limestone. That is, it takes about one half the quantity and is quicker in its action, thus producing results at the minimum expense.

Our Hydrated Lime is put up in 50-lb bags at..50c per bag

Look and Feel Clean, Sweet and Fresh Every Day

Drink a glass of real hot water before breakfast to wash out poisons.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.—Adv.

PLAIN-COLOR CARPETS

Their Importance to Modern Schemes of Furnishing and Decoration

The increasing popularity of Carpets in plain colors is readily appreciated when the advantages afforded by this style of Floor Coverings are considered.

For decorative schemes which include fine tapestries, and figured upholsteries and draperies, the Plain-Color Carpet provides a wonderfully effective foundation—one of perfect balance, quiet dignity and elegance. Moreover, the unbroken surface of solid color seemingly increases the size of the room.

Conspicuous seams are avoided by the use of our Carpets in very wide widths, and the usual difficulty of obtaining the exact shade of color wanted is practically eliminated when choice is made from our complete stock of Plain-Color Carpets, which we are showing in more than war, and he has always replied to this with the question: "Do the manufacturers of baby carriages increase the birth rate?" The Naval Advisory Board, he said, have found that they have three classes to deal with, the pacifists, the clergy and the women, in making plans for increased defenses. He said that he had learned that there are "pacifists" and "pacificists." The first love peace and are willing to fight for it, and the latter love peace and are willing to run for it.

"None of us want to fight, for we realize that war nowadays is worse than Sherman's definition of it. The war being fought in Europe is absolutely lacking in chivalry—they are killing by every possible means, refusing to grant armistices to bury the dead or to save the wounded."

Three years ago, said the speaker, no one believed that another war was possible. Universal peace was predicted, and there are even some people today who declare that this will be the last great war. Mr. Wood said that so far as he could see no formula had yet been provided to give any nation any assurance that there will be no more war, and declared that with Britain and Germany enlarging their fleets as rapidly as they can possibly do so, there is no doubt in his mind that any agreement for a world police force to keep the peace is out of the question. "With the whole world building up a great warlike edifice, do you suppose that the losing nation in this struggle abroad is not going to try to come back at its enemies at some future time. I predict that we will see the greatest armed peace that the world has ever known."

From these deductions Mr. Wood showed that this nation must be prepared to fight for her rights. We have always had an army and a navy, and now the advisory board ask that they be made large enough to meet the conditions of today, and be made efficient. "Suppose for instance, that a great plague was sweeping Europe now. Would not this nation erect a great quarantine to keep the disease from spreading over here, even at the cost of billions of dollars? Is there any greater scourge than this war? We believe that we should build around this country a quarantine so that such scenes as are now to be found in Europe cannot be enacted here. We want to place the country in such a position that no armed body of foreigners can do the things that they have done to the women and children of Europe. Think about that in the terms of our own families."

"Some people say that if we take up arms we are going to attack. The only answer to that is 'if we are afraid to trust our own people with arms, are we going to trust other nations with arms in their hands?' At any time in the history of this country have we become the aggressor because we had an army and a navy? Look at what we have done for Cuba and the Phillipines. In the case of Mexico we have rested quietly on our arms while some sixty American citizens have been killed by shots fired across the border.

"Others argue," continued Mr. Wood, "that we do not want to be the aggressors in any matter, and therefore are not coming into conflict with other nations." He then pointed out that the Monroe Doctrine has pledged this country to the fundamental principle that we shall not have European militarism in this hemisphere, and that the naval board therefore feels that a great navy is needed to keep a foreign army from landing in either North or South America. He then demonstrated, by reading from recent articles by famous Germans that South America, especially Brazil, is the aim of the German empire. He also showed how the California Japanese exclusion act was liable to make trouble with that nation, especially as "we are receiving the scum of Europe on this side of the country.

"I have been informed by experts that with the present equipment in the way of transports, Germany could land an army of 750,000 trained soldiers on our shores, fully provisioned for three months, within forty-one days after war is declared. Japan can put 300,000 troops similarly equipped on the California coast in sixty-one days. Now remember that I am not an alarmist, but am telling you the result of investigations that have been made by authorities.

"The seas are no longer an insulation for this country, as some people seem to think. An army, marching at the very top speed can make thirty miles a day. A group of transports can make 300 miles a day. The answer is that we must have a navy to measure with that of Germany on one side and Japan on the other. We must restore it to the position of the second strongest navy in the world. It is now between third and fourth.

"I have criticized the administration because it has not seen what the Naval Board sees. Supose there should be a coalition between Japan and Germany at some future time. With our present navy we would be helpless. We do not want to fight, but we must be ready if it comes. We must have an army large enough to destroy the largest shipment of troops that can be made from a foreign shore before another shipment can be landed. We should adopt the plan proposed by the general staff of the army, and not that of a civilian secretary of war who changes with every administration. We must not let the expense stand in our way, or let the matter be settled by politics."

Prior to Mr. Woods remarks, Rev. J. R. Atkinson, formerly Dean of the Atlanta Cathedral, took what he frankly stated was the "unpopular side of the question." He said that he was a peaceful man "even if he had to fight for peace." He drew a lesson from the fact that Christ taught us that the ways of peace are the best, and that before we went into the matter of enlarging our defenses we should give serious, solemn thought to the matter. He declared that Germany made a mistake in despising her enemies, and that the rest of the countries in the war wanted peace, but were forced to fight. He praised President Wilson for his handling of the Mexican situation, and said that if this country does not make war preparations we will be, when the proper time comes, in a position to bring about peace because of that very fact. At the same time he declared that if war did come he would be one of the first to go to the front as a chaplain. If the struggle does come we have a potential army of every able bodied man in this country, and he hoped that America would retain the great name of the pacific nation of the earth.

During the evening a quartet consisting of E. A. Sprowl, Joseph Martin, David Patterson and W. J. Tallamy sang several selections. S. Frederick Smith accompanied them. Their program was well received. George M. Holstein, president of the club, acted as toastmaster.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Many Plainfielders who gave thanks yesterday will again have cause for thanksgiving late this evening when the usual weekly country store is held at the Plainfield theatre. Manager Shannon has secured another fine lot of gifts for distribution, among them silverware, jewelry, household goods and groceries. Everybody has an equal chance in these drawings and any one who attends may win a valuable gift. Even though you attend and do not win anything in the drawing there is always the merriment of seeing friends carry off a barrel of cabbage, or some other unwieldy object, and a bachelor is just as liable to win a washing machine as a housewife.

Capacity crowds were in evidence at all performances of yesterday and the one comment heard was that the new show for the last half of the week was the biggest thing in town for the money.

Moving pictures of actual war scenes, taken on the European battle fields, by more than thirty camera men who risked their lives, is a special feature offered. The pictures are accompanied by Baron Van Orgler, lieutenant in the Roumanian cavalry, and for four years in the Fourth Hussars of the Austrian landwehr, and he will tell a complete story of the great war raging on the other side of the ocean.

The bill's headliner is Nevasso Girls, a musical and comedy company of ten, with new songs and dances. This company is one of the best that has been brought to Plainfield since the season opened and their press notices in other towns indicate that they will be popular here.

Five other big acts are on the bill.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

The special Thanksgiving program for the last half of the week at Proctor's is announced as the greatest vaudeville and photoplay entertainment seen at the popular local theatre in many a day. The management has selected for the photoplay feature the Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Special Production of "The Turn of the Road," starring Joseph Kilgour, who may be remembered by the patrons on the speaking stage in "Ready Money" and other big success. The co-star is none other than Virginia Pearson who shared honors with William Faversham in "The Hawk," one of New York's greatest dramatic successes. Miss Pearson is also well known on the screen as the Vitagraph's dramatic star. The vaudeville numbers include Watson & Myers in a delightful comedy skit, Jolly and Wild in a singing and musical offering; a big time vaudeville act coming direct from Proctor's Fifth avenue theatre, New York city; Marika & Carmen, those frivolous girls, in a nifty singing specialty; Marrena, Nevarro & Marrena, acrobatic comedians, direct from the Keith circuit; Harry Milton and his trained dogs in a marvelous exhibition, and the McIntyres in a sensational shooting act; making a total of six big vaudeville acts with a variety to suit all tastes. The big double bazaar which is to be held next Wednesday evening promises to eclipse any yet introduced, and the usual toy matinee will take place on Saturday.

Grads Once Have Ball on High School's 5-Yard Line, But Are Held.

GAME A PUNTING DUEL

Freeman, Old Yale Star, Features by Ripping Line Plunges—Green and Nash Also Play Well for Red and Blue Men of Yesteryear.

That annual Alumni-P. H. S. gridiron scrap was staged on Parker Field yesterday morning, and all four rounds were even, for after an hour's work neither goal line had been crossed, although the "old timers" got to the one-yard line in the fourth period before they were stopped. Freeman, a P. H. S. star of a decade ago, and a Yale 'varsity man for two years, '07 and '08, played fullback on the Alumni and hit the line like a battering ram, his playing featuring the game.

Apgar kicked off for a starter, and on the first play "Goat" Nash reeled off twenty yards on an end run. After three attempts to make first down the Alumni was a yard short, and Freeman kicked. Mumford fell on the pigskin when Daniels slipped and fumbled it on his 30-yard line. Noonan kicked to Freeman, who returned the ball five yards. Nash again went around end for a ten-yard gain, and a forward pass from Van Zandt to Rosenson netted twenty more. On the next play Van Zandt slipped and fumbled, but fell on the ball for a loss. Wheelan broke through and fell on Freeman's blocked kick, and on the first play Noonan kicked back to Nash at midfield. Nash fumbled, but Freeman fell on the ball. Freeman again punted to Daniels, who fumbled, giving Apgar a chance to recover it. Noonan punted to Freeman, who made five yards on an end run before he was hauled down. He made ten more on the next play when he grabbed a forward pass from Van Zandt. Daniels missed the next pass and Freeman had to kick, the ball going out of bounds on the P. H. S. 40-yard line.

Freeman kicked off to Noonan on the school team's 20-yard mark at the beginning of the second half, but he slipped in the mud and Schenck fell on the ball for the Alumni. Mumford broke up a forward, and on the next attempt, via the aerial route, Wheelan snared the ball and went five yards before Rosenson grabbed him. Daniels got away for ten yards, but the Alumni line held for three downs, and Noonan had to kick to Nash. Wheelan again snatched a forward on an attempt from Van Zandt to Bellows. P. H. S. continued the kicking game, and Noonan kicked to Nash, who fumbled, Mumford falling on the ball.

Rosenson threw Noonan for a loss, and on an attempted pass, Freeman intercepted it, but Nash lost ten yards when Pennock broke through and nailed him. Van Deventer, who replaced Bellows at right end, made fifteen yards on a pretty forward from Rosenson, who had shifted from half to quarter in place of Van Zandt. Green wriggled through the line for ten yards, getting away from three or four tacklers before Noonan got him. Van Deventer fell on Rosenson's fumble, Rosenson kicking to Noonan. A penalty for foul tackling put the Alumni back fifteen yards. Noonan again punted, but in catching the pigskin Green slipped. Rosenson kicked to midfield. Noonan kicked to Green, who slipped down the field for another ten yards. Van Deventer again nailed a forward from Rosenson for fifteen yards and Nash tore off ten yards more on an end run. Freeman put the ball on the P. H. S. last chalkline on a line plunge, and Nash went two-thirds of the rest of the way before he went out of bounds. A five-yard penalty for holding and a blocked kick on an attempted goal by Nash put the ball on the fifteen yard line, from where Freeman punted back of the goal line, giving the school boys the ball on their 20-yard line. Noonan kicked as the whistle blew for the end of the game.

Freeman couldn't be stopped on his line plunges and was good for five yards every time he started. He also did most of the kicking, averaging forty yards. Nash and Rosenson did good work on end runs, as did Van Zandt at quarter, until he retired, but Green's slipperyness in the last half threatened to put the ball in line for a score on several occasions. The Red and Blue team played one of the best games of the season, and showed excellent team work in the last game of the year.

SIX-DAY RACE INNOVATION.

The Madison Square Garden six-day bicycle race management has decided upon an innovation for the race, which starts in New York Monday morning, December 6. Instead of allowing the riders to pair up as they wish, the selections will be made by lot. Thus in place of having a few teams with a strangle hold on the big prizes before the race has fairly started, this year's event is expected to be more open than usual. Each entrant will be required to pass a physical examination before he is allowed to start.

HUNT CLUB'S RUN FULL OF THRILLS

Hounds Lead Riders Lively Chase Across Streams and Over Fences.

The Watchung Hunt Club's holiday run yesterday was one of the best of the season, covering a distance of more than eighteen miles. The hounds were met at the Baltusrol Golf Club, and were cast in nearby. The line then led through Mountainside to Westfield, Garwood, back to Westfield, to Fanwood, Dog Tavern and Hotel Netherwood, the finish.

There was an unusual amount of fencing, and as a result there were lots of spills. Those who lost their mounts were able to continue, suffering not much more than a shake-up. There were between forty and fifty people who followed the huntsmen in automobiles and carriages, and they all fully enjoyed the exciting sport.

These riders finished: R. C. Finch, M. F. H.; Colonel C. E. S. Bellows, H. A. Bourne, Matthew Colford, A. C. Fox, S. D. French, H. W. Evans, Lawrence Smith, W. P. Smith, Jr., A. E. Beling, Huntsman Harrison and the Whip.

RUNTS BIGGER THAN GIANTS--ON PAPER

"Shrimps" Defeat Recreation Five, Despite Latter's Height Advantage.

Playing in between the halves of the Alumnae-P. H. S. game, on the High School court, Wednesday night, the Recreation Five suffered its second defeat of the season at the hands of the "Shrimp Five," which held the upper hand in the score of 32 to 26.

The visitors, who were appropriately titled "Shrimps," gave the bigger fellows a decidedly interesting contest, the shorties smuggling through any approach of the opponents and carrying the ball repeatedly down the length of the floor for a tally. At the conclusion of the initial period the score stood 10 to 10, but in the second session, Captain McNamee's five ran up a score of 22 to the Recreation Five's 16. Although the former's pivot had little or no difficulty whatever in sending the ball in whatever direction he choose, the "Shrimps" were ever on the alert and broke up practically every signal play.

FOUR-BALL MATCH CLOSES THE SEASON

Event Attracts Large Field to the Plainfield Country Club.

The active season closed at the Plainfield Country Club yesterday with a four-ball handicap and a sweepstakes event. It was previously planned to have a cross-country tournament, but the weather and course conditions were so fine that it was decided to arrange a four-ball match.

The event attracted a large field during the early part of the day, but only a few scores were posted. A. J. Watson and W. M. Alling won the competition with a net score of 68. The leading scores:

A. J. Watson and W. M. Alling, 78, 10—68; E. A. Lyon and J. W. Baker, 81, 12—69; Leighton Calkins and S. D. Lounsbery, 80, 10—70; A. W. Drake and J. R. Evans, 96, 25—71; Morris J. Dumont and Will T. Glenney, 79, 7—72; W. Lester Glenney and F. O. Reinhart, 79, 5—74.

These two cards were posted in the sweepstakes event:

A. J. Watson, 82, 8—74; J. Whitney Baker, 85, 6—79.

The clubhouse will be closed on Wednesday, but the lockers will remain open for members who wish to play golf during the pleasant weather.

HOPES HAVE SLIGHT LEAD ON PLAINFIELD

Finish Five Points in Front of Jones' Combination—Final Score, 24-19.

Hope Chapel outpointed the Plainfield A. A. on the Hope court, last night, 24 to 19. The home team led by only one point at the close of the first half, but six free throws made in the second period against none to the credit of the Plainfield A. A., increased the lead, the two teams being practically even in field goals.

Benny Rosenson, the star of the Plainfield A. A. outfit, was unable to play, because of an injury to his right shoulder, sustained in the P. H. S.-Alumni football game on Parker Field, yesterday morning. T. Snyder took Benny's place.

Day, Hemmer, Porter and Marsh each scored a trio of baskets. Porter caged six from the fifteen-foot mark. It was the first game of the season for the victors.

Hand Bad Beating to Freshmen, Who Were Favorites In Inter-class Loop.

The Junior class five, of the North Plainfield H. S., gave evidence of being the probable winner of the inter-class league, Wednesday, when it commenced by defeating the first year class, which was considered its strongest contender, by the overwhelming score of 45 to 9. The guarding of the winners was particularly strong, holding their opponents to no field goals. McDonough starred for the winners, with ten field goals.

EXTRA PERIOD NEEDED TO WHIP THE ALUMNI

Feature Shot by Captain Irma Good Spells Victory for P. H. S.

After tieing the score at 13 to 13, a pretty field goal shot by Miss Irma Good, captain of the Plainfield High School girl's basketball team, won the annual Alumnae-P. H. S. game for the school girls in an extra period of an exciting contest played on the Ninth street court, Wednesday night. The grads put up a strong game, and gave the students a hard tussle.

At the first chirp of the whistle Miss Ruth Wean's proteges entered the game with determination to come out on the better end of a winning score, and it was some time before the "come-backs" got used to the whirlwind passing, a noticeable feature of the game. The ball was in the territory of the Alumnae goal the larger portion of the time during the first fifteen minutes of play, but inability to drop the sphere through the net gave them the close decision of 11 to 10 at the conclusion of the initial period. Miss Dorothy Butler put up a stellar game during this period, netting four beauty goals from difficult angles of the court, as well as a foul goal. Miss Jessie Stewart caged three two-point tallies and two from the fifteen-foot line.

Miss Elsa Palmer replaced Miss Butler in the forward position during the second period, while Miss Mary Lansdale occupied the pivot position. With renewed pep the schoolgirls scored three points while the Almunae were held to one goal, and when the whistle blew at the expiration of time the score stood 13 to 13. During the extra session a number of penalties were inflicted on the grads, which the schoolgirls failed to make use of with the exception of one, which was soon followed by a spectacular shot by Captain Good.

Y. M. C. A. SCORES CREDITABLE WIN

Comes Out Ahead of Newark Team That Had Won Nine Consecutive Games.

Led by the speedy Bill Taylor, the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. quintet scored a notable win last night, earning brackets over the Silent Five, a team of deaf mutes. The score was 34 to 26, Taylor giving his team its winning lead by tossing in eight baskets in the first half.

The visitors were the strongest team that has appeared on the Y. M. C. A. floor this season. "Dummy" Metzler, the Somerville crack, held down one forward position. The team had an unbroken string of nine victories up to last night, and had defeated, among other strong quintets, the Y. M. C. A. fives of Madison and Boonton. The Silent Workers are the present holders of the eastern championship.

Skilfully Tailored, Elegant SILK-LINED SUITS

The man who likes to feel well dressed, as well as look well dressed, wants Clothes that are not only elegantly tailored, but richly lined with silk.

There is a heap o' satisfaction in wearing Silk-Lined Suits, such as these we offer to our Young Men patrons.

These Suits are of attractive Oxford and Fancy Mixed Cheviots. Are in superb models, unusually well tailored, and quite worthy of the elegant silk lining which adds so much to them.

It is not a matter of show, but it is the way one feels in these Silk-Lined Suits that distinguish them from ordinary Suits, and there are many who will be willing to pay the slight difference in the cost.

These are unequaled values at $20 and $22.

We're Beating Them All With Our OVERCOATS
at $12, $15, $18

Overcoats are going out at a lively rate—never sold so many in a given time as we have sold within the month.

And it's all because these Overcoats are made of handsome materials—All-Wool Scotch Cheviots in browns, grays and mixtures, because they may be had in medium and heavy weights, and because some, in addition to being dressy, are rainproof.

There are styles in this collection particularly for young men, and lots for middle-aged and older men. The selection is wide, indeed. We do not think you can beat them at the price anywhere —$12, $15, $18.

3-Days' Sale Men's

REV. DR. SNODGRASS TO LEAVE PATERSON

Former Plainfield Pastor Finds Civic Burdens Too Heavy and Resigns Pastorate.

Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, formerly pastor of the First M. E. church, this city, has resigned as pastor of the Market Street Methodist church, Paterson, because he finds the burden of civic duties excessive. His resignation has been accepted, and it will take effect on April 1, on the eighth anniversary of Dr. Snodgrass' going to Paterson. His successor has not yet been chosen, that matter being left to the bishop of the next session of the Newark Conference. Dr Snodgrass took a leading part in the anti-vice campaign held in Paterson recently.

During a long pastorate at the First M. E. church, this city, Dr Snodgrass accomplished a great deal for the congregation. Beside clearing the church of all its indebtedness through his efforts, many improvements were made in the edifice and Vincent chapel.

An excessive burden of civic duties denying him the time he desires to devote to his ministry, is assigned by Dr. Snodgrass as his reason for resigning to go elsewhere. He explained today that at one time a few months ago he was interested in eight civic enterprises. Of some of these he has since been relieved. Dr Snodgrass said that opportunity in other fields has offered, and that while he has done nothing definite he expects to accept another charge.

BLUE BIRD AT NEWARK.

Masterlinck's spectacular fairy play, "The Blue Bird," returns to the Shubert Theatre, Newark, next week, in the course of its fifth triumphal tour. This wonderful play, which ran for 268 days at the New Theatre, New York, will be presented by the only company that has ever been on tour. "The Blue Bird" is the story of the search by two small children for the Blue Bird, symbol of Happiness, the secret of which is so hard to find. The producers have elaborated the drama into a series of gorgeous spectacles, replete with mystery, illusions and wonderful lighting effects; lovely music by Debussy and Massanet adds to the charm, and there are many group dances by large numbers of young girls.

DR. MARTIN'S "AT HOME."

Rev. Dr. Herman Martin, former pastor of Temple Sholem, who recently resigned to accept the pastorate of a large church in Brooklyn will be "at home" to his friends at 915 West Sixth street, tomorrow and Sunday, prior to his leaving the city.

MEXICO'S HOPE.

It looks as if the troubles of Mexico are drawing to an end. Upon Carranza depends the future of the country. Villa and his band of outlaws are rapidly growing smaller in numbers and the gray-whiskered president will soon be in full control of the country, thanks to his own efforts and the aid of the United States.

He has been the hope of Mexico for years. Hardly a better man than others who sought to gain recognition as ruler of the country by slaughter and brigandry, he has a wholesome respect for the United States flag and the men who fight under it. This could not be said of Huerta nor of Villa, and careful treatment on the part of Wilson and his diplomatic corps, backed up by the army and navy, may restore our rich little brother to the state of prosperity that it should rightfully enjoy.

Without American influence there is no hope for Mexico. One man who studied it for years has said: "It is the richest country in the world and ought to be the best. The only thing wrong is that there are too many Mexicans there."

On only one or two occasions since the Saturday contributed editorials were added as a regular feature of the Daily Press have they been written by out of town people. Tomorrow will see a departure from the usual custom, but only because the writer is a man whom all Plainfielders feel that he is much interested in the welfare of the community. Congressman John H. Capstick, who has already shown that no mistake was made in selecting him as the representative from the Fifth district, has written on a phase of "Preparedness," of which he has made a deep study. It is with great pleasure that we announce his article as a feature of tomorrow's Daily Press.

Henry Ford has charted a steamer and will leave next month for a trip to Europe. He hopes to carry an olive branch from the Kaiser to King George, and to the Czar, Poincaire and other rulers whose countries are engaged in war. Mr. Ford is blessed with a confidence in the power of conversation that is amusing. If we set aside the mental charge that the entire scheme is nothing but clever advertising, and give him credit for honesty in the announcement of his intentions, we are forced to the conclusion that his innocence will provide much amusement for those war-crazed monarchs across the ocean, who are past masters of diplomatic intrigue.

They are threatening to muzzle members of the House of Lords in London. Instead of doing that why not sharpen their teeth, if they have any, and "sic" them on the Germans. If they do as much harm there as they have in their own country the war will be over by spring, as Kitchener has promised.

Bagdad has been the home of one wonderful piece of fiction, but now that the English and Turkish armies are fighting there and each has an official press bureau the original is going to be shamed.

The public shouldn't be too hard on that Maryland man who imprisoned his daughter for twelve years until they hear his story. May be she was in love with a dancing teacher.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

The special committee that met last Monday to view The Birth of a Nation grew out of a protest made by a committee, on behalf of the negroes of this place. I was the spokesman of the first meeting, and was called with the eleven, as you know, on the second committee. Fearing that the report of the meeting as it appeared in the city papers, Monday, did not place me in the proper light, I ask you to say for me that I opposed the show because in the first place it would breed hatred between the races. Secondly, it would cause the negro to look back at his ancestry with rare displeasure. Thirdly, it seemed to picture the negro what he was not, and then offer as a compromise the picture of the carpet-bagger about whom there has never been a question as to character. Fourthly, I could not afford to compromise the good deeds and the bad deeds of both the good and bad negroes with the bad deeds of the worst of the white race. In my mind, the showing of Hampton Institute and a few statements as to negro advancement appeared as sugar-coating. Therefore I could not and did not indorse the show.

The Monthly Treat

'Bout once a month I get a treat—
You can't guess what it is.
If you can probe my secret sweet,
You surely are a wiz.

It's not that I am paid my wage
Upon that certain day.
My debtors I must needs assuage
In some more frequent way.

But when the R. F. D. comes 'round
I always watch to see
If he, within his pack, has found
The thing that tickles me.

And if he has, I stop my work
And spend an hour or so—
I care not who may call me "shirk"—
That hour has to go.

I'll tell you now what pleases me
(You'd never guess, I ween!):
It's looking at pictures in the Geographical Magazine!

Bulbs

Bulbs are what we plant, some of them in the fall, some in the spring.

We never can remember which.

It tells all about it in a pamphlet which we burned last week by mistake.

Some bulbs must be planted one inch deep, others two, others four, and still others six.

That, also, was in that same pamphlet.

We burnt it ourself.

It had been coming every month for a year, from the seedsman, and we had regularly burnt it.

This time our wife had wanted to save it, but we didn't know it.

The bulbs one buys at the store look as if they were hand-turned.

They are things of beauty and look like the kernel of a Brazil nut.

The ones we raise next year from the same bulbs look ornery, and we would have to sandpaper and varnish them to resemble the original stock.

Hyacinth bulbs produce tulips, tulip bulbs produce jonquils, and crocusses bring forth narcissi.

We can prove this remarkable statement by showing you the labels we ourself wrote on the bags when we took the dirty little dornicks out of the ground last year, and by showing you the flowers they produced last spring.

No, you'd have to take our word for the latter.

Bulbs produce blooms for about fifteen minutes, and you put in all the rest of the year taking care of them.

Wouldn't that freesia?

Turpentine

OIL of turpentine is by all odds the best local application we know for colic. Whether the cause of the colic be gallstones, chronic appendicitis, or other undiagnosed condition accompanied with acute attacks of pain and perhaps flatulence or gas formation, turpentine is the most efficacious home remedy we can mention.

But it matters a great deal how the turpentine is administered.

It is very useful as a carminative and fleeting stimulant when given internally to an adult (not to a child) in one dose of about five drops on some sugar or in a capsule. One dose is sufficient. It should not be repeated.

But the better effect is obtained by the local application of turpentine in the shape of the turpentine stupe.

A little turpentine goes a great way. Too much will blister. Here is the way to use turpentine stupes:

Take a large woolen or flannel cloth, drop it into water in a basin nearly boiling hot. Take two pieces of broomstick a foot or more long; run them through loops in the end of a canvas bag which opens on one side. Drop the hot cloth into the bag by means of a stick or fork (it is too hot to handle), and wring it out thoroughly by means of the broomsticks, which can be twisted by two persons.

Now, just before applying the cloth to the patient's anxious abdomen sprinkle over it about five or ten drops of turpentine. Then put the turpentine bottle away, for you wont need any more of it this season.

The stupe should be changed as soon as the heat is gone—every fifteen minutes or so—regardless of the patient's vigorous protests. Heat must be just a wee bit more than the patient thinks he can stand if it is to be effective. Over the stupe a dry flannel may be placed to keep the clothing dry.

Sometimes a few drops of turpentine may be added to a soap and water, or glycerin and water, or Epsom salts and water enema just before it is given—for adults only. But the local influence of turpentine, in the hot stupe, is by all odds the most favorable in all cases of abdominal colic.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Diphtheria Cultures

Can a doctor diagnose a case of diphtheria without taking a culture from the throat? Can a culture from the throat be reported "positive" when the patient has some other throat trouble than diphtheria?

Answer—Certainly he can, if he knows his business. In fact the culture is only confirmation of the doctor's diagnosis. If the doctor says diphtheria and the culture is reported "negative," the doctor is more likely right. If the culture is reported "positive" it only proves there are living diphtheria germs in the throat—but many healthy children harbor diphtheria germs without having the disease. The culture is a very untrustworthy guide. Your doctor's opinion is the only safe guide.

Hoffman's Anodyne

Please inform me whether Hoffman's Anodyne is considered a good remedy for the relief of flatulence, in teaspoonful doses.

Answer—It is an old remedy for flatulence. One or two doses, in a little cold water, should be enough. It contains ether.

CIGARS

THE subject of cigars is so vast that the mere attempt to contemplate it produces dizziness and gives the typewriter blind staggers.

Over 300,000,000 men on this planet are smoking cigars each day. They consume on an average of 600,000,000 cigars daily. This means the burning of 600,000,000 matches, which must be made from the wood of 100 acres of forest. It means that probably 150,000,000 men are stopped each day by 150,000,000 other men who want to borrow a match. The time wasted in this operation alone is equal to 300,000,000 minutes a day, or 5,000,000 hours, or 200,000 days, or 547 years—long enough to build and completely finish a postoffice building in Chicago.

To say nothing of the time spent by each man in trying to paste down the end of his cigar so that it will not unwrap and allow the backbone to fall out. The time wasted in this performance would dig a Panama canal each day.

Smoking cigars is one of the very few forms of legal arson. Each day the public ignites $10,000,000 worth of cigars which are a total loss by evening. Cigars are made of tobacco and near tobacco and almost tobacco and alleged and pseudo and quondam and quasi tobacco. They are like great singers. They go best under foreign names. This prejudice has filled our country with "La Ropera," "Burna Vila" and "San Queroseno" cigars, any one of which would smell as energetically under the American translation. In fact, the choice of a name for a cigar is much more important than the choice of tobacco. A "Colorado Clara" cigar will sell nicely, but any manufacturer who put a "Missouri Mabel" cigar on the market would be ruined in a month. When a manufacturer has secured a good free burning name and a gilt and pink corset which will attract the eye, he is so well satisfied that he frequently doesn't bother about picking out any tobacco at all.

There are three grades of cigars: Good cigars, bad cigars and election cigars. Practically the only social division among men in the United States is made by the ten-cent cigar.

If you get near enough to him there will be tears in your eyes

Above the ten-cent limit are the aristocracy, the prosperous business class and the spendthrifts. Below it is the plain citizen who works hard for his money and can smoke with pleasure and content a cigar that biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder. A man may sell his automobile without exciting comment, but when he stops smoking ten-cent cigars and begins to smoke five-centers, with his nose carefully removed from the smoke, the world knows that something severe has happened to him.

Cigars are useful for meditation purposes. Some men can only think when their brains are geared up with their puffing muscles. They are also a universal medium of good fellowship. Offer a friend a dollar, and he will be insulted. Give him a piece of tarred roping with a Mother Hubbard wrapper and a gilt sash around it, and he will thank you with tears in his eyes as he smokes. And if you get near enough to him, there will be tears in your eyes also.

Views Of The Press

The Little Things Of Life

APROPOS of woman suffrage, all great things have small beginnings. A spectacle maker, Jan Leippersheim by name, living in Holland, invented a crude magnifying glass in 1608. Anton von Leuwenhoek, born in Delft, this day 1632, improved this clumsy toy and evolved a compound microscope, which has become the most valuable sanitary tool yet devised by man. That first microscope was as far removed from the high-powered instrument of to-day as is the modern American from the original caveman. Yet by this faulty means, Leuwenhoek, naturalist, physician and botanist, discovered certain minute bodies which he called "little animals." He made drawings of these and to-day we know them for those useful friends and malignant enemies of man—bacteria. We spend our days surrounded by another world, a living world of countless billions, invisible to the naked eye, silent, tireless, destroying the living, consuming the dead, useful in the sciences and arts, yet often followed by a train of sickness, suffering and death. A curious paradox this, yet bacteria are at once the greatest friends and the fiercest foes of every living thing. Not animals, as Leuwenhoek thought, but vegetables, bacteria consists of two classes—those which prey on living things and those which reduce to their original minerals, fluids and gases, every dead thing which they attack. They are of various shapes, round like marbles or straight like little sticks. They grow in clusters, chains and in pairs. They are ubiquitous. The dusty air, the earth and its waters, the interior of animals and plants all contain them. They cause the fermentation of foods, they make cheese, they produce disease, and some of them when killed and injected into an animal protect it against the very disease which they would have produced if living. Many of them live as harmless creatures in the body of an animal for years, only to kill their host when the opportunity presents. Their study has given birth to a science, bacteriology, one of the foundation stones of public health.—Paterson Morning Call.

Out Of The Agreement

Q. Two men formed a partnership for the purpose of conducting a certain business. One of the partners bought some merchandise and goods that are not adapted to the business for which the partnership was formed. Kindly inform me whether this partner had a legal right to do this.

A. If the goods are of such a character that they are not used in the business of this particular partnership, and cannot be made available for such purpose, a liability attaching to the firm cannot be created in this manner.

Head Of The Family

Q. (1) Is a son eighteen years old, who has paid his board at home and sustained himself entirely since he was fourteen years old, responsible for a debt his mother contracted, but is unable to pay at present? (2) Can his wages be stopped?

A. (1) The boy is not responsible for his mother's debt. (2) No, his wages could not be stopped.

A Valuable Consideration

Q. In speaking of a "valuable consideration," in law, does this mean money?

A. It does not necessarily mean money. It usually means money or money's worth, but may be defined more accurately as something which the law esteems of value.

What Law Governs The Will

Q. In determining the rights of heirs to real estate, where the owner has died without making a will, which law should be regarded—the law of the state in which the real estate is situated or the law of the state in which the owner lived? In the case I have in mind, the owner of the property resided in a different state.

A. The law of the state in which the real estate is situated will have controlling force.

When The Guardian's Charge Marries

Q. Where a girl, under guardianship, marries, does her guardian have any further rights or are any further duties imposed upon him?

A. The statutes differ in their provisions with reference to this matter. Frequently, however, it is provided that the marriage of the ward will discharge the guardian with reference to the guardian's custody and education of the ward, but not with respect to her property.

A Dishonest Assistant

Q. I am conducting a general store and employed a clerk. The clerk, in the course of the employment, learned about some business transactions of mine and tried to turn them to his own account, even as against my interests. Did he have any right to do this?

A. He had no such right.

Mr. Branson will be glad to answer all questions. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not, it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all letters to E. R. Branson, care of this newspaper.

Promptness

Be on Time.

Because of the lateness of Marshal Grouchy of the French army at the Battle of Waterloo, Blucher had time to whip his army on to the help of Wellington. Napoleon ordered right. Had not the man to whom he entrusted his awful orders blundered—hesitated—been Late—the whole history of Europe would have been changed from 1815.

Be on Time.

"The Train was late," is the most frequent explanation after a terrible accident. What a multitude of lives have been lost, what an army of men and women have been deprived of position and honor, what untold suffering and humiliation have followed in the path of the late Mr. Late. Nothing pays better than Promptness.

Be on Time.

Promptness is the act of being on the job when your name is called—and answering to it. Not NEARLY—but THERE.

Be on Time.

Time tolls its minutes with even, regular strokes—never has a stroke been tolled out of Tune or out of Time. The Job, the Appointment, the Order, the Friend, the Opportunity—won't wait for the man who doesn't respond on the dot.

Be on Time.

Be not deceived by the cheap clanging of gold and silver—gifts through whose possession you imagine yourself immune to Honor and the Promptness of Appointments. There is no winning to the slothful. The world with all its wonderful offerings gives its choice freely to the man of his word.

Be on Time.

Be on Time at your desk each day—at each and every Appointment throughout each day. In fact, the path to greatness starts by being on time each morning at your own Breakfast table. That's the beginning, anyway.

Be on Time.

That Restaurant Pie

In the restaurant I sit, thinking, mother, dear, of you,
And the good old-fashioned pies
you used to make,
Where the top and bottom crusts had some filling in between
And did not require a blacksmith's sledge to break.
Now the apple pie I get tastes just like a leather belt
And would make a dandy half-sole for a shoe.
It will bend, but will not break, and I'll always have to take Off my lid in fond remembrance of you.

Christmas Panorama in Rotunda of New Building, Facing Toy Store

"The Most Charming Toy Land I Ever Saw"

—Writes a woman visitor;

"the sweetest, daintiest, prettiest place in New York; the Christmas spirit is there as I never felt it anywhere; and the queer part of it all is that I brought some of it home with me."

Here Is the Letter—

"I should like to send a personal letter of congratulation to the man at Wanamaker's who was got together the most charming Toy Land I ever saw. It is the sweetest, daintiest, prettiest place in New York, and its effect is marvelous. The next time I feel blue I shall go down there and get one of those enthusiastic little maids to take me around again, and I should be a chronic sufferer indeed if my grouch didn't go.

"I have no words to describe how wonderful it is to me, and must with apologies take recourse to the old term atmosphere, which, however, would never fail to occur to people visiting your toys, for the difference between yours and others in atmosphere is like changing climates entirely.

"The cleanness and order of the place is wonderful. But nothing of beauty of arrangement or attraction has been sacrificed in accomplishing this result. At first I thought the cases looked thin, but I grew to like the little Christmas trees in the center.

"The show in the background is too funny and lovely for words, and worth a good admission price. I found myself thinking the jacks in the boxes would never bob up again; and the fellow with the inquisitive long nose, peeping out of the window is convulsing. What a splendid use you have made of the man riding the donkey!

"No French display, nor any other display can touch your place. You have the Christmas spirit there as I never felt it anywhere, and the queer part of it all is that I brought some of it home with me. It seems much more a pleasure ground than a market, in fact, the thought of buying comes later. Even the little maids do not suggest it, but so prettily and sweetly say, 'May I show you around, Madam' and the way they love the thing is a joy."

TOYLAND is open every day from 8:30 to 5:30, and everybody, young and old, married and single, optimist and pessimist, Grouchy Grim and Sunny Jim are welcome.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Story of the Camphor Tree and Its Sugar Coated Pills.

Have to Watch Carefully.

"LAST night," said daddy, "Jack slept with his window tightly closed, and now he has a sniffly cold in his nose. So mamma is giving him little white sugar coated camphor pills. Next cold day we have Evelyn will forget to wear her coat at play, and she will probably get a horrid cough and mamma will rub her chest with camphorated oil. Have either of you children any idea about this kind medicine, camphor, which makes you both well again?"

Jack and Evelyn thought and thought, but neither of them knew.

"Next spring, when lots of little white moths will try to eat nice bites out of your winter coat, Jack, and your squirrel muff, Evelyn, mamma will tuck some smelly little camphor balls inside them and hang them away, quite sure the camphor will keep your clothes for you. Camphor comes from a tree."

Both children "Oh-ed!" and daddy went on.

"Probably you both are thinking of a queer smelling, gummy little white tree just as funny looking as some snow man out in the back yard or as funny as the gingerbread lady Anne makes for Bibbley Wah. But the real camphor tree grows in Asia and on the islands of Borneo, Sumatra and Java, and Japan's new province, Formosa, grows more camphor trees than any other country in the world. So you see all different kinds of camphor mamma keeps for you come thousands of miles across either the Atlantic or Pacific ocean."

"How does a camphor tree really look, daddy?" asked Jack.

"Very beautiful, straight and tall and big around. Its pretty leaves are dark, glossy green, very much like our mountain laurel. Every bit of a tree has camphor in it, so the whole tree has to be cut down and chopped into little pieces. Then these chips are put in a big iron kettle partly covered with water and set over a slow fire, while the tight lid must be shaped like the dome of a cathedral. On the inside of this lid stalks of rice plant or tall grasses are fastened, and when the water boils steam rises and puts tiny grains of camphor on the stalks. The grains grow into big lumps, which are then stripped off the kettle lid, packed in big chests and sealed with lead so the odor can't escape. Then these chests are shipped all over the world, but the people who best know how to refine camphor are the Dutch and the Venetians. Camphor catches fire very easily, and the Japs who tend the kettles have to watch carefully not to burn up their work. If you leave a bit of camphor on the table it will fly away in the air. This is why mamma always keeps a glass stopper in her bottle. Camphor wood is also nice to whittle, and the Japs make charming toys of it for their little children," daddy finished.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS EVA LEONARD

Love Long Denied Proves Good Medicine for Molly Sutner.

As John Sutner knelt by the bed holding the hot hand of his sick wife, all the five years of their married life passed before him. He saw her again as he had first known her, a light-hearted, thoughtless girl full of fun, totally unused to any responsibility. He saw the stormy scenes that followed the rude awakening when they found themselves confronted with the hard conditions of their lives, each bitterly blaming the other for what really was the result of the ignorance and inexperience of both.

"Poor little girl," he thought. "Life has been very hard for her and I have made it harder; I, who should have helped her, made things worse with my lack of patience. I expected her to learn the difficult task of housekeeping all alone and do it on so small a sum that it would have taxed the resources of experienced housewives. Then when she failed I blamed her."

Molly turned restlessly on her pillow and began muttering in an excited manner.

"I did not; you only gave me five dollars," the voice trailed off into incoherence.

"Always money. It was at the root of all our difficulties," thought John, and passed his hand wearily over his forehead. He rose and gave the medicine which partially roused the sick woman.

"Where is Jack?" she asked, but before he could answer she had slipped back into unconsciousness. The clock in the sitting room ticked with startling distinctness through the silent house.

Suddenly Molly put her hands before her face and began to sob.

"What is it, dear?" John leaned over the bed and placed his cool hand on her forehead.

"I am always to blame. I never do anything right." Her voice was high and excited, and the shuddering sobs began again.

John drew the hot hands away from her face.

"Listen, Molly; I have been hard and unkind, but I love you. Forgive me, dear little wife."

She stopped sobbing and looked up in his anxious face quite awake. A slow smile lit up the flushed face.

"Let's begin all over again, little girl. We were ignorant, thoughtless children and made many mistakes. Go to sleep now, dear, so you can get well very soon. I need you. I must have you. Here, take your medicine." He held the spoon to her lips.

"Now, I will put this cool pillow under your head. Isn't that batter?"

Molly smiled happily up into his face.

"She knows what I said; she is quieted," thought John with trembling eagerness.

"Shall I bathe your face to cool it?" he asked, trying to think of something to show his devotion.

"Yes," she whispered contentedly.

He said nothing more, fearing to make her worse. Molly followed his every move, a glad light in her eyes. When he finally sat down by the bed she slipped her hand into his and closing her eyes fell into a peaceful sleep.

"She had a good night. She's better this morning," announced the doctor cheerfully, as he climbed into his automobile.

"Climb in, Sutner. I'll set you down at the office."

Electricity Can Work For You

Nov. 29th to Dec. 4th Electrical Prosperity Week

Electricity Can Cook For You

Electrical Prosperity Week is to be observed throughout the United States. We will celebrate it by reducing prices. All electrical appliances for household use, except Hot-Point Irons, will be reduced 15 per cent. Hot-Points will be sold for $2.50 instead of $3

Electrical Appliances, with a small outlay for current, can be made to do most of your housework, including the cooking. Electricity will do your washing, your ironing, your sweeping and dusting. The appliances are not expensive and save time and labor.

E-lecturettes

A series of eight articles describing the development of electricity to the present day, prepared for the ordinary layman to read. The week from November 29 to December 4 is being featured as Electrical Prosperity Week from one end of the country to the other, and the articles are printed in the Daily Press in order to give our readers, young and old, a splendid home course in electricity.

ALLESSANDRO VOLTA.

NO. 1.

The Volt, Unit of Electrical Pressure.

The term volt (V) owes its name to Alessandro Volta, inventor of the electric battery. Volta was born at Como, Italy, Feb. 18, 1745, in a house where the Volta family had lived for more than 300 years. When a child, strange as it may seem, he was very backward. He was thin and pale, and other little boys thought him dull, indeed. He was four years old when he spoke his first word, "no." From the time of this "event," however, his mind seemed to turn entirely to the wonders of nature. Many times as a child he almost lost his life in exploring caves and odd places where people never went. At sixteen he wrote poetry, and at seventeen he won prizes in philosophy. At eighteen the famous Abbe Nolet, impressed with the boy's knowledge, had him write essays on electricity for the great men of the day, because people knew very little about this mighty force in those times.

As a young man Volta went on long trips into other countries, and once in 1752 he met Benjamin Franklin. In London, Berlin and Paris he was given all the honors the world's great men received. The first consul founded the Volta prize, which was once conferred on Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone. Bonaparte gave Vlota a sword and made him a senator of Lombardy. The emperor took the same kind of liking to Robert Fulton and gave Fulton 10,000 francs to help the Yankee to keep up on French soil his experiments with submarine boats. It is told of Bonaparte that he once visited the National Institute and found there a laurel wreath on a bronze tablet, on which were the words, "Au Grand Voltaire." The emperor erased the last three letters, thus making it read, "To the Great Volta."

Volta really had nothing more to do with what is now called a volt than dozens of other men of science. Volta found out a lot of things electricity could do, but this was long before anybody dreamed that almost everything in the world can be run by electricity and before it was decided its power could be measured. It was when the scientists got together in later years and decided to give names to what they learned about electricity that they picked out an electrical unit of pressure and called it a volt. This was long before Mr. Edison was born, and so we find none of these units named after the famous wizard of Menlo Park, who first made it possible for everybody to use the electric light, the talking machine and the "movies."

The fact that you can't pick off a chunk of electricity and hold it in your hand and poke it with your finger has stirred up a whole lot of mystery about what really now is a very simple thing.

One of the first things the fathers of electricity learned was that there is a force "from behind"—pressure—in electricity.

You get an idea of what is meant by pressure when you remember the garden hose playing over the lawn. When it only "half worked" and threw a stream only a little way you said it lacked "pressure." As the pressure was greater the hose "worked" better. This pressure was the power "back behind" in the water pipe. It is always there, but cannot show itself in action until you turn on the nozzle of the hose. Then it tries to escape, the power "back behind" pressing the water on and out. Electricity flows exactly the same way, except that you cannot see it, although you benold what it does. The second you "turn on" the switch the electricity flows; the power in the line is always there seeking to be free and at work.

Nowadays it is very simple to measure this electrical pressure. So if you have a wire filled with electricity, instead of the garden hose filled with water, and want to make an electric vacuum cleaner go you will understand that you must have an electric current of just enough strength or pressure enough to make the little wheels turn and keep revolving. Nearly all house currents have 110 volts pressure.

A volt, then, is the pressure that is needed to force a current of electricity of a certain quantity through a wire of given resistance, or, to speak in scientific terms, a volt is the pressure required to force one ampere of current through a conductor having one ohm resistance. These terms will be fully explained in the succeeding E-lecturettes. These are judged by the size of the wire, the distance to be traveled, and so on, and will be explained in the succeeding "E-lecturettes." So if you save all these "E-lecturettes" for your home course you are sure to soon know all about electricity as it is used today.

(Next E-lecturette—The Ampere, Unit of Electric Current Strength.)

PLAN COMMUNITY XMAS.

The Community Christmas Committee, of which Councilman Richard A. Claybrook is the chairman, will hold an important meeting at the Y. M. C. A., Tuesday night, to further plans for the annual observance in the City Park on Christmas eve. A full attendance of the members as well as all others interested is urged.

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM FOR ANNUAL RECITAL

Pupils of the Misses Quinn Will Perform at Columbus Club Tonight.

The annual piano and violin recital given by the pupils of the Misses Alice M. and M. Katharine Quinn will be held in the Columbus Club Auditorium tonight and tomorrow night, the former a recital of the advanced pupils and the latter of the younger boys and girls. Both presentations promise to be far superior to all former exhibitions of the pupils, who always received much applause at the conclusion of their number, which show a marked degree of skill in the many difficult pieces assigned to them.

The program tonight will include the following numbers:

Part I.—Quartet, "Mitzi Katzchen," Behr, Misses M. Butscher, E. O'Sullivan, E. Harper, L. Kenney; "Visions of the Dance," Atherton Miss Julia Regan; "Village Fiddlers," Wildermere, Misses R. McDonough, D. Brandt, C. Nathanson, Master J. Daly; Second Valse, Godard, Master Edward McCarthy; trio, "Fantasie on Irish Melodies," Czerny, Misses T. Kreger, M. McGinley, M. Butscher; "Charge of the Cavalry," Bohm Master Robert Clarkson; "Peaceful Valley," Kern; Miss Mary McCauley; vocal, "Angels' Serenade," Braga Miss Elizabeth Geary; quartet, Waltz from "Faust," Misses M. Butscher E. O'Sullivan, E. Harper, L. Kenney.

Part II.—Violin solo, "Air Melodieux," Miss Rosanna McDonough; "Heart Whispers," Delacoeur, Miss Elizabeth McAlvannah; "Spinning Song," Schmoll, Miss Mary Maher; "Salut a Pesth," Kowalski, Paul Geary; violin solo, "Gavotte," Op. 14 Bohm, Daniel Kreger, piano, Miss Teresa Kreger; "Sans Souci," Ascher Master Edwin Addis; "Polka de Concert," Bartlet, Miss Mary Butscher; violin solo, "Sault d'Amour," Elgar, Daniel Kreger, accompanied by piano and organ; "Arabesque," Lack, Miss Margert McGinley; quartet, "Caliph of Bagdad," Boieldieu, Misses H. Nathanson, M. McCauley, F. Russ, E. McAlvannah; "Traviata Fantasie, Miss Florence Russ; "Sequidilla," Bohm, Miss Margaret Gallagher; "Tarantelle," Miss Hannah Nathanson; "Grand Valse de Concent," Matteci, Master Harold Keenan; "Invitation to the Dance," Weber, Miss Elizabeth Brown; "Impromptu," Reinhold; "Rhapsodie Hongroise," Liszt Miss Elizabeth Mara; Priests' March from "Athalia," Mendelssohn, violins, Miss R. M. Donough, D. Kreger piano, Miss T. Kreger, Miss H. Nathanson.

PAUL SWAN'S PROGRAM DESCRIBED AS "CLASSIC"

Paul Swan, in dramtic, pictorial or "classic," dancing—however you may choose to describe his beautiful art—will appear at the Plainfield High School on Tuesday night, November 30, in the first of a series of five entertainments to be presented here by Charles Prescott Poore, of New York. Mr. Swan's program has many features, and his appearance here will mark the first of this kind of entertainment in Plainfield.

Particularly interesting will be a number entitled, "To Heroes Slain," and dedicated to the battlefields of Flanders. Another number will be "The Dance of the Wind."

DEATH COMES TO CAPT. B. J. TUZO

Veteran Sea Pilot Succumbs to Long Illness at His Home in Fanwood.

WAS BORN IN BERMUDA

For Many Years Was Engaged in Coastwise Trade — Transported Union Troops During Civil War—Was Employed in Revenue Service.

Captain Benjamin Tuzo, aged 86 years, died at his home on Terrill road, Fanwood, yesterday, after a long illness with complications. Two weeks ago he observed his birthday anniversary. During an eventful life he encircled the globe. For several years he made his home at Fanwood.

Captain Tuzo was born in Bermuda in 1829, his father being a native of that place, while his mother, who, before her marriage, was Miss Louisa Ketchum, was born in New York. Early in life Captain Tuzo had a longing for the sea and at the age of fifteen he took berth on a ship engaged in trade between Bermuda and the States. He was engaged in the coastwise trade on different vessels until he became a captain.

During the gold fever of '49, Captain Tuzo went west and engaged in the Pacific Coast trade. Later he commanded a packet that plied between Quebec and Liverpool, and for a time piloted a boat between Philadelphia and Liverpool. At the outbreak of the Civil War, Captain Tuzo was in charge of the ship Oriental, intended for coastwise trade, but the boat was soon chartered as a transport. During the greater part of the war, Captain Tuzo was engaged in transporting Union troops to various points in the south, which included taking soldiers to South Carolina for a successful attack on Fort Royal.

After spending several years in the Cuban trade following the war, he retired from the sea in 1867. During the Cleveland Administration he was in the Government revenue service and later was connected with the Appraiser's office in New York city. Afterward he became a custom broker and was a prominent figure in shipping circles until he retired in 1901. About the time he entered the Government service he built his home in Fanwood and for nearly thirty-two years had resided there.

Captain Tuzo married Miss Mary Paul, of Philadelphia, in 1861. She died in 1870, leaving four children, Fannie L., Elizabeth K., Paul B. and Louis E. Tuzo. The two daughters have since died and only the sons survive; also a sister, Miss Jacobina Tuzo, of Bristol, Pa.

The funeral will be held at All Saints' Episcopal church, Fanwood, of which Captain Tuzo was a member, tomorrow morning at 11:30 o'clock. Rev. E. Vicar Stevenson, of Grace church, will officiate, assisted by Rev. Oscar Stuart Michael, rector of the church. Burial will be in Trinity cemetery, New York city.

WILL CASE SETTLED AFTER FOURTEEN ADJOURNMENTS

Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 29.—After exactly fourteen court adjourments, the fight begun in the Surrogate's Court here last September between Rose Noethiger, a $43,544.25 beneficiary of the $137,778.06 estate left by Heman Thomas Clark, brother of Walter and Charles Clark, of Plainfield, and the executors, whom she charged with withholding that which she said was rightfully due her, stands today withdrawn, the matter having been settled out of court.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR TWIN SONS

Stuart and Blakesley Roberts Celebrate Event Upon Reaching Majority.

An event of unusual interest was the birthday party given Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Miles Roberts, of Kensington avenue, for their twin sons, Blakesley and Stuart Roberts, who on that day reached their majority. While the affair was not in the nature of a surprise, it was nevertheless just as enjoyable, and the young men were the recipients of hearty congratulations as well as numerous gifts from relatives and friends. The guests at the party included a small company of neighbors and other intimate friends of the family. The evening was spent playing various kinds of games and later refreshments were served.

The young men have spent the greater part of their lives in this city. After completing their course at the Plainfield High School they entered Stevens Institute, where they are now fitting themselves for the profession of mechanical engineer, in which they have already developed considerable talent. Among the guests at the affair Saturday night was John Griffin, of Elmira, N. Y., an uncle of the young men, who entertained the company with humorous stories. The table decorations in the dining room were most attractive, the colors of Stevens Institute being used throughout.

DEATH SUMMONS MRS. VAN BOSKERCK

Well Known Resident Succumbs to An Attack of Arterio-Sclerosis.

Mrs. George W. Van Boskerck, aged 79 years, died Saturday night at her home on West Seventh street, of arterio-sclerosis. She was born in Brooklyn Heights, February 5, 1836, being the daughter of Thomas Rowe, a leading manufacturer and importer of linseed oil in New York and Brooklyn. Her mother was Mary Elizabeth Townsend, whose father was a prominent citizen and business man of old down town New York.

Mrs. Van Boskerck was married February 22, 1859, to George W. Van Boskerck, whose death occurred in this city five years ago, more than a year after the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary in 1909. Their early married life was spent in New York city and Tarrytown, after which they removed to Westfield, where they lived until 1889, when they removed to Plainfield.

Until the last few years, when she was stricken with paralysis, Mrs. Van Boskerck was during all her life active and prominent in the work of several Episcopal churches where she lived. She was a member of the Plainfield Monday Afternoon Club and of Grace church, in the latter of which her peculiar interest and affection centered in the relief work of the Friendly Aid Society.

Mrs. Van Boskerck is survived by two sons, Thomas R. and George T. Van Boskerck, both of Plainfield, and five daughters, Mrs. William Bloodgood, of New York city; the Misses Sarah M., Maud and Edith Van Boskerck, and Mrs. William S. Tyler, all of Plainfield.

Funeral services will be at the family home tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. Interment will be in Woodlawn cemetery.

BANQUET WILL FOLLOW CORNER-STONE LAYING

In connection with the laying of the corner-stone of the new Federal building on Saturday afternoon by the Grand Lodge of Masons of New Jersey, the joint committee of the Masonic lodges of Plainfield have issued invitations to a banquet to be given in Masonic Hall after the ceremonies.

It is expected that the entire membership of the Grand Lodge of Masons will be present; also many city and county officials and other invited guests.

SOMERVILLE Y. M. C. A. MEETING

Somerville, Nov. 29.—Somerville senior and the first and second junior group Y. M. C. A. held a meeting in its rooms last Friday evening. Judge Nelson Y. Dungan, Rev. Frederick C. Blaser, of Somerville, and Walter Whetstone, secretary of a students' association at Pennsylvania State College, delivered interesting talks. Douglas Brown, a student at Princeton, and Arthur Van Fleet, of Rutgers, also addressed the gathering, using "College Life and Experiences" as their subjects.

CANNOT TIP WAITER AT "CAFE CONCERT"

But Patrons Will Be Given Ample Opportunity to Aid Belgian Cause.

Perhaps the most unique feature of the Cafe Concert, to be given Wednesday evening for the Belgian Queen's portable creche, is the menu, consisting of demi-tasse or cafe au lait, biscuit militaire, petits fours and cigarettes. Nothing else will be sold and the pretty girl waiters are pledged to make correct change, and scorn tips, fees, poruboire, or douceurs. If visitors do not care for after-dinner coffee and a cigarette, or a sweet, they may feast on the merry audience that will fill the Park Club and regale themselves with the rollicking fun in the program numbers.

Many excellent plans have been submitted for the portable house which it is proposed to purchase from firms all over the country, and the committee is working carefully with an expert, and hope to be able to make a decision this week. The amount needed is $2,500, of which about $1,500 is already on hand. The committee having this matter in charge consists of Mrs. Frederick W. Wallace, Mrs. Edward Cox, Mrs George Megrew and Mrs. Maybury B Meller.

Tickets for the Cafe Concert are on sale at D. S. Miller's, Park avenue and Fourth street, and may also be had from Mrs. Frederick W. Butler.

Miss Ginna will be the head waitress and her staff includes the following buds and society girls: Misses Edith Beers, Katharine Browne, Elizabeth Browne, Gertrude Butler, Katharine Drayton, Gwendolyn Gough, Lelia Hedges, Helen Irons, Helen Joy, Dorothy Lyon, Elizabeth McGee, Mary Rushmore, Marian Schuyler, Monica Sharretts, Katherine Sill, Ruth Timpson, Annette Van Mater, Janet Van Vliet and Katharyn Yates.

BEAT WIFE BECAUSE SHE WOULDN'T WORK

Italian Says She Drank and Played Cards With the Boarders.

That a wife should share in the labors of her husband, was the belief that John Yannentz, an Italian, voiced in court this morning, when he was arraigned on a charge of beating his wife. Yannentz excused his actions by saying that his wife refused to help him with his work Saturday, and he knocked her down and kicked her.

Judge DeMeza drew out the fact that the wife remained at home playing cards and drinking beer with two boarders, which constituted mitigating circumstances, but he gave the man a fine of $10, made him promise his wife that he would not mistreat her in the future and warned Yannentz that a second arrest on a similar charge would mean a workhouse sentence of six months—less one day.

EDWARD DAWSON IS HIT BY WAGON OF L. CADISH

Edward Dawson, of 7 Washington avenue, was struck by a wagon of Lewis Cadish, Sunday, he reported to the police this morning. Dawson was riding along West Front street on his bicycle, he says, when he was run into by the wagon of Cadish and knocked to the ground. He was not injured. Cadish will be ordered to court today and the accident will be aired at the session of tomorrow.

UNION PRAISE SERVICE.

The union praise meeting of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies will be held in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. At that time an address will be made by Harry Wade Hicks, secretary of the Missionary Education Movement.

THANK MERCHANTS.

The Bonnie Burn Sanatorium wish to thank the florists, Brooks Carson and Mrs. A. E. Lincoln; and also the Ritz store, the Kandy Shope, Ford Taxi Company, and A. E. Force & Co., for their gifts for the patients on Thanksgiving Day.

BURNING CHIMNEY ALARM.

A burning chimney in the home of Peter Cuff, 338 East Third street, last night, called out the chemical company from headquarters. The blaze was extinguished within a few minutes and but little damage was done.

RED CROSS SEALS SOON TO BE ON SALE HERE

George M. Holstein Again Heads Committee Having Work in Charge.

Preparations for the annual sale of Red Cross Seals have been completed by George M. Holstein, chairman of the seal committee of the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield, and the popular holiday "stickers" will be found at a number of places before the week is over. The campaign will not actually start until Wednesday, but Mr. Holstein has gathered together a very active committee, and announcement will be made of the places where they can be purchased tomorrow or Wednesday.

The sale of the seals in past years has played an important part in the raising of funds for conducting the work of the league, as a large percentage of the money received from their sale is used for the local work. Last year, also under Mr. Holstein's direction, nearly 30,000 of the seals were disposed of, netting the biggest part of $800 to the league, and this year it is hoped that 100,000 will be sold before the holiday season is over.

The seal this year is square, and is easily distinguished from an ordinary postage stamp when placed on a letter. On the face is the usual Christmas and New Year greeting, a red cross, words "American Red Cross," and a smiling Santa Claus, as well as the figures 1915. The seal is printed in the holiday colors, green and red, and will brighten up any letters or packages. The price remains as in the past at one cent each.

The Red Cross Seals have all the significance of the regular Christmas stickers, but that does not begin to tell their story. In addition to a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year greeting, the Red Cross Seals typify as nothing else of their kind does, the real Christmas spirit of love and sympathy and service for a brotherhood of suffering humanity. They carry a message of helpful interest to forlorn hearts which cannot be directly reached, however much we may be willing. They give expression to the best impulse that comes from the heart of man—that of helpfulness to the unfortunate victims of poverty, misery and distress. They represent a real and potent effort to translate this spirit of helpfulness into efficient service toward alleviating the sorrow and suffering which follow in the train of the Grea White Plague. They give joy alike to the heart of the sender and to the recipient and help to save the life and happiness of some less fortunate brother beyond the personal reach of either who has already or may become the victim of tuberculosis. And tuberculosis is so largly a community sin.

Placed on correspondence, Christmas gifts, pay envelopes, they carry at once a gladsome message, a cherished hope and a sympathy that cannot be misunderstood.

BOLD ATTEMPT MADE TO STEAL COAT OF DR. DAVIS

A bold attempt to steal the overcoat of Dr. T. S. Davis was made late last week, but through the prudence of Mrs. Davis the would-be thief was thwarted. A well-dressed man called at the Davis home, on Park avenue saying that he had been ordered by the physician to secure his overcoat for repair. The coat was not in need of repair work of any kind, and Mrs. Davis asked the man to come back Saturday. When she told her husband that evening he said that he had given no one instructions to get the coat. Chief Kiely was notified of the attempt at larceny, and his men have a good description of the man. The chief asks that all housewives be careful about giving out coats and suits to strangers, as other attempts are expected.

EAGLES GET DANCE PERMIT.

A permit was granted today to the Fraternal Order of Eagles for a street parade and a dance in Saengerbund Hall, on Friday evening.

RASORES TO MEET.

The Rasores will meet tomorrow at 10:30 with Mrs. Halloway, of East Seventh street, to hear the third and last lecture given by L. V. F. Randolph on "The Making of Itaiy."

ELABORATE PROGRAM FOR ELKS' SERVICE

Former Congressman Fowler and Assemblyman Runyon Will Be the Speakers.

Final arrangements for the annual memorial service of Plainfield Lodge of Elks, to be held in the Plainfield Theatre next Sunday night, have been announced by the committee. Charles N. Fowler, of Elizabeth, will make the principal address, and Assemblyman William N. Runyon will deliver the eulogy. The customary invocation will be offered by Rev. Frank Fletcher, of this city, for many years pastor of the Baptist church at New Market. All the officers of the lodge will be at their respective stations on the stage, and will assist in the exercises.

Brother Hary Wetton's orchestra will render a musical program, and there will also be the following assisting artists: Miss Edythe V. Gibson, soprano; Madame Genevieve Farley Stewart, contralto, and H. V. Spier at the piano. During the course of the program there will also be selections by the Elks' quartet, composed of Elmer D. Cutting, William J. Tallamy, Bertram F. Tallamy and Joseph C. Martin.

The forward part of the orchestra at the theatre will be reserved for the members of the lodge, while the remainder of the house will be given over to the families and friends. The Elks will assemble at the Watchung avenue clubhouse at 7:30 and proceed in a body to the theatre at 7:45, the exercises being scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock.

The memorial committee is composed of S. P. T. Wilbur, Dr. Chalmers L. Crist, William J. Tallamy, Elias H. Bird and Dr. S. A. Aldrich.

KING'S DAUGHTERS DANCE A SUCCESS

Silver Cross Circle Gives a a Pleasing Affair at the Park Club.

The junior dance given by the Silver Cross Circle, of King's Daughters, at the Park Club, Saturday evening, proved a great success, both socially and financially. The club was attractively decorated with the Thanksgiving holidays palms and flowers, and made a pretty setting for the young people.

The lucky number contest dances were much enjoyed. Little Miss Harriet Milne and Master Lawrence Van Mater won the contest for the little children, the prizes being a dainty blue desk set for the little girl, and a pretty scarf pin for the boy.

The young people's contest was won by Miss Macy, of New York, and Elmer Perrine. These prizes were a pair of rhinestone slipper buckles, and a gold pen-knife. Ice cream and cake was served to all free of charge. The committee which arranged the dance was composed of Mrs. Wilbur H. Rogers, chairman; Mrs. F. E. DuBois, Mrs. Everett Murray, Mrs. Donald McGee, Mrs. William Roome, Miss Millar and Mrs. H. A. Robinson.

LOCAL ELKS ARRANGE FOR AN ANNIVERSARY AND DANCE

Plainfield Lodge of Elks has set two dates for social affairs to occur within the near future. The first of these will be the celebration of the organization's twelfth birthday, which falls on next Wednesday night, No. 885 having been instituted on December 1, 1903. The house committee has prepared a fitting program which will include a repast to be served in conclusion.

The entertainment committee of the lodge has given notice that it will conduct another of its delightful dances on Tuesday night, December 7, for the benefit of the members and their friends. Van Eups brothers will furnish the music and several features not seen at previous dances are being planned. S. P. Tavener is chairman of the entertainment committee, a fact which gives assurance of the coming dance being fully, if not more, successful than those of last year.

FIRST OF A SERIES OF SOCIALS

As a result of the "acquaintance party" held in the Y. M. H. A. rooms last night, the Young Women's Hebrew Association added several new members to their organization, as well as starting the first of a series of socials they are planning for the winter months, in order to increase their membership. Games, singing and dancing were features of entertainment, while refreshments were served throughout the evening.

COLLECTED $2 FROM NEGRO, IS ARRESTED

Payment on Sewing Machine Results in Case in Police Court.

Elmer Mantz, aged 27 years, was in police court this morning on a charge of having illegally collected a payment of $2 on a Singer sewing machine, but the absence of the local managers of the machine company prevented Judge DeMeza giving a final decision in the case and it was passed until tomorrow.

Thomas Davis, a negro, was the complainant. Davis said that Mantz called at his home a short time ago and asked for a payment on a sewing machine purchased months ago. He gave the man $2, he said, and secured a receipt. A few days later another collector for the company called, and again another, and they insisted that the payment was still due. Saturday, Davis went to the local agency of the Singer company, he told the judge, and was informed that Mantz was not a collector for the company at the time he received the $2 payment. The negro went out on the street and in a short time found Mantz, who went with him to the machine company office. The manager asked him to call a policeman, the negro swore in court, and he complied.

Manager Woodey, of the company, did not appear in court this morning, and a subpoena was issued for him. Judge De Meza allowed the case to go over because Mantz insisted that he was working for the Singer Sewing Machine Company at the time he made the collection, although he was not a collector.

RECOUNT OF VOTES BEGUN IN ELIZABETH

W. L. Hetfield, Jr., Retained by Republicans to Look After Their Interests.

The actual recount of the ballots to determine whether the Republicans or Democrats shall rule the Board of Excise in Elizabeth began this morning at 9 o'clock in the Court House. This action was decided at a meeting of the County Board of Elections which met in accordance with an order for a recount granted by Justice James J. Bergen on application of three Republican candidates, G. Bartram Woodruff, Robert Hutchinson and Joseph H. Neill, who were defeated on the face of the returns.

Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of the firm of Reed & Hetfield, and assistant corporation counsel of Plainfield, has been retained by the Republican contestants to look after their interests in the recount. The fact that Mr. Hetfield has been engaged for this work which will probably take several weeks, is considered an unusual honor.

The fact that Mr. Hetfield was formerly assistant county prosecutor, thoroughly equips him for the work, he being conversant not only with affairs in Elizabeth, but the details of a recount. John R. Connolly and James P. Kelly will represent the Democrats in the recount.

If the Republicans fail to make the anticipated gains, the recount may be discontinued on motion of the petitioners. At the meeting of the County Board on Saturday it was not indicated which ward it will start with first, but it is believed that the wards will be taken in their numerical order, beginning with the first.

HENRY E. BOWEN RETURNS TO OLD POSITION ON HERALD

Henry E. Bowen, of Watchung avenue, who resigned from the advertising staff of the New York Herald a few months ago, after 20 years of continuous service, resumed his old position with that paper this morning. Mr. Bowen, during the time that he was identified with the paper, built up a large list of valuable clients, with whom he maintained a friendship other than that usually acquired in a business way, and he found that idleness did not agree with him. Last week he received a letter from the advertising manager of the Herald asking if he would return and take his old position, and he decided to accept it.

AUCTION SALE.

Attention is called to the auction sale of household goods to be held in the Lufburrow building on West Front street beginning at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. These goods will be disposed of by Robert Murray, auctioneer, and must be sold to close an estate. See advertisement in another part of the Daily Press.

French Check Assault.

Paris, Nov. 29.—French war statement:

"The night was generally calm. There were some grenade combats in Artois, near the Lilie Highway, and in Lorraine around Reillo. Late details of the surprise attack reported in the preceding communique, against one of our works west of Berry Au Bac, established the fact that the enemy was checked with the bayonet in his assault. The enemy's detachment fled, leaving many dead and some prisoners."

Three Allied Steamers Sunk.

Three more allied steamers have been sunk by German submarines in the Mediterranean.

E. W. BRADLEY ADDRESSES THE ROUND TABLE CLUB

E. W. Bradley, local agent for the American Express Company, was the speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Round Table Club at the Hotel Kensington today. Mr. Bradley described the advantages of better lighted show windows, and a more brilliant white way along Front street in the evenings. He suggested that a sign be placed on or near the station pointing out the advantages of shopping in this city. Mr. Bradley told the members of the club that the American Express Company is now spending about $500 a month in Plainfield for the upkeep of their equipment, and that they are ready and willing to cooperate with the local merchants in any way to make the service better.

Postmaster A. E. Hoagland, who was also one of the guests this noon, told the members of some of the plans which are being made for the annual convention of the letter carriers of the State, which will be held in this city on Decoration Day of next year. It is planned to have a big parade, and publish a souvenir booklet of Plainfield, which will be given to the delegates to take to their homes. As some 2,000 men are expected, it is thought that the city will get a great amount of advertising in this way.

AID SOCIETY SALE.

The sale held in the parlors of the Warren chapel, under the auspices of the Missionary and Aid Society, Saturday afternoon, was a financial success, forty dollars being realized from the articles. The chairmen of the various tables were as follows: Salads, baked beans and pickles, Mrs. J. H. Johnson; cake, Mrs. Gibson Smith; bread, biscuits, rolls, Mrs. B. Newmiller; pie, Mrs. J. H. Snyder, and candy, Mrs. Lewis Stites. Each chairman had a number of assistants.

BAPTISTS TO RAISE $7,500.

The officers of the First Baptist church will, during the coming week, endeavor to secure pledges from the members aggregating $7,500, which with a like sum pledged by other members, will pay off an indebtedness of $15,000, whoch has been carried for some time. It is the purpose to have committees visit every member of the church this week.

DUNELLEN

All the Happenings of the Day in Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

TWO BUSY DAYS IN DUNELLEN COURT

Marshal Smalley Assaulted in Making Arrest on Saturday.

Saturday and Monday were busy days in the Dunellen police court.

Mrs. Rose Pernell, Mrs. Charles Fichert and Mrs. Josephine Saphone were arraigned before Recorder Campbell on charges of stealing coal, preferred against them by Detective Latourette, of the Central Railroad. They were found guilty and Mrs. Pernell and Mrs. Fichert were fined $5 each and Mrs. Saphone $3. The fines were paid.

Daniel Grantz and Joseph Marren were fined $25 and $20, respectively when arraigned before Judge Von Minden Saturday on charges of being drunk and disorderly and resisting an officer. Marren and Grantz started to raise a disturbance in Taylor's saloon at noon Saturday, and Marshal Smalley, who was called, ordered them to go home.

They would not do so, and he attempted to place them under arrest. He approached Marren with handcuffs, but Marren gave him a shove and he went down on his knees. Grantz approached the marshal and struck him in the back of the head with a brick. The officer called on the bystanders, who numbered at least a dozen, to come to his assistance, but none of them would do so, and he was obliged to beat a retreat. Marren and Grantz were arrested later in the day by Marshals Mohan and Tarpey. Edgar Giddes, the bartender at Taylor's, was the principal witness at the hearing.

Joseph Storke, an American, and John Nemethe, a Hungarian, were arraigned before Judge Campbell and fined $5 each for being drunk and disorderly. The two were arrested by Marshals Tarpey and Kepler while engaged in a fistic encounter at the corner of Front and Madison avenue, Saturday night. The fight is said to have been the result of an argument over the war.

PREACHES SERMON TO PATRIOTIC SOCIETIES

Rev. Ernest R. Brown in a Strong Discourse Pleads for National Defense.

Rev. Ernest R. Brown, pastor of the Presbyterian church, delivered a patriotic discourse in his church last night, the service being attended by members of the Jr. O. U. A. M., Patriotic Order Sons of America, Daughters of Liberty and Patriotic Order of America. The discourse was prompted by conditions arising in this country as the result of the European war.

Mr. Brown called attention to the laxity of the American laws which would permit such a meeting as that held in Cooper Union, New York, several weeks ago, when over 6,000 hyphenated Americans shouted for the life of the President, and decried the fact that the children of the public schools in New Jersey, because of the action of an alien, may not pledge allegiance to the Stars and Stripes, but may merely salute the emblem of liberty.

Mr. Brown heartily endorsed the principle of receiving into this country all earnest-seeking aliens who come here for the purpose of benefiting their condition in life, but advocated the segregation and denial of all privileges to those aliens who, after a period of five years in this country, fail to take out naturalization papers.

In speaking on national defense Mr. Brown said:

"This country does not require an expenditure of one-half billion dollars for defense, but rather the organization of a citizen soldiery, including necessary drilling and twenty days each year devoted to target practice. We need an American merchant marine subsidized by the Government, which will carry the products of our farms and factories to all parts of the world, enabling the United States to be independent of the destruction or disabling of the merchant fleets of other countries.

Assessor and Mrs. J. H. L. Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kirchner and John Peters, Jr., spent Sunday in Brooklyn, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blank.

Mrs. Cornelia Van Benschoten, of Prospect avenue, entertained T. R. Pierce and family, of Jersey City, over the week-end.

Miss Edna Blaine, of New Brunswick, spent the week-end in the borough the guest of her cousin, Miss Ruth Voorhees, of Jackson avenue.

Architect and Mrs. W. H. Clum returned today from Trenton, where they had been visiting Mr. Clum's daughter, Mrs. S. B. Todd, since Thanksgiving.

Edward Ritter, of Prospect avenue, shot two pheasants in back of Edward Pennock's place on Mountainview terrace, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. MacDonald, of Somerville, visited Mr. and Mrs. George Meyers, of Prospect avenue Saturday.

Henry Althoen, of Mountainview terrace, has returned from a business trip through the South.

NEPHEW IS INJURED.

Paul Ratti, of North avenue, received word yesterday that his nephew, Joseph, aged 7, son of Mr and Mrs. Peter Ratti, of Cranford had been run over by an automobile and taken to a hospital with a broken leg.

ENTERTAIN MANY GUESTS.

Mrs. M. P. Chamberlin, of Center street, extensively entertained over Thanksgiving. Among her guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Chamberlin, and the Misses Helen, Minnie, Elizabeth and Josie Ramsey, all of Bayonne, and Mrs. Sophie Wagner of Milwaukee. Miss Helen Ramsey is vice-principal of School No. 6 in Bayonne, and Miss Josie Ramsey is a kindergarten teacher. Mrs. Fred E. Chamberlin, of whom the Misses Ramsey are sisters, also taught in Bayonne prior to her marriage. One of her pupils was Mrs. Hicks-Barrow, of Prospect avenue.

Treasurer B. K. Burke, of the Dunellen Lumber and Stone Company, spent the week-end at Hopewell.

Watchung.

All the services in the Mary E. Wilson Memorial Union church were well attended yesterday. In the morning, Mr. Ramsay preached a sermon on "Discipline." Violin solos were rendered by George Spier. In the evening, Mr. Ramsay preached on "The Woman of Shuman." Selections were sung by the Girls' Chorus and a solo, "Take Thou My Hand," by Douglas Demler. Reports were read by the secretary and treasurer of the Ladies' Aid Society.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Pattee have returned to their home, after going to Holly, New York, where they attended the funeral of Mr. Pattee's brother.

Miss Margaret Wallace, of Philadelphia, Pa., is the guest of Miss Anna Moldenke.

Mrs. John L. Shank has returned home after spending a few days in Brooklyn.

Miss Aubrey Eaton has returned to Boston, Mass., after spending the Thanksgiving holidays with her parents.

Theodore V. Moldenke has resumed his studies at Wagner Seminary, Rochester, N. Y., after spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Moldenke.

Richard and Edel Moldenke, who have been spending the holidays with their parents, have resumed their studies at Columbia University.

Mrs. Charles E. Spier is ill in the Muhlenberg Hospital with pleuro-pneumonia.

Mrs. Margaret Cooper, of Mt. Bethel, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Dorothea Bartles.

'Plains & Fanwood.

A large congregation gathered at All Saints' Protestant Episcopal church yesterday on the occasion of the first visitation of the Rt. Rev. Paul Matthews, the newly consecrated bishop of the diocese of New Jersey. The choir sang special music, among which were Barrett's Te Deum and the offertory anthem, "Praise Ye the Father," which were well rendered. The office consisted of morning prayer, confirmation and ante communion. Bishop Matthews preached on the text "Follow Me." He said that Jesus Christ was the greatest leader and commander the world has ever seen. He was the greatest commander because He led His forces and proved to be the greatest leader. In the development of His Kingdom the law of evolution obtained. We do not lead two lives, but one, extending beyond the grave to eternity. Life is a continuous development. What in our environment we fit ourselves for here, develops in kind beyond. And only the fittest survives. A man may fit himself for making money simply or for righteousness, but only the righteousness will survive. After the service the bishop met the congregation and greeted all with pleasing sociability.

Fanwood borough's first authentic step toward securing a sewer was taken by the chairman of the committee recently appointed by Mayor Hoar last week. A. I. Nichol, chairman, together with Augustus Sheelen, the other Councilmanic member of the committee, attended a meeting of the Plainfield Council, with whom the borough is dealing, and asked that a committee be appointed to confer with the local authorities on the matter. It resulted in the appointment of Councilmen Hylan, Blatz and Milne. It will probably take a month or longer for the engineers to figure out the extra cost of admitting Fanwood into the trunk sewer line that Plainfield is now building together with Dunellen and North Plainfield, but in the meantime it is expected that the two committees will hold several meetings to discuss matters. A rough estimate secured by the borough several years ago placed the probable cost of such an improvement to that place at about $30,000.

An entertainment will be presented in the Willow Grove chapel tomorrow night by the Cumberland Club and for the benefit of the chapel. An attractive program has been arranged for, including several musical selections by local talent.

Miss Dorothy Beeken returned to her studies at Vassar College today, and William Beeken to his at the Vermont Academy, after spending their Thanksgiving vacations with their parents in the borogh.

Clinton Clark, of Front street, is detained at his home recovering from the effects of a fall from a hay mow on Friday.

The Scotch Plains Boy Scouts will meet in the lecture room of the Baptist church tonight, having recently voted to change the weekly meeting nights from Tuesdays.

After acting in that capacity for a number of years, Martin Korff completed his service as superintendent of the Sunday-school of the Baptist church at the meeting yesterday morning. It has not yet been announced who will fill the vacancy.

Miss Rita DeMott discussed "Our Nearest Home Mission Field" at an interesting meeting of the Epworth League of the Methodist church last night.

Mrs. George Reiner, of Martine avenue, has been entertaining Miss Helen Ridgeway, of Paterson, for several days.

The local schools reopened this morning after being closed since Wednesday for the Thanksgiving vacation. The entering of some forty odd pupils in the new School No. 3, in the Graceland section of the township raises the total enrollment in the new building to a little over eighty. They live just over the line in Westfield and are sent by that town.

POLISH FALCON SOCIETY GIVE ANNUAL MASQUERADE

The third annual masquerade given by the Polish Falcon Gymnastic Society, of this city, in the T. A. B. Hall, Saturday night, was the most successful affair of the kind ever held by the organization, both finanially and socially. Fully three hundred young people from this and nearby cities enjoyed the evening of fun provided by the gaily costumed figures. A feature of the dance was the execution of the Polish "Mazurka," in which twenty couples participated. Prof. Naylor's orchestra provided the music for the dancing. Refreshments were served throughout the evening.

Handsome prizes were awarded the wearers of the most unique costumes, Miss Julia Kovalska, of this city, capturing the first, a huge silver loving cup. She was attired in a frock of red and white and wore a turban, around which the following gold letters were affixed, "Boze Zbawe Polske," which when translated mean, "Lord, Redeem Poland."

MISS ELLEN MAURY GIVEN BIRTHDAY SURPRISE PARTY

Mrs. J. W. Maury, of Webster place, gave a surprise party at her home, Friday evening, in honor of the fifteenth natal day of her daughter, Miss Ellen Maury. She was assisted in arranging the affair by Miss Ada Johnson. Games, dancing and singing were the principal forms of enjoyment, while refreshments were served later.

Those present included: Misses Ada Johnson and Florence Anderson, and the Messrs. William Daniels, George Taylor, William Jeter, Sidney Butler, Foster Kline, Russell Kline, Arthur and Elmer Venable, Walter Fields, Daniel Cardwell, Joshua and Courtney Smith.

THANKSGIVING CANTATA ENJOYED BY WORSHIPPERS

The quartet choir of the First M. E. church, under the direction of Clifford A. Braider, organist, sang "Seed-Time and Harvest," at the morning service yesterday, the cantata being heard by a large congregation. The assisting soloist was Nils Larsen, 'cellist, of New York, whose work was greatly appreciated.

The quartet comprising Miss Lauara Gustafson, soprano; Miss Ethel Kinnaman, contralto; Alexander MacGowan, tenor, and Edgar Cole, baritone, were all in excellent voice, and they gave a finished rendition of the cantata.

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION.

Elizabeth, Nov. 29.—The National Land and Building Company, with offices at 1129 West Front street, filed articles of incorporation in the county clerk's office today. The capital stock is $5,000, the incorporators being Adolph Steengraff, Jr., of South Plainfield; Carmine and Frank Valincenti, of this city.

DUNELLEN AWARDS SCHOOL CONTRACT

Plainfield Man Will Install Electrical Work in New Building.

The Apgar Construction Co., of Dunellen, has been awarded the contract of erecting the new school for the borough, which is to be located on the old Close farm, near the Nelson Giles homestead, at a contract price of $21,065. George M. Stillwell, of Perth Amboy, was awarded the heating and plumbing contract at a price $3,750, and George Ord, of Plainfield, the electrical at a figure of $665. The total of these contract figures is $25,480. The architect's fees, cost of lot, furniture, etc., brings the total cost of the building to within $542 of the appropriation of $31,000.

SCOTCH PLAINS BOYS RUN AWAY FROM HOME

John Frelka, aged 16, and Harry Schwaback, aged 15, left their homes in Scotch Plains yesterday to make their way in the world, according to a report received by Chief of Police Kiely this morning. It is believed that the two boys are coming toward Plainfield and the police here have been asked to keep a watch for them.

SPECIAL SERMON HEARD BY MEMBERS OF JUNIOF ORDER

More than one hundred members of the Jr. O. U. A. M., of this city, representing Franklin, Somerset, Benevolent and Plainfield Councils, attended the special services held for them at Grace Methodist church, the borough, last night, when Rev. C. S. Gillespie, the pastor, delivered a Thanksgiving sermon that appealed especially to the Jr. O. U. A. M.

FIRST BAPTIST CHOIR SINGS "HARVEST CANTATA"

The quartet and chorus choir of the First Baptist church gave a delightful musical service last night, singing "The Harvest Cantata" by George Garrett and other selections. The solo work, which was a marked feature of the service, was by Mrs. Edith Hallet Frank, soprano; Miss Leontine de Ahna, contralto; William Holmes, baritone, and George W. Smith, tenor.

Preceding the cantata there was a selection by Mrs. Hollis Cubberley, violin, with Howard M. Case at the organ. Another feature was a contralto solo from "The Messiah," by Miss de Ahna. The service was in charge of Mr. Case, organist, to whom much credit is due for the perfect rendition.

BOROUGH REPUBLICAN CLUB TO HOLD TWO BIG AFFAIRS

Two affairs to be held the first of the new year will be planned at a meeting of the Republican Club of North Plainfield tonight. One will be a gathering, at which all former mayors of the borough will be guests of honor, while the other, to be held later, will be a big reunion dinner, at which more than a hundred of the borough G. O. P. regulars will be present.

Committees will be appointed and preliminary plans made at the meeting this evening. Many new members will be enrolled this evening.

The club now numbers more than a hundred members. Mayor-elect Wiliam L. Smalley is president of the organization, and R. E. Conover is secretary.

PONY RUNS OFF WITH STREET CAR FENDER

Front and Somerset street shoppers were alarmed during the rush hour Saturday afternoon by the spectacle of a small pony dashing madly toward North Plainfield with a heavy street car fender apparently fastened to his neck. It looked like an attempt on the part of somebody to add the fender to the pony's equipment, but it was not.

The pony was pulling a wagon belonging to John Goff and was being driven by William Goff. In passing along Front street at the intersection of Somerset street, one of the shafts got caught in a street car fender and the pony ran away, pulling the heavy object with him. He was not stopped until the bridge which separates Plainfield from the borough was reached. No one was hurt in the runaway, but it caused considerable excitement.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 51 degrees; 11 a. m., 45 degrees; 1 p. m., 45 degrees.

SIX MURDERED IN LONELY FARM HOUSE

Horrible Crime of Laborer is Revealed After Four Days.

New Brunswick, Nov. 29.—One of the most horrible crimes in the history of the State of New Jersey was revealed here Saturday when detectives forced an entrance into the lonely home of Samuel Weitzman, on the Cranberry turnpike, about four miles from the city and found the dead bodies of the six occupants of the house.

An entire family, father and mother, daughter, son-in-law and two hired men were dead in various rooms of the little farmhouse when the detectives broke in.

he dead are:

Samuel Weitzman, sixty years of age.

Mrs. Sarah Weitzman, his wife fifty-five years of age.

Mrs. Beatrice Kigner, their daughter, twenty-four years of age.

David Kigner, her husband, twenty-six years of age.

Jiba Gannis, a Polish laborer, about twenty-five years of age.

Joseph Peprucha, the murderer, a Polish laborer or farmhand, who was twenty-eight years of age.

There had evidently been a terrible fight before the murders were accomplished. How long the bodies have lain in the house has not yet been determined, but as nearly as physicians can tell the tragedy occurred Tuesday or Wednesday, in the night, for the victims lay dead in their bedrooms dressed in their night clothing.

FUNERAL SERVICE OF JOHN E. FLAMMER HELD

The funeral of John E. Flammer, of Springdale, who died at his home Wednesday, at the age of 64, was held at the Springdale church yesterday afternoon. Interment followed in the Springdale cemetery of that place. They were many floral pieces which were sent by the friends and relatives of the deceased. The bearers were members of the Warren township Board of Education. They were Messrs. John Miller, John Mundy, Daniel Scott, Frank, Ralph and Fred Wiggin and William Gregory.

HARRINGTON COMPANY IS TO BE RE-ORGANIZED

A meeting of the stockholders of Frederick Harrington, Inc., dealers in leather, has been called for December 11, at the office of the company, 1840 Front street, Plainfield.

At this meeting the incorporation will be dissolved, according to a resolution that has been advertised by Secretary Miller in the Standard, of Westfield, but this action will have no effect on the business of the company. It is announced that a larger volume of business is being done now than at any other time in the history of the company, and the dissolution of the incorporation is merely a reorganization.

PAUL SWAN'S WORK IS OF THE HIGHEST ORDER

Paul Swan, who will appear at the Plainfield High School tomorrow night in a series of interpretive dances under the direction of Charles Prescott Poore, has a country-wide repuation as an artist, and his dancing is said to be as much a channel for the expression of concrete ideas or abstract ones as is a poet's expression in verse or a lawyer's dry cold law.

Mr. Swan is an artist whose work breathes the divine promise. Since he is only in his twenties, only the earlier chapters of his life have been unfolded. But they stretch from a Nebraska farm to distant lands.

ACTIVITIES OF THE PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH

The ordinance of baptism was administered to one candidate at the Park Avenue Baptist church, last night. There will also be baptism next Sunday morning, when an offering will be received for the Aged Ministers' Home.

The Volunteer Bible Class and the Woman's Missionary Society will hold a joint meeting tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Rev. Dr. Birney S. Hudson will give the second in the series of six lectures on "The King's Highway," Wednesday night.

The Volunteer Bible Class will conduct a sale on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The church chorus will hold a rehearsal Friday night.

—It there's a new owner in charge of the little store down the street, the chances are that a "Business Opportunity" advertisement has been "at work."

SUDDEN DEATH OF JOHN VAN NEST LANE

Stricken With Heart Failure While Worshipping at First M. E. Church.

Shortly after the morning service had commenced in the First M. E. church, yesterday, John Van Nest Lane, of 206 East Fourth street, was stricken with heart failure as he sat in his pew. The ushers and several worshippers noticed that something was wrong, and, after hurrying to his assistance, realized that he was in a dangerous condition. He was assisted to an anti-room, where he died before medical aid could reach him. Dr. A. H. Dundon was summoned by telephone, although the man was practically dead before the message was sent. The physician could only pronounce that death had occurred and make the necessary arrangements.

Mr. Lane was a native of Pluckemin, where he was born seventy-nine year ago, and from which place he moved to Dunellen. He was located in the latter borough for many years part of which time he was employed as sexton of the Dunellen Presbyterian church. He removed to this city several years ago, residing at first on Madison avenue. He is survived by a wife and one son, the latter being John B. Lane, a salesman who is a local preacher. His home is on Watson avenue.

The body of Mr. Lane was removed to the East Fourth street residence shortly after the close of the church service, many of the congregation being unaware that the heart attack had proved fatal.

The funeral will be held at the Dunellen Presbyterian church Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock, and burial will be in the Bound Brook cemetery.

CHRISTIAN FIELD

The Mission Study Class of the First Baptist church will meet at the parsonage, 124 West Eighth street, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The women of the First Baptist church today shipped a box of clothing and other useful articles to Dr. Conwell's Hospital in Mexico. There will be a special sewing session on Wednesday to finish articles for Miss DeLand's work in New York.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church will serve a "Cafeteria," or "help yourself," supper, Tuesday evening, at 6:30.

Rev. Dr. P. P. Samuels, of Philadelphia, Pa., the evangelist, will be at the Ebenezer Baptist church tomorrow night.

DEATH OF MRS. SHOTWELL.

Mrs. Carrie Belle Shotwell, wife of Edward E. Shotwell, died last evening at her home on Grant avenue, following a long illness. She had been a resident of this city for the past five years, coming here from New York State. Beside her husband she leaves one daughter, Miss Margueritte Shotwell, and a son, Burnett Shotwell. There are also surviving one sister, Mrs. L. C. Best, of Mossmere, this State, and two brothers, Frank and George Pike, of Syracuse, N. Y. The funeral and interment will be private.

FOURTH TALK IN SERIES.

Dr. Wilbert W. White, president of the Bible Teachers' Training School, of New York, gave his fourth talk in a series of seven on the Gospel of John before the Bible class of the Crescent Avenue church yesterday, following the morning service. These studies are helpful and are showing a growing interest as evidenced by the many questions asked of the leader. The class meets every Sunday from 12 to 1 o'clock and is free to all interested.

WILL REPEAT ENTERTAINMENT.

The Columbian Dramatic Club will repeat "Ye Auld Singing Skewl" next Sunday afternoon in the Columbus Club for the benefit of the poor of the parish. Children from this city, North Plainfield, South Plainfield, Scotch Plains and Dunellen will be admitted at a nominal price. Adults who were unable to witness the initial performance are invited to see the production next Sunday.

BOROUGH POLICE BLOTTER.

Max Kuttner was arrested by Officer Pope this morning, on a complaint made by Otto J. Laing, who asserts Kuttner used abusive language around the silk mill, where he was formerly employed. He will be given a hearing this afternoon. Joseph Grameri, arrested for riding his bicycle on the sidewalk in front of the borough police station, was fined $1.

MISS TAYLOR MAKES CHANGE.

Somerville, Nov. 29.—Miss Amelia Taylor, of this city, who was secretary to the late A. W. Mack, at the Raritan Woolen Mills, has resigned and assumed a position in the office of the American Electric and Engine Works at Bound Brook.

—It's a safe guess that the first real estate transaction made in town today was influenced and brought about through "the classified."

SAYS HOT WATER EACH DAY KEEPS THE DOCTOR AWAY

Drink glass of hot water before breakfast to wash out the poisons.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel full and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone prosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.—Adv.

SMITH HAS ASSETS OF BUT $192,227.66

Liabilities Will Exceed This by More Than a Million, is Belief.

Assets of former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., of Newark, total $192,227.66, according to an appraisement filed with the currogate there Saturday afternoon by the Fidelity Trust Company, which is acting as receiver for the Smith estate. This statement of assets is almost a million less than the liabilities, and from developments in the case it appears that the charge made in the bill of complaint that Smith's liabilities exceed his assets by $1,310,000 will be borne out. The principal item in the property of Sen. Smith is an issue of bonds of the Newark Daily Advertising Publishing Company in the amount of $500,000. This publishing company controls the Newark Star and Newark Eagle. It is announced by the Fidelity Trust Company that both papers will be published, temporarily, at least. There are to be no immediate changes in the editorial staff, but Edward A. Pruden, of the trust company, has become business manager of both papers.

MRS. ROBERT WHEELAN DIES IN 80TH YEAR

Passes Away After a Lingering Illness at Home of Son in This City.

Mrs. Robert Wheelan, aged 80 years, died yesterday morning at the home of her son, William W. Wheelan, 824 Carlton avenue, after a lingering illness. She was a native of Ireland, coming to this country when a girl. The greater part of her life was spent in New York, but upon the death of her husband ten years ago she made her home with her son in this city.

Mrs. Wheelan was a communican of Grace Episcopal church, this city and when her health permitted attended services. She was beloved by a large circle of acquaintaces. There survives two sons, William W. Wheelan, of this city, and Samuel E. Wheelan, of New York; two daughters, Mrs. Jane Thomas, of New York and Mrs. George W. Bend, of South Orange; also a brother, Richard Wallace, of California. The funeral will be held at the late home at 8 o'clock tomorrow night and the burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

STREET CAR PASSENGER GETS MOTORMAN'S WATCH

Albert Jacobson, motorman on an Arlington avenue car, reported to the police this morning that someone had stolen his gold watch. The watch was taken sometime Sunday afternoon, and Jacobson believes his pocket was picked by a passenger. An investigation is being made.

WOMEN'S EXCHANGE WILL HOLD CHRISTMAS SALE

There will be a Christmas sale of special consignments for the Woman's Exchange, held at the home of Mrs. George L. Babcock, 200 West Eighth street, on December the second, from 10 until 6 o'clock. The consignment will include wooden toys, dresses and novelties for the children, Italian embroideries, fancy work, laces and pottery.

LARGE CONGREGATION ENJOYS MUSICAL SERVICE

A large congregation attended the monthly musical service at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church yesterday, at 4:45 o'clock, at which time the quartet rendered "The Fall of Jericho," taken from Handel's oratorio "Joshua," under the direction of the organist, Dr. E. Mettler Davis. The choir was composed of the following soloists and chorus: Sopranos, Miss Lillian Vernon Watts, soloist, Mrs. Joseph Edgar and Mrs. L. C. Whitall.; altos, Grace J. Carroll soloist, Mrs. H. R. Moyer and Mrs. F. M. Ward; tenors, Paul C. Haskell soloist, John Lindaberry and David Curtis; basses, Dr. Hugh Schussler soloist, William B. Gilbert and Oswald R. Love.

GAVE FAREWELL DINNER.

The heads of sub-departments who have been reporting to and associated with G. A. Miller for a number of years, gave him a farewell dinner at the Queen City Hotel, Friday evening. The occasion was made enjoyable by a good dinner and many very well-chosen remarks, which will no doubt add to Mr. Miller's pleasure while enroute with his wife between here and San Francisco.

ONE WEEK OF WAR ON TUBERCULOSIS

Plainfield League Will Join National Program December 6 to 12.

Next week men and women over the entire United States will concentrate their efforts on an attack on Tuberculosis. It is tuberculosis week in all parts of the country, and Plainfield people are making arrangements for observance of the national program.

Tuberculosis week is an educational movement conducted under the direction of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. For the past five years it has been known as tuberculosis day, but the movement has grown so enormously that this year an entire week is to be devoted to the campaign, and all people who are interested in the health of their brothers and sisters are urged to join in a simultaneous presentation of the evils of tuberculosis and means by which it may be cured, or best of all prevented.

These special days will be observed in Plainfield as in other cities. They are: Medical examination day, which comes on Wednesday, December 8; children's health crusade day, which comes on Friday, December 10, and tuberculosis Sunday, December 12. The Anti-Tuberculosis League, of Plainfield and North Plainfield, is at work preparing programs for local activities during next week, and definite announcement of details of the observance here may be expected within a few days.

It will be urged that every Plainfield club, lodge, school, church and other civic and social organization as well as every individual, make a public study of tuberculosis and its prevention during the week, and literature will be distributed from Plainfield headquarters of the league.

MAYFLOWER DESCENDANTS RE-ELECT THEIR OFFICERS

Re-election of the officers of the Society of Mayflower Descendants in New Jersey, Saturday afternoon, preceded the annual luncheon of the New Jersey chapter held in the Washington, Newark.

They are governor, Robert M. Boyd, Jr., Montclair; deputy governor, Arthur Lovell, Plainfield; captain, John Scott Parker, East Orange; elder, Benjamin Shepard, East Orange; secretary, Mrs. William S. Meek, Elizabeth, treasurer, Merrit Greenwood Perkins, Newark; historian, Mrs. Herbert Turell, West Orange; surgeon, Dr. William Gray Schauffler, Lakewood; assistants, Clark Holbrook, Red Bank; John Hobart Sprague, Short Hills; Lamm Van Syckel, Plainfield; Henry V. Condict, Jersey City; Miss Mary Emma Dunham, Flemington; Mrs. Ebenezer Barclay Price, Elizabeth, and Mrs. Karl G. Roebling, Trenton.

Covers were laid for fifty members and their guests and addresses were given by Rev. George P. Dougherty, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church, Newark; Countess Alexandrer Dumas, of New York; Mrs. Mathias Steelman, president New Jersey Society, Daughters of 1812; Mrs. George W. Gedney, regent New Jersey Society, D. A. R.; Colonel William Libby, governor New Jersey Society Colonian Wars, and Walter Chandler, governor New Jersey Society Founders and Patriots.

Musical selections were rendered by Mrs. May Prina, of New York, and Frank Whittemore, of East Orange.

FUNERAL OF PFAFF TO WAS HELD TODAY

Somerville, Nov. 27.—Roy Pfaff the eighteen-year-old boy who was shot accidentally by Jack Lifland, at North Branch, on Thanksgiving afternoon, will be buried this afternoon. Services at his late home at 3 o'clock, interment in North Branch cemetery. The deceased was a member of the Boy Scouts, and several will be pallbearers.

Not only is the unfortunate boy's parents deep in sorrow, but the Lifland family are bowed in grief. The dead boy's parents do not blame young Lifland, as the affair was an accident.

Rev. Charles E. Corwin, formerly pastor of the North Branch Reformed church, will officiate.

The North Branch Troop of Boy Scouts will attend in a body.

SIGHT CLASS DISCONTINUED.

JEWS TO OBSERVE FEAST OF LIGHTS

Eight Day Celebration in Honor of Rededication of Temple at Jerusalem.

Hanukkah, or the Feast of the Dedication, will be celebrated by the Jews of Plainfield, and the world at large, for eight days, beginning at sundown Thursday of this week.

It is one of the favorite festivals of the Jewish calendar. The season commemorates the victory of the Maccabees over the Syrians and recalls particularly the re-dedication of the Temple at Jerusalem. It is marked by celebrations both in churches and homes and a feature of the observance is the lighting of eight menorah lamps, one each night during the celebration. The season, besides being observed by men and women is also a holiday for children. It is celebrated in schools and homes and the children join with older persons in singing songs to accompany the kindling of the lights.

During the celebration of the Kanukkah the Jews of this country are urged to remember the plight of their people in Palestine, and an appeal for funds to relieve suffering there will be made in all parts of the United States. It is said that eight thousand Jews in Palestine face starvation unless they are given food by their brothers in this country.

HELD FOR STEALING NINE SKUNK HIDES

Somerville, Nov. 29.—Edward Gray, employed by Elling Bros., at Neshanic, is held in the county jail here charged with stealing nine skunk hides from Eugene Cray, of Neshanic Station. Cray values the hides at $5 each.

Last Saturday afternoon, Gray sold several to J. O. Hoagland, of this place. Detective George D. Totten arrested Gray. He is held here for the action of the grand jury.

SOMERVILLE WOMAN DIES IN PLAINFIELD

Somerville, Nov. 29.—Mrs. Elizabeth H. Cawley, of Somerville, died in the Muhlenberg Hospital at Plainfield last Saturday afternoon. Surviving the deceased are L. H. Cawley, her husband; two sons, James S. Cawley and William Cawley, and three daughters, Blanche, Lulu and Dorothy.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence on East Cliff street, Rev. Roy Ewing Vale officiating. Interment will be in Mountain cemetery near Bound Brook.

HOLY NAME MEETING.

A special meeting of the Holy Name Society of St. Joseph's church has been called for next Sunday afternoon at which time Father P. J. Hart will address the members.

HELD SALE.

A sale to satisfy a judgment held by the Beef Company against James E. Jackson, a Somerset street butcher, was held at the latter's former place of business this morning.

THE DIFFERENCE.

SOME STORES SELL YOU JUST ONCE, WE WANT TO KEEP YOU COMING AGAIN.

Desire to merely sell is the worst thing possible in business. We have a splendid stock of Men's and Young Men's Suits, Overcoats and furnishing goods but we don't want to sell them unless you feel confident that they are full value for your money and entirely satisfied.

That's the difference between The ROTHBERG STORE and some others.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Judging from this week's bookings the amusement loving public will have a chance of witnessing another vaudeville entertainment de luxe at Proctor's Theatre. The headline act for the first part of the week is "The Petticoatt Minstrels," an act which was accorded a tremendous ovation when presented in the Palace, New York. It consists of nine beautiful girls who will offer a refined and entertaining minstrel show that includes some exceptionally fine soloists, good dancing, splendid music and plenty of rapid fire comedy; Rogers & Sandberg, famous gymnasts, perform feats of daring and skill; De Lisle & Dupont are billed as "Those Two Mischievous Girls;" Lemaire & Queen offer a decided novelty act, and Warren and Roth indulge in a line of patter and song. For the photo-play feature the management has secured a world-famous William Fox production, entitled "A Woman's Past," starring Nance O'Neil, one of the greatest emotional actresses now appearing before the public.

A big double bazaar will be presented on Wednesday evening, and on account of the postponement of this affair last week a larger number of gifts will be given away. On Saturday afternoon the children will be treated to the usual toy matinee. Commencing Monday, December 6, the Plainfield public will be introduced to Triangle Plays, coming direct from the Knickerbocker Theatre, New York. The first week's program includes Douglas Fairbanks in "The Lamb," Charles Murray in "A Game Old Knight," Dustin Farnum in "The Iron Strain" and Raymond Hitchcock in "My Valet."

WHAT I DESIRE MOST FOR NEW JERSEY

By MAYOR LEIGHTON CALKINS

Under the caption, "What I Desire Most for New Jersey," the New York World has been publishing in its Sunday issue interviews with leading citizens of the State. In yesterday's issue there was an interesting interview from Mayor Leighton Calkins, of Plainfield, accompanied by an excellent picture of the city executive. Mr. Calkins expresses his opinion as follows:

Mayor Leighton Calkins.

"In New Jersey there is no more important subject of general interest to cities than a reasonable measure of Home Rule. The proposed Constitutional Amendment last winter was properly defeated in the Legislature because it was a carelessly drafted measure which would have made it difficult for the State to protect itself in matters of State concern. But the restriction on legislative power which intelligent Home Rule advocates demand is the absolute prohibition of special legislation in regard to local affairs.

"Home Rule does not mean that cities may do anything they wish under a constitutional grant of Home Rule; the Legislature would still have power to pass general laws affecting all cities alike, and also laws local in application in matters of general State concern. But it would not be permitted to pass laws interfering with the internal local affairs of a particular city. If legislation can be passed to apply to every city in the State it may fairly be assumed to be a matter of State concern.

"The State should expressly reserve authority over matters of general interest, such as honest elections, public education, public health, public safety, game laws, highways, the debt contracting power of cities, etc. But a city as a local business and social community should be free from legislative interference in all matters of internal management. To that end we should do away with the presumption that cities have no powers except those expressly conferred and necessarily incidental. The presumption should be reserved, so that in the conduct of purely local affairs a city may, under a broad general grant of power, be presumed to have all powers not expressly denied (within the scope of the general grant of power). This ought to include power to adopt and amend its charter, subject to the approval of the voters of the community."

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

The present week at the Plainfield Theatre has been designated by Manager Shannon as "Fashion Week" in honor of the big feature act which tops the bill beginning today. This attraction is Ward De Wolf's "Fashion Shop Girls," an offering similar to the one which recently created a sensation at the Palace Theatre, New York, and the like of which has never before been presented in this city. Eighteen people are in the cast, twelve of them being girls with beauty and talent, wearing the handsomest costumes in vaudeville and delighting the audiences with their clever songs and dances. The company is completed by six male comedians who have a fund of good stuff to tickle the risibles of the most blase patron. The act carries its own special scenery, electrical effects and properties.

Five other splendid acts will be on the program for the first half of the week. All are direct from New York, where they have been showing at Broadway's variety houses and have been selected by Manager Shannon with an eye to keeping up the fine business that has been coming to the Plainfield Theatre since the present policy was adopted. Every program at this house includes up-to-the-minute photo-plays. The Pathe semi-weekly is shown every Monday and Thursday and the greatest of all comedy continued photo-productions, "Get-Rick-Quick Wallingford," is presented at all performances each Thursday. The "Country Store," always a big feature, takes place every Friday night.

E-lecturettes

A series of eight articles describing the development of electricity to the present day, prepared for the ordinary layman to read. The week from November 29 to December 4 is being featured as Electrical Prosperity Week from one end of the country to the other, and the articles are printed in the Daily Press in order to give our readers, young and old, a splendid home course in electricity.

GEORGE SIMON OHM.

NO. 3.

The Ohm, Unit of Resistance in Electricity.

In the first two E-lecturettes we learned about two of the most important units of measurements of electricity and how these terms celebrate the work of two great men, Volta and Ampere. You know how valuable these little stories are if you ask yourself how many boys and girls, or even adults, there are who know the full meaning of the word "volt" or "ampere" before they read these E-lecturettes. To-day is told the story of another famous man whose name is an electrical term—Ohm.

By understanding these terms a person soon obtains a wider knowledge of electricity and can figure the cost of operating any electrical appliance. Electricity has its pressure, its resistance and its quantity of flow just as has water. As the unit of pressure in electricity is termed "volt" and the unit of current quantity an "ampere," as explained, the unit of resistance of the conductor of electricity is called an "ohm." It is the resistance that will allow one ampere of current to flow when the pressure is one volt.

A simple way in which to obtain the relations between these three units of measurement—the volt, the ampere and the ohm—is in this little form of arithmetic:

$$\text{Current strength equals} \frac{\text{pressure}}{\text{resistance}} \text{ or}$$

$$\text{amperes equals} \frac{\text{volts}}{\text{ohms}}$$

When a person knows any two of these factors the third can be easily found out. For examples:

First—How many amperes of current are flowing in a circuit with the resistance of fifty ohms when the pressure is 100 volts

$$\text{Answer} \frac{100 \text{ volts}}{50 \text{ ohms}} \text{ equals 2 amperes}$$

Second—What is the pressure when 4 amperes of current are flowing in a circuit, the resistance of which is 30 ohms

Answer: 4 amperes x 30 ohms equals 120 volts.

Third—What is the resistance of a circuit when 5 amperes of current flow under a pressure of 120 volts?

$$\text{Answer:} \frac{120 \text{ volts}}{5 \text{ amperes}} \text{ equals 24 ohms.}$$

These examples enable one to understand the unit of power, explained in the next E-lecturette.

In 1287 Dr. George Simon Ohm, a German physicist, rendered a great service to electric science by his pamphlet containing his theories that the flow of electricity was governed by certain fixed laws. It explained what is known as "Ohm's law," now universally used as the unit for measuring the resistance of electricity. Like all great inventors, Ohm was ahead of his time, and his ideas were ridiculed by great and small.

The son of a thrifty locksmith of keen intelligence in the village of Erlangen, Bavaria, George Simon Ohm in 1798 started his career as helper in his father's shop. He inherited a love of mathematics from his father, a man of studious disposition. The parent, early recognizing the latent talent in the boy, accumulated enough money to send George to college. Owing to lack of funds, George a few years later was compelled to forego his courses. He reluctantly turned to teaching in a private school.

This sudden financial stress did not daunt the young locksmith student. He filled in most of his spare moments studying, but it must not be thought that he gave up all outdoor pleasure. Unlike Ampere, he was popular among the students and professors, and joined in all social and athletic games.

In 1817 Ohm was appointed professor of mathematics in the Jesuit College at Cologne. The following year he published his famous "Elements of Geometry." A few years later he resigned and went to Berlin, where he became interested in electrical experiments. Ohm pushed his researches in the footsteps of Galvini and Volta, and the result of his efforts was embodied in a pamphlet published in 1827, called "The Galvanic Circuit."

Amid a wonderful career of high lights and shadows Ohm was awarded the Copley medal of the British Royal Society in 1841, about fourteen years after he published his theories.

The International Congress of Electricians assembled in Paris in 1881 resolved to honor and perpetuate the memory of George Simon Ohm by using the word "ohm" as a term denoting the unit of resistance in electrical measurements.

TUBERCULOSIS WEEK.

Plans are being made by the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield to co-operate with similar organizations elsewhere in the observance of Tuberculosis week, beginning next Monday. The idea is to further educate the general public as to the successful methods of preventing the spread of this dreaded disease. Special literature has been prepared to send to the schools and to the ministers of the city, and the doctors in charge of the clinic are aranging to keep it open every evening during the week and on two or more afternoons.

The aim of the week is entirely educational. It is not for the purpose of securing funds for the work, except that during the same period the Red Cross seals will be found on sale, and naturally the advertising which the week will bring will encourage people to purchase these bright little holiday reminders. During the week emphasis will be laid upon the great good that cannot fail to come from an increased knowledge of the nature of the disease and the methods of prevention. Last year there was a Tuberculosis Day, and at that time it is said that 100,000 churches and other organizations helped to spread the gospel of good health. This year it is hoped and believed that twice that number will aid the good work.

Further facts about the Plainfield plans for the week will be found from day to day in the news columns of the Daily Press, and we hope that every reader who can find a way to aid in making the week effective will do so.

PUTTING PRISONERS AT WORK.

What promises to be one of the most interesting gatherings ever held in Union county is scheduled to take place at Elizabeth on Thursday, when the subjects "What will our taxes buy for the poor?" and "Put the offender to work," will be discussed. The latter is of especial interest and is attracting the attention of the authorities all over the United States.

E. R. Cass, associate secretary of the Prison Association of New York, will be the speaker on the latter topic, and Dr. Frank Moore, head of the Rahway Reformatory, Sheriff George O. Otto, Warden Hughson, of the county jail, Judge Abe J. David and William Bedlington, secretary of the Building Trades Council, of the American Federation of Labor, will carry on the discussion.

Sheriff Otto has long been an advocate of making the county prisoners work, and has tried to find some method under the law by which he could force them to do so. In Mercer county the Board of Freeholders maintain a stone yard, where all the county prisoners are sent, and it has been found to be effective in keeping down the amount of crime in that section of the State. It is to be hoped that the conference will result in some definite program being suggested by which the problem can be solved in Union county.

Justice Hughes, of the United States Supreme Court, has issued a statement in which he says that he is not, and no Justice of that court should ever be, a candidate for the Presidency. That will make it almost inexcusable for any other member of the greatest court in the land to have Presidential aspirations.

While Colonel Roosevelt can come back into the Republican party, he shouldn't get the idea that he will be conferring a big favor on the party by coming back.—Kansas City Journal.

And yet somehow or other the one thing that disturbs the Republican leaders more than anything else is the fear that he won't come back!

There is one thing which Plainfielders cannot understand, and that is why the insurance rates are higher now than they were three years ago, when the fire department has been so materially improved during that period. An explanation is certainly needed.

Mayor Calkins is setting up a record as the chief executive of this city that it is going to be hard to equal. We believe that when his term has been concluded it will be said to have been the most beneficial for the city that has ever been known.

The postal authorities will soon be struggling with the problem of where to deliver letters addressed "Santa Claus, Esq." The community Christmas movement will probably help in the solution.

Prayers for peace are a fine thing, but the fellow who started that chain prayer which is cluttering up the mails should be turned over to the German authorities in Belgium as an Ally spy.

Now that the smoke has cleared away it develops that in spite of reports to the contrary there were plenty of Thanksgiving turkeys for all who had the price to pay for them.

Don't forget that you can make the life of the clerks in every store in town much more comfortable if you will bear in mind the old slogan "Do your Christmas shopping early."

The football season being over, interest now shifts to the hot stove basball league. There'll be many a victory won there that will not materialize next summer.

Elizabeth firm advertised its address as 136-136½-138 First street. That is certainly getting things down to a fine point.

The Republicans seem to be having a hard time fixing on some man as their candidate for President.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Mondy and Tuesday the chief photo-dramatic attraction at the U. S. Astor Theatre will be "The Woman Pays," a Metro production with Valli Valli, the English musical comedy star, in the leading role. It is a powerful tale of modern society life in which the beautiful actress does quite the best work of her career. Valli Valli will be recalled by Plainfield Theatre-goers for her splendid singing and dancing in "The Dollar Princess," "The Queen of the Movies" and other musical productions. She achieved a big hit, also, in "The Purple Road" at the Liberty Theatre, New York, a few years ago.

The Morning Hours

You think "an hour's an hour"?
Well, you get another guess.
Some hold a great deal more of good, some hold a great deal less.
The hours when the day is old, and resting-time draws nigh,
Are feeble, tott'ring hours and they creep instead of fly.
The noontime hour is lagging some,
and goes on weary feet—
The morning hours are the ones that simply can't be beat!

The morning—when you're full of pep, the whole big day ahead!
The terrors of the night are gone,
discouragements are fled.
It's youth again and truth again come back with hope renewed,
With yester's wisdom standing by to check each impulse crude.
The early, pearly hours are the ones that can't be beat—
The hurly-burly hours when the day is young and sweet!

Evil

Evil is what the love of money is the root of.

The root is the lowest part, of course.

There is less unanimity of opinion as to what is the height of evil.

If everything else thrived as well under opposition as evil does, this would be a far different world.

Evil is also what men do that lives after them, if Bill Shakespeare is to be depended on.

Somebody a long time ago labelled a lot of things "evil" and we have stuck to the labels pretty faithfully.

But most of the things they marked "evil" should have been placarded "foolishness."

People who exercise all the intelligence they have do nothing that is really evil.

And they have a fine time, with no big heads or next mornings or other popular brands of hang-over.

Most of the time when we ask, "Is it right?" we could get the answer more suddenly if we said:

"Is it intelligent?"

Many things once labelled evil are not so.

We were brought up to believe that card-playing is evil, intrinsically.

Also dancing—gee, whiz! Dancing was the worst thing there was!

Murder was a Sunday-school exercise compared with it.

If one plays cards when one should be and could be doing something helpful and necessary, it is wrong.

So would corn-hoeing or onion-weeding be, if you were neglecting something more important for it.

Ditto dancing.

Although we do believe it wrong for anybody to do it as badly as we do.

A dancing teacher told us so, once.

This isn't all we know about evil.

But it's all we're going to tell here.

Simple Goitre

A SIMPLE enlargement of all or part of the thyroid gland, which lies in front of the windpipe just above the breast bone, may appear in boys or girls at any age from one year onward, but is most frequently noted at the age of twelve to fifteen and in girls.

Causes are not clearly known. Whether the drinking water is a factor we cannot positively say. At any rate boiling the water does not remove the cause of goitre if it be in the water.

Simple goitre must be distinguished from exophthalmic goitre. Exophthalmic is a medical term meaning prominent or protruding eyes. In exophthalmic goitre there are marked general symptoms as well as a very slight or very pronounced enlargement of the thyroid gland. Characteristic symptoms of this more serious kind of goitre are (1) rapid pulse and palpitation; (2) nervous tremors and extreme nervousness; (3) staring, prominent, widely opened, frightened looking eyes. The treatment of exophthalmic goitre is entirely different from that of simple goitre.

Another type of thyroid gland enlargement must be distinguished from simple goitre. This is what has been called cystic goitre. Cystic (cyst, a sac) means a swelling containing fluid; in cystic goitre there are nodular enlargements of the thyroid which contain large quantities of a jelly-like substance which is secreted by the cells of the thyroid gland. Cystic goitres are usually very large, but they produce no general disturbance of health other than slight local irritation of the windpipe and sometimes a certain degree of interference with breathing.

Simple goitre produces no symptoms whatever. Except for the more or less noticeable fulness of the neck the condition would pass unnoticed.

Everybody who puts a question to this department wants to know the remedy for the evil under consideration. The cause and the treatment of goitre, however, we will reserve for a later talk.

MILLINERY

NOBODY knows why they call it millinery. The dictionary says millinery consists of articles made by milliners. The milliners say millinery is hats. In a dispute of this kind we should always believe the dictionary.

Millinery is the art of doing up 30 cents' worth of ribbon and straw with $90 worth of gall and selling the whole thing for $115.45. It is one of the three best known methods of getting money from a man; flattery and robbery being the other two. Millinery doesn't attack a man until he has contracted matrimony. Then, however, it takes entire charge of the situation, and usually doesn't allow the other two methods a look in.

The prime object of millinery is to decorate women. Some women are pretty enough to become greatly beloved in a sunbonnet. Others require ten Paris hats a year to get by. Some hats are very beautiful indeed, but are not given a chance. Their owners insist on going with them and spoiling the effect. It is not possible for a woman to obtain a hat that will hide all but her most beautiful feature. This is why some hats come clear down to the chin.

The millinery art is very complicated, because no woman wants a hat like any other hat that has ever been made. This necessitates the use of flowers, vegetables, fruits, ribbons, birds, cats, ostriches, insects, small animals, lizards, lingerie, grass, straw, hay, leaves, lobster claws, shark's teeth and automobile findings in trimming. It is also necessary to the profit of the business that no hat of this year shall look like any hat of last year. This is avoided by changing the shapes. We have already had large hats, small hats, flat hats, bulbous hats, lop-sided hats, conical, warty, umbrella shaped and drunk-and-disorderly hats. A few years ago the velvet nosebag shaped like a horse's dinner bucket had a great run, later the inverted bath tub was the sensation of the season; while this year the woman who does not possess a hat that isn't reminiscent of the lids that every New Englander's ancestors brought over with them in the "Mayflower" may as well consider herself socially extinct.

The inverted bath tub was the sensation of the season

Millinery takes the place in many families of books and pictures and father's new overcoat. It is a tax levied by style and there is no chance of swearing off the assessment. Nobody knows what next year's hats will look like, except that they will look worse than this year's hats. By that time we will have become accustomed to this year's hats, which is the worst thing about millinery. Just as you get used to it, it begins to hurt you in a new place.

Views Of The Press

A Remarkable Prophecy

MANY people with a gift for looking ahead, foresaw the present European war. It didn't require extraordinary acumen to predict the great crash after the rise of the Triple Entente as a counterweight to the Triple Alliance. But a remarkable capacity for divination must be conceded to the prophet who 'way back in 1882 could set "1910 or thereabouts" as the date for a clash between Great Britain and Germany on the issue of world supremacy.

It was an extraordinary man who made this extraordinary prediction —Charles George Gordon ("Chinese Gordon"), an undoubted genius and one of the most picturesque and heroic figures in British military history. A letter by Gordon to Mr. James R. Purdy, dated 1882, has recently been published in The Morning Post, of London, from which the following is an extract: "Every Briton should think of the future of his country and cause each one to insist on the government passing a measure for compulsory universal military training! So far as England is concerned, she need not, for the next quarter of a century, be under any apprehension of serious difficulties arising with any of her European neighbors, but in 1910 or thereabout there will have arisen a naval power which may prove mightier than she, and should she (Germany) gain the supremacy, England will become extinct, both as a sea and a land power, and all her dependencies, including India, will fall into Germany's clutches. You may live to see this. I shall not, but when that time comes remember my words."

In 1882 Germany was not a sea power, had no colonies and had not been bitten by imperialistic ambitions. Bismarck was encouraging France to occupy more African territory and to dispute priority in that region with Great Britain. But Gordon looked far beyond the superficial friction of the hour between Great Britain and France, and had a true vision of Germany's rôle as the ultimate challenger of Britain's sea power and oversea pretensions. Gordon was part soldier, part statesman, part mystic. It has been granted to few humans to have his immense range of experience or to read the future as clearly as he did.—Toronto Daily News.

A Dutch Cartoonist

"THE newspaper, De Telegraaf, which has been quoted since the great war began, is the most prominent and influential paper in Holland," says the Indianapolis News. "It has upon its staff an artist that has won the esteem and affection of the Dutch people, who have entitled him 'the cartoonist of humanity.' This artist is Louis Raemaekers, born forty-six years ago in the Dutch province of Limburg. He has made as a portrait and landscape painter a high reputation in the art world of The Hague and of Amsterdam. For the past eight years he has given much of his time to cartoons, many of which have appeared in De Telegraaf. There is in his work a grim and satiric humor which cuts like a knife, and on more than one occasion he has been threatened, it is said, with criminal prosecution by representatives of both the German and Austrian governments. There is also a spirit of prophecy, as though he sees disaster, and voices a warning that the fate of Holland may some day be as wretched and lamentable as that of her sister, Belgium."—Emporia Gazette.

People's Legal Friend

BY E. R. BRANSON

He Was Paid Once

Q. A man made a will, leaving a certain person the sum of $1,000. Afterward, he paid this person $800 and at another time $200, it being understood that these sums were given in the place of the amount mentioned in the will. He did not change his will, however, and upon his death this provision caused some dispute. Is the person to whom the $1,000 was given by the will entitled to receive it?

A. No. The payments were a satisfaction of the legacy.

When A Guardian Dies

Q. Where a guardian is appointed by a court, and the guardian dies before the child has reached legal age, how is the child taken care of?

A. All such matters are regulated by statute. Usually the statutes provide that upon the death, removal or resignation of a guardian, another may be appointed, who must give bond and security and discharge the duties exacted of him by law.

An Agreement Violated

Q. A real estate man made an agreement with one who bought out his business not to re-engage in this business in a designated district. Later he violated the agreement. Would he be liable in damages?

A. Yes, if the agreement was reasonable as to time and territory.

Guaranty On A Lease

Q. Is it customary to require a guaranty on a lease?

A. It is not in all cases to be regarded as customary, but it is sometimes required.

Retouching Old Prints

Q. I hold a man's note. The ink is dim and the figures can hardly be read. As the note does not mature for a good while, I should like to retrace the letters and figures so that they may not be entirely effaced. Would I have a right to do this?

A. Yes. An alteration such as you describe would not affect the validity of the note. Of course, if an alteration is material, or if it is made with fraudulent intent, the case will be different.

A Brother's Insurance

Q. I am dependent on my brother for support. Would I have an insurable interest in his life? A. Yes.

Taxes On Real Estate

Q. If one has a life interest in real estate, is it his duty to pay taxes on the property? A. It is his duty.

Mr. Branson will be glad to answer all questions. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not, it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all letters to E. R. Branson, care of this newspaper.

Ancestors

Are you one of those people who like to putter away valuable time figuring out just how you stand as to Ancestors? The fact is, your Ancestors are what YOU are. Some of the best and worst that have gone before you is now somewhere in you.

The wisest thing you can do is to discover the most useful qualities of your Ancestry inside yourself, and begin to weave—from where it left off—greater and bigger things.

Ancestry stock goes up every time you do your work better To-day than Yesterday.

A story is told of Ney, one of Napoleon's famous Marshals. At a banquet during the Russian campaign, a brilliant woman had been telling Ney of her wonderful Ancestry, when suddenly she questioned: "By the way, Marshal Ney, who were YOUR Ancestors?" "Madam," answered Ney, "I, myself, am an Ancestor!"

After all, the task of being an Ancestor is mighty serious business. It is enough to put us all on our mettle and make us work to force the Red Blood into our Arteries.

In just the proportion that men and women render Service in this world do they forget their own selfish interests and begin to plan out and deal in "the Futures" of their Race. The man who will but get this truth imbedded into his system cannot fail to be a better Clerk, Lawyer, Business Man, Father—or Citizen. And no woman can take this idea to heart without putting Lustre to the important duties of her life.

Ancestors? Why, we are ALL Ancestors!

An Indefensible Love Lyric

Phyllis, I would fondly sing you
Lovely songs of Arcady—
Fettered to your graces, bring you
Gems of priceless melody.
Phyllis, I would madly praise you
In a wondrous, deathless chant,
To renown immortal raise you—
But, as you're aware, I can't.

Phyllis, I would call your tresses
Of incalculable worth,
Call your glance the light that blesses
All the darkness-ridden earth.
I would call your eyes the clearest,
Softest, sweetest of the lot,
Were I unacquainted, dearest,
With the fact that they are not.

Phyllis, I would call you fairer
Than the fairest ever seen—
Than the Trojan's Greek ensnarer
And the proud Egyptian queen.
I would sing: "The world uncovers Humbly, as she passes by,"
But, George Washington of lovers,
Phyllis, I can't tell a lie.

Rustled Away Their Life on the Ground.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How the Maple Leaves Changed Their Dresses.

"ONCE upon a time," daddy told the children, "there was a beautiful maple tree that stood in a dooryard. She was very tall and graceful, and she had almost as many children as the old woman who lived in a shoe. When they were born, in the early spring, she dressed them all alike in little pale green rompers.

"Each leaf had a little stool to sit on, so none of his many brothers and sisters ever stepped on his toes, and all summer long they played together happily in the warm air and rustled and whispered to each other in the cool moonlight. Their favorite pastime was playing hide and seek with the birds that came to live with them, for their mother, the maple tree, kept a sort of hotel for birds, and sometimes a pair liked her housekeeping so much that they chose her airiest, highest skyey chamber and raised a family of baby birds."

"How many leaves were there?" Jack wanted to know.

"Oh, countless children!" cried daddy. "So they all passed a happy summer together, and, like most mothers, the maple tree was as busy as anything providing food for her family, sending the roots of her deep, kind heart out into the soil for moisture and nourishment, cleaning her branches in every shower and windstorm and keeping the smallest parts of her safe and neat for her children, so that when fall came a great quiet fell upon her after the months of work, and she stood quite still in her dooryard. Even the baby birds left her, stopped their constant twittering in her tiptop and flew off to the deep woods. The parent birds, left alone, joined a big bird excursion that was going to spend the winter in southlands. And, strangest of all, her own children began to turn, putting on the gayest garments of brown, yellow and red.

"'Goodby, mother, dear!' they shouted to her as one by one they let go her hand and, gliding down a sunbeam, softly fell to earth. In a few days the mother maple sadly stood alone, her arms and limbs spread out to the misty autumn sky, bare handed and empty hearted.

"So she watched her children leave her, change form and color as they rustled away their life on the ground. Some the cruel winds seized and whirled them out of her sight forever. Then one day came a boy with a big rake. 'What a jolly bonfire!' he cried, heaping all her children that stayed by her up into a huge brown pile and touching a lighted match to them. How they cracked and snapped and smoked till nothing was left of their life and beauty but a little gray heap of ashes! So the minute spring came again after a lonely winter the mother maple set busily to work and raised another big family of children," daddy finished, with two good night kisses.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS EVA LEONARD

Molly Sutner Wins Health and Wisdom in the Country.

Molly Sutner sat in the cushioned rocker in the sunny sitting room of the Morton farmhouse. There was a faint odor of burning wood in the air, a scent that she loved. She gazed off over the snowy landscape to the blue-gray rim of the bare forest. She felt stronger than she had at any time since her sickness; since Mrs. Morton had carried her off to rest, away from the worries and the responsibilities that the old lady insisted were keeping her from getting strong. Mrs. Morton had given her every care in a matter of fact way as if caring for sick and dispirited women was a regular part of the day's work, and needed no comment. The old lady had finished her afternoon work and drew her sewing chair up to the sunny window near her guest.

"You are feeling more like a human being with red blood today, eh!" she asked, peering over her spectacles at the slender girlish figure before her.

"Oh, yes, thank you, Mrs. Morton. I must be getting back to take care of my little boy. Your daughter and Mrs. Ellson have had a long siege of it, caring for him, and you have been so kind——" Molly's voice broke.

"Now, now, none of that! It has been a treat to have you here and see you perk up and stop looking as limp as a cloth. All you needed was a chance; to take the rest cure and then begin all over again. Are you feeling equal to a little sermon today? You see I had an object in bringing you out here." She smiled grimly over her spectacles.

"Perhaps you could help me, dear Mrs. Morton; you are so wise and strong." There were tears in the blue eyes that looked out of the window.

"I am an old woman. If a woman hasn't picked up some wisdom in half a century of strenuous living she must be a fool, and I'm not that." She nodded her head so fiercely that Molly smiled. "But it is another thing to pass on what you have gained. I haven't succeeded many times, but I never stop trying. You seem teachable." Again she paused and looked at Molly over her glasses.

"I am; do try and help me. I am afraid to go back. I have made such a mess of my life. I'm afraid I will tangle things again when I go home."

"You were just an untaught child when you were married. You thought all you had to do was to hold out your hands and blessings and happiness would be put in them. You have learned that they are not handed out; they must be earned." The old face looked very grim.

"I was very ignorant, and now we are saddled with these heavy debts."

"One thing life has taught me is that when we make mistakes we must face the consequences, and the only thing to do is to stand up bravely and take the medicine. Debt is wrong and wrong-doers must suffer. When you have learned the lesson this experience is to teach, you will never need to go through it again. Now since you can't change the fact of being in debt, change your attitude toward it. Be glad of the lessons this enforced economy is teaching you. Young people of today are so afraid of saving. They call it stinginess and use it as a term of reproach. I learned to take a real pleasure in making one dollar do the work of two."

"But I do not know how to save," interrupted Molly pathetically.

"Set that as your task. Learn to save. There should be a real excitement in learning to do the hard, unaccustomed things that life sets as your tasks. If you slump into yourself every time a hard condition comes into your life you will never succeed. Overcome hard conditions. 'He that overcometh shall inherit life' now and hereafter." The old face looked full of fire and force as she gazed out of the window.

If We Are to Have Ideas, We Must Defend Them Before the World—American People Hate War and Would Avoid it, He Says.

Taking exception to the Thanksgiving sermon of the Rev. Leighton Parks, published in the New York Herald last week, Dr. Charles A. Eaton, of Plainfield, who is pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, of New York, has written a long communication to the New York paper, in which he declares that America does not want an ignoble peace.

"I recognize the beauty of Dr. Parks' writing and of his spirit," Dr. Eaton said, "but I do not think he represents the sentiment of the American people at the present time.

"The Thanksgiving proclamation of President Wilson did not evoke the usual conventional response throughout the nation. There seemed to be a widespread feeling that fasting and prayer would be more in order just now. Of course, everybody is thankful for peace and plenty and better times, but, incredible as it may seem, there are Americans who shrink from the idea of public rejoicing over those great material advantages which accrue to us through the anguish and loss of the rest of the world.

"The soul of our nation is not entirely satisfied with itself. 'A spark disturbs our clod.'

"We are not as certain as we were a year ago that peace and plenty constitute the sum total of human happiness. We have managed to keep out of the war. During the year we have changed from a debtor to a creditor nation. We are making money out of war contracts, and every one can see that we are bound to have a long start in the race for world trade when peace comes again. But there is something in the situation which disturbs the public conscience and chills the hilarity of our rejoicing. With all our expressed ideals about humanity and liberty and justice we feel out of place in a world wracked by the pains of crucifixion. Something is happeing which transcends the philosophy of life in which we think we believe. We are haunted by a suggestion that these blessings of ours have cost us too little. They are not the things for which our neighbors across the sea are dying heroically every day. In fact, for the first time in our history we are in danger of losing our self-respect.

We Are Unheroic.

"It is not that the warring nations dislike our policy and methods. The heart of conflict engenders all kinds of animosities and misunderstandings, which usually disappear when peace prevails. But the public mind is shadowed by a growing fear that somehow we have been untrue to ourselves. We are out of tune with the world spirit: In a time of utmost heroism we appear to ourselves as unheroic. While the homes of our neighbors are burning we do not like to find ourselves so radiantly happy over the fact that ours is the only house of importance outside the fire zone.

"Always we have proclaimed our devotion to the principles of liberty justice and humanity. The world believed that we were sincere and we believed ourselves to be sincere. For generations our Liberty Bell has been enshrined like the Ark of the Covenant in memory of our fathers who died that their nation might be free. We have our Washington and Lincoln, our Valley Forge and Gettysburg. We truly reverence these shrines and martyrs of freedom.

"Why, then, with such a past should this present war find us so unprepared spiritually? Half the world has staked its very existence in battle for what we thought we believed were our most cherished and distinctive possessions; and we are still cold and faltering, and uncertain. With magnificent philanthrophy we poured out our treasures for stricken Belgium. But hurled no thunderbolt of indignant protest against the brutal injustice of her destruction. Did we prefer charity to righteousness because in the one we had only the joy of giving, while the other would demand the anguish of sacrifice?

War is Unnecessary.

"As a people we hate war. We believe that war is wrong and wasteful and unnecessary. As proof of our sincerity in this belief we point to the fact that for a hundred years we have lived in peace with Canada. Four thousand miles of frontier without a fortress or a soldier on guard. International commerce in men and money and merchandise flows evenly and safely back and forth over this boundary. Disputes are settled by peaceful litigation in the courts, and the courts reflect in their decisions the enlightened public opinion of both countries.

"Surely we are for peace and against war. But where, then, is our protest against the frightful war now devastating the nations? Or if we believe that this is in essence a war against war, where shall we look for any record of our stand in the matter? We still preach the doctrine of 'no entangling alliances,' but we are hopelessly and permanently entangled with every nation on earth. We have world interests and world duties. But we still deny that we are a world power. We are unable to protect our women and children from assassination upon the high seas. When we herald a great diplomatic victory we are chagrined to find a little later that the real victory was purchased for us by the prowess of a neighbor's navy.

"From these considerations it would appear that our national mind shares in the confusion which has shattered the fabric of civilization throughout the world. And until we are able to penetrate beneath this confusion to some foundation of right and truth all thanksgiving for external prosperity becomes a mockery. More than preparedness for war and trade; more than hysterical revulsions against pain and sacrifice our nation needs now a moral awakening.

Must Fight for Liberty.

"We cannot profess ideals without being ready to defend them. We cannot enjoy liberty and have others to buy it for us. We cannot indulge in the luxury of charity until we have established righteousness as the basis upon which all men shall do business with us.

"As a nation we have been waiting and drifting and temporizing when we ought to have stood up for our principles. We have lost much in prestige and respect. But it is never too late to do right. Our problem is a fundamental one and therefore simple. What does America stand for in the world? What ideas, ideals and principles are incarnate in our history and our institutions? These and these alone make a nation great and give permanence to her influence.

"If we stand for democracy at home let us stand for democracy everywhere. If we believe that freedom is the greatest thing in the world let us stand up like men for freedom everywhere. If we believe that American citizenship is a high and holy possession let us put behind our citizenship the grim certainty that it will be defended to the death everywhere that it has a right to be. Let us give over the absurd dream that suffering is no longer a necessity; that men can enjoy great blessings without assuming great responsibilities and paying a great price.

"America cannot retire in peace and quietness to enjoy the fruits of her labors. We are too young and the world is too young. There are still great battles to be fought, great sacrifices to be made, great wrongs to be overthrown. If as a people we have grown rich and timid, instead of thanking God, let us pray humbly for strength to escape from the curse of a corrupting prosperity. It is not a question of the right or wrong of war as such, nor of neutrality. It is rather a question as to the place our nation shall hold in the new age now being born out of the pain and grief of the peoples overseas.

"Yesterday we were proud and free champions of human rights, of liberty and justice. We cannot hold this place tomorrow unless we earn the right. The new age will belong to those who have suffered."

BILLY SUNDAY CAMPAIGN STARTS JAN. 2 IN TRENTON

Trenton, Nov. 29. — Returning from Syracuse, N. Y., Saturday, Rev. Henry Collin Minton and H. M. Voorhees, general chairman and secretary of the Billy Sunday campaign committee, brought definite information that Billy Sunday will begin his campaign in Trenton Sunday, January 2. This was the date originally set, but Mr. Sunday had suggested starting a week earlier in order that he might hasten his prospective visit to Baltimore.

The committee found itself unable to arrange for the earlier date, and so notified Mr. Sunday. Dr. Minton and Mr. Voorhees went to Syracuse to make certain there would be no misunderstanding and also to discuss some preliminaries with Mr. Sunday.

GAS MEN ASSEMBLE.

Washington, Nov 29.—Gas makers from all sections of the country are gathering here today for the convention of the National Commercial Gas Association, which opens tomorrow. Congressmen who are returning from their native hearths armed with vocabulary for the coming session of Congress declare there is no need of the gas men in the capital city at this time, so far as supplying them is concerned. The coming of the gas men and the congressmen is merely a coincidence, according to official decree of the solons and the pipe line men. Fully a thousand gas men will be on hand when the convention opens tomorrow, and their number will include the makers of gas appliances.

N. Y. ALIEN LABOR LAW UPHELD

Washington, Nov. 29.—The United States Supreme Court today held the New York anti-alien labor law to be constitutional.

The Hasbur Guild, of the First Baptist church will meet Friday night at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Gifford W. Cooley, 2 Rockview avenue, the borough, when Miss DeLand, of New York, will give a talk.

Household Hints

CAKES

Cider Cake—Cream three-fourths pound powdered sugar in a pan with 1½ pounds butter; add a tablespoonful of cinnamon and nutmeg. Dissolve a small teaspoonful of saleratus in a quart of the best cider. Make a hole in the center of flour and pour in the cider while foaming. Mix it thoroughly, stirring it very hard. Put it immediately into a buttered pan and place it at once in the oven, which must be quite ready and rather brisk. Bake it one hour. It should be eaten fresh.

Buttermilk Cake—Two cups light brown sugar, one-half cup butter or sour milk, one large teaspoon soda, four cups flour, one cup fruit. Filling: Two cups brown sugar, one-half cup sweet milk; boil together. Let it cool and beat until it thickens.

Pork Cake Without Milk, Eggs or Butter—One pound fat salt pork free of lean or rind, chopped so fine as to be more like lard. Pour one-half pint boiling water over it, and one pound seeded raisins and chopped, one-fourth pound citron shaved into shreds, one cup sugar, one cup molasses, one teaspoon soda in the molasses; mix these together and stir into sifted flour to make consistency of cake mixture, then stir in one ounce each of ground nutmeg and cloves and two ounces cinnamon. Be governed about the time of baking it by putting a sliver into it. It should be baked slowly.

Farmer's Cake—Two cups sugar, one cup sweet milk, three cups flour, one-half cup butter, two teaspoons baking powder, four eggs.

Geranium Cake—Whites of three eggs, one-half cup butter (scant), one-half cup sweet milk, 1 1-3 cups sugar, two cups flour, one teaspoon baking powder. Line the tin with paper, under which place two or three swet-scented geranium leaves.

COOKIES

Soft Cookies—One and one-half cups granulated sugar, one cup lard, one cup sour cream, two eggs, nutmeg flavor, one teaspoon soda, two teaspoons baking powder, flour enough to roll.

Ginger Cookies—Two cups molasses, one cup sugar, one cup lard, one cup sour milk, one tablespoon cinnamon, one teaspoon ginger, two teaspoons soda. Mix soft.

Benny's Cookies—One teacup lard, two teacups buttermilk, two teacups granulated sugar, one teaspoon each of baking powder, soda, vanilla, two eggs, enough flour to make a nice light dough.

White Cookies—These cookies cost ten cents and recipe makes forty-two medium ones. One-half cup lard, one cup sugar, one or two eggs (beaten), one-fourth cup milk and water, one-fourth teaspoon nutmeg, four teaspoons baking powder, 2½ cups flour or enough to roll out. Sprinkle top with sugar. Bake ten minutes.

THE TABLE

Milady Salad—Three grape fruit, one cup preserved watermelon rind, one-quarter cup candied ginger slices, one cup dressing, one-half cup whipped cream (brandied), one-quarter cup cherries (mint), lettuce; pile on lettuce pulp of the three grape fruit; over this pour dressing, sweetened well; on top of this lay ginger triangular shapes, then watermelon rind, garnished with whipped cream and cherries.

Diced Sweet Potato en Vegetal—Six sweet potatoes, one-half can corn, one-quarter pound cheese, one cup cracker crumbs, one cup cream, one tablespoonful butter; boil potatoes and dice small, mix all together, cover with crumbs, melted butter and cheese. Bake twenty minutes in moderate oven.

Pecan Muffins—One and one-half teacupfuls flour, one teaspoonful baking powder, one egg, one teaspoonful salt, one teacupful milk, two cupfuls rolled pecan nuts. Sift flour and baking powder together dry, add salt, egg and milk. Beat five minutes. Then add nuts and bake in hot gem pans. Sprinkle a few nuts on top before baking.

Pigs in Blankets—Dust large, plump oysters with pepper and salt, wrap each inside a thin slice of bacon, and skewer to gether with a toothpick. Lay in a hot skillet and cook till oysters begin to curl and the bacon crisps. Serve very hot—several to each person.

LITERARY

RAISING CAPITAL.

"The adventures of Sam Clemens and his comrades could fill several books of the size of 'Tom Sawyer.' Many of them are, of course, forgotten now, but those still remembered show that Mark Twain had plenty of real material.

"It was not easy to get money in those days, and the boys were often without it. Once 'Huck' Blankenship had the skin of a coon he had captured, and offered to sell it to raise capital. At Selms' store on Wild Cat Corner the coonskin would bring ten cents. But this was not enough. The boys thought of a plan to make it bring more. Selms' back window was open, and the place where he kept his pelts was pretty handy. Huck went around to the front door and sold the skin for ten cents to Selms, who tossed it back on the pile. Then Huck came back and after waiting a reasonable time crawled in the open window, got the coonskin and sold it to Selms again. The boys did this several times that afternoon, and the capital of the band grew. But at last John Pierce Selms' clerk, said:

"'Look here, Mr. Selms, there's something wrong about this. That boy has been selling us coonskins all the afternoon.'

"Selms went back to his pile of pelts. There were several sheepskins, but only one coonskin—the one he had that moment bought.

"Selms himself, in after years used to tell this story as a great joke."—Albert Bigelow Paine, in the December St. Nicholas.

PREVENT WAR BY ADVERTISING

In the December issue of "The American Magazine" Gerald Stanley Lee says:

"This nation does not purpose to believe or take seriously or personally some of the things that are happening to nations today. We purpose to have different things happen.

"Our being able to do this in America is all a matter of being able to express ourselves and these other people together in such a way that, having been expressed together, we will feel together and get together—then we will make the things happen together.

"This advertising, even self-advertising, attitude, this seeing the possibilities of advertising and of getting progressive, culminating, organized attention to the best and fullest desires of our souls in this world is the only one I know which provides a man with a constructive, hopeful program or prospectus for being human, or for a nation's being human in a machine age. Our only way to avoid war, or all other mechanical-minded things, is to assert the wills of our souls. War is despair about being expressed, the last desperate substitute men resort to for an attention-machine—for advertising themselves and making themselves known to one another so that the things they fight can be removed."

Dr. John R. Mott has, according to the "Living Church," authorized the following declaration of his position with regard to the relation of the Panama Congress to the Edinburgh Conference:

"Dr. John R. Mott is arranging to go to the Panama Congress and is helping in the preparations for it, but he is going, not as chairman of the Continuation Committee of the Edinburgh Conference, nor as a member of that committee. He believes it to be an injustice to the Edinburgh Conference and to the Panama Conference to attempt to base the latter on the former.

"They are essentially different. Edinburgh was, and is, a world movement; Panama is confined largely to the group of Latin-American countries. The effort at Edinburgh was to secure a conference of Christians throughout the world on the 'missionary problems in relation to the non-Christian world.'

"Edinburgh's subject was the Whole World.

"Panama's subject is Latin-America, which Edinburgh treated as a part of the Christian World.

"As an individual, Dr. Mott feels entirely free to take part in the Panama Congress and hopes for its enduring success. But it is not an Edinburgh Conference. To confuse the two is an injustice to both."

GREECE WILL DISARM ALL SERB SOLDIERS

Has Notified England of This Decision, Says German Report.

Berlin, Nov. 29 (wireless).—An Athens despatch to the Frankfurter Zeitung states that King Constantine informed Lord Kitchener that all Serbian soldiers passing the Greek frontier would be disarmed in the interests of Greece, demanding that its neutrality be self observed.

FARE CASE AGAIN UP.

Boston, Nov. 29.—The Public Service Commission of Massachusetts will today hear arguments on the motions to throw out certain evidence introduced by valuation experts in connection with the hearings now under way on the application of the Bay State Street Railway to increase its fares to six cents from five cents. The jurisdiction of the Commission is also questioned, and some lively arguments are expected. The hearing on the rate case will be reopened next February, when the remonstrants will be heard.

NO TRACE OF MISSING AGED MAN

New Brunswick, Nov. 9.—No trace has been found of Michael Mooney, of East Millstone, seventy years old, who disappeared a week ago last Thursday from his home in that town, where he had resided for the last fifty years. He lived in a cottage at East Millstone upon his income. He has two daughters, Mrs. Thomas Dwyer, of this city, and Mrs. Belle Wahrley, of Conecticut.

RESUME OF PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL'SFOOTBALL SEASON

Team Played Eleven Games, Losing Two—Totaled 141 Points to Opponents' 46, Apgar Making Most Tallies—Seventeen Men in Squad.

By playing the Alumni to a scoreless tie on Thanksgiving, the Plainfield High School football team finished the 1915 season with a record of two defeats, two scoreless ties and six victories, out of a schedule of eleven games. This is one of the best records that has yet been established by a Red and Blue team. The most important game, with Rahway, was to have made the eleventh contest for the local cohorts, but cancellation by the latter makes a meeting between the two teams impossible this year, and incidentally leaves the High School championship of Union county undecided.

In only one game this fall was the P. H. S. eleven outclassed, and that was when the husky Phillipsburg bunch came to Parker Field several weeks ago and showed enough class to make them strong contenders for the State championship. After walloping Westfield High School early in the season, the locals played one of their worst games on the second meeting and were beaten 7 to 0. Injuries to several of the regulars may have had something to do with the showing, but several midnight frolics the preceding night also helped.

For the most part, however, the fellows played consistent football and work of the kind that won the South Side and New Brunswick games would have downed everything in the way for the State title. Daniels, one of the fastest halfbacks that ever wore a Red and Blue jersey, was greatly handicapped in his running this year by sore legs, and Miller and Pennock, towers of strength on the left side of the line, complained of the same ailment. With the exception of sprains and other minor injuries that kept one or two men on the hospital list all the time, but one serious accident was suffered and that not in a game. Mumford's dislocated shoulder in practice during the first week of work caused his absence for the first five weeks.

Thursday's game, aside from marking the last game of the season, was the last one that a number of the fellows will play for the High School. Noonan at fullback, Peacock at quarter, and Apgar at right half, will leave in June. Mumford and Berrien, at tackles for two and three years respectively, will also be graduated, as will Davidson and probably Fitch, who have held down the ends. Wheelan will also leave a gap at centre, after filling it for three years.

By not playing the Rahway game this year, several of the fellows who deserve to be candidates, will miss the chance of being sized up, as the county struggle is watched by those who pick the county eleven. But, even as it is, one position is generally accredited to a Red and Blue man in the shape of Wheelan at centre. It is his third year at that position, but only this last year has he shown up so well. Although "Bill" couldn't be called fast, his work in the South Side, New Brunswick, Westfield, and nearly all the games, in breaking through and mussing up plays before they got started, has been great and at all times his tackling has been deadly.

During the season 141 points were chalked up on the Red and Blue side of the slate and 46 on the other side distributed as follows:

Easton H. S., 0; P. H. S., 0.
Passaic H. S., 6; P. H. S., 21.
Somerville H. S., 0; P. H. S., 71.
Westfield H. S., 0; P. H. S., 7.
New Brunswick H. S., 0; P. H. S. 19.
Battin H. S., 7; P. H. S., 9.
Westfield H. S., 6; P. H. S., 0.
South Side H. S., 0; P. H. S., 14.
Phillipsburg, 27; P. H. S., 0.
Alumni, 0; P. H. S., 0.
Opponents, 46; P. H. S., 141.

Only one field goal was registered this year, Noonan kicking that one from the thirty-yard line in the Battin game. But one touchback was made, also, Daniels tackling a Somerville man and pushing him back of his own goal. The points were distributed as follows, with Apgar as high man:

	T.	G.	FG.	TB.	P.
Noonan	3	3	1	0	24
Apgar	3	13	0	0	31
Alpaugh	3	0	0	0	18
Daniels	2	0	0	1	14
Peacock	5	0	0	0	24
Miller	2	0	0	0	12
Snyder	2	0	0	0	12
Mumford	1	0	0	0	6
	20	16	1	1	141

With the exception of Mutnick, who did not join the squad until just before the last two games, both of which he played in, there were seventeen who played in at least fourteen contests. Five, including Captain Pennock, played in all of the games and the complete record follows:

Wheelan, 8; Semlock, 6; Miller, 6; Hooper, 8; Pennock, 10; Davidson 10; Fitch, 9; Peacock, 8; Daniels, 10; Apgar, 10; Noonan, 10; Alpaugh 8; Geary, 9; Mumford, 5; Berrien, 4; Kline, 6; Snyder, 4.

KEATING UNDER TREATMENT.

It is possible that Ray Keating, of the Yankees, may never be able to pitch again. He has suffered for some time from a back strain which during the past year interfered with his pitching. Bill Donovan, however, hopes that the ailment will yield to treatment, and has not given up hope of having Keating with the Yankees next season.

N. P. H. S. GRADS ARE INVINCIBLE

Give Wonderful Display of Basketball Against Undergrads.

WIN EASILY BY 54-33

Bill Taylor and Polly Love Divide 36 Points, Each Man Making Some Sensational Shots—Newkirk and Burner Play Well at Guard.

In a rough and tumble battle the North Plainfield H. S. basketball team was forced to suffer a defeat at the hands of the Alumni last evening by the score of 54 to 33. These two teams battled through two hard twenty-minute halves at a telling pace, neither side lagging, every play being intensely interesting to the spectators.

Although the victors were leading by a majority of points when the whistle curtailed the contest, the score does not betray the keenness that each contingent displayed, every point being fought for strenuously the High School lads never losing hope. Several times spasmodic spurts brought them dangerously close to their opponents.

The Alumni was represented by one of the two combinations of the Y. M. C. A. squad, and never before has any team picked by the grads played to such a degree of perfection. The passing was bewildering, and when their opponents were within a close radius of them, a series of phenomenal shots by either Love or Taylor proved disheartening to the hopes of their younger opponents.

Spectacular shots were much in evidence, Roy Love and "Bill" Taylor being especially adept. These two players scored sixteen field goals, which were equally divided. Addison Newkirk, at guard, was also a thorn in the side of the boroughites, this player being responsible for five field goals, besides playing a creditable game at guard. Ash Burner was the foundation of the passing game. After playing one half he retired in favor of Hyman Abrams and the schoolboys almost immediately began to creep closer, until Abrams was hurt, and Burner was then recalled. His entrance again had a material effect on the entire team, which played with renewed vigor.

The High School team is not disheartened by the result of last evening's conflict, the schoolboys showing skill at different junctions of the game, while they realized that the opposition which they met with last evening will not probably be encountered again this season.

BASEKTBALL MEN GATHER AND INTERPRET NEW CODE

More than one hundred basketball coaches, officials and players gathered last night in New York and interpreted the new joint rules recently adopted by the Amateur Athletic Union, the Intercollegiate Athletic Association, and the Young Men's Christian Association. Dr. Joseph H. Raycroft, of Princeton University, chairman of the Joint Editorial Committee, presided over the meeting and answered most of the questions on points which were not clear to either coaches, players or officials.

On the whole, the new code was found satisfactory, and there were not many regulations which needed explanation. It took several months to arrange the code, and the task was well done by Dr. Raycroft, George P. Hepbron, chairman of the Amateur Athletic Union basketball committee, and William H. Ball, chairman of the basketball board of the Young Men's Christian Association. Ralph Morgan, of the University of Pennsylvania, attended the meeting as a representative of the National Collegiate Association and assisted in the interpretation.

N. P. H. S. GIRLS ROUT CRANFORD

Playing on Cranford Court, Borough Maidens Win by 27-4 Score.

LOCAL FORWARDS STAR

Miss Marjorie Burtis Cages Eleven Field Goals and Four Fouls, and Captain Lillian Spencer Tosses Five Goals and a Foul.

In an easy manner the North Plainfield High School girls scored their second victory of the year yesterday defeating the Cranford representatives at that place by the score of 27 to 4. Never given any opportunity, the Cranford lassies were played right off their feet at the very outset of the fray, and were able to squeeze only one field goal and two fouls during the entire fracas.

The borough forwards were on their mettle and soon demonstrated their scoring abilities, while the excellent teamwork between the two forwards made the guarding a difficult task. In the first period Captain Lillian Spencer shot three pretty field goals, while her running mate secured a basket and three fouls for a total of eleven points. The Cranford team scored its lone field goal in this period, the half terminating with the score 11 to 2 in favor of the visitors.

The last portion of the contest was played with side centres, Miss Ricketts taking this position. The contest grew faster, the ball being in N. P. H. S. territory continuously. Miss Marjorie Burtis made five spectacular field goals, while Captain Spencer totaled two more goals and a foul.

NEW CAMPAIGN PLANNED FOR GAME PROTECTION

In striving to make hunting and fishing important resources of New Jersey, the State Board of Fish and Game Commissioners is planning a campaign to get the real interest of farmers, land owners and sportsmen behind the State's work of propagating and protecting game animals birds and fish. The history of game conservation shows that game cannot be made abundant by legislation alone. The rigid enforcement of the game laws is not sufficient without propagation and restocking. But restocking work to be successful needs co-operation of the public in the enforcement of respect for the game laws, a matter that is largely educational.

The central idea of all work of the Fish and Game Department is to provide good hunting and fishing for the citizen of average means. Except for propagation and protection, these sports years ago could have become pastimes possible of enjoyment only by the wealthy man of leisure able to travel to distant wilds in search of the game and the fish had become extinct in his home State through lack of conservation.

Every sportsman and every farmer the commission contends, should be willing and eager to lend his aid to wardens in enforcing the game laws. The courts hold that wild fish and game belong to the public, and the person who hunts or fishes illegally is penalized under the game laws as one who steals from the public.

MISS BROWNE WINS.

Long Beach, Cal., Nov. 27.—Miss Mary K. Browne, three times national woman tennis champion, defeated Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, another former titleholder, 6—4, 6—3, in an exhibition match of the invitation tennis tournament here yesterday. Miss Molla Bjurstedt, the present champion, won from Miss Florence Sutton, 6—4, 6—3. The tournament will close today with matches between Miss Browne and Miss Bjurstedt and Miss Sutton and Mrs. Bundy.

Local Sport News, Views, Reviews and Interviews

Local horsemen have reasons to anticipate a more actively competitive condition here in the near future than they have had in the recent past. The opening of the Plainfield Road Drivers' Association speedway has already re-awakened interest, which it is expected will first evidence itself on the snow this winter. In the halcyon days a few winters back, almost every owner of a high stepper and a cutter used to enter into the sport that was held on Park avenue, and sometimes on East Front street. This winter is likely to see a return of the trotting.

With the big membership increase which the Y. M. C. A. campaign produced, the representative basketball team of the association might look for more support from within its own ranks, but there was little to justify this expectation Thursday evening, when the holiday crowd was disappointingly small. The Y. M. C. A. basketball team is one of the oldest established quintets Plainfield has, and the leading attractions that are staged on the team's court are worthy of more support than was enjoyed the other night, when the box office receipts failed by several dollars to meet expenses.

By all odds the siliest decision inflicted on the local sporting public is the one that the High School boys can't play Holy Cross without tainting themselves with the scourge of professionalism with which the Holy Cross players are popularly supposed to be infected. The P. H. S. and Holy Cross elevens have no reason for meeting, except the local interest the game would create. The two elevens, traveling in different spheres, have little more reason for clashing than any other two teams of different classes, and the physical adavantage the maroon and white would have is alone an excellent argument against holding the game. But the idea that Holy Cross is a professional eleven is all wrong. There never has been a member of the team who received a cent of compensation for his services. A mistaken idea which many local people have is that each player shares the receipts at the end of the season, but the fact is that the few times the club has finished with a surplus, the money has been used to buy sweaters or medals, as is done in the schools.

Harry Rothberg, wed quietly in the west, returns unexpectedly to the city.—News item.

Or, in the parlance of the baseball diamond, he doubled and stole home.

It is proper that the housewife should know as much about the business of buying for the home as her husband knows bout the business in which he earns his income.

It Pays to Secure a Tenant Who Pays.

The uncertain sort of tenant is easy to find. He is always answering the call of the window sign of "To Let." He is easy to please. Even a rather high rental does not frighten him away.

But the Stay-and-Pay tenant is not so easy to secure. He is surer of what he wants. He does not take the first house, or apartment, or store that he finds. He watches and answers "To Let" Ads.

And to secure him for your tenant is a good day's work—a good week's work.

Property that is advertised adequately in the Plainfield Daily Press is rarely rented injudiciously.

—It there's a new owner in charge of the little store down the street, the chances are that a "Business Opportunity" advertisement has been "at work."

COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS PLAN GREATER THAN IN PAST YEARS

Committee Decided at Meeting Last Night to Make This Year's Celebration Memorable—Over $200 on Hand to Start Work and Treasurer DeWitt Hubbell is Already Receiving New Subscriptions—Chairman R. A. Claybrook Again First to Give.

Plans for the annual Community Christmas to brighten the hearts of 200 or more Plainfield children and many worthy homes on the twenty-fifth of this month were completed at a well attended meeting held in the Y. M. C. A. parlor, last night. With from $1,500 to $2,000 as the amount which the committee hope to raise, the members left with the firm determination to make this the brightest Christmas that deserving Plainfield families have ever had.

Chairman Richard A. Claybrook was in the chair, and he started the good work again this year, as he has for many years past by making the first contribution, when he handed a crisp banknote over to C. A. Rice, of the finance committee. Before the meeting was concluded over $200 was on hand to give the work a good start, and the purchasing committee had been authorized to spend up to $500 as the first installment of money to be applied to the cause.

Contributions for the work will as usual be made by the various Men's Church Clubs and by any public spirited citizens who want to assist in making sure that no Plainfielder fails to have a bright yuletide. DeWitt Hubbell, treasurer of the Plainfield Trust Company, is the treasurer, and nothing will give him greater pleasure, it was stated last night, than to receive sums ranging from five cents up to be used for the work.

Last year about $1,500 was raised and all but less than $200 was used. Some of the money was held in reserve until the past month, during which time the necessities of worthy families to the extent of $420.50 have been cared for. It is planned this year to use any surplus in the same way during 1916.

Chairman Claybrook suggested at the beginning of the meeting that there should be a vice chairman of the committee, and Samuel T. Carter was selected. Frederick K. Armstrong is the secretary of the committee this year, and DeWitt Hubbell was elected treasurer last night. In addition to the officers present last night, the following attended the meeting: Dr. and Mrs. William H. Murray, Miss Mabelle C. Phillips, Mellick Tweedy, W. F. Taliferro, Charles A. Rice, Chares H. Frost, Brockholst K. Miller, George B. Zimmer, W. H. P. Veysey, R. R. Pentecost, E. W. Vars and Leslie R. Fort.

Committees to carry on the work were selected as follows: Finance, DeWitt Hubbell, chairman; C. A. Rice, Brockholst K. Miller, James MacClymont and M. C. Van Arsdale, purchasing, W. F. Taliferro, chairman; Frank A. Weeks, Mrs. Walter H. P. Veysey, Miss Millar, Miss Mabelle C. Phillips, Mrs. William B. Tyler and J. V. E. Vanderhoef; distribution, Walter H. P. Veysey, with power to select associates; Bonnie Burn entertainment, Mrs. William H. Murray, chairman, with power to select associates; publicity, Leslie R. Fort, chairman; Charles H. Frost, Dr. William D. Murray and James R. Joy; almshouse, Mrs. David N. Rowland, with power to select associates.

Mr. Rice, who was treasurer for the past year, said that the balance which was left after the actual Christmas bills were paid in December a year ago had been used by a committee of five which was appointed at that time to relieve the wants of about fifty families. It was decided that any balance after this year's bills are paid shall be used in the same way. Miss Phillips reported that because so many more men are at work now that this would be a typical Christmas, without any unusual amount of suffering to relieve.

Dr. W. H. Murray, who is one of the board of governors of the Bonnie Burn sanitarium, stated that the annual Christmas entertainment there will take place on Thursday, December 23, and that the public will be welcomed at that time.

PLAINFIELD TRUST CO. IMPROVEMENTS

Remarkable Growth of Business Necessitates Extensive Changes in Institution.

Owing to the remarkable expansion of its business and to the great increase in detail work incident thereto, the Plainfield Trust Company has been obliged to make extensive alterations and improvements in its banking room with a view to more adequately accommodating its clerical force and to giving its customers every facility for the prompt and convenient transaction of their business.

The changes now in progress include the installation of a note teller's department, in charge of F. I. Collins, with a new cage separate and apart from the receiving teller's, where all loans will, in future, be handled. This will relieve the congestion at the receiving teller's window and will insure prompt service for those customers who may be negotiating loans. It is also proposed to utilize the mezzanine gallery as a working space. The necessity for these changes will be appreciated when it is remembered that the company now has in its custody deposits amounting to nearly six millions of dollars. In other words it has practically doubled its deposits in five years.

According to statistics recently prepared by the United States Mortgage and Trust Company, of New York city, there are now 2,031 trust companies in the United States which are adding to the available wealth of the nation each succeeding year a steadily augmenting volume of resources, this year's increase being over four hundred million dollars, and our local institution is a notable example of the fact that trust companies all over the country are demonstrating more clearly that ever before their ability to care efficiently for individual requirements as well as for corporate operations, which involve very large and intricate transactions.

WHAT CAUSES THE DELAY?

Notwithstanding the fact that the three sergeants in the police department have now been in service as such for some time they have not yet received their badges. No one seems to know what is causing the delay in providing the men with their proper insignias.

PAUL SWAN DELIGHTS A LARGE AUDIENCE

Gives Choice Program of Interpretive Dances at Plainfield High School.

Paul Swan, artistic interpreter of classic dances, appeared before a large and cultured audience at the Plainfield High School, last night, giving the first of a series of five entertainments under the patronage of a number of well-known society women and the direction of Charles Prescott Poore, of New York. Mr. Swan's style of entertainment, while somewhat new to a Plainfield audience, was favorably received and in his interpretation of Greek, Persian and Egyptian dances he gave a finished performance.

Mr. Swan opened his program with a symbolic interpretation of the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam, which gave ample opportunity for him to display his wonderful ability. Other notable numbers included "To Heroes Slain," dedicated to a battlefield in Flanders; "A Greek Fantasy," an impersonation of "Narcissus," and a mystic piece called "The Sphinx," in each of which the accomplishments of the artist were fully demonstrated.

Mr. Swan was assisted by Miss Anna Tone MacIntyre, reader; Mme. Olive E. Atwood, pianist, and Gerald Kunz, violinist. Their numbers were also favorably received and generous applause was given after each number. The program was a choice one throughout and speaks well for the success of the entertainments to follow.

HOPE C. E. FAIR.

Arrangements are complete for the fair to be held at Hope chapel Thursday and Friday nights, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. The various booths will be decorated in different college colors, and there will be a three-piece orchestra as an added attraction. The committee in charge comprises David Wardrop, chairman; Miss Lona Becker, Miss Mary Mortimer and Miss Eunice Eckert.

SESAME CLUB MEETING.

The Sesame Club will meet at 10:30 tomorrow morning at the home of Mrs. Walter H. P. Veysey, 812 Park avenue.

PLANNING CAUCUS OF 1916 COUNCIL

Considerable Speculation as to Make-up of Organization for Next Year.

BLATZ FOR PRESIDENT

It is the Belief That Fourth Ward Member Will Get Honor Without Opposition — Babcock May Be Chairman of Finance Committee.

Within a short time the members comprising the new City Council will hold a caucus to determine on the make-up of next year's body, including the choice of a president to succeed President George S. Clay, who retires after a long service. Just now Francis J. Blatz is considered the logical candidate for the presidency and it is the opinion that he will be given the honor without opposition.

Perhaps the next most important position to be filled is that of chairman of the finance committee, which is now held by Councilman R. A. Claybrook, who also retires this year. Among those who have been mentioned for that chairmanship is Juan A. Babcock, who is now head of the police committee. However, there are many who would like to see him continue on the latter committee, to which he has given considerable time and attention. As usual among those interested, there is considerable speculation as to the makeup of committees, but as the new members are experienced business men the president should not have much trouble in assigning them to committees, is the opinion of those in a position to know.

Former Postmaster Elias H. Bird, who with Charles S. Sminck will represent the First ward, has served as a councilman before and is therefore familiar with the work. Mr. Sminck is also more or less acquainted with councilmanic matters. Levis M. Booth, of the Second ward, is also a practical business man and it is believed will prove a valuable acquisition to the city body. The other members who will comprise the 1916 Council are now serving in that body and are therefore "broken into" the councilmanic routine."

There will no doubt be considerable work for all the councilmen next year, for it is believed that a number of important matters will come before the body for consideration. There is already considerable interest as to what Mayor Leighton Calkins will have to say in his second annual message, but there is no doubt but that he will offer a number of suggestions along the line of improvement and give the councilmen plenty to do in the way of legislation if they decide to take up the matters he will undoubtedly present in his message.

LADIES' AID SOCIETY GIVE A "CAFETERIA"

The "Cafeteria" given by the Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church last night was a largely attended affair and a success. Mrs Judd Stuart was the general chairman of the entire affair, and she was capably assisted by various members of the society.

Those in charge of the various tables were as follows: Vegetables, Mrs. John Valiant, Mrs. E. C. Allen and Miss Frances Rittenhouse; meat George Rittenhouse and F. G. Crawford; frankfurters and rolls, Mrs. M. Ewart and Mrs. Frank Rowley; bread and butter, Mrs. Henry DeMott; kitchen, Mrs. G. Rittenhouse Mrs. Edward Alpaugh, Mrs. Anna Most and Mrs. L. M. French; cake and ice cream, Mrs. William Camp Miss M. B. Sharp, Mrs. Howard Henderson and Mrs. Carrie Anderson.

SHERIFF SEBRING GETS VERDICT AGAINST TENANT

Charles P. Sebring, sheriff of Somerset county, was given a verdict in the District Court this morning in his suit against Mrs. Sarah Block, of Plainfield. Sometime ago Mrs. Block caused Sheriff Sebring to be brought into court here for defective plumbing in the building in which she was living. He instituted suit against her to collect back rent on his building at 210 Watchung avenue, rented from home, and was given a verdict for two months' rent. Sheriff Sebring contended that the plumbing defects were caused by changes attempted by his tenant. He was also given possession of the property by the court, the woman being ordered to move.

MARTIN RE-APPOINTED.

John F. Martin, of Elizabeth, was today reappointed by Governor Fielder on the State Board of Undertakers.

SHOTWELL PROBE IS OFFICIALLY DROPPED

Reports That Reached Prosecutor's Office Found to Be False.

It was announced from the office of Prosecutor Stein in Elizabeth this morning that there would be no further investigation into the death of Mrs. Carrie Belle Shotwell, who died at her home on Grant avenue, Plainfield, Sunday evening.

County Detective Robert Galatian, who came to Plainfield for the purpose of looking into reports received by the prosecutor, has completed his work and he notified Mr. Stein that Mrs. Shotwell herself abandoned hope of life and asked that the physicians attending her be dismissed. Other reports that had been received by the prosecutor were found to be absolutely false.

CAPT. FLYNN STOPS "BORROWING BAND"

Wholesale Raid on Jews of Plainfield Ends in Five Arrests.

A wholesale raid on the Jewish citizens of Plainfield was stopped last night, when Captain Flynn and a squad of patrolmen arrested five men, all strangers, who were systematically working a sympathy plea in this city. Most of them were from southern cities. They appeared in Plainfield some time yesterday, it is thought, and began working among members of their race, telling a story of hard luck, and asking for "carfare." All wanted to get home, so their story went, and each man lived in a different place when he went to "borrow" money.

Several reports came to police headquarters of the work of this band and Captain Flynn went after them. Sergeant O'Keefe and Patrolmen McGinley and Muir were with him when he caught the men at Liberty and Fourth streets. They were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct and will be tried in police court tomorrow morning.

SUCCESS OF "CAFE CONCERT" ASSURED

All Tables Sold for Tonight's Affair in Aid of Belgian Relief Fund.

So great has been the demand for reservations at the "Cafe Concert" to be given at the Park Club tonight in aid of Belgian Relief Fund, that the success of the affair is already assured. While all of the tables have been sold, there will be plenty of good seats for those wishing to attend and enjoy the vaudeville show and dancing.

It was announced today that Miner Trowbridge will take the place of Rex Shoemaker, in the dance with Mrs. Morris J. Dumont. One of the big features will be the sketch, entitled "The Five Proposals," Mrs. A. M. Abbott and Effingham Pinton. They will "propose" according to the ways of Sternberg, Brieux, Bernard Shaw, Maeterlinck and Moderne. There will be countless other attractions. The committee received a letter today from Lady de Bathe, better known as Lily Langtry, in which she enclosed a contribution for the fund.

DEATH SUMMONS PROMINENT MAN

James B. Guttridge Passes Away After Illness of Only a Few Days.

WAS BORN IN ENGLAND

Had Been in Business in Netherwood Section for Twenty-five Years and Did Much to Build up That Part of the City.

James Belson Guttridge, for many years one of the city's leading business men and an important factor in the development of the Netherwood section, died this morning. He had been ailing more or less for the past year, but was able to attend to his duties as usual until last Saturday. At that time he was compelled to take to his bed with a severe nervous breakdown, which quickly developed complications that caused his death. News that he was ill did not become generally known until yesterday, and his sudden demise brought a general shock to his hosts of friends throughout the city.

Mr. Guttridge was a native of Sandringham, Norfolk, England, where he was born fifty-three years ago. After a brief period of schooling he was apprenticed to a butcher, and after thoroughly mastering his trade, remained in his native land for only a few years. He came to this country in 1880, locating in New York for a few months he was employed at the time in Wasnington market. In 1881 he came to Scotch Plains as butcher for the late John Cook, at that time one of the leading retail market men in this section. After remaining there for about two years he took a new position at Rahway, in which town he met the young woman who afterward became his wife. Mr. Guttridge returned to Scotch Plains in 1885 as proprietor of the shop in which he was formerly employed, having purchased the business from Mr. Cook. He continued the business there for only five years, when he erected the building just east of the Netherwood station, and in which he completed his twenty-fifth year as a business man last spring. At the time it was stated that he had occupied one store longer than any other meat dealer in Plainfield at the present day.

Mr. Guttridge's grocery and market at Netherwood prospered from the outset, and by making his brother, Robert Guttridge, his head salesman, he found time to use his business acumen in other directions. He bcame interested in real estate and building, and the phenomenal growth of the East End of the city, especially north of the railroad, is the result of his energies. He was also interested in a number of local companies, one of them being the Glazer Fertilizing concern, which recently erected a modern plant at Samptown. Mr. Guttridge's natural disposition was one of unusual joviality and friendliness, characteristics that made a friend of almost every person he met. There are few people in this vicinity who are better known, and his death at such an early age has caused general regret.

Beside his brother, Robert Guttridge, who remains in charge of the Netherwood business, the deceased leaves his wife, three sons and two daughters. The latter are: Robert L., James B., Jr., and Silas Guttridge, and the Misses Helen and Jean Guttridge, all of this city. While Mr. Guttridge never sought public office, he was more or less interested in the affairs of the day and kept close watch on the doings of the city. He was a member of the Elizabeth Lodge, No. 289, B. P. O. E.; Plainfield Council, Royal Arcanum, and Perseverance Lodge, No. 75, Knights of Pythias. The funeral arrangements have not as yet been completed.

FLATLEY—HENRY.

The marriage of Miss Harriet Grace Henry and George Aloysius Flatley, both of this city, took place Saturday night, at 7 o'clock, in the parsonage of the Monroe Avenue Baptist church, the pastor, Rev. TOWN CUTS DOWN DR. EATONS TREES Minister Clashes With Officials of North Plainfield Township.

TRUCE IS AGREED ON

Dr. Moldenke Refuses to Heed Warning of Owner of Estate and is Stopped Only by Threats of Legal Action—Case Will go to Courts.

A clash between Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, of New York, and officials of the township of North Plainfield occurred on the Eaton estate at Watchung this morning, which resulted in warm words between the minister and Dr. Charles Moldenke, of the Township Committee. The controversy will find its way into the courts of the State tomorrow, and a lively legal battle is promised.

When employes on the Eaton estate awoke this morning they found a small army of men busily at work cutting down trees along the Valley road, on which Dr. Eaton's property fronts. Their remonstrances were of no avail, and Dr. Eaton was called from his bed. When he appeared on the scene after hurriedly dressing and demanded to know by what authority the men were acting, he was confronted by Dr. Moldenke, who informed him that the township was clearing the roadway, having tired of waiting for Dr. Eaton to do so.

A heated argument ensued, in which Dr. Eaton threatened the township officials with criminal prosecution, damage suits and other legal forms of redress, but Dr. Moldenke was firm, and the minister sent in a hurry call for former Judge William A. Coddington, his attorney. Mr. Coddington was at the breakfast table when he received the call, but he rushed to the Eaton home in an automobile. By the time he arrived more than fifteen valuable trees had been cut, according to the property owner, and the force of choppers was still busily at work. Dr. Moldenke first refused to heed Judge Coddington's warning that he was violating his authority, and it was only after William de la R. Anderson, another member of the Township Committe; Township Clerk Charles Mobus and Freeholder John Mobus were called into consultation that the work of cutting down trees and shrubbery was stopped.

By the time a truce had been agreed upon more than twenty of the finest cedar and cherry trees upon the Eaton estate had been cut down, according to the claim of his attorneys, and many of them were inside the property lines.

During his argument with Dr. Mol-

WILL DISCUSS QUESTION OF "PUBLIC MONEY AND CARE"

A county conference for the consideration of the general topic, "Public Money and Public Care," will be held tomorrow in the Court House, Elizabeth, afternoon and evening. The afternoon session will begin at 4 o'clock with Assemblyman William N. Runyon acting chairman. The subject to be considered will be, "What Will Our Taxes Buy For the Poor?"

The speakers will include Henry C. Wright, of New York; Mayor Victor Mravlag, of Elizabeth; Dr. W. H. Murray, of this city; George G. Telier, of Elizabeth, with a resume by Assemblyman Runyon. Judge James C. Connolly will preside at the evening session at 8 o'clock, the topic being "Put the Offender to Work." The speaker will be E. R. Cass, of New York city, followed by a discussion conducted by Sheriff Otto, Warden Hughson, Judge Abe David, William Bedlington and Dr. Frank Moore.

DEMOCRATS WANT BEEKMAN TO RUN FOR CONGRESS

A. M. Beekman, at present prosecutor of Somerset county, and former speaker of the Assembly, is prominently mentioned as a possible candidate for Congress on the Democratic ticket from the Fourth District at the next election. This was one of the bits of gossip which devoloped at the gathering of politicians in Trenton yesterday.

It was stated that Beekman's name has already been talked of by prominent Democrats of Hunterdon and Somerset counties and according to report they believe he would be the strongest man for the candidacy in the district. They claim that he is absolutely fearless with a strong personality.

BRITISH WAR COST 25 MILLION A DAY

Premier Asquith Gives Some Startling Figures to Trades Unions.

TOTAL $8,310,000,000

Necessity for Economy in All Ways of Living is Pointed Out—England and France Joined in Furnishing Food Supplies.

London, Dec. 1.—The war has cost Great Britain $8,310,000,000. The daily expenditure of the nation is now nearing $25,000,000.

These figures were given out by Premier Asquith in a speech before the Trades' Union's conference on national economy today. The Premier pointed out the necessity for economy in all the ways of living. Since August, 1914, said the Premier, the naval and military expenditures and the financial assistance given the empire and our allies amount to 1,662,000,000 pounds.

Representatives of all the important trades unions in England, Scotland and Ireland attended the conference, which was called to devise ways and means of assisting the government and formulating a system of national economy.

Walter Runciman, president of the British Board of Trade, followed Premier Asquith and for the first time revealed how closely France and England are working with reference to food supplies. He said that the English government had entire control of the frozen meat supplies of France and had already paid more tman 25,000,000 pounds for imported meat.

Subs Get Another One.

The British steamer Kingsway, 3,647 tons, has been sunk, presumably by a submarine, it was announced today. The captain and twenty-one members of the crew were saved but five were still missing.

Austrian Cabinet Shaken.

Three members of the Austrian cabinet, the ministers of commerce, finance and the interior, have resigned, according to a despatch from Amsterdam, which gives the Wiener Zeitung as authority for the report. According to the Wiener Zeitung, adds the Amsterdam message, Emperor Francis Joseph accepted the resignations and thanked the three for their work, which was crowned with success despite difficult conditions. As their successors the Emperor appointed Prince Hohenlohe Schillingfurst, minister of the interior; Counter Von Lette, minister of finance, and Herr Von Fitzmueller, minister of commerce.

Roumania to Act.

Rome, Dec. 1.—That Roumania will send an ultimatum to Austria as soon as the Entente Allies concentrate a half million men in the Balkans is the report in Bucharest, according to the Tribuna's correspondent there.

Italian Parliament Convenes.

Italy's Parliament reconvened today for an important war session. The session seemed to be dominated by the military spirit. Premier Salandra was expected to make a long statement setting forth Italy's position in the conflict.

15,000 More Serbs Taken.

Berlin, Dec. 1 (wireless).—German war statement:

"Balkan Theatre—We have fought successful engagements at certain points with the enemy's rear guards. Bulgarian troops took 15,000 Serbians at Prisrend, together with large quantities of war supplies.

"Western theatre—West of La Bassee we mined a British position, causing considerable damage.

"Eastern theatre—There is nothing of importance to report."

HOBOKEN JUSTICE FINED $20 IN BOROUGH COURT

H. T. Murray, a justice of the peace in Hoboken, was fined $20 when arraigned before Judge David S. Campbell on Monday on the charge of interfering with an officer in the performance of his duty. The fine was paid. Murray, who is a plumber by trade, and is engaged at present in helping to put improvements in the plant of the Levgar Structural Company, came to the assistance of Grantz and Marren, whom Marshal Smalley was attempting to put under arrest, Saturday morning, for being drunk and disorderly. Murray took Marshal Smalley's club away from him and would not return it. He was arrested Monday evening by Marshals Mohan and Snyder.

GOVERNMENT PAYS COST OF FREE DELIVERY SERVICE

Regarding the question of establishing a free delivery mail service in the borough there has been many inquiries as to whether such service would have to be paid for by the borough. A letter from James Blakslee, fourth assistant postmaster-general, to Frederic R. Chamberlin, states that the cost of maintaining free delivery service is paid from the appropriation made by Congress for that purpose. No charge is imposed on residents for the service. However, the rate for local postage on drop letters is two cents for each ounce or fraction thereof.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

The week of December 6 has been set aside for a special photoplay week during which the management of Proctor's playhouse will present what is guaranteed to be the last word in motion pictures. Starting Monday and Tuesday Triangle plays will be presented, including Douglas Fairbanks in "The Lamb," and Charles Murray in "A Game Old Knight." On Wednesday and Thursday the feature will be "The Battle Cry of Peace," direct from the Vitagraph Theatre, New York city, where it is presented every day at prices ranging as high as $1.50 and $2. This picture is described as "A Call to Arms Against War," and its theme was derived from "Defenseless America," a book written by Hudson Maxim, the world-famous inventor of guns and powder. This stupendous production is difficult to describe, because the adjectives that fitly apply to it have by long misuse lost their meaning. "The Battle Cry of Peace" will find its way into the history of motion pictures as an epoch-making achievement in the magnitude of the production, in the novelty of its appeal, in the idea that is behind it. It shows the true state of affairs in which this country would find itself if attacked by a hostile nation. It will appear at Proctor's for only two days, Wednesday and Thursday, December 8 and 9. On Friday and Saturday Triangle plays will again be shown. They will be Dustin Farnum in "The Iron Strain" and Raymond Hitchcock in "My Valet."

SMALL EXPLOSION AT SAURER PLANT

Gasoline Tank Blows up at Early Hour, But No One is Injured.

The explosion of a gasoline tank in the Saurer plant startled workers there at an early hour this morning and for a few seconds there were thoughts of a German bomb plot, but the accident was of a minor nature and no one was injured. It occurred while two men were repairing a small tank used on a Mack truck.

In some manner fumes from the gasoline came into contact with a spark and the tank blew up. No damage was done and neither of the men was injured. The accident occurred about 1 o'clock this morning.

CUT DOWN EATON'S TREES

denke and other officials, in which he emphatically declared that he would demand every right of American citizenship, Dr. Eaton stood with his wife and daughter, who accompanied from the house. He is very indignant over the proceeding, and has instructed Judge Coddington to take every legal step possible to prevent further action on the part of the township officials and to punish any and every one responsible for the damage to his property.

Mr. Coddington will file an application for injunction with the Chancellor at Trenton at once. This will probably be done tomorrow, but Dr. Moldenke and other township officials reached an agreement with Judge Coddington whereby no further action will be taken until the case has been fought out in court and the authority of the Township Committee in the matter is established.

The ordinance under which Committeeman Moldenke was acting was passed by the Township Committee in 1911. It provides that every property owner shall keep the road in front of his property clear of trees, bushes and other growth. Some time ago the committee sent out notices to a number of property owners, calling their attention to this ordinance and asking that it be complied with.

While Dr. Eaton denies that the Township Committee had a right to cut down trees or shrubs on his property, he states that he intended having his men do some work on the roadway within a few weeks—just as soon as they had finished gathering and housing the fall crops, in fact. He charges that action was taken without warning to him, and that the first he knew of a move on the part of the officials was when he awoke this morning to find them hacking away at his cedar and cherry trees.

The Valley road, which runs from Watchung to Scotch Plains, was originally laid out by Somerset county, and at the time the road was first proposed a fifty-foot thoroughfare was planned. The right of way as condemned by the county was fifty feet wide. When the Eaton case goes into court the issue will be whether or not the township has authority over the fourteen feet, with ditch and banks on either side, or over the original fifty feet strip of land condemned but not used.

Dr. Moldenke and his men never went outside the fifty-foot strip, according to Dr. Eaton and his attorney, Mr. Coddington, and some of the trees cut down were in furrows in the Eaton corn fields.

Dr. Eaton owns property on both sides of the Valley road at this point and through some distribution of authority of the Township Committee Dr. Moldenke is directly in charge of the roadway on which the Eaton farm fronts. It will be set out in the legal controversy that the minister has spent more than $100,000 in improving his estate, and that his idea of rustic beauty is a roadway lined on both sides with overhanging trees and rimmed with hedges, flowers and shrubs. He will also allege that if the township officials had been allowed to proceed they would have cut down some of the most beautiful elm trees in the State of New Jersey that stand in front of his home.

15 DEAD BROUGHT FROM WEST VIRGINIA MINE

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 1.—Fourteen dead were brought from a mine of the Boomer Coal Company at Boomer this morning. Five others who were believed to have been killed in yesterday's explosion were rescued today in an unconscious condition but hope is entertained for their recovery. Officials of the company stated today that they believe there are not more than two or three miners still in the wrecked workings, but that the number might run as high as six.

CORNELL WON'T PLAY PITT.

Ithaca, Dec. 1.—The University of Pittsburgh's challenge for a post-season game to decide the Eastern football team championship will not be accepted by Cornell. Graduate Manager Kent said today that the Cornell team was out of training, and, furthermore, the faculty committee on student affairs, would not permit a contest after Thanksgiving Day.

TWO HUNDRED MILLION RED CROSS STAMPS NOW ON SALE

Washington, Dec. 1.—Two hundred million Red Cross Christmas seals go on sale today in every State and territory of the United States including Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Canal Zone. A half-million workers, men, women and children, are engaged in the campaign. The proceeds will go for the fight against tuberculosis in the communities where the seals are sold. The Red Cross will receive only 1 per cent. of the revenue, leaving 99 per cent. of the proceeds for State anti-tuerbculosis. The sale last year broke all previous records, totaling over fifty-five million seals, but this year it is expected that the sale will be doubled through the popular campaign against the white plague. The money from last year's sale is being expended by two thousand different agencies, who benefited from the sale in amounts ranging from one hundred dollars to over $25,000.

Whitehouse

The mission band of the New Germantown Lutheran church has just sent a barrel and box of clothing to the Society for Inner Mission and Rescue Work in Brooklyn.

Miss Marion Farley, of Mountainville, returned Monday after a visit to Miss Helen Henry, at Lebanon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. Stryker, of South Bound Brook, were the guests over Sunday of Mr. Stryker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Stryker, at Whitehouse Station.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Luckings, of Astoria, L. I., are visiting Mrs. Luckling's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Craft, in East Whitehouse.

There was a large attendance at the entertainment in Bonnell's hall, Whitehouse Station Saturday night, when "Along the Lincoln Highway" was preseented for the third time. The receipts were $44.

Mrs. C. S. Sloan of Phillipsburg is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Ramsey at Lebanon.

Miss Mary Daggett, of East Whitehouse, is spending the week in Plainfield with Miss Bertha Swackhamer.

EAGLES' BIG DANCE.

All plans have been completed for the annual reception and dance of Plainfield Aerie, No. 866, F. O. E., to be held in Saengerbund Hall, Friday night. The decorating committee has already commenced work transforming the interior of the hall, and this year's embellishment of electric lights and bunting will be more elaborate than ever before. The Elizabeth Aerie has promised to send a big delegation, headed by its band and there will also be visitors from aeries at Newark, New Brunswick and other places.

ST. LOUISANS INVADE MEXICO.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 1.—Several dozen hustling St. Louis merchants are starting this week on a round-up of trade in Mexico. They will follow the railroad lines southward from the border. Stopping at each big town, they will separate and visit the merchants, offering all sorts of goods for the shelves left depleted by the long revolution.

YOUNG FOLKS ENJOY OLD TIME DANCES

Jigs and Reels Part of Program at T. A. B. Society's Rural Affair.

One of the most delightful social affairs the T. A. B. Society has conducted in several years took place in the society's hall on West Fourth street, last night, when the committee gave an old fashioned barn dance. The interior was stacked with corn talks, straw, pumpkins, and other products of the farm, while coffee and doughnuts were served as refreshments. All the attendants wore country costumes of gingham or homespun stuff. Fully two hundred young people were in attendance and danced old fashioned jigs and reels to rural tunes furnished by Squire Fiddlers.

Prizes were offered for the most original costumes, and these were taken by Thomas Griffin for the men and Miss Margaret Smith for the women. The dance was arranged and in charge of the entertainment committee, of which William Boyle is the chairman.

BOY RAN AWAY FROM HOME, FOUND ATTENDING SCHOOL

Somerville, Dec. 1.—After disappearing from his home in South Bound Brook two weeks ago, and causing his relatives and the police no end of trouble in their search for him, Frazee E. Gentzler, twelve years old, entered the public school here as a regular pupil and succeeded in concealing his identity until Monday when he was discovered by Policeman Holmes.

The boy had been a regular attendant at the school for nearly two weeks, and according to the story he told the police he had subsisted on the food he got from the lunch boxes of his schoolmates. He said he had slept on door steps and in outbuildings.

Gentzler was taken before Judge Daniel H. Beekman in the Juvenile Court, Monday afternoon. The court ordered him placed in charge of the probation officer and returned to his aunt, Mrs. Nellie Hickman, of South Bound Brook. It was explained that the boy was an orphan and made his home with his aunt, who came here Monday to search for him.

After the boy had been taken from court, Policeman Holmes began investigation of his story, and discovered that he had been well supplied with money during his stay here. This he obtained from a number of sympathetic citizens, who subscribed fifty cents each for a periodical for which he claimed to be the local agent.

NOW MAKING MONEY.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 1.—According to Operating Receiver Paul H. King of the Pere Marquette Railway, the road is today declaring another dividend of ten per cent. to all creditors holding open accounts for material and supplies. Mr. King states he is now paying $79,000 a month on defaulted equipment notes, and will wipe them out within a year. Thus far this year, the operating expenses have been about 72 per cent. of the gross revenue, as compared with 102 per cent. in 1913.

TO ENTER ARMY SERVICE.

The Misses Frances Whitaker Baker, Katherine Baker and May Baker, of Wildwood, daughters of former Congressman J. Thompson Baker, of that city, are the first women to register to be chauffeurs in the army of the United States. All are licensed drivers of motor vehicles. The woman's section of the Navy League is in Washington. The league hopes in times of peace to build up an organization of trained women for practical service in many lines.

JOHN V. LANE'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of John V. Lane, of East Fourth street, who was stricken with a fatal attack of heart trouble while attending service in the First Methodist church, Sunday morning, was held in the Presbyterian church at Dunellen this morning. Rev. E. R. Brown, the pastor, was in charge. A large gathering of relatives and friends was in attendance, and there were numerous floral tributes. Burial was made in the Bound Brook cemetery.

JERSEY MAYORS ORGANIZE.

Trenton, Dec. 1.—The first convention of the New Jersey State League of Municipalities opened here today and the Mayors of nearly all the cities of the State are attending. A closer bond of united action is expected to result from the organization of the city executives. The movement is not political, it is claimed, but purely for co-operation and the discussion of mutual problems in city administration.

WESTFIELD PASTOR RESIGNS.

Westfield was surprised Sunday to learn of the resignation of the Rev. Dr. S. L. Loomis, for the last six years pastor of the Congregational church, of Westfield. Dr. Loomis, who was very active in civic affairs, will leave Westfield, May 1 next.

CHILDREN TO HEAR OF A REAL OGRE

One That Kills Thousands of Little Ones Every Year, and is Living Yet.

Every school child in the city of Plainfield is to hear next week of an ogre—not a fantastic dream of a devouring monster that lived years and years ago—but a real, up-to-date ogre that is killing thousands and thousands of children each year.

The ogre that they are to be told about is tuberculosis, often called consumption. One of the most important parts in the campaign that is to be waged against the white plague in all parts of the United States next week will be that devoted to the education of children, for physicians say that a large percentage of the cases that result in death were contracted when the patient was but a child through careless habits that would be avoided if the youthful minds were properly warned.

On Friday, December 10, each school teacher in the city of Plainfield and in all the suburbs will devote twenty minutes to a lecture on tuberculosis as a part of the program of Tuberculosis Week. Circulars calling the attention of teachers to the importance of this have been mailed out by the Anti-Tuberculosis Society of Plainfield and North Plainfield. Here are some of the "dont's" that they are urged to impress upon their students.

1. Always breathe fresh air. Never sleep, study, work or play in a room without a window open.

2. Eat nourishing food and drink plenty of pure water. Avoid food that is hard to digest, like heavy pastries. Never eat nor drink anything that weakens the body, like alcoholic drinks.

3. Make sure that everything you put in your mouth is clean. Wash your hands always before eating and bathe your whole body often. Clean your teeth every day. Do not smoke before you are grown up at least.

4. Exercise every day in the open air. Keep your shoulders straight. Take ten deep breaths every day.

HEADQUARTERS FOR GIBSON'S RYE

E. C. WESTCOTT

115 East Front Street.

FUNERAL OF MRS. WHEELAN.

The funeral of Mrs. Robert Wheelan, whose death occurred Sunday, was held at the home of her son, W. W. Wheelan, of Carlton avenue, last night. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, of Grace church, conducted the service in the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends. Burial was made this morning in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

PRIZE LIST OF K. C. LOOP; LEAGUE DANCE ON MARCH 6

The prize list of the Knights of Columbus League was announced today by the secretary, John E. Hastings, of Elizabeth. Cups will go to teams finishing first, second and third, and for high average and high team score. There is also the Columbian trophy, which must be won three times to become a permanent possession. Bayley Council, of Elizabeth has two legs on the trophy, having won in 1912-1913 and 1914-1915, while Newark Council was the champion in 1913-1914.

The individual prizes include first, second and third high average awards, first and second high score trophies, and a prize to the individual average leader of each team. No man can win more than one prize. Each bowler, to figure in the high individual average contest, must participate in at least 42 games, including the last two series his team rolls.

On Monday, March 6, at the Knights of Columbus Club in New street, Newark, there will be a reception and dance of the bowling league, at which time the prizes will be awarded to the winners.

MISS JANET RICHARDS TO GIVE THIRD TALK

Miss Janet E. Richards, of Washington, comes to the Hartridge Auditorium tomorrow afternoon for the third talk in her winter's series on current events. By request, Miss Richards will give a rapid review of the subjects of most urgent interest throughout the world, and will then devote the remaining time to a special travel talk.

Heretofore for many years Miss Richards has spent the summers in the various countries of Europe studying their history, government and customs, but on account of the general European war, she decided this past summer to travel West in her own country, visit the great expositions and make a comparative study of the economic, social, industrial and ethical problems of the West and the East. Going out through the Canadian Rockies and the Selkirks, she made her way South as far as San Diego, and returned by way of the Yosemite Valley and Yellowstone Park and the Grand Canyon. Those who know Miss Richards can appreciate how graphic the description of her travels must be, and how interesting and enlightening. Those who are yet unacquainted with her charming personality and ability have missed much.

The doors of the Hartridge Auditorium will be opened at 2:30 o'clock, and the lecture will begin promptly at 3:30. Series tickets and single admission will be on sale at the door.

REPUBLICANS CUT AND DIVIDE PIE

Each Assemblyman Controls One Job Worth $525 a Year.

UNION CO. GETS THREE

Journal Clerk, File Clerk and One Doorman From Here—George Johnson and Robert Newton Crane Will Be Named Again, it is Said.

Republican members of the General Assembly of the State of New Jersey met in Trenton yesterday for the annual distribution of patronage. The pie was small, and there was much squabbling over cuts, but each assemblyman left with some kind of a job with which to appease the hungry petitioners back home.

According to the agreed distribution of legislative jobs each member of the Assembly can control an annual salary of $525 for his friends. This is about the same ratio that was carried out in the distribution of patronage last year.

Union county assemblymen got three jobs as their portion of the spoils divided. The journal clerk, file clerk and one doorkeeper are to be named by the Union county delegation. This gives each of the three assemblymen from this county a job to hand out. Two are already settled, it is believed. George Johnson, of Scotch Plains, was journal clerk at the last session, and it is understood that all members of the county committee will recommend him for the position again this session. Robert Newton Crane is a candidate again for file clerk, and because of his excellent record made at the last session he will hardly have any opposition. If any other men from this county are in the field for these jobs they have not made their candidacy known. There are no contenders for the job of doorkeeper as yet.

Assemblyman William N. Runyon attended the conference held in Trenton and returned well satisfied with the distribution of patronage. He said that Union county assemblymen got all that they could expect. The list of jobs as assorted by counties follows:

How Pie Was Divided.

Atlantic—Second assistant sergeant-at-arms and stenographer.

Bergen—File clerk and stenographer and doorkeeper.

Burlington—File clerk and page.

Camden—Two doorkeepers, two file clerks and page.

Cape May—Doorkeeper and page.

Cumberland—First assistant supervisor of bills.

Essex—Supervisor of bills, sergeant-at-arms, second and third assistant supervisor of bills, first assistant sergeant-at-arms, assistant bill clerk, two doorkeepers, three file clerks, four pages.

Gloucester—Assistant to the clerk of the house, and file clerk.

Mercer—Assistant journal clerk, doorkeeper, page, stenographer.

Morris—Bill clerk, doorkeeper, file clerk.

Ocean—Doorkeeper and file clerk.

Passaic—Assistant clerk of House, second assistant journal clerk, three file clerks and page.

Salem—Doorkeeper and file clerk.

Somerset—Doorkeeper and page.

Union—Journal clerk, doorkeeper and file clerk.

BOOKER WASHINGTON MEMORIAL SERVICE

Colored Ministers' Union Plan to Honor Former Leader of Race.

A memorial service for Booker T. Washington has been arranged by the newly organized colored ministers union of the city to be held in the Washington School auditorium, Friday evening, December 10, at 8:30. J. R. Gates is assisting in preparing the program for the service. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, and Dr. Henry Maxson, superintendent of the local schools, will be speakers for the occasion and several other well known orators have been asked to address the meeting. A feature of the service will be a special musical program rendered by the A. M. E. church choir. Invitations have been sent to City Judge William De Mera, Assemblyman William N. Runyon, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Reed, William A. Coddington, W. L. Smalley and Mr. and Mrs. Percy H. Stewart to attend the service.

The Ministers' Union is composed of the following local clergymen: President, Rev. Edward W. Roberts, of the Shiloh Baptist church; Rev. William Lloyd Imes, of the Bethel chapel; Rev. Daniel Y. Campbell, of the Calvary Baptist church; Rev. Charles S. Sedgewick, rector of the St. Mark's Mission, and Rev. J. W. P. Collier, of Mt. Zion A. M. E. church.

E-lecturettes

A series of eight articles describing the development of electricity to the present day, prepared for the ordinary layman to read. The week from November 29 to December 4 is being featured as Electrical Prosperity Week from one end of the country to the other, and the articles are printed in the Daily Press in order to give our readers, young and old, a splendid home course in electricity.

MICHAEL FARADAY.

NO. 3.

A Farad, Unit of Electrical Capacity.

Suppose all the electric lights should suddenly go out! What a scramble there would be for oil lamps, candles and wherever possible gas lights! Then suppose all the telephones, all the telegraphs, all the trolley cars, all the electric trains with their switch and signal systems and all the elevators, machinery—everything that moves by electricity—couldn't be operated. Do you wonder what would happen?

The world would practically stand still. The big cities would be in darkness. Railroad trains wouldn't dare move. No cars would carry people, and no one could communicate with another. Just picture such a calamity! Add to it the loss of all the electric servants of the home and the hundred and one odd uses we find for electricity every day and you will begin to realize how changed the world has become since men began to put into practical uses the wonderful discoveries of our inventors.

Telling the story of some of the great men of electricity from Volta, Ohm, Ampere and Watt brings us to Michael Faraday, the newsboy. After Faraday come Kelvin, Franklin and Edison, and this series of E-lecturettes [illegible] the great discovery of magnetic electric currents, the principle upon which all of our modern dynamos and transformers are constructed and which is really the foundation of all electric lighting and power transmission.

Like most of the distinguished pioneers in the electric science, Faraday was of humble origin. Like his electrical contemporaries, he exhibited in childhood great precocity, love of learning and perseverance often through hardship and hunger. There are few persons indeed outside the electrical industry who know that the world owes the principle of electric lighting and power to this former newsboy.

Faraday's life reads like a chapter from a fairy tale. He was born in an English village on Sept. 22, 1791, of very poor parents and had little or no schooling. In 1805 Michael was apprenticed to George Riebau, a bookseller, as an errand boy and later as a bookbinder. He literally consumed volumes and quickly obtained the sobriquet of "The Bookworm."

Faraday entered upon the path to fame and glory through an accident. In an encyclopedia he was reading one day he came across an article on electricity, which turned his mind to the study of this science. He constructed an electrical machine.

One of his customers, noting his interest in things electrical, took Faraday to hear Sir H. Davy lecture at the Royal institution. Faraday made copious notes of the talk and afterward wrote them out. Davy was greatly impressed with the young student and, when he was disabled, took Faraday as his chemical assistant.

A few months afterward Sir Davy decided to make a long journey and took Faraday with him. Davy's great fame obtained for him recognition in the most sacred circles, and accordingly Faraday met the most famous chemists and inventors of the day. Ampere welcomed them at Paris, and the great Volta, then a hale and hearty old man, visited them at Milan.

Upon his return to the Royal institution Faraday plunged into his work with new vim and larger ideas. His journey had awakened in him a greater desire to accomplish big things in the electrical field. He was advanced to the post of director of the Royal institution and a short time afterward, as if to commemorate the honor, he saw electric wires for the first time revolve between the poles of a magnet. Rubbing his hands he danced about the table with great glee. Faraday exclaimed:

"There they go! There they go! We have succeeded at last!"

In 1831 came Faraday's great inspiration—his discovery of electro-magnetic induction, which made possible the dynamo that in turn makes current for our great industries and our homes. Faraday saw that when a wire is moved in a magnetic field a current is generated in the wire.

In recognition of Faraday's great work, the scientists have named a unit of electrical capacity the "Farad." This unit of capacity will contain one ampere of current at one volt pressure for one second of time. The "Farad" is divided into a million equal parts. Each part is termed the "microfarad," and this is the term most used in stating electrical capacity.

And so the great genius, Faraday, with an almost insurmountable barrier of no education, fought his way into the electrical hall of fame.

(Next E-lecturette—Lord Kelvin, a Model For Electrical Men.)

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

A meeting of the school council was held this afternoon to make arrangements for the Christmas exercises. The public works committee recently appointed by the council also held a business meeting.

Albert Deulaman, manager of the swimming team, has only received one favorable reply as yet from the many letters he sent to neighboring schools on a range for dates, that one being from a Montclair institution. He is trying, however, to arrange a schedule of about a half dozen more. A practice period was held in the pool this afternoon, but Coach Hanson says that there are not half enough fellows out. At present those on the team are Brower, who is captain, Brownlee and Zeek.

The Glee Club met this afternoon under the direction of Mr. Lewis and started rehearsing for the cantata to be given on Christmas.

Miss Stella Force, of West Front street, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, is rapidly improving and hopes to be out again within a short time.

BUY NOW.

Begin to show the holiday spirit NOW, by considering the salespeople in the stores. Thanksgiving is past, and most people have started to plan their Christmas shopping. During the past four or five years, because of the early shopping movement conducted by the stores, aided by the newspapers, there has been much improvement over the years before that. There are, however, thousands who delay until the last minute, who could easily do their shopping early in December. They owe it as a duty to the merchants and their clerks.

In these modern times the merchants prepare for the holiday shopping not later than Thanksgiving. A glance at the advertising columns of the Daily Press, or any other newspaper, will readily prove this statement. The tradespeople do everything in their power to encourage buyers to do their shopping early, and the cordial response from thousands demonstrates that the other thousands can do the same thing. This would be not only for their own convenience and advantage, but that of the clerks as well, who are of necessity rushed at the end attending to the wants of the large class who are dependent on their weekly earnings.

At any time after Thanksgiving the public will find that the early purchasing of Christmas gifts pays. Not only are the storekeepers aided, but there is always a better assortment of stock, that has not been more or less handled. If you can do it complete your list today, and then visit the stores before December tenth. You will find willing and obliging salespeople, whose one idea will be to give you the best service possible. Later when the night work commences the clerks will necessarily be tired, and though they will strive to please, they will find it hard to do justice to their customers in the same manner that they can now.

ENCOURAGING MONOPOLY.

Jitney regulation is one of the things that it is predicted will be undertaken by the next Legislature. The failure of a street car company at Atlantic City, because of the competition of the nickle autos, has focused the attention of the general public to the straights in which the regular transportation companies have found themselves. In the proposed legislation the jitneys would be placed under the control of a commission; they would be taxed and their owners required to file a bond in a large sum as an evidence of good faith, and to guarantee against damages.

The jitneys are popular with the people. They have tended to much improve the trolley service, and have made it possible for thousands of travelers to get seats on short trips where no seats were available before. An exchange very aptly puts the case when it says that unbossed and fair minded legislators undoubtedly will realize that there is no more reason for regulating the jitneys than there is for putting cab-drivers, fishing-boat owners and drivers of local express wagons through the same "course of sprouts." If there is any regulation of the jitneys it will mean that the Legislators are catering to the big public utility corporations, and encouraging monopoly.

An explanation was asked in these columns on Monday as to what was the cause of a supposed increase in local insurance rates during the last three years, in spite of the fact that the fire fighting equipment has been greatly improved. This was prompted by the fact that a policy which three years ago cost $20 had been increased this year to over $23. It now develops that the former price was that of a company which cut under the rates of the so-called "insurance trust." Recently by State regulation all insurance companies have been forced to fix a uniform minimum rate, which as it so happens has compelled the old line "trust" companies to slightly decrease their local rates, while the former low rate companies have been compelled to make an increase. The "trust" rate has been reduced on frame dwellings one and a half cents, and on brick dwellings three cents. The Press has no desire to intentionally misrepresent conditions in this city, and it is with pleasure that we record the fact that a large number of the old-line companies have reduced their rates instead of increased them.

There is a silver lining to the dark cloud for former United States Senator Smith, as the Camden Post Telegram says, in the sincere sympathy expressed by a host of friends and by the newspapers of the State as soon as his financial embarrassment became known. It shows that he is respected by those who are acquainted with his character and his career, that whatever misfortune may do to him it cannot rob him of the esteem of his fellow men. That should be some consolation. Coupled with these expressions of sympathy were the hopes of his friends for his financial rehabilitation. That Fortune may again smile on him is the sincere wish of all who know the sterling worth and large-heartedness of the man.

Red Cross seals will soon be on sale in this city. No more worthy charity can be aided in a better way than by purchasing these little holiday greetings and placing them on all mail matter.

WOMAN EDUCATOR'S JUBILEE.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—A dinner will be given by a hundred prominent citizens of Chicago tonight to Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, in celebration of her golden jubilee of service in the Chicago public schools. Invitations have been issued to 1,500 guests, representing municipal, educational, church, club and civic interests of the city. Altogether it will be a glowing tribute to the courageous woman superintendent of schools, who is retiring after a half century of notable work. Ella Flagg Young was born in Buffalo in 1845, and is a graduate of Chicago schools and the University of Chicago. She began teaching in 1862 at the age of seventeen. She has been superintendent of schools here since 1909, and was the first woman to be elected president of the National Education Association.

COMPULSORY MILITARY DRILL.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 1.—The regents of the University of Michigan are meeting today. One of the important questions to be decided is the proposal of the students of the university that compulsory military training for the literary, engineering, architectural, dental and pharmacy departments be introduced in the university at the beginning of the next academic year.

Pucker Brush Eloquence

A great singer pours forth melody and is generally made happy by an encore and sometimes gets two or three and I think by the incidents of the past week Pucker Brush should have an encore of praise. . . . Mr. Hignett's sermon was certainly inspiring and the facts of the Christian life were laid down so forcibly to the congregation that it caused, with the help of the gospel workers, ten to come forward and take the minister by the hand and confess.—Pucker Brush Items in Dallas County, Ia., Record.

Couldn't Be Done So Soon

A proverbially indigent though honest citizen in a western town lately applied to the president of the local bank for a thirty-day loan of fifty dollars.

When the president refused the loan, the man was astonished.

"I know you're honest, but you might die."

"Might die? Gosh, but a feller couldn't die in just thirty days!"

Oil Stoves

One time in a careless moment Luther Burbank, the well-known double-crosser, conceived the unique and mischievous idea of crossing the glow-worm and the skunk.

The result was an oil stove.

The hybrid inherited its heat from the glow-worm and its aroma from the skunk.

When one retires in a fireless, radiatorless, registerless room away from home, they sometimes put one of those kerosene, air-cooled consumers in with him for company.

Any time he wakes in the night he knows the stove is there, because he can smell it.

He is glad it doesn't make any heat, for smells smell worse in a warm room than in a cold room.

They say there are oil stoves that warm one. But we have not seen all.

Those Bright Questions

A blackened chimney stood alone beside a charcoal-strewn depression in the ground, a hundred feet back from a gate that opened onto the road.

"Did a house burn down there, do you suppose?" asked the woman.

"No," said her husband. "The man just managed to build such a good chimney that the draft pulled all of the structure up through it and scattered it to the four winds. Some day they will lay a large, flat rock over the chimney top and rebuild."

"Isn't that odd!" said his wife.

Whence Came His Fear

"Why won't you go with us to the ballet?" asked his roistering companions.

"Because my father always used to chastise me with orchard switches, and I've been afraid of peach limbs ever since," replied the thoughtful young man.

And they wondered for days and days what he could have meant.

The Treatment Of Goitre

TRUE to our promise, we continue the subject of goitre, indulging in a few morbid remarks about remedies. Our preceding discussion divulged some of the mysteries of symptomatology of goitre and disclosed our utter ignorance of the cause or causes of these common ailments.

We described three kinds of goitre: (1) Simple goitre; (2) exophthalmic goitre; (3) cystic goitre.

The treatment of simple goitre is, we regret to confess, summed up in one dangerous word, iodine. Dangerous for this reason: if, perchance, one should use iodine locally or internally in any form as a remedy for exophthalmic goitre one would be likely to do much harm. And if one should use it for cystic goitre one would probably be wasting good iodine. But for simple goitre, when you are quite sure it is simple goitre, the sparing use of iodine is the remedy.

While a painting of the swelling once a week or once in ten days with a weakened tincture of iodine is usually helpful, perhaps the wiser plan is the internal administration of some suitable salt of iodine by the family physician. What is one patient's remedy is another's poison, and no one but the physician is capable of deciding what is best for a given case of goitre. One patient will require ten times more iodine than another could safely take, regardless of the size or duration of the goitre.

We still have with us the mystery-loving medicine man (or woman) who delights in strange and shocking remedies. Amber beads, snakes, toads, lizards, spiders, incantations and the magic touch are tried on many cases of goitre, all without avail, except the last mentioned measure, which is usually quite satisfactory to the practitioner who employs it, drawing out all the way from fifty cents to fifty dollars from the victim. We doubt if even our old friend grandma would have any patience with these absurdities nowadays—not if grandma is the woman we are led to believe from our correspondence with her.

Besides the tincture of iodine (diluted with alcohol, one part of iodine to three or four of alcohol) and the internal use of iodine salts of one sort or another, there are various ointments or oils containing iodine and its salts which are successfully used for simple goitre. But the secret of success is moderation—using too little rather than too much.

The treatment of exophthalmic goitre will be the subject of the next article on goitre.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Exercise Before Bedtime

Is it a good plan to spend ten minutes at physical culture stunts before going to bed, or should one take the exercise earlier in the evening?

Answer—It is a good plan to exercise before retiring. It is especially good for sedentary people, brain workers who do not sleep any too well.

And Stoking the Furnace

Please set our discordant household aright. We have a quarrel every night over the question of a midnight lunch. Is it right or wrong to take a light lunch before retiring?

Answer—For thin, anemic, nervous, frail, sickly or delicate people a light lunch before retiring is just what the doctor orders. For stout, high living, lazy, dyspeptic, bilious or overfed persons the rule is to retire without that indulgence.

BOYS

AFTER a baby has grown out of long clothes and has acquired pants and freckles and so much dirt that well-meaning relatives do not dare to kiss it between meals it becomes a boy.

A boy is nature's answer to the claim that there is no perpetual motion. He is a man, minus pride, ambition, pretense, greed and about 110 pounds. When he grows up he will trade romance, energy, bashfulness, warts and a snag-proof stomach for these other possessions. A boy is always getting the worst of it in some trade or other.

The world is so full of boys that it is impossible to touch off a band or a ball game without collecting a thousand of them. Boys are not ornamental but they are useful. If it were not for boys the newspapers of the country would go undelivered and unread and a thousand circus elephants would die of thirst. Boys are also useful in running errands. The zest with which a boy does an errand is only equaled by the eagerness with which an old-fashioned minister approaches the conclusion of his sermon. With the aid of five or six adults a boy can readily do all the errands for a family of two.

The boy is a natural spectator, spectating is his passion. He watches parades, fires, fights, ball games, dogs, ice wagons, mud turtles, bumble bees, automobiles, presidents, plain drunks, hand organs and aeroplanes with equal fervor. But he will not watch the clock. The man who invents a clock that will stand on its head and sing a song with its strikes, will confer a great boon on millions of families whose boys are forever getting home to dinner about supper time.

Boys are not popular except with their parents, but they have many fine points. One of them is the fact that they will grow up to be men some day. Another is their entire trustworthiness. You can rely absolutely on a boy if you know what to rely on. Trust him to get into trouble every day and he will never disappoint you.

Boys are abstemious, seldom eating, except when awake. They are also very durable. This accounts for the fact that the world is still populous. A boy, if not washed too much and if kept in a cool, dry place for a while after each accident, will survive fireworks, broken bones, swimming holes, hornets, runaways, fist fights, pirate bands, Indian massacres and nine pieces of pie at a sitting. If only some method of making a boy's clothes as durable as he is could be discovered, life would become more attractive for boy growers.

Real Soldier Of Fortune Was "Johnny" Poe

THOUGH John Prentiss Poe, Jr., famous ex-Princeton football star, soldier adventurer, and ex-private in the United States Marine Corps, was killed in France on September 25 last, when his regiment, the Black Watch, was practically annihilated during the British advance in the Allies' forward movement, he met the kind of death his venturesome spirit had often pictured in fancy as a befitting end.

Keenly disappointed at the lack of action he found in the Filipino insurrection, and knowing that the United States Marine Corps offered greater chances for excitement and adventure, he enlisted in that branch in 1903 by authority of the then Secretary of the Navy, John D. Long, for the threatened war with Colombia over the Panama Canal strip. That war never materialized, and since Poe could not think of "soldiering" unless there was "something doing," he was discharged from the Marine Corps and later enlisted in the Kentucky State Militia during the Governor Goebel shooting trouble. Even duty on the "dark and bloody ground" during those troublesome times didn't bring him the excitement he craved, and he one time bitterly confided to Marine Corps friends, "I believe that if I ever get to Hell I'll find the fires banked."

Still in pursuit of the elusive "strife," he became a captain in the Honduran Army in 1907, when that country was at war with Nicaragua, and during the brief struggle got several thrills at the siege of Anapal and the battle of Buenavista. It was after the conclusion of that war that Poe, with five other Americans, who were serving in the Honduran Army, became involved in some sort of trouble with the Government authorities, and, for a time, their lives were in jeopardy. At the urgent request of the American consul, the U. S. S. Princeton was dispatched to the Honduran coast to aid in bringing the adventurous Americans back to "God's country," and the Princeton's cutter, on reaching shore at an agreed point, found the Americans alive and well and anxious to get back to the States.

"But my baggage," said Poe to the Princeton's captain, who had come ashore in the cutter. "What of my baggage? Please to remember that I am an officer and gentleman in the service of the Honduran Government and I have much luggage."

"We'll attend to that all right," said the Princeton's commander, easily. "How much have you got?"

"Fifty-four pieces all told," replied Poe.

The Princeton's skipper was aghast.

"Do you think my gunboat is a freighter, sir? However, we'll fetch it off for you. Kindly enumerate the pieces, and what they contain, so that I may send sufficient small boats and men to handle it."

Poe was deeply engrossed in thought for a moment as if trying to remember everything and then said, "One pack of playing cards and an extra pair of socks."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

People's Legal Friend

BY E. R. BRANSON

Is Personal Property An Inheritance?

Q. Please inform me whether the word "inheritance" is confined to real estate or whether it includes personal property also.

A. In a popular sense, the word "inheritance" describes all property, real or personal, received by operation of law after the death of the ancestor. In a strict legal sense, it is confined to real estate.

Renewing A Limited Partnership

Q. May a limited partnership be renewed after the expiration of the time for which it was formed? If so, what steps are necessary?

A. The formation and the renewal of limited partnerships are controlled by state legislation. The statutes customarily point out not only how limited partnerships may be formed, but also how they may be renewed. It follows, therefore, that it will be necessary to consult the statutes in the particular state and see that all requirements are strictly observed.

An Inaccurate Lease

Q. In the event that a lease should describe the premises inaccurately, would the lease be good or would it be void?

A. The premises should be described with such a degree of certainty that they may be readily identified. If they may be identified, the lease will be valid; otherwise, it will be void.

An Inquisitive Trespasser

Q. If one enters the grounds or premises of another person without permission, and, because of some defective condition in the premises, meets with an injury, can he recover damages?

A. If there is no express or implied permission, such person is a trespasser. The owner or occupant then owes him no legal duty except to refrain from committing a willful or wanton injury. There are exceptions to this rule in the case of children of tender years.

Signing A Bill Of Lading

Q. Is it necessary that a bill of lading be signed by the shipper?

A. In most of the states, it is sufficient if the shipper accepts the bill of lading without signing it.

The Eight-Hour Day

Q. Where a state law specifies that eight hours shall constitute a day's work, will an employee who works overtime be entitled to demand pay for it?

A. The statutes on this subject are differently framed, but it is often provided that labor in excess of eight hours may be contracted for between the parties. If there is no express agreement allowing extra compensation in such cases, it is the usual rule that there can be no recovery of additional compensation.

Our Leisured Class

Q. (1) Isn't it true that United States senators are now elected by direct vote of the people? (2) Has the term of office of United States senators been changed? (3) What is the age requirement for United States senators?

A. (1) Yes. (2) It has not been changed. The term is six years. (3) A senator must be thirty years old.

The Tender Chauffeur

Q. Is there any law requiring the owners of automobiles or auto-trucks used for the delivery of merchandise to maintain a shield or hood for the protection of chauffeurs from wind and dust and inclement weather?

A. Laws of this character have been passed, recently, in some of the states.

Face It

Some people fancy that to dodge a task or duty is about the easiest possible thing to do. The truth is, however, it is always easier to walk right up to your task or duty and—Face It.

The most difficult thing in the World is to dig up an excuse or reason for Dodging what you should Face.

It is unfortunate that the most costly lessons are many times learned late in life. The greatest reason for this is our timidity and cowardice in Facing every problem just as soon as it Faces us. Many a man has evaded a problem in his youth that he could have easily Solved at that time and then gone on, but which he refused to grapple with until compelled to Face It, under cover of the bitterest pangs of sorrow and remorse.

It takes greater courage to Decide to do a thing than it does to Do the thing.

Have you a particularly difficult piece of Work to do to-day? Face It. Have you an Enemy? Face him—and make him your Friend. You feel yourself capable of more important work than you are now doing? Face the new Work, and decide your Mastery over it. Whatever your Problem, Face It—with Fortitude and without Fear, and with the Calmness that comes to a man when he decides to go ahead according to his Conscience.

Sidestep—Dodge, from nothing. If a thing is worth working out, Face It and Finish It.

The 'Lopement

When Grandma wore that bonnet,
An' Grampa wore this hat,
They took a horse 'n buggy
An' 'loped—jes' think o' that!
He said, "You're awful pretty!"
She said, "You're brave an' true. . . ."
An' then, beneath the bonnet,
I think they kissed, don't you?

When Grandma's hair was golden,
An' Grampa's hair was brown,
They ran away together,
The talk of all the town.
Some folks said, "Goodness gracious!"
But from the sky above
A gentle breeze was singin'
The song of youth an' love.

When Grandma had a dimple,
An' Grampa's smile was gay,
They took a horse 'n buggy,
An' rode fer miles away.
An' oh! they loved each other,
(What do you think o' that?)
When Grandma wore that bonnet,
An' Grampa wore this hat.

Harry Moulton's Fast Playing Feature of Hard Fought Battle.

Y. M. TEAM IS CHOSEN

To Be Made up of Taylor, Moulton, Manley, Burner and Gavett—Small Crowd Sees Committee Quintet Lose by 31-21 Score.

With Harry Moulton's speedy floor work leading the attack, the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. cut another notch into its season's record Saturday night, when the Plainfield Recreation Five went down to a 31-21 defeat on the association floor.

Moulton was all over the floor, his dribbling and passing being done in whirlwind style. Several times he worked the ball up the court for a basket, the 18 points he earned being the bulk of his side's tally. Bill Taylor could not find the ring in the first half, but led his team in the second period with four timely shots from play.

The team which it has been decided will make up the Plainfield Y. M. C. A.'s representative quintet opposed the Recreations. It was composed of Captain Bill Taylor, former North Plainfield High School star; Moulton, who served his basketball apprenticeship in the Y. M. C. A.; Alfred Manley, who before matriculating to Penn State was captain of the Plainfield High School team; Joe Gavett, of the Y. M. C. A. and Cornell, and Ash Burner, another former N. P. H. S. captain.

Manley, who is fast returning to his old time form, was a valuable cog in the winning machine, although he did little in the scoring line. Gavett put up a strong game at guard.

The home aggregation got away to an early lead, just doubling the Recreation's score in the first half mainly through Moulton's work. Honors were about even in the second half.

A small turnout witnessed the fray. The score:

DECEMBER SCHEDULE OF HUNT CLUB RUNS

Meet at South Plainfield Wednesday—Going Too Heavy Saturday.

Rufus C. Finch, master of the hounds, has announced the December schedule of runs for the Watchung Hunt Club. Owing to the bad weather it was impossible to hold the run on Saturday, but it is the plan to continue the sport when the conditions will permit. These dates have been fixed for the coming month:

December 1, South Plainfield railroad station, 3 p. m.; December 4, Two Bridges, 3 p. m.; December 8, Prospect avenue and Rahway road, 3 p. m.; December 11, Melrose Manor, 3 p. m.; December 15, Kennels, 3 p. m.; December 18, Westfield railroad station, 3 p. m.; December 22, Plainfield Horse Show Grounds, 3 p. m.; December 25, Christmas Day, Truell Hall, 10 a. m.; December 29, Kennels, 3 p. m.; January 1, New Year's Day, Oak Tree Schoolhouse, 10 a. m.

The farmer are invited to take part in all runs.

MUST TAKE OATH THAT HEADLIGHTS ARE DIM

New Regulations for Motorists Taking out 1916 Licenses Next Month.

During December it will be necessary for every motorist in New Jersey to file an application for the renewal of the license on his car. In connection with this application blank there is required an affidavit as to horsepower, ownership and other matters that must be known prior to the issuance of the license. This affidavit is sworn to by the car owner, and until the affidavit forming part of the application is filed, no license is issued. Commissioner Dill has this year incorporated in this affidavit blank a space for a statement as to whether or not the applicant for the license has properly treated the lights on his car so as to comply with the dimming law. He has taken this step as a part of his campaign against blinding headlights.

If the facts stated in the affidavit disclose that the new statute and the rules of the department have not been complied with, then a renewal of the car license will be refused until such time as the owner can make affidavit that the car has been properly equipped. On the other hand, if the car owner makes a false statement as to the condition of his headlights, and is later apprehended for using his machine with lights that give a glare, he will be liable for very severe penalties under a charge of perjury.

Commissioner Dill has adopted the same method for ascertaining whether or not motor trucks and other vehicles are so constructed that the driver does not have a clear and unobstructed view to the rear are equipped with mirrors in the manner required by the rules of the department. There are many vehicles of this type so arranged that it is impossible under ordinary conditions for the driver to look around and see whether another vehicle is approaching. This means that if he desires to turn sharp to the left, he must cross the stream of traffic blindly without having any idea of what may be overtaking him at that moment. Many serious accidents have resulted from this cause, and this led to a ruling by the department that such machines must be equipped with suitable mirrors that would give the driver at all times a view of the road to the rear.

YALE'S HOCKEY DATES.

The schedule of the Yale hockey team, announced last night, follows: January 12, Massachusetts Agricultural College at New Haven; January 19, Princeton at New York; January 22, Dartmouth at Boston; January 26, Cornell at New Haven; February 7, Dartmouth at New Haven; February 12, Harvard at Boston; February 16, Princeton at New Haven; February 19, Williams at New Haven; February 26, Harvard at New Haven. In case of a tie in the series a third game will be played with Princeton at Princeton on February 23, and with Harvard at Boston on March 4.

WANTS COURT MATCHES.

The Plainfield A. A. basketball team wants games with any local teams. Address Gifford Jones, corner of Park avenue and East Fifth street.

M'EWAN ARMY LEADER.

The Army football team yesterday elected Cadet John McEwan, the big center rush, as captain for next season. McEwan has played three years on the eleven.

"BABES" OF FOOTBALL.

The "Babes" of football! There are two of them. They are rated among the best players in the country in their positions. Both are anything but babes; they are giants. There is "Babe" Spears of Dartmouth. Spears stands six feet and weighs 230 pounds. But he is not the biggest babe. Syracuse has a youth named White who stands six feet five inches and weighs 256 pounds. He also answers to the—well, it might be called the nom de guerre of "Babe."

JOE WRIGHT TO COACH PENN.

Famous Canadian Oarsman to Whip Red and Blue Crews Into Shape.

Joe Wright, the Canadian oarsman, succeeds Vivian Nickalls as coach of the University of Pennsylvania crews. The committee having the matter in charge received a vast number of applications for the position, more than sixty, it is said, and selected Wright after considering the question from every angle.

Joe Wright was a great oarsman in his day, and at fifty-five years of age has proved a successful coach of club crews. If given the right kind of support he should make good at Pennsylvania, for he knows the rowing game thoroughly. Moreover he goes to Pennsylvania without a salary, having agreed to give his services free for one season in order to prove that he can make a success of coaching college crews. Should he make good, Wright will abandon his amateur standing, which he has guarded carefully for so many years, and take up coaching as a business.

Wright for nearly thirty years has been a postmaster at his home in Canada and this has enabled him to give much of his time to rowing matters without in any way interfering with his money making. He is an enthusiast on rowing and an exceptional man in many ways. He is one of the best oars ever developed in America and can hardly fail to prove successful at Pennsylvania.

BARRETT MAY JOIN INDIANS.

Cornell's Quarterback Likely to Play In Big Baseball Circuit Next Season.

Charley Barrett, captain of the Cornell eleven and the unanimous choice of all the critics as quarterback of the All Americans, may be seen in a Cleveland uniform next season.

While Barrett has gained his fame as a football player, it is said he is equally at home upon the baseball diamond. When at Uniontown's high, prior to going to Cornell, he was a pitcher, shortstop and catcher. He expects to be in the outfield [illegible] for the [illegible] at Cornell as the facilities [illegible] in baseball [illegible] in contests [illegible] professional. He [illegible] a year before [illegible] his brother in Pittsburgh.

Manager Fohl, himself a Pittsburgher, remembers Barrett as a pitcher in amateur games and says he would like to give his fellow townsman a trial in the outfield next June.

WAR DOESN'T AFFECT HOCKEY

Canadian Sportsmen Offer Big Sum For Club In Association.

It will probably be somewhat of a revelation to people in the United States to learn that professional hockey is taken so seriously in even these wartimes in Canada that the Canadian Athletic club of Montreal demanded $20,000 for its hockey franchise in the National Hockey association of Canada, which contains six clubs.

Twelve thousand dollars were offered, but the owners refused on the ground that in three years they had made $23,000, and, although they did not make money last year, times are bound to get better shortly, and people desire even in wartimes to go somewhere for excitement.

The would be purchasers are a syndicate formed of French Canadians, all of them belonging to the National Amateur Athletic association of Montreal, whose intention it is to hand the franchise over to that association at the price they paid for it, whenever the association might so desire.

TARAL'S RECORD IN GERMANY.

Veteran American Turfman Heads List of Successful Trainers Abroad.

In spite of the war, racing is not dead in Germany. Fred Taral, once a star jockey in this country, writes from Berlin that he heads the list of successful trainers this year on the German race courses. The horses in his care have earned $54,000 in stakes.

Taral's record in 1912 was $137,000, while in 1913 he cleaned up $125,000. He says that racing in Germany is held four days a week and that the average attendance is 25,000 persons. Archibald, another American, leads the jockeys in winning mounts.

Browns Sign Amateur Star.

The St. Louis Browns have signed Crowley, pitcher of the White Autos of Cleveland. He is said to be the best amateur boxman in the west.

LIST OF BOWLING TILTS THIS WEEK

Many Competitors Due to Get Into Action Every Night Excepting Wednesday.

EAGLES GO TO NEWARK

Plainfield Aerie Visits Champions Tonight—Rahway Elks Here Tomorrow Night—Two Matches for Watchung Council K. C. Pinners.

Elks' Senior League.

Tonight—New Brunswick at Hoboken.

Tomorrow night—Rutherford at Elizabeth, Rahway at Plainfield.

Thursday night—Paterson at Jersey City.

Friday night—Newark at New York.

Eagles' League.

Tonight—Plainfield at Newark, Rahway at Somerville.

Tomorrow night—Elizabeth at Progress.

Knights of Columbus League.

Tonight—Bayonne at Ascension.

Tomorrow night—Plainfield at Newark, Star of Bethlehem at Jersey City.

Thursday night—Bayley at Bayonne.

Friday night—Jersey City at Plainfield, Ascension at Olive Branch.

Tonight—Whites vs. Reds.

Thursday night—Browns vs Whites.

Westfield S. S. League.

Tonight—Baptist vs. Congregational.

Tomorrow night—Methodist vs Episcopal.

Thursday night—Holy Trinity vs Presbyterian.

Westfield Bowling League.

Tomorrow night—Royal Arcanum vs. Westfield Club.

Wednesday night—Red Men vs. Loyal Association.

Friday night—Immediate Aid vs Clinks.

Bowlers will be busy every night this week with the exception of Wednesday evening, when only one match is scheduled.

About sixty pinners will get into action tonight. The Plainfield Eagles will go to Newark to stack up against the league champions of Newark Aerie. The Newark team hasn't lost a game so far this season. Somerville Eagles will roll on their home alleys against Rahway.

The White team of the Columbus Club five-man head-pin tournament is billed to bowl twice, meeting the Reds tonight and the Browns Thursday night.

Watchung Council's representatives in the State K. of C. League will also compete in two matches. The team, which was idle last week, will go to Newark tomorrow night, and be home Friday night, against Jersey City.

Rahway Elks will come to this city tomorrow night. The Rahway Elks are generally the locals' rivals for the cellar championship in the B. P. O. E. circuit, but the three wins Plainfield picked up in Newark last week lifted the 885 quintet above the McCartney bunch, and only a triple defeat can pull Plainfield back to even footing with the Jungletown tribe.

The feature series of the Westfield Sunday-school League is the one tonight between the Baptist, who are leading the league, and the Congregationals, who are in second place.

A tilt between the Westfield Club and Royal Arcanum teams, which are tied for second place in the Westfield Bowling League, is scheduled for tomorrow night.

GOLDEN EAGLE IS KILLED IN JERSEY

Somerset County Man Brings Down Rare Bird Near Home.

Somerville, Nov. 29.—Lee Fuller, of Martinsville, formerly of Port Jarvis, N. Y., killed a golden eagle last Saturday afternoon, near the Washington Valley schoolhouse. The bird measured seven feet, six inches from tip to tip. The bird is very rare in the East. It has been seen around Martinsville and vicinity for several days and several farmers have lost many fowls by it.

A bird fancier from Trenton offered Fuller $100 for the bird yesterday. The offer was refused.

PLAN BIG REGATTA.

Plans to bring all the college crews together to decide the American intercollegiate rowing championship under a system like that prevailing at the famous English Henley regatta are being made by the American Intercollegiate Rowing Association.

WYOMING TARS MAY RETURN FOR MATCH

Negotiations for Another Game Begun—Local Fans See Game in N. Y.

More than 5,000 persons saw the football team of the U. S. S. Wyoming defeat the eleven of the South Carolina in a play-off of a tie game at the Brooklyn Athletic Field, yesterday by a score of 19 to 0. By winning this game the Wyoming sailors won the right to play the New Hampshire team for the Atlantic Fleet championship, on Wednesday.

An auto party from this city witnessed the game as the guests of the Wyomings, who recently played here.

Manager J. M. Doyle, who was one of the party from this city, began negotiations for the Wyomings' second appearance of the season in this city one week from next Saturday.

The Plainfield contingent, led by the maroon and white banner of Holy Cross, was given a loud serenade by the Wyoming band when the Queen City party entered the park.

THREE STRAIGHT FOR INDEFENDENT ELEVEN

Hannan, Kane, Harris and Fitzgerald Play Well Against Netherwood.

The Independent A. C. football team defeated Netherwood A. C. yesterday for the third time this season. The score was 19 to 0.

The Netherwoods were out for blood, for they wanted to avenge the other two defeats handed them by the Independents. But the Independents were always on the job, and this time they looked dangerous when a long forward, pass, Coughlin to Vince Mullin, netted them a touchdown. Mullin ran sixty yards with five opponents at his heels for Netherwood's only score.

Hannon's long runs were a feature. He frequently skirted the end for long gains. He also scored two of the touchdowns. Kane, at quarter, showed himself to be a great general. He also scored a touchdown on a forward from Hannon. Harris, a former Monarch A. C. star, played a great defensive as well as offensive game. Fitzgerald was on the receiving end of several long forwards. For Netherwood, Tone Denny and Bill Dodd were the principal ground gainers.

The teams lined up as follows:

Independents.	Netherwood.
Fitzgerald	Fiske left end
Clarkson	Lenz left tackle
Cullen	Stobor left guard
Campbell	Cartwright center
Brocco	Landstrom right guard
Diskin	Wilson

NEW BASKETBALL LEAGUE FORMED

Teams Representing Six Local Organizations to Play at the Y. M. C. A.

FIRST GAME SATURDAY

Methodist Church Boys Defeat Employes of Spicer Plant, 38 to 20—Russ Conroy, Old N. P. H. S. Crack, Plays Great Game.

A basketball league composed of Y. M. C. A. members has been formed to play preliminary games each night the Y. M. C. A. first team plays at home. Five teams, composed of members who are affiliated with the organizations they represent, have entered the league, and one more body will be taken in this week. Employes of the Saurer and Spicer plants have entered teams; a third has been picked from the Methodist church, another will be composed of business men, while the subs of the Y. M. C. A. quintet will form the fifth aggregation. The first league game was played as a preliminary to the Recreation-Y. M. C. A. contest Saturday night, the Spicer team losing to the M. E. aggregation, 38 to 20.

Russ Conroy, one of the best basketball players that ever graced the scholastic ranks in this city, decided Saturday night's game practically single-handed. The former N. P. H. S. star caged a dozen goals, not to speak of a couple of fouls.

Phillipson was high man for the losers, making seven field baskets and three fouls.

COFFEY FIGHTS SMITH TONIGHT.

Jim Coffey, who is mighty anxious to atone for the knockout he suffered at the hands of Frank Moran in Madison Square Garden recently, will have a chance to convince his many followers that he still can be relied upon to uphold the glory of Ireland when he clashes in a ten-round bout with Gunboat Smith in the Garden tonight.

MARSTON WINS CUP.

Without losing even a hole Maxwell R. Marston, of Baltusrol, won the chief cup in the golf tournament of the Country Club, of Lakewood, Saturday, defeating Harold A. Steinfer, of Inwood, by 8 up and 6 to play in the decisive test.

Household Hints..

THE TABLE.

Baked Sausage and Potatoes—Slice thickly as many potatoes as desired, put on to boil until about half done (seasoning, of course), then put in deep baking pan with rings of sausage on top. Bake until grease has baked out of sausage or until sausage is brown. Turn sausage to brown under side. This makes an easy meal to prepare and is nice for one who doesn't like sausage because it contains too much fat.

"Mammy's Turkey Sauce"—The day after Thanksgiving, when one is just a little surfeited with good things to eat, the cold turkey will be doubly inviting if served this way: Take six large ripe tomatoes. Plunge into boiling water to remove skins, then chop fine. Add medium-sized onion, three large green peppers chopped, half cup water, salt and pepper (just a pinch of cayenne). Boil until peppers are dark green. Remove from fire and add two cups boiled rice. Serve cold sliced turkey on platter surrounded by sauce.

Favorite Rabbit Recipe—Prepare rabbit as you would for frying. Place in kettle with three or four small slices of fresh side pork, stew till tender, boil dry and brown same as for pot roast. It is not so dry and the wild taste is not so strong.

Beet Salad—One dozen large red beets, cooked well and chopped fine; put these together while beets are hot, then it will sort of jell. Add one cup vinegar, one cup sugar, one small grated horseradish or two teaspoons mustard; salt and pepper to taste. Put into fruit jars if you want to keep it any length of time.

Pear Tarts—Peel pears as for cooking, place between two flaky crusts, sprinke with sugar and crystallized ginger. Bake until brown. Or, soak figs over night with a little bayleaf. Proceed as with pears.

"Sudden Visitation" Pudding—Crumble about ten ounces stale bread and mix into it six ounces sugar, a little grated nutmeg, cinnamon and citron peel, yolks of three eggs and a teacupful of cream or boiled rich milk; into milk put a lump of butter size of an egg. After it is well beaten together put it into a tart dish and over the top place a layer of any preserved fruit; add a little lemon or fruit juice. The pudding is made in about five minutes and takes about half an hour to bake.

Egyptian Cake—Two ounces chocolate, four eggs, half cup milk, one and one-half cups soft white sugar, one heaping teaspoon baking powder, one and three-quarter cups flour, one teaspoon vanilla. Dissolve chocolate in five tablespoons boiling water; beat butter to a cream, adding gradually the sugar; add yolks of eggs, beat again; add milk, then melted chocolate, then flour. Give whole a vigorous beating. Beat whites to a stiff froth and stir carefully into mixture. Add vanilla and baking powder. Mix quickly and lightly. Twice this amount makes a nice three-layer cake. Use a boiled white frosting.

Caramel Pudding—One heaping tablespon butter, one cup light brown sugar, one quart milk, cornstarch to thicken, maple or vanilla extract. Stir sugar and butter until sugar turns brown. Dissolve in milk, then thicken with cornstarch, add flavoring. Pour in sherbet glasses and cool. Decorate with whipped cream or white of egg and sprinkle with chopped nuts. This pudding is especially good when eggs are dear.

Veal Klopps—Two cups minced veal, salt and pepper to taste, juice of one small onion, a little grated lemon rind, the unbeaten whites of three eggs. Add the onion juice, seasoning and lemon rind to the minced veal and form a paste of the seasoned meat with the whites of the eggs. Shape into small balls and drop a few at a time into boiling salted water and cook gently for five minutes. Serve on rounds of buttered toast. Cover either with a tomato sauce or a rich white sauce.

Mother Eve's Pudding—Four eggs, four apples, one and one-half cups bread crumbs, slight grating of nutmeg, pinch of salt, three-fourths cup of sugar. Peel, core and chop the apples finely, add the bread crumbs, sugar, salt and nutmeg. Beat the eggs well and use them to moisten the pudding. Turn into a greased mold, cover closely and steam two hours. Serve with hot wine sauce.

Stuffed Tomatoes—Pare and remove centers of tomatoes. Stuff with bread crumbs mixed with butter, salt and pepper. Season tomatoes with sugar, salt and pepper to taste. Bake until crumbs are brown. Place a sprig of parsley on each and serve.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

"The Pullet Crown," featuring Ina Claire, the dainty musical comedy star who is a great favorite among Plainfield theatregoers, and Carlyle Blackwell, will be the chief photographic presentation at the U. S. Astor Theatre, this afternoon and tonight, unfolding a story that is bound to delight every lover of interesting photo-drama. Miss Claire is just as pretty in the shadow as on the stage and although her sweet voice is silent, she is nevertheless very interesting in a character that suits her perfectly. Mr. Blackwell, too, plays with rare skill, and both are supported by some very clever players. Tomorrow's principal attraction will be "The Children of Eve," with Viola Dana in the leading role and in addition the final installment of "The Diamond From the Sky" will be exhibited. Friday and Saturday, Mary Pickford will be seen in "Rags," one of her most delightful productions by the Famous Players.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

The Girly Girl Minstrels," a company of ten talented young women who can put over songs and jokes just like they do it in Al G. Fields and George Primrose's organizations, are coming to the Plainfield Theatre tomorrow at the head of the big show for the last half of the week. They have been playing for the first half in Perth Amboy, and the management there says the Girly Girls are the best thing he has had at the house this season. The young women do not hide their good looks behind burnt cork, but work in white face, thus giving a pleasant background for the big laughs they put across the footlights. The latest popular songs and up-to-the-minute gags are alternated throughout their half-hour program, and there are also handsome costumes and electrical effects.

Beside the Girly Girl Minstrels, five other acts of equal merit will be on tomorrow's bill. They have been selected with a view to variety, giving each patron something that he specially liked. If advance notices are to be relied upon this last half show will beat even the fine program at the Plainfield last Thursday, Friday and Saturday, a show that set the whole town talking.

In addition to the vaudeville, every bill at the Plainfield has feature photoplays every day. Tomorrow the special number will be the continuation of the serial film, "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," and the newest Pathe semi-weekly.

But Ernestine Was Afraid and Bawled.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Bibbley Wah Stays Lost Till Late at Night.

"TELL us about Bibbley Wah in the woods," said the children.

"The day Bibbley Wah and Ernestine visited the charcoal makers they were very much pleased with the nice little girl Ernestine brought along and when they heard that Bibbley Wah belonged to Uncle Ben, who was much liked by everybody, they made her a nice baked bean sandwich and cut her a huge slice of Mary Antoinette's cake. Bibbley Wah felt quite like the queen of a party and talked with her hands, as the men did, not knowing any French except what baby Emile had taught her."

"Twas something like Snow White and the dwarfs," said Evelyn.

"Very much, for the smoke had grimed the men's faces, they wore picturesque work clothes, with gay kerchiefs for neckties, and were very kind of heart. So Bibbley Wah, delighted with the attention she got, the sweet smoky autumn air and the newness everywhere, decided to spend the afternoon.

"When Bibbley Wah did not come in for dinner at noon Anne got very excited. When 3 o'clock came and no Bibbley Wah, Uncle Ben got very excited. He sent to the barn for Hank Fritz and ordered him to hunt till he found Bibbley Wah. Now, Hank was the grandest one to run down anything. His long legs went chasing over the farm, through haymows, down the brook side, over the orchard, in the henhouse, under the bridge—everywhere a little girl might hide or come to harm. Meanwhile Bibbley Wah was miles away munching another bean sandwich and having the jolliest adventure. When the sun began to dip behind the tall hemlocks she decided to go home.

"But November sunsets are short. Some dark clouds swept over the short day, and trees and fences that had looked such old friends coming now seemed dark and threatening. One hemlock grove they had to pass through was black as night, with horrid shadows that moved and crouched, while Lucy moll, cottontail's bounded into the paths, almost knocking them over with fright. At last Bibbley Wah, who was very tired, just sat right down in the path. 'Let's wait for the lost children's fairy to send her engineer, Ernestine Hank always comes,' she said. But Ernestine was afraid and bawled.

"Uncle Ben proved to be the fairy. He got three of his best men and, with Hank's long legs, just scoured every nook around the farm. About 8 o'clock that night the girls heard a great shouting and barking, and soon Uncle Ben and Carlo came bounding into the hemlock grove. Anne was not far behind and gave poor Ernestine a good slapping while Uncle Ben tenderly took Bibbley Wah on his shoulder, carried her home and put her to bed himself."

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS. BERT LEONARD

John Sutner Is Certain Now That Money is Not All.

"I got a letter from Molly today. She is coming home next week." John Sutner waved the missive joyfully in the air. "It's six weeks since she was taken sick."

"You look as if you had been through a fit of sickness yourself," remarked Julia Osgood, glancing up from her typewriter.

"I have found out there is more than one kind of trouble in the world; that money trouble is a worry but not a grief. I thought for one while that I should lose Molly and you may be sure money matters shrunk to their proper place." John dropped his chin in his hands.

"And that when money difficulty was piling up worse than ever, too." Julia was rattling off letters, so was not very talkative.

John slipped the letter from the envelope and turning to the last page read:

"I hope we will learn to think of this sickness as the kindest thing that ever happened to us. To me at least it has brought a wider horizon. Life will never again mean a petty round of duties; an absorbing attention to eating, dressing and going. I wish you could have heard the things this wonderful old lady has said to me. She has made me see that men help each other by their joys and not their sorrows; that they can be of most comfort to those who live with them if they have strength and peace of mind. And we can have this happiness in our little home, even when pinching to pay our debts. Nay, because we are pinching to retrieve our mistakes of the past. Is it not so, my husband? I hope my eyes are through with the feeble unrefreshing tears that my weakness made so common. I hope to be a real help in your life, not a drag on the wheel, making progress difficult.

"Good-bye, dear.

"Yours hopefully, lovingly,

"MOLLY."

John folded the letter, tucked it into the envelope and slipped it into his pocket. The worry lines were all smoothed out of his face as his eyes traveled up and down long columns of figures.

When the hour for closing came he put on his coat and drawing his cap well over his ears started for a long walk into the country. The snow crunched under his feet and he had to beat his hands together in his thin mittens to keep them warm, but it was a smiling contented face that presented itself at Dr. Ellison's door an hour later.

"Come in, man. I've been trying to find you for half an hour to ask you to supper. You're just in time. Jack's at the table now."

"I have been for a walk. I was trying to work up an appetite for my cooking," laughed John.

"Well, the walk has given you a fine color. You should repeat the dose every day," prescribed Dr. Ellison.

"I can't unless Molly is able to go too. I shall be so glad to have her back that I shall not want her out of my sight." John smiled happily into his face.

"So she is coming home? Good!" exclaimed the doctor.

"Next week." The doctor wrung John's hand in silence.

(To be continued.)

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME--

Buying for the home cannot be done wisely and economically unless the "buyer" is a student of the advertisements—no more than a store may be made prosperous without advertising.

Fully Complied With—A Plainfield Resident Furnished It.

There are few items which appear in this paper more important to Plainfield people than the statement published below. In the first place, it is from a citizen of Plainfield and can be thoroughly relied upon. In the second place, it indisputably proves that Doan's Kidney Pills do their work thoroughly and not temporarily. Read this carefully:

Mrs. S. Driscoll, 540 West Front street, Plainfield, says: "I had a dull pain across the small of my back and in my sides that clung to me constantly and any hard work made me worse. I was subject to headaches and dizzy spells, especially when stooping or lifting and I felt weak and run down. I tried plasters and other medicines, but nothing helped me until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's drug store. They made a lasting cure."

Price 50 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Driscoll had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

Start Tomorrow and Keep It Up Every Morning

Get in the habit of drinking a glass of hot water before breakfast.

We're not here long, so let's make our stay agreeable. Let us live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, and look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet, how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of inside-bathing before breakfast.—Adv.

OUCH! BACKACHE! RUB BUMBAGO OR PAIN FROM BACK

Rub stiffness away with small trial bottle of old, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil."

Ah! Pain is gone!

Quickly?—Yes. Almost instant relief from soreness, stiffness, lameness and pain follows a gentle rubbing with "St. Jacobs Oil."

Rub this soothing, penetrating oil right on your painful back, and like magic, relief comes. "St. Jacobs Oil" is a harmless backache, lumbago and sciatica cure which never disappoints and doesn't burn the skin.

Straighten up! Quit complaining! Stop those torturous "stitches." In a moment you will forget that you ever had a weak back, because it won't hurt or be stiff or lame. Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" from your druggist now and get this lasting relief.—Adv.

HERE AND THERE

If there is any person who has ever doubted the honesty or questioned the integrity of the local postoffice employes, these suspicions will all be dispelled when it is learned what happened Wednesday.

A citizen of this city, filled with holiday spirits and wishing to pass the thanksgiving cheer along, mailed a neatly wrapped package by parcel post to a friend in a nearby town. There was a peculiar gurgle inside of the package, and the receiving clerk asked what were its contents, but the boy who brought it to the window replied, "I don't know," and beat a hasty retreat.

Some things are contraband in the mails, and this particular package sounded like "some things," so an investigation became necessary under the postal rules.

The wrappings were removed, and it was contraband, sure enough, but not an explosive—unless confined in a soft, warm, movable casing—but it was a quart bottle of whiskey; that's all.

Business was suspended; the clerks crowded about, and all gazed in wide-eyed amazement. "The idea of sending that through the mails, when it was sure to get 'lost' in transit somewhere!" "Besides, it is against the law." "Yes, we will have to confiscate it." "And the day before Thanksgiving, at that!" "Yes, it's the real stuff." "Shall we take it out in the rear and break it on a stone?" "Oh! no! no!" "Look and see if the sender's name is on the wrapper." "Nope, not a scratch—wait, yes, here it is. Such luck!"

The clerks resumed the assorting of mail, the bottle was rewrapped and a "call for package" card was placed in the sender's box. The bottle—and all its contents—was returned to him.

Now, when one stops to think of it any postoffice clerk who would find the name of the sender of a package like that on the day before Thanksgiving and return it to the sender when they had a perfectly legal right to confiscate it and no one would have known where it was "lost," can be trusted with bags of gold or boxes of jewels.

A patron of the office a short time since mailed a handsome piece of embroidery to a friend up-country, and it was lost in the mail, whereat the sender intimated that it might have been "lost" in the Plainfield office. But even the loser of the embroidery will now have to admit that this is improbable—in fact, impossible—for any postoffice where a bottle of whiskey can't go astray on the day before Thanksgiving would never permit a mere piece of embroidery to get lost.

RECREATION NOTES

The Franklin School dancing class will meet this afternoon.

The Athenians will hold basketball practice this evening at the High School.

Come and hear some interesting subjects discussed this evening at the Public Speaking Club at Washington School.

Tomorrow night at the High School the Zephyrs will hold a dance. It will be a very enjoyable affair, and the Venable brothers will furnish the music.

The Choral Society and orchestra will hold a rehearsal of the "Messiah" tomorrow evening at the Franklin School. All members are urged to be present at this rehearsal.

The P. E. G. S. will rehearse the first act of their play, "Commencement Days" in the Plainfield High school gymnasium, Wednesday night. Every member of the cast is urged to be on hand promptly to meet Mrs. G. Stuart Simmons, who is coaching the production.

WE INVITE THE NEW YORK BUSINESS MAN

to investigate our facilities for handling his business account. We collect items on points throughout the United States and Canada free of exchange and pay interest on resulting balances. Checks on The State Trust Company are now accepted at par in New York, so that the old difficulty of paying exchange is done away with.

We are now conducting a number of New York accounts on this basis to the profit and satisfaction of many concerns, saving them a large amount of exchange and putting their accounts on an interest bearing basis. Our representative will gladly call upon you here or in New York and explain the details.

COMMON SENSE

will tell you, if you pay a high insurance rate, that you are not free from the danger of a fire.

An investigation of your property may save you money and reduce the fire hazard.

Our advice is free and we will be glad to go over the situation with you. Why pay high rates longer?

INSURANCE OF ALL KINDS.

If values and prices ruled about alike in all stores at all times, there would not be any such thing as store competition. And, as finding desirable values would require no especial knowledge or insight, store advertising would be superfluous.

The shopper may often reduce the VALUE-GETTING POWER of her dollar to fifty cents—simply through neglecting to read the ads, or to know values—and by buying at "the nearest place."
